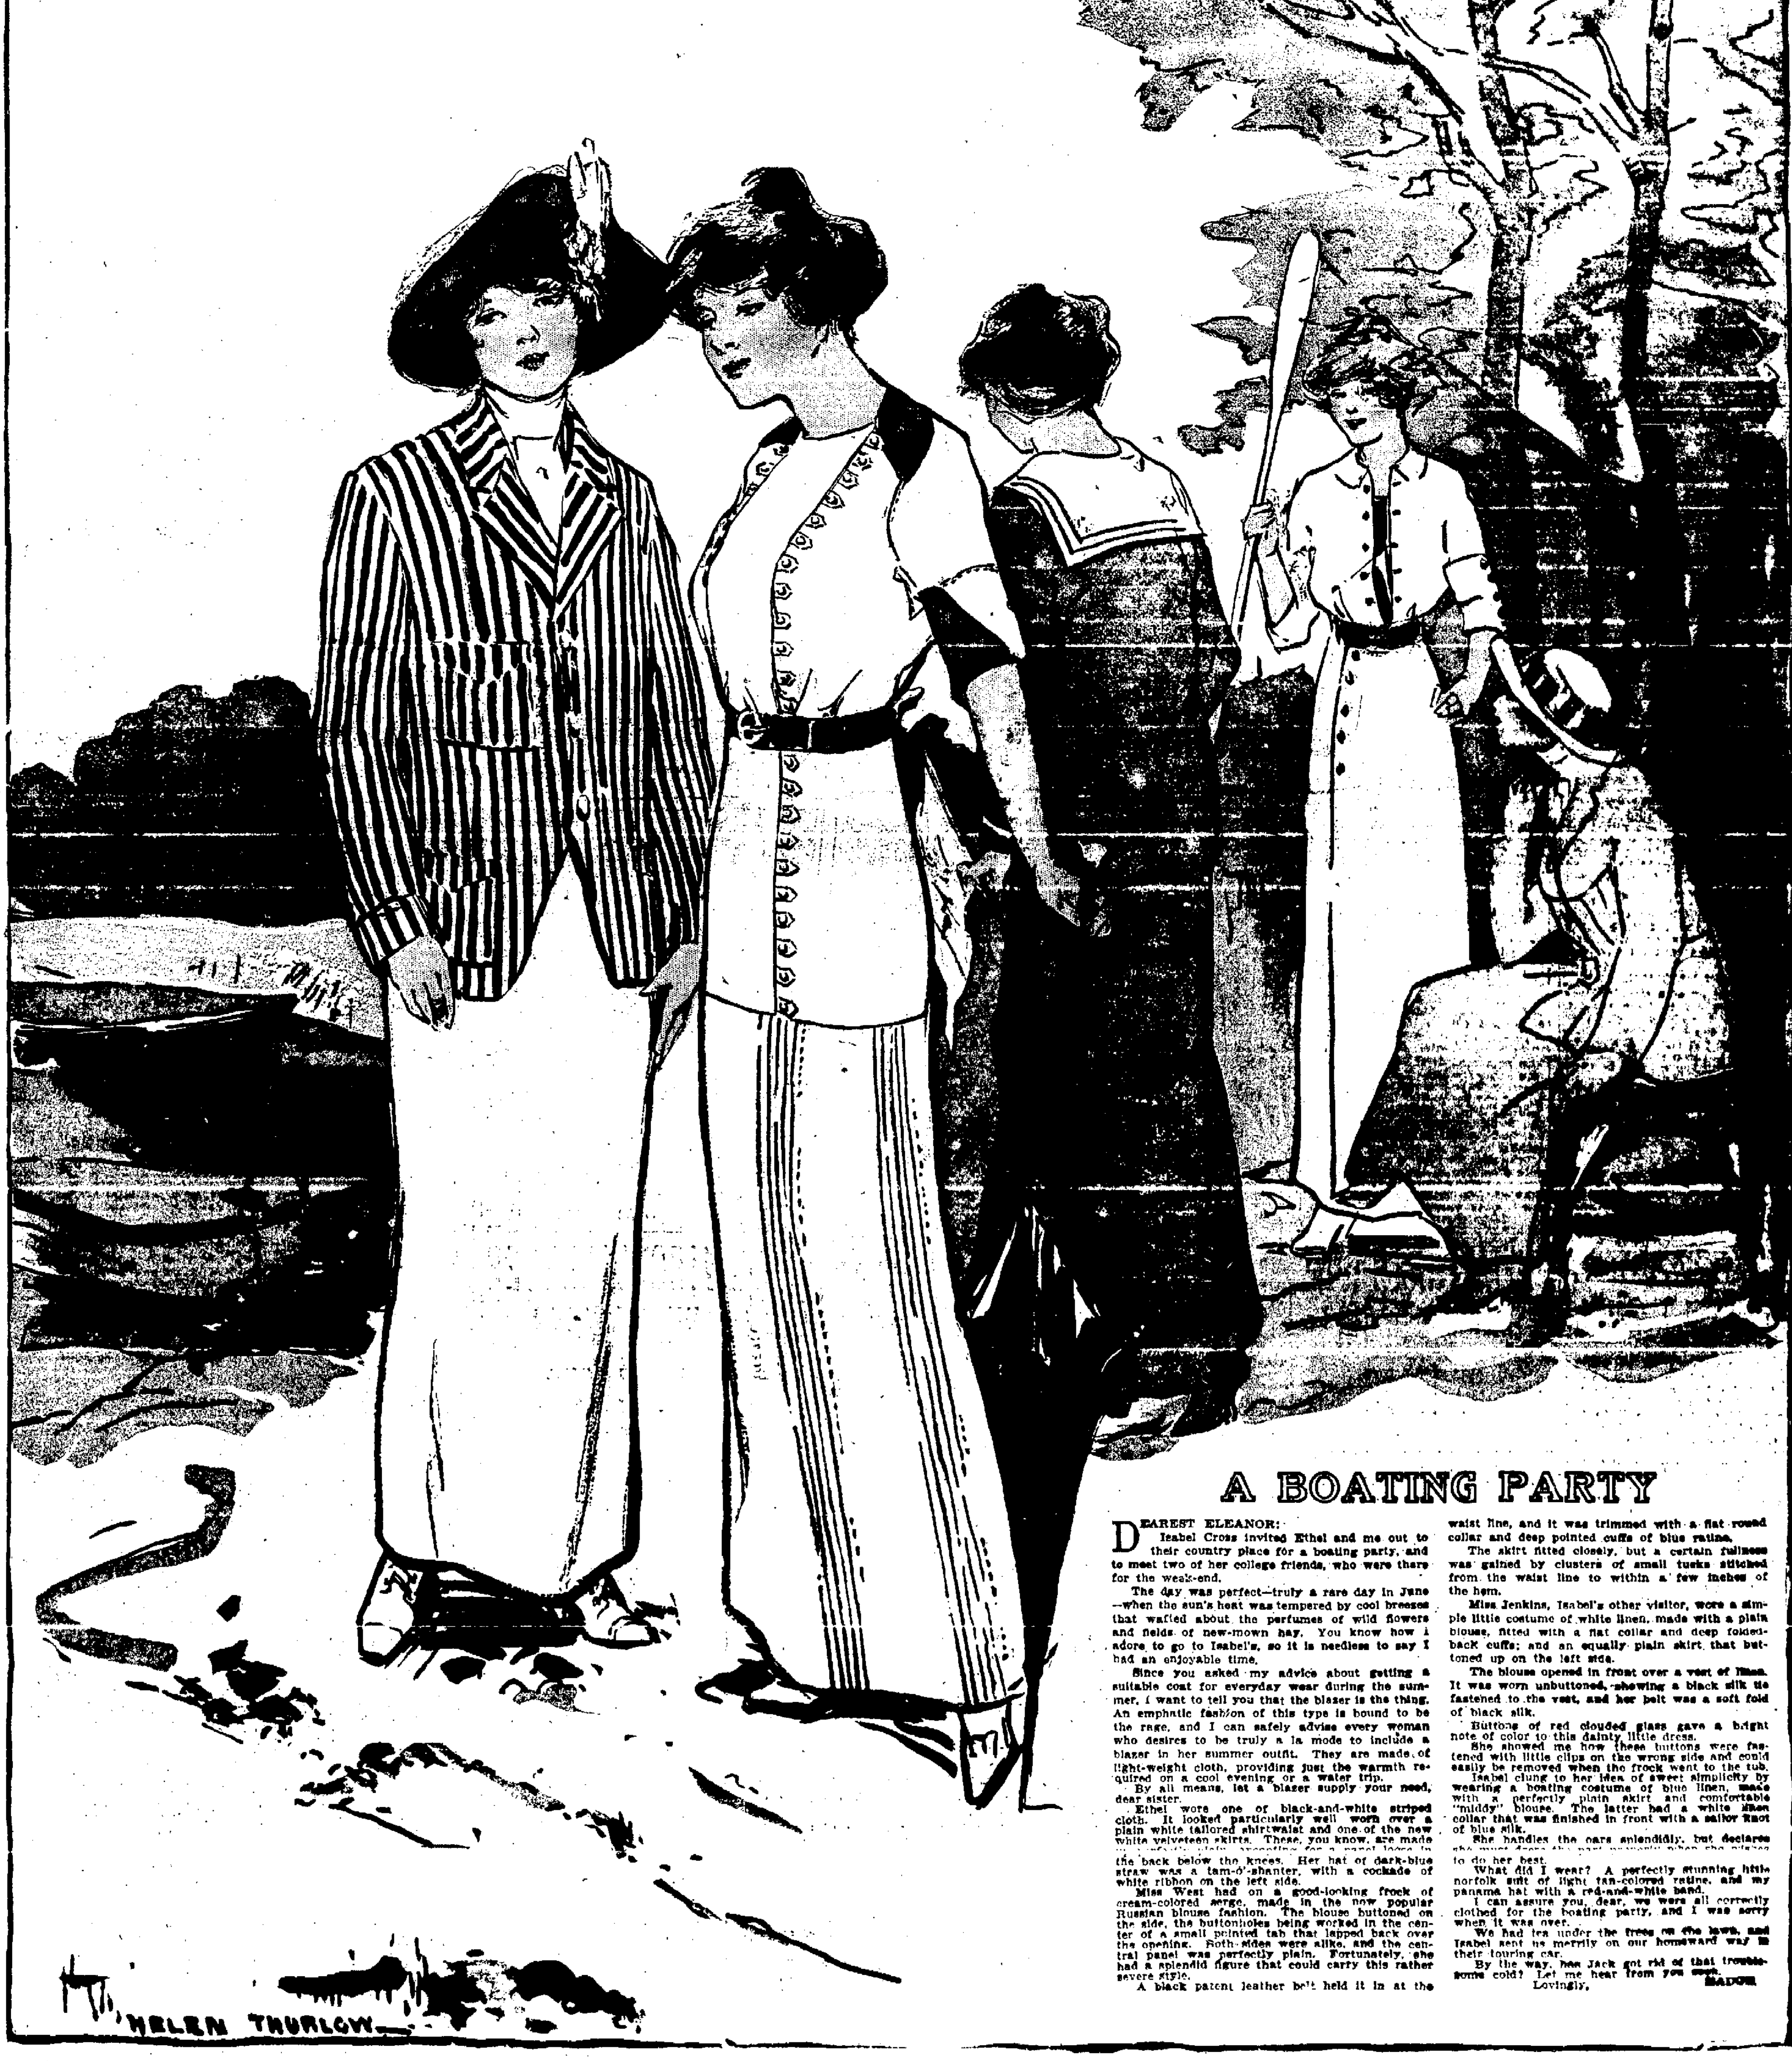
The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk.



A BOATING PARTY

DEAREST ELEANOR:

Isabel Cross invited Ethel and me out to their country place for a boating party, and to meet two of her college friends, who were there for the week-end.

The day was perfect—truly a rare day in June—when the sun's heat was tempered by cool breezes that wafted about the perfumes of wild flowers and fields of new-mown hay. You know how I adore to go to Isabel's, so it is needless to say I had an enjoyable time.

Since you asked my advice about getting a suitable coat for everyday wear during the summer, I want to tell you that the blazer is the thing. An emphatic fashion of this type is bound to be the rage, and I can safely advise every woman who desires to be truly a la mode to include a blazer in her summer outfit. They are made of light-weight cloth, providing just the warmth required on a cool evening or a water trip.

By all means, let a blazer supply your need, dear sister.

Ethel wore one of black-and-white striped cloth. It looked particularly well worn over a plain white tailored shirtwaist and one of the new white velveteen skirts. These, you know, are made perfectly plain, excepting for a panel loose in the back below the knees. Her hat of dark-blue straw was a tam-o'-shanter, with a cockade of white ribbon on the left side.

Miss West had on a good-looking frock of cream-colored serge, made in the now popular Russian blouse fashion. The blouse buttoned on the side, the buttonholes being worked in the center of a small pointed tab that lapped back over the opening. Both sides were alike, and the central panel was perfectly plain. Fortunately, she had a splendid figure that could carry this rather severe style.

A black patent leather belt held it in at the waist line, and it was trimmed with a flat round collar and deep pointed cuffs of blue ratine.

The skirt fitted closely, but a certain fullness was gained by clusters of small tucks stitched from the waist line to within a few inches of the hem.

Miss Jenkins, Isabel's other visitor, wore a simple little costume of white linen, made with a plain blouse, fitted with a flat collar and deep folded-back cuffs; and an equally plain skirt that buttoned up on the left side.

The blouse opened in front over a vest of linen. It was worn unbuttoned, showing a black silk tie fastened to the vest, and her belt was a soft fold of black silk.

Buttons of red clouded glass gave a bright note of color to this dainty little dress.

She showed me how these buttons were fastened with little clips on the wrong side and could easily be removed when the frock went to the tub.

Isabel clung to her idea of sweet simplicity by wearing a boating costume of blue linen, made with a perfectly plain skirt and comfortable "middy" blouse. The latter had a white linen collar that was finished in front with a sailor knot of blue silk.

She handles the oars splendidly, but declares she must [illegible] when she wishes to do her best.

What did I wear? A perfectly stunning little norfolk suit of light tan-colored ratine, and my panama hat with a red-and-white band.

I can assure you, dear, we were all correctly clothed for the boating party, and I was sorry when it was over.

We had tea under the trees on the lawn, and Isabel sent us merrily on our homeward way in their touring car.

By the way, has Jack got rid of that troublesome cold? Let me hear from you [illegible].

Lovingly,

MADGE.

SOME OF THOSE MENTIONED IN CABLE

MLLE. DE BITTENCOURT.

MISS GLADYS RAVENSCROFT ON RIGHT WITH MISS DODD.

MISS WINIFRED GREEN.

PRINCESS NASI ALI KHAN.

MISS MYLETA FENTON CORRY

WORD ABOUT THEM

Miss Gladys Ravenscroft is the winner of the ladies' golf championship at Turnberry. After a keenly-contested game, Miss Ravenscroft, who won the championship last year, once again triumphed over her old-time rival, Miss Cecil Leitch. A Cheshire girl, Miss Ravenscroft devoted herself chiefly to hockey until five years ago, when she took up golf. Miss Ravenscroft was out in 40 and home in 41, Miss Leitch taking 41 at each stage.

Mlle. de Bittencourt was presented at the Court. Mlle de Bittencourt is the daughter of Don Julio and Madame Bittencourt of the Chilian legation. They are giving a ball at the Ritz on the seventh of next month for their daughter's debut, which promises to be a very successful affair.

Princess Nasi Ali Khan, with her little daughter, Betty Naivera Khan. The princess, it will be recollected, was formerly Miss Dolly Parnell, a popular member of Mr. Seymour Hicks' company.

Miss Winifred Green is one of the Sunshine Girls in George Edwardes' successful play at the Gaiety.

Miss Myleta Fenton Corry is the only daughter of Sir William Corry Bart, whose engagement to J. B. Lindenbaum of King's Bench Walk, Temple, is just announced.

PREMATURE BURIAL FORMS BASIS OF TALES

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, June 15.—Grewsome stories of premature burial were told at Caxton Hall when the annual meeting of the Association for the Prevention of Premature Burial was held.

Miss Oakes told of one man who was put in his coffin and the mourners had assembled at lunch before the burial, when he suddenly sat up, realized his position, hastily dressed himself and went down to join the party.

[illegible] of the inadequacy of existing laws concerning the issue of death certificates. Recently a man who had died suddenly in bed was buried without a post mortem examination on the bare assumption that he had died of gas poisoning, as there was a bracket in the room, regardless of the fact that the gas pipes had long since been removed.

Miss Lind-af-Hageby recounted the story of a woman she knew who had at the age of 18 been placed for three days in a public mortuary, apparently dead, but who subsequently lived to be 76 years of age.

The annual report stated that the association had decided to issue to members small tickets bearing the instruction if the bearer apparently dies or is found unconscious among strangers, information is at once to be sent to the secretary, who will then wire to the nearest medical examiner. Twelve cents is charged for these tickets.

A resolution was passed calling on the government to reform the burial laws by providing for compulsory examination of the bodies by [illegible] before death [illegible].

CRAZY BONE HIT, SHE ASKS DIVORCE

Wife Also Objects to Being Called Monkey Before Hired Man.

PORTLAND, June 15.—When Clinton A. Hearing thumped his wife on the crazy bone with a broom handle, it hurt.

Then he called her a monkey in the presence of the hired man.

That hurt worse.

Verna Hearing was an applicant for a divorce in Circuit Judge Kavanaugh's court today and related numerous instances of her husband's alleged cruelties. The decree was allowed.

Late hours and the liquor habit were the complaints brought against Edward Johnson by May Johnson. She asked for no alimony, stating that she was conducting a small boarding house and could get along if not burdened with her husband's support. The divorce was granted.

Wine and strange women have proved more of an attraction for H. E. Snyder than home life, says Gussie A. Snyder. She asked legal separation and got it. Other divorces were granted as follows:

Ada from Clayton B. Clemson, desertion; Otto from Kittie Schneider, infidelity, Vernanda from F. J. Ritter, cruelty, Leonora from Dick H. Rice, desertion; Jessie M. from Martin Gline, desertion; Amanda S. from Daniel W. Anderson, desertion. The case of William A. against Helen Inez Turner, desertion, was taken under advisement by the judge until further evidence is produced.

TIRED OF HIS THRONE.

Telegrams from Teheran say that Sultan Ahmed Shah, the boy ruler of Persia, is disgusted with his position and that, unless forcibly detained, he would abdicate and throw in his lot with his father, who now lives in Odessa. According to news from Odessa, Russia, in spite of denials, is making all preparations to compel Turkey to grant its demands. It is declared that when the czar's land and naval forces are ready to strike diplomatic negotiations will be undertaken in Constantinople, and if they fail war [illegible].

GERMAN EMPEROR MILLINERY EXPERT

PARIS, June 15.—Dispatches from Berlin announce that the Kaiser chooses his wife's hats, and "Le Temps" sees therein a favorable sign for the peace of Europe.

This interesting feature of the Kaiser's private life," it comments, "is perhaps of historical and political significance following the sensational debates in the Reichstag, where the Socialists somewhat mauled the sovereign, though unable to prevent the voting of enormous credits for the augmentation of armaments.

"An emperor who goes to a milliner's with a view to presiding personally over the selection of several hats for the Empress and the princesses is evidently neither greatly troubled by parliamentary taunts nor likely to disturb the [illegible]

SWISS VILLAGES ENDANGERED BY FLOODS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

DAVOS, Switzerland, June 15.—It is many years now since the snows have melted so rapidly as this season. Mountain railways which usually do not begin to run till the first days of June or even the midde of that month have been open for a month. Several of the diligence passes have also been for a month sufficiently free of snow to be open to traffic.

The extremely rapid melting of the snow has made many rivers swell and some have overflowed and endangered villages. A great deal of snow fell very late this last winter. It was afterwards rained upon and then unusually hot sunshine, so that many snow-slopes are in such an insecure condition that the weight of one or two persons upon them is enough to bring them down in avalanches.

Already there have been several accidents to Swiss and Austrians venturing upon snow-slopes this spring.

Seldom, however, is there such a huge avalanche as that which has just de[illegible] Dischma valley, near Davos. It swept the entire side of the mountain clean to the bare rock, carrying away not only all loose or projecting rocks, but all the fir woods. As it lies now in the valley it is nearly a thousand feet broad at the base. Had there been a village or town below it must have been overwhelmed.

The Swiss Alpine Club has already warned its members of the danger of the mountains this spring and it behooves any tourists or climbers who may now be visiting in the Alps to be much more [illegible]

RUSSIA AT BOTTOM OF EUROPEAN MUDDLE

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

BERLIN, June 15.—Another week has gone and still there is no rift in the international clouds. The general European situation is still in a hopeless muddle and Russia is still at the bottom of the whole trouble because no one pretends to know her plans and what is even worse, no one dares make a guess at her real military strength. Is the Czar's empire still the colossus resting on feet of fragile clay, that the war with Japan proved her to be a few years ago, or has she reorganized and modernized her countless number of soldiers, who only need discipline and honest and skillful officers to make them the best warriors in the world?

While not intending to pose as a man who knows more than anybody else in regard to military matters in Russia, I venture to state that from exceedingly reliable source I know for certain that great things have happened in military Russia. The Czar's army has, so to speak, been born again during the last six years. The soldiers are in a far better condition morally and physically and they have full confidence in their officers.

The soldiers are taught to shoot well and great care is bestowed on the training of artillerists. In a word, the bugle note of war would today summon to the field a powerful army, the like of which the Japs never faced.

MINISTER EFFECTS CHANGE.

And this remarkable change has been effected by the present war minister, his immediate predecessor, General Rudiger, and the chief of the general staff, General Gerncross, who died three weeks ago. The statistician who looks at totals, dispensing with close analysis of details, records with relish the noteworthy fact that in peace time Russia keeps 1,460,000 men under arms. And in truth it is by far the most formidable standing army in the world. It outnumbers all the three fighting forces of the powers of the Triple Alliance taken together.

And yet when you look scrutinizingly into the details the picture somehow shrinks. In the first place, they are scattered over an immense area. Then, the navy absorbs 35,000 of them. Frontier guards require 50,000. The Cossacks contribute 60,000. Fortress, artillery and military engineers working in fortresses give occupation to 120,000. But when you have added up all the men who are on more or less active service, you will miss a large item of 500,000 men. On close investigation you will learn that they are immobilized, some guarding military warehouses, others keeping ward over government institutions, a third category doing duty as rural police, watchmen and messengers. In other words [illegible] sian army consists of non-combatants. In fact, the redoubtable army of 1,460,000 shrinks under studious glass to 900,000.

The serious increase in the German army, which recently passed the Reichstag bringing up its peace strength to 700,000 in October, is causing grave unrest in France. France, with its stationary population, sees Germany taking advantage of its steady human growth to build up an army against which France will be powerless. For some years past it has been the belief of the [illegible] meeting the Germans in the field and defeating them. That may, or may not, be true. But it is quite clear that the new policy of increase adopted by Germany means the end of that dream. It therefore now becomes the policy of the military party in France to precipitate a conflict and we must realize that that will now be the aim of the French military party. Happily the French officers are not all-powerful in France, and there is a strong [illegible]

ARMED PEACE TO END WITH GREAT WAR

England Expects to Be Forced to Take Sides in Coming Struggle.

Aspects in This Year's Panic Are Declared to Be Serious.

(By PHILLIP EVERETT.)

LONDON, June 15 — In spite of Sir Edward Grey's reassuring words in Parliament some three months ago that England's relations with all European powers, and more especially with Germany were friendly the feeling is rapidly spreading that the present period of armed peace with its continual unrest and changing of ambassadors, must sooner or later end with a great war in which England will be forced to take sides.

Practically every thinking Englishman has a feeling that all Europe is living on a powder magazine, and thus cannot expect to live quietly. This condition of fear will increasingly become the prevalent note. It will grow with increasing armaments and it will very shortly be the normal condition of all Europe, fear interchangeable only with panic and terror.

It will come in waves, and these waves will succeed one another with increasing rapidity. We had one wave last year—a big one. We have another this year—a smaller one. In short, what we see at present is not so much a peril of war as a return of the periodic panic which will gradually become the settled mood of international politics.

ASPECTS ARE SERIOUS.

But there are aspects in this year's panic which are serious. The most threatening fact of all is that the war between Turkey and Italy, instead of coming to an early close, is gradually spreading throughout Eastern Europe. Every day brings news of the capture of a new Turkish island in the Agean Sea. The whole of Europe knows that these islands once captured, are not likely to return to their original owners.

The danger of the situation is shown by the statement of the Eclair, that Italy and Russia in combination are asking for another European conference.

For that is another fact of grave import. Russia has been fishing in troubled waters. The greatest European grievance of the Russian government is the fact that although the confinement of her merchant shipping to the Black Sea by the treaty of Paris (1856), was removed in 1870, yet the Turkish government can still forbid the movement of her warships through the Dardanelles. The consistent aim of Russia is to open the access to the Mediterranean, just as it is our aim to keep it closed.

WILL VISIT HENLEY.

It is safe to predict that out of the countless army of American visitors who shall be crowding us out of all our best hotels next month, something like 99 per cent will travel to Henley on July 6. Most Americans take a certain interest in the classic regatta at Henley even under ordinary circumstances, but this year, they will have the additional pleasure of witnessing the king and queen traveling down the narrow waterway in the old State barge which was ordered built by William III for his Queen Mary, more than 100 years before the American Colonies tore themselves away from England.

In spite of its antiquity, it is still a water tight, serviceable boat, some 40 feet long, built on the lines of Dutch naval architecture, and, like all the old State barges, heavy, highly ornamented and canopied. On the stern is the royal coat of arms, and the cavern lilies of France, quartered with the lions of England, are part of its decoration.

To the public of this generation, the State barge is little more than a tradition, until it made its appearance at Eton, in June, 1904, with the late King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra on board, many doubted its existence. Unfortunately, it will not on this occasion, be seen except in the neighborhood of the regatta, for it is propelled by oars, and a pull from London to Henley would try the muscles and endurance of the stoutest bargeman. The start will be made from a place not yet fixed, although it is supposed that the king and queen will embark at Henley itself, and be pulled to the royal grandstand.

At the present time, the old barge is being thoroughly overhauled and decorated in red and gold, red being the color even of the oars. On the day of the great event, the barge will be in charge of the king's bargemaster commanding eight bargemen.

The state livery of the bargemen consists of a long scarlet coat made very ample below the waist. From the high collar to the waist extend two rows of gold buttons bearing the royal cypher, and the space between these is almost filled with a bold outstanding design, composed of the royal arms, backed by the rose, shamrock and thistle, with the letters G and R surmounted by the imperial crown. A black velvet cap, like that of a jockey, red breeches and stockings, and buckled shoes, complete the outfit. The bargemaster's full dress consists of an Eton shaped scarlet jacket, breeches, white silk stockings and a cocked hat.

POURS INTO RUSSIA.

British money is fast pouring into Russia, and among the manifold Anglo-Russian enterprises which have thus been created, one will arouse widespread interest by reason of its grandeiose character.

On the historic Dnieper, between the towns of Ekaterinoslav and Alexandrofsk, there are rapids which hinder navigation, and cargoes have to be unshipped and transported over land for some distance. The cost of trans-shipment is enormous, and Count Voronstoff Dashkoff, the viceroy of the Caucasus, and ex-minister of the imperial court, conceived the plan of regulating the navigation, and utilizing the water power of the rapids. A vast system of canals, dams, and locks will be constructed, cables will be laid down from generating stations to the group of iron works near Ekaterinoslav, which require enormous quantities of electric energy. It is computed that the hydro-electric plant will produce 120,000 horsepower. Among the many by-schemes which are also under consideration, is one for the extraction of nitrogen from the air.

The contract has already been signed by Count Voronstoff Dashkoff with the ex-managing director of the Westinghouse company in Russia, the constructor of the electric tramways of St. Petersburg and other well known persons.

PAWNS GEMS FOR ROYALIST CAUSE

Manuel's Aunt Sells Bavaria's Jewelry to Aid Her Nephew.

Duchess Marie Gravely Involved in Latest Effort to Restore King.

(By PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUX.)

PARIS, June 15.—A startling story comes from Brussels to the effect that conspiring with her royal relatives to overthrow the Portuguese republic and to seat again her deposed nephew, Manuel, on the throne of Portugal, the Duchess Marie Josephine, of Bavaria, has pawned the Bavarian state jewels to raise the "sinews of war" money.

A tremendous scandal is imminent. The Duchess Marie Josephine, sister of Dom Miguel of Braganza, until recently pretender to the Portuguese throne, widow of Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, who died nearly three years ago, had no right to hypothecate the jewels.

They don't belong to her. They are heirlooms of the royal house of Bavaria. The gems came to the duchess immediately at the death of her husband, who was a doctor of medicine, but they must revert to Bavaria at her demise.

The jewels were supposed to be locked up in the Bavarian treasury; the Duchess, who, in view of her brother's pretensions, bears the title of "Infanta of Portugal," was only permitted to wear them occasionally.

They are immensely valuable, relics and mementos of the olden time when the Portuguese, then the greatest navigators, sailed to the remote Indies and to China. The money raised on them to aid the Braganza cause was got in Brussels, where financiers seem willing to take great monetary risks, as witness their recent attempt to step in between the capitalists of the five great powers, including America and the new Chinese republic.

PROMISES ARE MADE.

In addition to the jewels given as collateral, promises were made to the Belgian bankers that the Portuguese titles would be conferred on them should the counter resolution which they are financing prove successful.

These promises were the most enticing because the Duchess Marie Josephine is the mother of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium.

It is stated here that the Duchess took the terrible risk of hypothecating the jewels only after the cautious European agents of J. Pierpont Morgan & Company had refused to advance money for a "purely political speculation."

But the Brussels loan is short termed. When the Belgian bankers call it, all the Braganzas united as they are by marriage to many imperial, royal and ducal families have not money enough to redeem the jewels. They know it is useless to look to the Duchess de Vizem, who was Miss Anita Stewart of New York, and who married Prince Miguel of Braganza, for that avenue of assistance is definitely closed.

The Braganzas hope now is that the Duke of Orleans, King Manuel's uncle, will open his deep purse when the time comes to redeem the Bavarian gems.

HOT BED OF PLOTS.

Paris is virtually the hot bed of the royalist plots aimed at both the Portuguese republic and the ruling Spanish house. Here have come Don Jaimie, Dom Miguel, King Manuel and his uncle, the Duke of Oporto, who fled with him so hastily from Lisbon. They have been in constant conference. King Manuel has been flitting from Berne to Paris, to the Portuguese frontier, to Brussels.

Dom Miguel succeeded in raising a sum of money from a private bank here, but not enough to maintain any considerable force of soldiers. So the Portuguese royalties went to Brussels very recently and there so worked on the Duchess Marie Josephine that, as has been told, she was induced to pawn the crown jewels.

The royalist newspapers here mentioned briefly that King Manuel accompanied by some of the former members of his royal household, had visited Brussels and paid a visit of courtesy to King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium.

MURDERERS' BALL LATEST THRILL IN PARIS

(By MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.)

PARIS, June 15.—Paris society having exhausted all the other known sources of "amusement," now frequents real Apache dance halls. The fastest and most furious of these gathers is known as the "Murderer's Ball," and takes place at La Chappelle's, a popular resort for notorious Paris criminals. Sometimes it happens that every dancer in this hall has his picture in the rogues' gallery. Now our cultured society, seeking a thrill, meets them.

Heretofore we have had Apache dances, Apache dinners, Apache balls, but only in the sense that society folk get themselves up after the fashion of Hooligans. Going to underground restaurants and to the Thieves' Exchange, [illegible]

Our young women of extreme research must dance with real Apaches and our gilded youths must dance with the Apache girl—and do so with extreme politeness or they run the risk of having their throats cut. Augustus Eddy of Chicago, father of Spencer Eddy, has had the seal of approbation put upon his artistic work by no less a critic than Mrs. Franklin Macveagh, wife of the Secretary of the United States Treasury. Every day while other men of his age spend their time in arm chairs praising the past, Augustus Eddy paints landscapes or portraits as long as the sunlight permits. He is the youngest old man in Paris.

I was present when Mrs. MacVeagh, a Chicago woman, pointed out the merits of Mr. Eddy's pictures at a reception given by Mr. Eddy in his studio at Passy. There were many Americans present to encourage the man who began painting at sixty. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Biddle, Alexander Harrison, Frederick Townsend Martin, Henry Sands, General and Mrs. Winslow, Mrs. Arthur Powers Lord and Dr. and Mrs. David Janes Hill.

Our Infanta Eulalia, whom we look upon as being more Parisian than the Parisian, has given a dinner to celebrate the event of her being a grandmother. For her daughter-in-law, the Infanta Beatrice, Princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, has given birth to a son.

This is the Princess whom Eulalie's son, Prince Alfonso d'Orleans married without having first secured the consent of the King of Spain.

With Those Pictured

The new King of Denmark, who succeeds his father, the late King Frederick, will probably be known as the democratic king, for his majesty has always loved to mix freely with his people. As Prince Christian he has made himself beloved through the many kindly acts he has performed among his subjects, and, although an unconventional monarch, he has a dignity entirely without affection. King Christian is the tallest king in Europe, being over 6 feet 4 inches in height. His majesty represented his late father at the coronation of King George, and was the most popular royal visitor to this country.

The kaiser's latest threat, which has aroused enormous indignation in Germany, is to the effect that he will smash the Constitution of Alsace-Lorraine unless there is less political agitation in the conquered province. The threat was made at a luncheon given in his honor by Baron Zorn von Bulach, the secretary for Alsace-Lorraine, and was the outcome of the recent vote of censure passed on the government of the province by the Alsatian parliament.

Miss Alice Crawford is shown as she appears in the role of Emilia in "Othello" at His Majesty's, where, in 1906, she appeared as Charmian in "Anthony and Cleopatra." London playgoers have, of late, not had much opportunity of seeing this clever young Australian actress, but she won golden opinions here a few years back, one of her successes being made with Forbes Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the St. James Theatre in 1907.

Baroness Von Hutten is pictured in a new and charming portrait. Baroness Von Hutten, who is an American by birth, once appeared in Miss Ellen Terry's part in "Pinkie and the Fairies" at His Majesty's Theatre.

Mlle. Remy at home. A new snapshot of this favorite Parisian actress, whose many successes at the Comedie Francaise are well known.

MISSOURI MAN IS 'SHOWN' BY AN EGYPTIAN

PARIS, June 15.—In a village in the Egyptian desert chickens today are incubated just as in biblical times, on a scale and by methods which would astonish western poultry raisers. Ernest Kellerstrass, a poultry expert of Kansas City, Mo., recently inspected one of these Egyptian incubators.

"Of course," he said today, "it is known by all chicken fanciers that incubation was carried on in Egypt in ancient times. Personally, however, I did not dream it still was carried on by the same archaic methods.

"The incubator which I saw, like the house which adjoined it, was built of adope and shaped like a beehive. I entered by a small oval door. The place was full of smoke, but I distinguished within the great beehive six objects resembling smaller beehives. There were three on [illegible] was raised on a table above the floor and was pierced with a small oval opening. These were the ovens. They were supplied with heat from circular fireplaces beneath, in which straw and chaff were kept smoldering without coming to a blaze. In each oven there were no less than 6000 eggs. There was an open pot in the center where one of the children crawled in to turn the eggs.

"The hospitable Arab assured me his ancestors incubated in this manner as far back as human memory reached."

Great Britain's Peeresses To Parade as Flower Girls

(By CHESTER T. OVERTON.)

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, June 15. — The Duchess of Marlborough who was Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York will be in the lead of a very noteworthy gathering of titled and other fashionable women who will sell flowers in the streets of London, June 26.

This procession, made up of the most charming and aristocratic women in England, will form part of the celebration of "Alexandra day" which will be an annual fixture thereafter in honor of the best loved royal woman in all Great Britain, King George's mother.

The money raised by the sale of the flowers will go to Queen Alexandra's many charities and it will surely be a large sum. The prominence of the Duchess of Marlborough is due to her great activity in these and other charities and to the fact that although American born she has always been a great favorite of Queen Alexandra; has been admitted to her intimate friends.

It is expected that about 30,000 women will act as flower sellers and so extensive [illegible] council of women arranging the affair now includes 1200 of the best known names in England.

SOME OF 'EM SHY.

Some trouble has arisen over the shyness of some of the society girls and it has been decided that each flower seller is to be accompanied by a woman or man friend to protect her from the waggishness of the masses. Meanwhile many hostesses are arranging luncheons and suppers for the weary flower sellers and London has been mapped out into districts for this purpose. Mrs. Glasgow, the charming Virginian, will give one of the biggest functions in Berkeley square, Mrs. Eckstein will entertain in Park Lane, and Lady Rodney is expected to feed the workers in great Cumberland place and Lady Farquahar in Grosvenor square.

All the amateur flower sellers will be gowned alike, in white, and will wear white roses in their hair. Some of the flowers will be artificial and made by the deft hands of crippled children, whom Queen Alexandra takes intense interest in but the "sales woman" will carry a wealth of diel buds of the field, garden and hot house.

On the executive committee which has arranged this beautiful affair are Dora, Countess of Chesterfield; Mrs. Hufa Williams, well known in New York; Lady Maud Willis Graham, Lady Cecil; Mary, Lady Gerard and Lady Cunard.

WILL SEEK MEN.

After a short parade, the ladies will discrse and seek those places where, supposedly, men are most generous for beneficient purposes. The Duchess of Marlborough will go the Royal Exchange, where she is expected to make a record sale and others of the fair flower sellers will meet the incoming and outgoing steamer trains for American dollars are [illegible] for their purpose as British pounds.

The date, June 26, is designated to mark the 50th anniversary of the arrival in England of Alexandra, Duchess of Denmark, when she came to wed the then Prince of Wales, the late King Edward. But the date is fixed arbitrarily. Princess Alexandra arrived in England on March 7, 1863. It was then that Alfred Tennyson, poet laureate, wrote his famous "Welcome to Alexandra.

The Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra were married at St. George's chapel, Windsor, March 10, 1863.

Already some labor leaders are showing signs of agitation over this annual "Alexandra day." They declare it will take away some of the earnings of the poor flower sellers in London who can ill afford to have even one unprofitable day in the week.

MANY ITALIANS REPORTED KILLED IN BIG BATTLE

LONDON, June 15.—The Turks and their Arab allies won a victory Wednesday at Homs according to a correspondent in Tripoli, who says that many Italians were left dead on the field while the Turkish casualties were only 50 killed and 50 wounded.

The battle lasted several hours. The Italians left no great amount of equipment in the hands of the victorious Turks.

SILVER CRADLE FOR ASTOR BABY

Young Mrs. Waldorf Names Baby Francis After Admiral Drake.

Burghers Wild With Joy and Forgive Husband for Liberal Leaning.

(By CHESTER OVERTON.)

LONDON, June 15. — Waldorf Astor, who represents Plymouth in parliament, has been getting into hot water with his Tory constituents. They think he is on too friendly terms with the enemy of the Radical party. The truth is that Astor, having recently been brought into contact with a number of prominent Liberals as members of a local committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis league, could not help well being civil to them and the rumors that he is meditating conversion to the Liberal party are ridiculous.

Pretty Mrs. Astor, who is a sister of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, is worshipped in Plymouth. The Astors' baby boy at the mother's clever suggestion, has been named Francis after the great admiral, Sir Francis Drake of Plymouth and this has tickled the inhabitants immensely. So much so that the constituents have presented the mother with a solid silver cradle, the youngster having already received a silver bowl from the local Primrose league.

LOOKS FRAGILE.

Mrs. Astor, who still looks rather fragile wore most wonderful pearls when the presentation ceremony took place. She made a roguish little speech in which she said that her husband was a member of parliament and that he was bent in bringing happiness into every home in the land except his own.

Her husband roared with laughter at the speech as did the assembled crowd of constituents.

Mr. and Mrs. Astor are extraordinarily popular in Plymouth, where they occupy a charming house in Ella Terrace on the Hoe, opposite where Drake played his famous game of bowls. And the recent friction is due to a fear on the part of the Unionists that they may lose their member, who has done much for local charities.

Astor is regarded as a coming man in parliament. His sister, Mrs. Spender Clay, and her husband, Captain Spender Clay, M. P., were received like royalty at Tunddridge after their return from Indiana, where the captain nearly died.

Although no date has been fixed, King George has intimated that he and Queen Mary will dine with the American ambassador at Dorchester house soon after the termination of court mourning. The dinner will be the biggest function of the kind for this season.

AROUSES BITTER FEELING.

It was inevitable that the much postponed gala vaudeville performance which is to take place before the king and queen at the Palace theater, should have aroused the bitterest feeling. The management was placed in a position of enormous difficulty as it was necessary to get together a star company representative of British talent on the vaudeville stage. And the king had the list of stars duly presented to him. As he looked upon the list of typical stars there was nothing more to be said, seeing that he cares very little for music hall performances.

But the omission of certain famous names has caused intense feeling. For instance, Marie Lloyd, perhaps the most popular of musical hall comediennes, is omitted from the list. And the story is that Queen Mary objected to her because she had heard that Marie sang a risque song. Then Albert Chevalier, the great coster monger comedian, is not included and it is stated that both he and Marie feel extremely grieved.

The worst omission of all, however, is that of Adeline Genee, who has danced in England many years and who has married an Englishman. She has a legitimate grievance and she has taken the trouble to air it considerably. Her place is taken by Pavlowa, a comparative newcomer.

NEW DISCOVERIES TELL OF PLANET'S EARLY LIFE

LONDON, June 15.—A new discovery in regard to ancient man is that of a flint implement of definite and peculiar shape, in some abundance, in a bed at the base of what geologists class as a pliocene deposit (that is, before the pleistocene), namely, the "Red Crag" of Suffolk. The discovery was made by J. Reid Moir of Ipswich, who found his first specimens in October, 1909. Now that another year has passed, more specimens have been found and the matter is beyond dispute.

Two distinguished geologists, past presidents of the Geological society, have certified that the bed in which Mr. Moir's flints are obtained is certainly the undisturbed basement bed of the Red Crag, so that they may be justly spoken of as due to the work of pre-Crag man.

The implements are not at all like those previously known. They are not flattened, almond-shaped or kite-like (elongated, triangular or leaf-shaped) as are the large paleolithic implements (the Chellean, Acheulian and Mousterian) hitherto known. But they are shaped like the beak of an eagle, compressed from side to side with a keel or ridge extending from the front point backward. Their shape may be compared to the hull of a boat with its keel turned upward and its beaklike prow in front. They are 4 to 10 inches in length and all have been fabricated by a few well-directed blows given to an oblong piece of flint so as to knock off great pieces right and left, leaving a keel in the midline, while the lower face is trimmed flat.

These implements are, in fact, beaked hammer heads— probably used in the hand without hafting—and applied to the smoothing and "dressing" of skins, as well as other purposes. Some are more symmetrical and carefully "trimmed" than others. With the "eagle's beak implements," or the "rostro-carinate type," are found a few other large and heavy sculptured flints of curious shape (like picks and axes) unlike any hitherto known, but certainly and without the least doubt chipped into shape by man.

IRELAND KEEPS PACE WITH PROGRESS

Industries on Par With Agriculture and Island Is Thriving.

Small Manufactories Springing Up and Shipbuilding Thrives.

DUBLIN, June 15.—Ireland's progress in industry in the last ten years has been no less striking than her progress in agriculture, and unlike the agricultural advance, which is due in some degree to state aid, the industrial growth owes its origin entirely to the new spirit of self-reliance among the Irish people.

The north of Ireland, and notably the cities of Belfast and Derry and their neighborhoods, have long been noted for their industrial preeminence. Belfast's shipbuilding industry is the greatest in the world. The linen manufacturing trade of Belfast and the northeast Ulster towns supplies the world with its flax products and the Derry shirt factories sends their goods to all parts of the earth.

These great industries have shared in the prosperity of Ireland, but are not dependent on it, for the greater part of their products is exported. The true test of the country's increasing industrial prosperity is the enormous growth of small industries, many of which are revivals of activities for which Ireland was famous in days gone by.

REVIVAL OF THE WOOL INDUSTRY.

One of the most notable of these is the woolen industry. Before the union Irish woolen goods were famous on this side of the water at least, but England's competition drove them out of the market, and about all that were produced were homespuns in small quantities. In the last ten years small mills have been established all over the country, and Irish suitings and dress goods are coming into their own again. In all these enterprises success has come from the elimination of management expenses. The managers are their own designers and salesmen and one foreman looks after all the processes.

The subdivision of labor, common in larger enterprises, would be fatal to these infant industries. The wool is obtained from the local farmers, who are encouraged to breed the right kind of sheep, and the labor is all drawn from the surrounding districts.

Boot and shoemaking is another industry which is reviving in Ireland. Limerick boots were once sought after by dandies all over Europe. Then English and later American competition destroyed the industry, but today there are three large factories in Limerick.

EFFECT OF SINN FEIN.

An interesting instance of the effect of the Sinn Fein movement on the revival of industry is found in the Kilkenny woodworkers. This enterprise was started a few years ago by a few young mechanics and artists who wished to revive some of the traditional Irish forms in furniture and decorations. So quickly did it succeed that today Kilkenny furniture is found in all parts of Ireland and a large export trade is growing up.

An other feature of the revival is the growth of what are known as home industries. There has always been a great deal of this in Ireland, notably in the embroidering and sewing trades and to a less extent in lace manufacturing. Nearly all the embroidering of handkerchiefs, for instance, is done by Irish girls in their homes, and much of the shirt making for the Derry factories is also parceled out in the same way.

In the last nine or ten years there has been a great revival in lace making. Classes have been formed particularly in the west, where girls are taught to produce not only the traditional Irish laces, but the best continental patterns as well. Convent schools have been particularly active in this revival.

FRENCH PRESIDENT AIDS MAN WHO RIDICULED

PARIS, June 15.—The President of the Republic, who—it is useless to disguise the fact—is made the butt of jokers and caricaturists to an extent unthinkable in other countries, even in the United States, has just done an exceedingly humorous and "Parisian" thing. An Association of humorous artists has started a fund to support a home for superannuated comic cartoonists. The plight of a funny artist who falls upon evil days, after having made or tried to make the public laugh all his life is peculiarly pathetic. It touched M. Fallieres, and he has sent a handsome donation to the fund.

This seems a mere ordinary act of generosity, but the point is that these very same humorists have been persistently offensive towards the President. They never get up a show but what he is ridiculed [illegible] ever in a style that has long since forgotten what good taste is. M. Fallieres' donation, which they have accepted gratefully, ought to make many caricaturist's conscience smart.

NEW SOCIAL THEORIES ADVANCED BY SAVANT

LONDON, June 15.—"Effete civilization is a phrase that is based on a false theory of life," asserts Robert N. [illegible], lecturer of political science and [illegible] in the University of Aberdeen, discussing the epidemic of strikes in [illegible] and the prevalence of labor unrest.

"All our woes are set down to our so-called aging social organism, but [illegible] organisms cannot be either old or young. We are obsessed with the idea that a people, like an individual, has a destined curve of life—infancy, maturity and decay. On the contrary, a people, like a family, never begins, but comes into being, and there is no necessity why it should ever end. Only individuals age and die. The life of a family is continually rejuvenated. There [illegible] way for discerning which of the [illegible] of a new generation are in[illegible]. From [illegible] that has gone [illegible] wisdom, but not [illegible].

[illegible] of the young people of Canada [illegible] South Africa, but these people are younger than ourselves. Their [illegible] conditions of life merely stimulate [illegible]."

LORD ALLENDALE

LADY IRENE DENISON LADY MILDRED COOKE.

LADY JULIET DUFF.

MISS KATHARINE DICK-CUNYNGHAM

MRS KENNET MACPHERSON

WHO THEY ARE

There was a big gathering of people at Kempton Park, London, the other week-end on Jubilee day. The king was present and had the gratification of seeing Dorando win the second event on the card. These were present:

Lady Irene Denison and Lady Mildred Cooke, Miss Marie Lloyd, Lorn Allendale, Lady Juliet Duff.

Miss Katharine Dick-Cunyngham is the eldest daughter of Alexander Dick-Cunyngham of Eccleston Square, whose engagement to John Nevill, son of the late Henry Nevill of the Pines, Mettingham, is announced.

Mrs. Kenneth Macpherson, formerly the Marchesa de Piro, is the only daughter of the late Colonel, the Marquis de Piro and the Marchese de Piro of Malta, whose marriage to Mr. Macpherson, eldest son of Sir John Macpherson, took place at Malta recently.

WOULD HAVE USED ICE FLOES AS RAFTS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, June 15.—"There is widespread regret among the hardy fisherfolk of Newfoundland that there was nobody aboard the Titanic to suggest the obviously simplest and most effective method of saving the whole 2500 people on board. This could have been done by simply utilizing the icefloes in the vicinity as gigantic rafts, to which the passengers and crew might have been transferred," writes the Hon. P. T. McGrath, a member of the legislative council of Newfoundland, in the weekly "Canada."

"It seems incredible," he proceeds, "that in all the immense multitude of people aboard the liner, nobody thought of this simple solution. It is one that would have immediately commended itself to a Newfoundlander, and it is one that has already won historical recognition through the most amazing escape in the whole annals of authentic adventure.

"I refer to the famous icefloe journey of the survivors of the Arctic steamer Polaris, who, in April, 1873, were picked up by the Newfoundland sealing steamer Tigress on an icefloe on the Grand Banks, after having drifted some 1800 miles on this precarious foothold, their absolutely unique voyage having occupied 195 days.

CRUSHED IN ICE.

"The ship had been crushed in the ice in North Greenland waters the previous November, and, as is the invariable practice in those regions, they abandoned the ice-gored hull and took to the floes in order to reach the land, but a storm coming up the fragment they had established themselves on was driven southward, and for six months it was their floating home, until rescue reached them on the Grand Banks.

"This, however, though the most remarkable case of its kind, is by no means the only case of shipwrecked people escaping death by taking refuge on an iceberg. Whenever a Newfoundland sealing steamer is crushed by the pack—as happens to one or other of the flotilla almost every spring—the crew at once betake themselves to the nearest floes with their clothing, provisions, boats and other impediments, and there remain until some others of the fleet come upon them and take them aboard. They are not dismayed by the prospect of a day's, or a week's detention.

"Fishing crews making their way to Labrador in the early summer, resort to the same expedient when their ships are crushed, and there are numerous cases on record where these people—men, women and children—have been adrift for several days before being picked up. Scores of such tales could be told, where cod-fishers and seal-hunters have escaped from peril by this simple expediency. Those aboard the Titanic might just as easily have done the same.

"Any number of fragments were available, to which the first boatloads could have been transferred, while the boats [illegible] to the ship and brought off the remainder of the people. The women and children from Newfoundland vessels, obliged to leave their beds in the darkness of night, have survived experiences of this kind for from three to seven days and therefore it is unlikely that any great number of those on the Titanic, however delicately nurtured, or however poorly equipped for this enforced imprisonment on an ice islet, would have suffered any ill effects."

TROOPER IS TO DIE FOR ATTEMPT ON SUPERIOR

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, June 15. — Auffray, a trooper in the Ninth Curassiers, who had been condemned to death by court martial for an attempt to kill his sergeant, was shot by twelve men of the English Chasseurs-a-pied, in the presence of the assembled garrison of Annens. When he was awakened and told his fate was sealed, he said that he would go bravely to his doom, and after having attended mass, he asked the chaplain to write to his parents that he had died like a Christian, and with courage, also handing to the representatives of the Government a request that his body might be taken to church on its way to burial. Auffray was then led to the yard of the fort, where an infantry regiment, a battalion of Chasseurs-a-pied, and men from all other corps were drawn up, but when he reached the fatal post he refused to kneel, nor would he agree to be bound.

"This is absolutely useless," he objected, and he offered some mild resistance until the chaplain said, "You must desist, as this is the law," whereupon he yielded. A soldier now came up to bandage his eyes, and once more he objected, until the priest remonstrated, when he became calm. Meanwhile, the death sentence was being read out by the clerk to the court-martial and when this formality was over a detachment of twelve Chasseurs-a-pied emerged from a neighboring building and soon twelve rifles were aimed at the condemned soldier from a distance of ten paces. At the word "Fire" a loud report rang out and as Auffray fell on his left side the senior sergeant advanced and put another bullet into him to give him the coup de grace. An army surgeon now approached to make sure that he was dead, a fact of which there could be no doubt, as all the bullets had struck the head, which was riddled with them. Then the whole force marched past, headed by the rifle battalion and the detachments of cavalry bringing up the rear, while the bands played the marches characteristic of each separate corps. Finally, the corpse was conveyed in a van to the military hospital.

It was on the same ground that the degradation of Moreau, a trooper in the same regiment who had also assaulted the sergeant, took place this morning, the prisoner walking past the assembled troops with a show of callousness which was in strong contrast with the manly attitude of Auffray.

CALIFORNIA GIRL JILTS PRINCE FOR MARQUIS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, June 15.—The busiest girl in all Paris is Miss Patricia Burke of Los Angeles, who, single-handed, is overcoming the intricacies of the French marriage laws, so as to make herself a Marquise in a noble family of Pain. As near June 26 as the necessary preliminaries will permit, Miss Burke will be married to Juan Ropez d'Alaya, Marquis de Funsanta, of Seville, who being of a family having at least eight generations of noble blood on each side, is permitted to stand hatted before royalty. The witness of the Marquis will be his brother, the Marquise de Merido, Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragon, who recently in America laid unsuccessful siege to the heart of Miss Mary Duke, neice of James Duke, and Louis Fernado de Bourbon, nephew of the King of Spain. Miss Burke will have for witnesses Count Portel, Miss Clinton Tomlinson and Miss Lucille Camden of New York.

Miss Burke's romance is remarkable and is a glowing tribute to what an American girl can accomplish. At the time she met the Marquis it was understood that she was to marry Prince Ferdininand of Bourbon, a nephew of the late King of Spain, but at a dinner party given in her honor last Christmas by the Prince, she met the Marquis, found herself illuminated by a love light that bedimmed the glitter of royalty and had to go to her prince and confess to him that an inferior in title had stolen her from him.

ACCEPTS SITUATION.

The Prince nobly accepted the situation and bestowed his blessing upon his rival [illegible] Miss Burke brings no dot and the Marquis' titles are greater than his bank account, although he has enough to live on simply and comfortably.

Miss Burke is chaperoned by Mrs. Tomlinson, with whom she is living, at the Hotel Celtic. Without anyone except her lawyer, Mr. Harper she has attended to all the details of her approaching marriage. She said to the International News correspondent:

"When I found what an obstacle to the altar the French laws are, I suggested to the Marquis that we go to England to marry. But this was not possible owing to certain terms of the Catholic church. What with foreign consuls, lawyers, church dignitaries and my slight knowledge of French my brain is in a whirl, which I trust the peace of the honeymoon will remedy."

GERALDINE FARRAR SHARES HONORS WITH GEESE

(By COUNT VON ELPHBERG.)

BERLIN, June 15.—Geraldine Farrar's brief spring season at the Royal opera house is bringing her much flattery from Berlin admirers. Her opening appearance in the familiar role of Marguerite caused a great demonstration. While her second appearance as the Goose girl in Humperdinck's "Koenigskinder" was likewise enthusiastically received. Everyone wanted to compare the young American prima donna's interpretation with that created in Berlin by the Spanish singer Artot de Padilla.

Miss Farrar's conception, judging by the enthusiasm of the audience, gave complete satisfaction. In many details the American singers characteristic originality showed itself. For instance, the geese used at the Berlin Opera House have been emphatically and unmistakably mechanical birds. This did not suit Miss Farrar. "The real thing or nothing," she demanded. And a flock of geese was secured from a market. Miss Farrar spent two days training them for their stage career. The result was a huge improvement on the previous stereotyped performance and Miss Farrar pleased her German audiences mightily.

CHRISTIANS IN DANGER IN OTTOMAN EMPIRE

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 15.—Alarming reports relative to the situation in the Ottoman empire have reached here from various quarters.

From the Dardanelles comes news that Turkish troops are constantly arriving there. The commanders say that Italians are preparing for a second bombardment and many of the people have become excited and are leaving.

From Trebiz it is announced that the newspaper Kerasunda is preaching an anti-Christian crusade and urging the Moslems to use the sword. The Greek pealed to the Turkish authorities, but inhabitants, becoming frightened, ap-[illegible] their requests were ignored. It is believed that Russian agents are instigating the Moslems to violence.

Delayed dispatches from Erzeroum say that Russia has massed 220,000 fully equipped troops on the Turkish frontier and that the Ottoman authorities are mobilizing the fourth and sixth army corps.

SMOKES IN BED.

LONDON, June 15.—A tragedy due to smoking in bed was reported at an inquest at Westminster on Mrs. Stella Maria Condor of Eaton square. Flames were seen at the window of a room in which Mrs. Condor was lying ill. The butler went up and extinguished the fire and Mrs. Condor, who was conscious, said to him. "I'm sorry, I could not help it. I was lighting a cigarette."

FORMER SULTAN OF TURKEY QUAILS AT VISIONS OF DEATH

Haunted by Fear of Assassination, Man Who Took Many Lives Is Now Paying Penalty

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 15 — There is a certain Turk in Salonika for whom the upraised Italian war sword has no terrors. This is one Abdul Hamid, dethroned sultan, who, in ignorance of the dangers which beset his country, is spending the last days of his life in captivity, jealously guarded by that same army which overthrew him.

The ex-commander of the faithful has for prison a handsome villa on the east side of the city and on the shores of the bay of Salonika. Abdul has for neighbors wealthy foreigners, chiefly Greeks. Having amassed riches in the ancient Macedonian capital, they have built themselves stately homes on the shores of its beautiful bay.

The Villa Latini, which the "red sultan" now inhabits, was bought by the Turkish government from one of these princes of local commerce. It has spacious grounds and is shut in by a high wall.

A double line of sentries effectively cut off Abdul Hamid from any communication with the outside world. From whatever point of the compass you attempt to approach the ex-Sultan's prison you may be sure that at least one pair of sharp questioning eyes are intently following your every movement.

There was recently some talk of a reactionary plot for the liberation of the imprisoned ex-sultan, but it is difficult to see how his adherents hoped to smuggle him out of the villa grounds and through the double cordon of soldiery. The illustrious prisoner himself is little inclined to venture afresh on to that political stage where he played so eventful and sinister a role.

The Abdul Hamid of today is a lonely and unhappy man with a troubled conscience and the haunting memories of an evil past to keep him company. He is often morose and petulant. The man who sent so many of his subjects to a violent and unmerited death now lives himself in constant dread of being done to death in secret.

FEARS ASSASSINATION.

For this wretched captive the specter of the assassin lurks everywhere; it is ever by his side. He fears death from the hands of those who are brought into daily contact with him and whose duty it is to minister to his wants. At other times his feverish brain imagines that in the world beyond the walls of his prison revengeful men are plotting his end. They will assuredly, he fears, break into the prison some night or other and put him to death.

His passionate attachment to life is such as to overcome even his avarice. As a condition for the handing over to the Turkish national exchequer of some of his hoarded wealth, he, shortly after his captivity began, asked that the prison walls should be raised an additional 8 feet and that the main entrance, which was on the north side of the villa, should be bricked up.

The government acceded to his request, and the chief entrance to the house now is through a narrow gateway on the west side. He also stipulated for the placing of stout steel bolts on the inside of the doors of his suite of rooms. The keys of the doors of his rooms he is accustomed to carry with him always.

The other day, armed with a special permissision from a high quarter, I went to the villa with authority to see the ex-sultan, should he be willing to receive me. The imperial prisoner happened to be in one of his perverse moods. After cross-examining the officer who had announced me, he, as if suspecting some attempt on his life or some fresh raid on his purse, went and shut himself up in his room, declining to see any visitor.

One of his medical attendants, who was kind enough to furnish me with many particulars regarding the daily life of Abdul Hamid, assured me that on the whole he enjoys good physical health. It was quite untrue, he said, that the ex-sultan had fallen a victim of the opium habit. He smoked heavily, not opium, but Turkish cigarettes.

MUST TAKE OWN MEDICINE.

The post of physician to the imperial inmate of the Villa Latini is one that calls for the exercise of great tact, forbearance, and patience. The physician must also have faith in his own physic, for he is often called upon to take a preliminary dose of it in the presence of the patient.

Now and then the routine is varied, and Abdul selects one of the domestics—for preference, the principal valet—on whom he bestows the thankless post of medicine taster in chief. One day, not long since, the doctor prescribed for the ex-sultan a mixture of which quinine formed a part. A trial dose was administered to the valet. He was new to the duty, the stuff was bitter, and in swallowing it the taster made a wry face.

That grimace was enough. Abdul seized the bottle and poured away the contents. Frequently that day he sent to inquire if the medicine taster was still alive. Greatly to his astonishment, the valet, hearty and well, was presented for his inspection on the following morning.

He is equally exacting regarding his food. The ordeal of tasting is exclusively reserved for the chief cook. When a dish is brought the chief cook accompanies it, and stands at attention. Abdul, armed with a large spoon, will hover indecisively over the dish, for a second or two. Then, having selected his point of attack, he will plunge the spoon into the heart of the steaming mass, and, withdrawing it filled, hands the spoon to the cook. If that functionary should evince any hesitation in sampling the food the dish is at once rejected by the suspicious abdul.

The living apartments are on the first floor, and the ex-ruler of Turkey passes his time between his bedroom and a suite of two rooms which adjoin it. One is a study, in which are several hundred volumes, chiefly Turkish. A second serves as a combined sitting and smoking room. Here it is that the ex-sultan passes entire days. He sits curled up on a divan smoking or else seeking mental solace from the perusal of the work of some Turkish writer.

He is not allowed access to current literature, Turkish or foreign, whether magazines or newspapers, hence he is a complete stranger to contemporary events.

At night he omits no precaution that could possibly insure his personal safety. On retiring to bed he locks his bedroom door so that none can enter while he is asleep. Sometimes he will insist on his bed being removed from corner to corner of the sleeping apartment. Occasionally he will sleep on the divan in the sitting room so that it is difficult for his attendants to say beforehand with any degree of certainty where the terror haunted man will attempt to seek repose.

Aged Rector, Survivor of The First Ocean Voyage

LONDON, June 15.—The sole survivor of the first voyage of a steamship across the Atlantic will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday this week at his home near Caine. He is the Rev. Vincent F. Ransome, rector of Compton-Bessett in the one time Wiltshire borough, which was represented in parliament by two men of such distinction as "Bobby" Lowe, afterwards Lord Sherbrooke, and Thomas Babbington Macaulay, the historian.

Mr. Ransome is quite familiar with the details of the momentous voyage of 1838, thanks to the good memory and to many talks in after life with his father, an army officer, who was then going out to take part in the suppression of the Papineau rebellion, started by a French-Canadian organization known as Fils de la Liberte.

To a reporter Mr. Ransome gave some interesting details of the voyage. The Sirius, on which he sailed, managed to secure by only a small margin the honor of being first in a race across the Atlantic with another British steamship, the Great Western, which sailed from Bristol five days after the Sirius steamed out of Cork, whither she had gone to embark some passengers.

PASSENGERS AFRAID, GO ASHORE.

It was March 28, 1838, when it left London for Cork, and many of the passengers were so alarmed by their experience of the run down the English channel that they left the ship when it reached Cork and forfeited their passage money rather than proceed. When it left Cork they there were only six first class passengers on board. These were the Ransomes, father, two sons, and a daughter—and Mr. and Miss Davenport—father and daughter—noted members of the theatrical profession.

"It was on April 4," Mr. Ransome states, "that the Sirius steamed away from Cork, and, as it passed down the river, it was cheered loudly by the thousands of people who lined the shore and the battery at Monkstown fired a salute. The vessel was compelled to carry most of its coal on deck, and so and so short did it run of fuel that it was obliged to burn every spare yard and sparto to keep its engines going."

ENTRIES IN THE LOG.

The commander of the Sirius was Lieut. Roberts, R. N., a dashing Irish sailor, who later was commander of the ill-fated President, which sailed from New York in March, 1841, and was never heard of again. Roberts' log of the voyage of the Sirius shows that he was put to considerable straits for fuel. On April 11 he records:

"One hundred and sixty-five knots. Heavy gale and great swell; wind northeast. Burned resin with ashes and small coal."

On April 19 he has this entry:

"One hundred and forty-five knots. Burned a good deal of resin. Wind southeast."

The gallant officer evidently felt somewhat sore on the question of the loading of the vessel, for, in a journal which he kept distinct from the ship's log, he wrote:

"We had on board 450 tons of coal, 20 tons of water, 58 casks of resin, besides an incalculable stock of other stores, all of which, I beg to be understood, with the exception of 90 tons of coal, was over and above what she was intended to carry;; and you may form some conjecture as to her probable fate had she not been an admirable sea boat and in every respect qualified for the most dangerous weather."

Several days before the Sirius reached New York, on April 22, thousands of people had assembled daily on the Battery watching the Narrows that lead from the Atlantic to the harbor. It seemed as if the whole population turned out to witness its arrival. They had scarcely recovered from their surprise when the rival vessel, the Great Western, steamed alongside the Sirius and the rejoicing was renewed.

The bells in the churches and chapels were set ringing, cannon thundered, and the people were wild with joy. A new link with the old country had been forged, and henceforth those who wished to visit England would no longer be at the mercy of the low sailing vessels.

In 1905 Mr. Ransome was presented with a souvenir of the Sirius, in honor of being the sole survivor of the vessel's first trip. The souvenir consists of a disc made from a section of the pump rod of the vessel. It is about half an inch thick and three and a half inches in diameter. The metal from which it was made lay at the bottom of the sea for over fifty years, the Sirius having been wrecked off the south coast of Ireland in 1847.

Similar souvenirs were accepted by the late King Edward and ex-President Roosevelt, and one was sent to the Field museum at Chicago.

The Sirius was a two-masted paddle steamer, built at Leith, in Scotland, in 1837. It was 412 tons burthen, 178 feet in length, 25 feet breadth and 18 feet deep.

OPIUM MERCHANTS OF INDIA FACE RUIN

BOMBAY, June 15.—Opium merchants of India say they are threatened with ruin by the alleged disregard by China of the existing treaties, and they have appealed to the government to save them. They assert that Chinese merchants refuse to take opium they have purchased because the provincial authorities decline to admit it.

Stocks of opium in India are accumulating. At the same time the protesting ones complain that the cultivation of opium in China is unchecked in several of the most important provinces.

When love's sto-ry's told so sweet, Each kiss then they will re-peat, Heart's pierc'd by a Win-ter moon is smil-ing down, On the world with-out a frown, Tell-ing it that shaft from Cu-pid's bow, When the snowflakes gleam, They whis-per in love's dream.
love-light will ap-pear, To the moon on high, Then sweet-hearts soft-ly cry
CHORUS
p-f
O Mis-ter Win-ter Moon we like to see your light, Shin-ing bright at night for love's de-light, When your sil-v'ry beams shine on us down below. You make the love light glow. Win-ter cresc.

Moon! oh, Mis-ter Win-ter Moon! Call a-gain and don't go 'way so soon, For be-neath your mel-low light I love to spoon, O, O, O, Come back, O Win-ter Moon! Oh, Mis-ter Moon!

Summery Talk of Smart Set From the Pen of Suzette

THE most attractive thing in the much-talked of play, "Chantecler," is the lovely prologue, given before the curtain by clever Maude Adams. It is a most fascinating word picture, which prepares one for all the scenes behind the curtain. Very much the same charming sort of a word picture is given us by Frederick Townsend Martin, who is writing in "Ainslee's" his reminiscences, said "memoirs" being entirely of the smart set. And what a vivid picture of anyone of our smart sets he gives:

"My gaze wanders out over the Fifth avenue of today. Powerful, low-bodied motor cars, carrying men and women hardly recognizable for caps, veils, goggles and dusters, dash by, followed by sumptuous limousine cars, in which are other men and women riding in all the luxury of their drawing-rooms.

"There are hired cabs in which ride very smartly-dressed men and women—perhaps too smartly. A few carriages, bearing quietly but richly gowned women, the equipages bearing the crests of some old New York families, also are to be seen, but not in such great numbers as in the old days. Also, there is a countless throng passing on foot—members of the first families of the land, climbers with millions of dollars to threw away for the sake of being mentioned in the social roster, flashily-dressed persons, and less well-groomed men and women going to and from their work. The hum of the motors, the clatter of the horses' hoofs, the shuffle of thousands of feet, the distant roar of the trains, make a fitting accompaniment to the seething picture before me—the avenue of today."

And in the light of today, some of the paragraphs are immensely amusing.

"I love to let my mind dwell on my grandmother's descriptions of the dances and receptions of her mother. The elderly people sedately joined in the dignified quadrilles and minuets, walking through them with all the grace and precision of courtiers. I could see those old gentlemen and ladies, with their powdered wigs and prim caps, going through those old-time dances, and smiling on one another as tenderly as ever a young [illegible]

It is a far cry, indeed, from those times to these later days, when dancing moves to the music of ragtime and the insistent call of the social world is

"Come on and hear,
Come on and hear,
Alexander's Rag-Time Band!"

But, perhaps after all, Frederick Martin sums it up alright for us when he adds:

"Ah, well, times change, and the innovation of today is the commonplace of tomorrow."

LONDON HAS SOCIAL SEASON IN SUMMER.

London is the only city in the world where the smart set has its social season in the very heart of the summer. No one knows quite how it should be so, but the fact remains that June sees the aristocratic circles of England assembled in London and all prominent families are in the country at Christmas time. In fact, the great nobility of England prefers country life, coming up to the city only for the opera, the theaters, for shopping, and for the brief weeks in the summer called "the social season." It is a very brilliant season this year, and the drawing-rooms of Queen Mary have been specially important. The third court took place last week and there were presentations up to the limit of numbers.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid does the very best she can for Americans who wish to be presented, and no wife of a foreign minister is so successful or shows more tact. Mrs. Reid has a great deal of self-respect and much dignity, and she is altogether a very cultured woman. And she never forgets the American women whom she so truly represents.

At the third drawing-room the gowns worn were remarkably handsome and many of them were sparkling studies, under the brilliant light, with the quantity of diamante embroidery now so much worn.

The queen looked specially attractive in pale golden yellow satin embroidered in diamonds, and her superb Irish point lace train supported on yellow chiffon worn with magnificent emeralds set with diamonds as brooches, necklace and tiara.

A very interesting story is connected with this lace train. It was presented to the queen by the royal ladies of Belfast as a coronation gift and was worn for the first time in India. It was worn in England for the first time at this third court. Irish lace was selected by the queen herself as the form of the gift. The train was made at the Convent of Youghal, which has a special reputation for lace work. The sisters employed 60 workers on the train, who expended over 98,000 hours on its fabrication, using up nearly 12 miles of thread, chiefly in the very fine No. 300. A description of this superb train ends with the following sentence:

"If it be worth while to expend human effort upon the production of sheer graceful beauty, assuredly the exquisite completed train justified its cost, and the queen expressed her great admiration for the unique example."

HONORS CARRIED OFF BY AMERICANS.

Honors were carried off by Americans in the great Hundred Years Ago Ball given recently. The Duchess of Richmond's famous dance before the battle of Waterloo was danced again, and the glories of English society in the palmiest days of the regency were resuscitated.

Many of those taking part wore exact reproductions of the costumes of their famous ancestors. The Duchess of Marlborough, who appeared in the Waterloo quadrille arranged by Lady Paget, the American wife of General Sir Arthur Paget, represented the Countess Walewska, described as the only woman whom Napoleon really loved. She wore the wonderful pearls which formerly belonged to the Empress Catherine of Russia. Around her neck was a band of diamonds, having large rubies with diamond drops. On her head was a tiara of diamonds. Her dress was white satin embroidered with gold with a geranium velvet train. Mrs. George Cornwallis-West's costume as Lucrezia Borgia was mag- [illegible] the designated period. The Duchess of Roxburghe positively blazed with diamonds. Lady Maidstone looked beautiful in a coal-scuttle bonnet and cherry-colored ribbons. Mrs. George Keppel wore a classic dress embroidered with mulberry silk sparkling with jewels.

Mrs. John Ward (Jean Reid) was in the Waterloo quadrille, and among the beautifully-gowned Americans were Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Lady Craven (Miss Martin) and Lady Granard (Beatrice Mills).

The American ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid gave a reception at Dorchester House last week to meet Americans. The "at home" was given in honor of Americans in London and many well-known people in the London smart set were asked to meet them. No special program was arranged, but a number of the younger set danced in the large salons on the first floor. The reception rooms on the ground floor were reserved for refreshments. The whole house was, as usual, beautifully decorated, and the staircase was banked with flowers and palms. Among those present were: J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Lady Greville, Lady Deerhurst, Lady Newborough and her sister, and Sir Ernest and Lady Shackleton.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON TO REVIEW CONVENTIONS.

No member of the California smart set is as well known as Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, who comes from one of the best families on the coast, and who has won literary fame on both continents. It took Mrs. Atherton a long time to win her way, for her books were very daring at first, and a score of years ago women were very conservative. But Mrs. Atherton had plenty of courage and she has definitely "arrived," and all news of her is of special interest. One reads of her plans:

"Gertrude Atherton has left New York for Chicago, where she will remain until after the close of the Republican national convention. She

Health and Beauty Hints

(By MRS. MAE MARTYN.)

X. T.—Large pores, I know, are disfiguring. However, you can soon reduce them if you use an almozoin cream-jelly the recipe for which I give: Put 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine in ½ pint cold water, then add 1 ounce almozoin. When thoroughly dissolved it is ready to use. This almozoin cream-jelly should be applied plentifully and rubbed in well. After using the cream-jelly a while you will find pimples and blackheads will have vanished and the skin once rough, oily and blotchy, will be of a velvety softness, clear and beautiful. The almozoin cream-jelly is unfailing in protecting the skin from freckles, tan and sunburn

A. G. B.—Dieting is a cruel method of flesh reduction and a needless torture, because with a parnotis solution, made by dissolving 4 ounces parnotis in 1½ pints hot water, you can reduce your weight without suffering or inconvenience. Taking a tablespoonful before each meal gently and gradually dissolves the fatty tissues without possible injury, and when your weight is where you want it, the flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles.

Mrs. A. D.—Don't experiment with alleged "hair-tonics," because they may streak the hair. If your scalp is lifeless and scaly, you should shampoo with canthrox, then apply a little of the quinzoin tonic, made by pouring ½ pint water in ½ pint alcohol, to which is then added 1 ounce quinzoin. Occasional applications of this home-made tonic soon banish dandruff and correct unnatural oiliness. The faithful use of quinzoin tonic will encourage the hair to grow in long and beautiful.

D. O.—Those troublesome hairs can be made to disappear like magic by applying a paste made with powdered delatone [illegible] should be removed and the skin washed, when it will be found that the hairs have completely vanished. No pain or discoloration of the skin follows the use of delatone.

Mrs. Max.—Curly lashes add much to the expression of the eyes. Apply pyroxin daily to lash-roots with thumb and forefinger and your stubby eyelashes will grow long and beautiful. By putting pyroxin on eyebrows with forefinger you can make them come in thick and silky. Don't get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Violet M.—Failing strength is not due to age in your case, because at 40 a woman should be at her best mentally and physically. What you require is a blood-tonic and body-builder, and I am giving you the recipe for a good one here: Dissolve ½ cupful sugar in ½ pint alcohol, then stir in 1 ounce kardene and add enough hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful three times a day and your blood will soon be rid of poisonous accumulations, pimples and blotches will disappear and your sallow, oily complexion will give way to a healthy pink and white color. This tonic is splendid to guard the body against sickness.

Jane—I do not wonder that soap will not rid your scalp of dandruff, because it lacks the necessary elements for that purpose. Dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water, then rub a little at a time on the scalp. You will be surprised on how quickly it entirely dissolves every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. After rinsing, the scalp will be clean and pliant, and the hair will dry ever so quickly, with a rich sheen, and be soft, fluffy and easy to arrange.

Anna G.—You cannot expect to have a smooth, clear skin and youthful complexion if you persist in the use of powder, because the dust-like particles clog the pores and cause a rough, pimply, blotchy and oily condition of the skin. Discard powder and try this inexpensive spurmax lotion and you will be delightfully surprised with the result: Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply this sparingly to the skin and rub lightly until dry. The spurmax lotion imparts a velvety smoothness and exquisite tint to the skin and rids it of impurities and unnatural conditions. It is especially nice for hot weather use [illegible] streak from perspiration and is invisible when on.

Rena W.—Inflamed eyes greatly detract from physical charms, and unless this condition is corrected it may be necessary to wear glasses. Make up and use this inexpensive, harmless eye-tonic: In a pint of cold, clear water dissolve 1 ounce crystos, then place 2 or 3 drops in the eyes daily. This quickly reduces inflammation, stops the smarting and gives to dull eyes a remarkable brilliancy. You will find it fine for granulated lids and removing foreign particles

ONE of the most elaborate weddings of the week was that of Miss Carolyn Louise Hudson and George W Walther, which took place Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. Charles Ellsworth Hudson, on Magnolia street. The ceremony was performed in a bower of pink and white carnations and greens—ferns, shrubs and palms being used in profusion A huge wedding bell of white sweet peas, with the clapper of pink blossoms, was suspended from the ceiling, under which the young couple plighted their vows. The house was artistically decorated throughout, pink and white being the color scheme. Half a hundred guests, which included relatives and a few intimate friends, witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. George C. Golden, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. A reception and elaborate wedding supper followed the ceremony The dining-room was beautifully decorated in pink and white [illegible]

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Maybelle Hudson, as maid of honor, Miss [illegible] Thienger and Miss Effie Hudson as bridesmaids, and little Miss Kathryn Thienger as flower-girl Edmund Flick acted as best man for Walther

The bridal party was led by the little flower-girl, who wore a dainty white lingerie dress, and carried a basket of American Beauty roses and tulle Then came the two bridesmaids, who were gowned alike in pink satin with overdresses of pink crepe de chine, elaborately embroidered. They carried shower bouquets of pink sweet peas and tulle. The maid of honor wore a white satin gown with an overdress of white marquisette, which was trimmed with crystal beads, and pink rosebuds. She also carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The bride, who entered the room on her father's arm, wore a robe of rich ivory-tinted satin, with an overdress of white crepe de chine, elaborately trimmed with rare old lace. She wore the conventional veil of tulle, held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms, and which fell in graceful folds over the costume A shower bouquet of lilies of the valley completed her attire.

The bride's mother was gowned in a handsome dress of light blue satin, trimmed with lace,

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hudson of Oakland, her father having been connected with the Southern Pacific Company for years. She is a niece of John A. McBride, president of the Elko Lumber Company and bank commissioner. She formerly attended the Oakland High School.

Walther is the son of Valentine Walther of Elko, Nev. He accompanied his family, who came down to attend the wedding. He is engaged in business with a large lumber concern.

After an extended honeymoon through the South the young couple will make their home in Elko, where a handsome home is being built for them.

PRESS ASSOCIATION PLANS BREAKFAST.

The Pacific Coast Women's Press Association has sent out cards for its "Biennial Breakfast," which is to be given on Tuesday, June 25, at the Cliff House, San Francisco. It is sure to be a delightful affair, since the association has already established a record for charming social entertaining. One remembers with pleasure the successful reception given some time ago at the Fairmont, when the association entertained several hundred people in a most cordial manner. The reception was one of the most notable social affairs of the season across the bay.

One expects much that is charming from an association composed of women who are intellectual and in touch with many of the great questions of the day, and the club is fortunate and happy in having for its president so forceful, able and brilliant a woman as Mrs. I. Lowenberg.

She is a clubwoman of distinction, one who has cheerfully aided many philanthropies in the past, and she is able in a remarkable manner to preside over the destinies of the club.

Aside from her interest in club life, Mrs. Lowenberg is one of the finest writers on the coast. She has a purpose in her work, admirably carried out, and she writes with spirit, with grace, with a rare charm of diction.

Mrs. Lowenberg's most successful book is entitled "A Nation's Crime"; its plea is for a uniform divorce law, and so successful has the book been in stirring public sentiment everywhere, that its object will be accomplished in the not very distant future, and Mrs. Lowenberg will have added a classic to our Pacific coast literature.

Mrs. Lowenberg, as president of the association, will preside at the Biennial Breakfast, and that alone would ensure a splendid success. It bids fair to be one of the most important events of summer social dates around the bay.

"IN MY GARDEN" BECOMES HABIT.

"In My Garden" might well be the theme of many a delightful summer idyl, for it is where Californians have learned to spend delightful afternoons. Those who stay at home have learned to live out of doors, and the gardens are a joy to one's heart. Years ago a charming American married a German nobleman and went to far-off Germany to live. Of course, with the different life conditions she was not very happy until she discovered her garden and gave to the world that charming book, "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," and every woman who read it felt straightway impelled to have a garden of her own.

Some of Robert Hichens' finest work is in "The Garden of Allah," this being the name the Arabs give to the great desert of Sahara, and in the heart of the desert is a wonderful garden in which we leave Domini Elfenden to find what happiness may be hers after her supreme sacrifice. So in our own summer days the garden sends out its own subtle appeal, and we rarely send any regrets when our friends invite us for tea or bridge in their gardens.

It was the beautiful garden, the al fresco element which was the crowning charm of the picturesque wedding of Florence Hopkins and Cheever Cowdin, and down at Burlingame the smart set spends much of the time in summer out-of-doors. The Claremont Country Club is charming just now and the wide porches, with their outlook on the garden, is most alluring. The Fourth of July holiday is arranged in a most picturesque fashion, for luncheon is served on the wide verandas and many people spend the day in the garden.

In San Rafael one of the social episodes of the week was the "Supper in Munich," a delightful out-of-door fete, in the heart of a lovely garden.

The first development of our summer outdoor life was at Arbor Villa, in the delightful May fetes, suggestive of similar days on the Riviera. There were many things to interest us in the picturesque grounds, till the "Battle of Flowers," with the showers of falling rose petals in the evening sunlight told us the day was done. The garden at Level Lea, the home of the Clays, is very beautiful, and each summer in the Hush grounds the tent is erected, and there is always tennis for those who can play.

The Will Magees are exceedingly fond of Alden Farm, where the gardens are lovely and where there is a most delightful swimming pool. The lovely garden of the Wickham Havens grows more beautiful daily, and Mr. Havens has recently added to his land, planning to have one of the most picturesque and artistic gardens around the bay.

Mrs. Requa's garden has a rare charm about it, and that is due to the fact that the beautiful garden owes much to her own careful planning, for she has much skill in outlining artistic effects. A lovely nook in her garden, with encircling trees, is named "Chevy Chase," and in "Chevy Chase" her friends have spent ideal afternoons. There are easy chairs and hammocks there, and tables for afternoon tea, and one can dream away the long hours of an ideal summer day. Louis Titus and Duncan McDuffie are both planning lovely gardens in the heart of grounds with wonderful views, and our smaller gardens show a riot of color in the midst of wonderful flowers. If our people stay at home the out-of-door life is theirs just the same, and it makes a charming environment for entertaining one's friends. It is the many gardens on the hill slopes that makes Naples so beautiful, and Piedmont, with the same outlook on the sea, bids fair to rival the Italian city of the old world.

REPORT IMPROVEMENT IN THOMAS MAGEE'S CONDITION.

Everyone is glad to hear of the great improvement of Thomas Magee Jr., who has been desperately ill this summer and who has been at the Adler sanitarium. Mr. Magee's illness has been of a serious and very grave nature, and the family has been exceedingly worried. But happily the danger is over, and Mr. Magee will grow stronger day by day now. The Thomas Magees will probably be in Fruitvale for the summer when Mr. Magee is able to be brought over here, for the days of convalescence. He has been for some time at the Adler sanitarium, and Mrs. Tom Magee has been with her sister, Mrs. Charles Bentley (Florence Hush), spending her days at the sanitarium. Everyone is so very glad for the family that Mr. Magee is spared to them; no one has more dear loyal friends than Tom Magee, and no one so well deserves them.

Mrs. Hush, who knew nothing about the illness till lately, is in the East. She was met in New York by Mrs. Wells (Jean Hush) and she is now with her daughter in the latter's Burlington home.

MRS. H. MORTON HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON.

Among the closing functions of the season was the second of a series of luncheons given by Mrs. H. Morton at her Oakland-avenue home on Friday. The luncheon was most delightfully planned, and the guest list included:

Mrs. C. W. Kinsey, Mrs. W. D. Evans, Mrs. F. E. Wells, Mrs. G. B. M. Gray, Mrs. J. R. Scupham, Mrs. S. Chapman, Mrs. James A. Johnson, Miss Charlotte Playter, Mrs. Murrey Johnson and Mrs. Frank Kinsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton have gone to the southern part of the state, having planned there a delightful holiday trip.

BENJAMIN SMITHS VISIT AT AUBURN.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Smith and their children are spending a most enjoyable month at Auburn, that picturesque little city in the Sierras that is rapidly becoming so popular as a summer resort.

Other visitors in Auburn in these June days are Mr. and Mrs George Lackie, Miss Ethel Valentine, Miss Livermore, Miss Anne Miner, Mrs. Chadbourne, Mrs. Charles E. Cotton, Miss Lou Amerman.

MRS. J. P. DUNN IS RAPIDLY RECOVERING.

The many friends of the Chabots are glad to hear of the rapid recovery of Mrs. J. P. Dunn (Kate Chabot), who has been very ill. Mrs. Dunn has been at Fabiola, and the family has not been able to go to St. Helena as early as usual this summer Mrs. Dunn is much better and she will be able to accompany the family to the country in the near future. She is a very popular young matron and there are many friends to be glad she is so much better and to wish her a happy summer.

MRS. A. T. SARGENT VISITOR TO OAKLAND.

Among the recent visitors to Oakland is Mrs. Arthur Tappan Sargent (Elsie Kimble), who is visiting her sister, Mrs Charles E. Parcells. Mr. and Mrs. Sargent spent the winter in New York at the Plaza.

Mrs. Sargent is a sister of Mrs. Fred Kimble, Mrs Joseph Chanslor and Mrs. Charles E. Parcells.

EXTENSIVELY ENTERTAINED WHILE IN THE EAST.

The Misses Vera and Ethel Havermeyer recently returned from the East, where they were extensively entertained by friends and relatives. Their aunt, Mrs. Haskins, has a very lovely home in New York, and they lived for some years in Chicago, where they have many friends.

The Havemeyers spend a great deal of time in Burlingame with their sister, Mrs. Andrew L. Stone.

The Stones sold their home here to the Frank L. Browns, and they rarely come to our side of the bay.

Their home at Burlingame is the center of many social activities, for among their young relatives are the Misses Harriet and Marian Stone and the Misses Vera and Ethel Havemeyer.

MANY COUNTRY HOMES ARE OPENED.

An unusually large number of country homes have been opened this week, and each home seems to have its full complement of guests. The Churchill Taylors are settled in a cottage at Brookdale, and near them are established Mr. and Mrs. Obear, the latter one of the very popular matrons across the bay. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rodolph have a very charming country place near Livermore, and their friends are made most welcome theer during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Heron have not yet opened their country home at Ben Lomond, owing to the illness of the eldest boy of the family, Dudley Heron, who is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever. The Herons will go away later in the summer.

TRUXTON BEALES VISITING IN EAST.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Truxton Beale and Miss Alice Oge are in Chicago, and later they will go to New York and Washington for brief visits in both cities before their departure for Europe. The great Beale ranch, embracing hundreds of acres, was recently sold to a syndicate for an enormous sum. The proceeds will be shared by Mr. Beale and his sisters, Mrs. McLean of Washington and Madame Bakmatieff, who is the very brilliant wife of the Russian ambassador.

CALIFORNIAS PROVE POPULAR ABROAD.

Californians are certainly very popular abroad, and many entertainments are given them by notable people. The Eugene de Sablas and their daughters, Vera and Leontine, are in London, where they are enjoying the London season, now at its height. Mrs. Raoul Duval has left England, where she has been visiting her sister, Miss Agnes Tobin.

The Duvals have a lovely country place in the south of France, where they will spend the summer, and Mrs. Charles W. Clark will be their guest in their picturesque home during the month of July.

Summer plans seem to be the order of the day, and whether one goes away or stays at home, the old-time melody in "Pippa Passes" seems to ring out on the air, "All's right with the world." SUZETTE.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR "CURES" THE NEW YORK WORLD COMMENTING ON THESE SO-CALLED "CURES"

Says—They "have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands."

The New York World, conceded by journalists everywhere as one of the most independent, fearless newspapers devoted to the public welfare, published an article of interest to women about depilatories While it commends very highly a well-known depilatory, it also points out the imposition practiced by unscrupulous manufacturers of so-called superfluous hair 'cures.' It is reprinted in part. Read it:

"Unscrupulous manufacturers have played on her faith and ignorance and have made their fortunes decade after decade by publishing erroneous statements and unfounded claims concerning the alleged efficacy of their methods or agencies to eradicate unnecessary hair. The vital importance of having the treatment non-poisonous, antiseptic and germicidal was not recognized The fakes put on the market in the last ten years have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands Empty promises have been made by scores of promoters in the wild scramble to get the money. The marvel is that woman has not become so thoroughly disgusted as to reject all treatments for good.

But her hope for a remedy was not in vain, * * * only a few years ago the now well-known DeMiracle treatment was brought forth, and it proved to be a revelation in modern science A representative of the New York World investigated the discovery and the methods by which it was introduced to the public. He found exhaustive tests have shown it to be the long-desired, practical, expeditious and safe way in which to destroy the growth of hair. Those who put it before the public knew the fallacy and dishonesty of publishing extravagant claims. They did not resort to any catch schemes, such as making a prospective customer a special offer of 'personal interest.' They started in to win the confidence of those interested, and in this way they have been eminently successful.

The news of its remarkable qualities spread rapidly. It is now known and widely used from coast to coast and from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. What is more to the point, it has been indorsed by prominent physicians, representative medical journals and leading magazines devoted to women's cause. There is too much at stake to risk such indorsements if they are not true to the letter. Only the result of repeated chemical experiments and a thorough knowledge of the origin of all hair growth could stand against the investigation of such authorities. The DeMiracle Chemical Company is open and above board in every detail. The indorsements are not just claimed A little probing on the part of the PAPER disclosed the fact that they are published and sent broadcast with the identity and address of the writer or publication added. This is the stumbling block of all so-called remedies. A reputable member of the medical profession or a publication in good standing could never afford to be identifed with anything that savors of a fake, and a voluntary praise given through these channels is not to be bought with money. It is given on the strength of conviction. * * * There is no evidence wanting to prove that DeMiracle is worthy of its reputation. * * * It was found by the representative of the World that among prominent department and drug stores of New York City the use of DeMiracle was lauded on all sides The proprietor of one of the largest of these establishments said: 'The sale of DeMiracle is constantly increasing and we hear nothing but praise for it all the time.' Like expressions were echoed by the others."

For years we have been cautioning women against being defrauded by so-called superfluous hair "cures." In spite of all warning, it seems that some are always willing to be humbugged, because, as the World says, "The fakes put on the market in the last ten years have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands" The mere fact that fake-dangerous preparations are short-lived should alone be sufficient warning to avoid the use of any depilatory but that of proven merit

Don't be deceived or deluded by alluring and impossible claims of imposters Tell any one of them that DeMiracle Chemical Company will forfeit Five Thousand Dollars if it can be proven that their so-called superfluous hair "cures" ever eradicated one single growth of superfluous hair.

It is astonishing that some women will take the risk of disfigurement by using unknown and uncertain means for removing these blemishes when there is such a safe method as DeMiracle, which is acknowledged by eminent and reputable authorities everywhere as the standard depilatory—the one absolutely non-poisonous preparation that dissolves hair, thereby taking the vitality out of it, consequently retarding and preventing an increased growth.

If further proof is needed as to the reliability of DeMiracle, no stronger argument can be advanced than the fact that it is the only depilatory that has stood the test of time

There was more of it sold ten years ago and there has been more of it sold each year since than the combined sales of the nostrums.

All reliable dealers sell and recommend DeMiracle, knowing it to be the best and safest depilatory. Some unprincipled ones will tell you they cannot procure it so that they may more easily influence you to purchase their own or possibly some other dangerous, worthless substitute under another label for a few cents more profit. To protect you from just such imposition, if your dealer will not supply you, mail us $1.00 and we will send you, all charges paid, in plain, sealed wrapper, a $1.00 bottle of DeMiracle, and we will make you a present of a full-size jar of DeMiracle Cream. If you care to, give us the name of the dealer who tries to sell you a "just as good" imitation or substitute. Write for free booklet which will be mailed sealed in plain envelope. DeMiracle Chemical Company, Dept. 17, Park Ave., 129th and 130th Sts., New York.

HEN AND DOG FIGHT OVER LITTER OF PUPS

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—George H. Davis, a farmer living at Godfrey, near Alton, reports owning a hen that adopted a litter of pups. The hen had been setting for two weeks on an empty nest, and a few days ago discovered a litter of pups, which had been left for a short time by the mother. When the mother of the pup family returned she discovered the hen has settled down on top of the pups and was brooding them, and when the mother dog attempted to recover possession of her offspring she was driven off by the hen. The dog attracted attention and the hen was removed by members of the Davis family.

She returned and again drove the mother dog away, finally making it necessary for the owners to interfere and coop the insistent feathered foster-mither of the pups. This step was necessary because the pups were being deprived of their natural sustenance by their own mother being kept away from them.

g doings are anticipated at the Oak- Orpheum on Sunday when one of greatest vaudeville shows which even mighty Orpheum Circuit have ever able to get together will be pre- ated. Two remarkable features are mised, these being the famous aggrego- of Sunshine Girls from London, 22 ing maidens of the highest place, the debut of the famous actor Sydney es in vaudeville.

ae vaudeville debut of Sydney Ayres attract great attention among Oak- play goers. Ayres is probably the pronounced favorite among theater that has appeared in this city. usands no doubt will be present to him when he makes his plunge into deville on Sunday. Little Eugenia hard is one of the members of his pany supporting him in the charming ama entitled "A Prince of Bohemia." ay regard this little child actress as a iature Maud Adams. John Tiller, who anised the English troupe of Sunshine s, is recognized the world over as the atest dancing master in existance. He ucts a college of dancing at London from this institution there have grad- d some of the most renowned terp- orean artists the world has known. present there are 370 girl graduates of school appearing in various ballots ughout the country.

e John Tiller company, which Martin has just brought to America, is one the largest and generally considered best of the Tiller output. It comes is country directly following a long successful engagement at the London es Theater. The company includes famous twelve Sunshine Girls, the six Boys and four principals. They are ing two farcial pantomimes and ichorean absurdities, "On the Wall" "Fun in a Harem." Both are con- ed chiefly for fun and the introduc- of expert and novel dancing set to g and tuneful music.

With the clear-eyed charm of youth, are wonderfully attractive girls. and a vivacity of manner adds to their make-up and are as dis- ive as the manner in which they ce. Complete scenic productions have brought from London for each of the and [illegible] costuming, is elaborate.

Tom Waters appeared in "The of Loughland" and "Coming Thro' the Rye," he was accounted the saving grace of both those shows. He is a laugh-maker as well known as any on the stage and his opening performance at the Orpheum, today, is eagerly awaited.

His brief vaudeville engagement is made prior to his sailing for Europe, where he apears for a long engagement at the Tivoli and other English music halls. His performance will include his inimitable pianologue, together with a monologue of wit, song and mimicry.

Two charming sisters who call themselves the Farber Girls, possess among other qualities that charm of youth which is probably the greatest asset of womanhood. In what is described as "Dainty Bits of Vaudeville," the Misses Constance and Irene Farber sing, dance and exchange some bright patter.

"The Information Bureau," presented by the Five Sullys, is a combination of singing, dancing, talking, gymnastic and comedy situations happily blended into a twenty-minute rapid-fire offering. The scene shows an information bureau at a railway terminal. Three of the Sullys are men and two women. Each is an adept in his or her particular line of endeavor. M. Georges Simondet, the distinguished French lyric tenor, will have a prominent place on the program. He is to render several operatic selections that will doubtles be a treat to music lovers.

The Lietzel Sisters, trapeze artists from abroad, who are known as "the marvels of the air," will contribute a splendid specialty.

Some imported Orpheum motion pictures will be exhibited and Conductor Kowalski's big orchestra will give an operatic concert each night at 8 o'clock.

YE LIBERTY

Frances Slosson is given a rare opportunity as Sylvia in "A Bachelor's Romance," which will be the offering of the Bishop Players at Ye Liberty this week. Franklyn Underwood will play the bachelor who has missed the love of life and seeks rejuvenation.

"A Bachelor's Romance" is a delicious comedy with plenty of appeal, pathos and genuine humor, the king of a play that makes the audience laugh and cry at the same time. It is one of the best bits of writing ever done by that clever author, Martha Morton, and furnished the starring vehicle which brought success to Sol Smith Russell throughout the East.

"A Bachelor's Romance" is one of those rare plays—charming and innocent—so full of sweetness and beauty that it cannot be told in mere words. It is full of tender scenes and bright dialogue, in fact, it is one of the best pieces of dramatic writing ever done by that clever writer, Martha Morton, and the success Sol Smith Russell met with it as a starring vehicle is still a matter of theatrical history.

Briefly, the story of "A Bachelor's Romance" tells of David Holmes, the literary editor of "The Review." David is a modest, retiring man, wrapped up in his work, with no time for worldly pleasures. Through the unexpected death of a friend David has become the guardian of a young girl, Sylvia. He leaves her in the care of kindly friends in the country, and so sees little of her until she is a young lady. He expects her to fall in love, marry, and pass out of his life.

As he anticipates, Sylvia becomes betrothed to Harold Reynolds, a young journalist. The announcement is a shock to David, however, for he is unconsciously in love with her himself. And when he is appointed judge of a prize-story contest and discovers that Harold has written the best story and will thus win the $10,000 prize, he also realizes that it means Sylvia and Harold can marry, and that he will lose his love.

He is tempted to be false to his duty and his sense of right, and withhold the reward. However, after a hard struggle his better character triumphs and he awards the prize to the young man. It turns out happily for him, though, for Harold and Sylvia disagree, and she sends him away to find that David is the one she really loves.

Incidentally, "A Bachelor's Romance" shows the inside workings of a country newspaper in an extremely ludicrous fashion, with all the amusing situations which would naturally arise from such a setting, and the combination of this good, wholesome comedy and the pretty love story it tells is what has made the play such a lasting success.

The Liberty favorites have been cast appropriately and to advantage and will be delightfully at home next week. Mr. Ivan Miller will be seen as Holmes' worldly brother, Gerald; Andrew Bennison as the newspaper man; Walter Whipple as the classically educated Mr. Mulberry; Orral Humphreys as an old bookworm; James Gleason as the modern literary man; Miss Nana Bryant as David Holmes' young widowed sister; Mrs. Gleason as a maiden lady with a sharp tongue, and the other Liberty favorites will all be appropriately cast as well.

Milton Stallard has arranged the stage setting and special scenic features. The play will run one week with the usual matinee.

BELL

Ragtime singers and dancers, a barefoot dancing girl, a boy Hercules, Jewish comedians and scintillating soubrets mark the vaudeville diversions which Bell patrons will enjoy in the new bill to begin Sunday afternoon.

Mlle. Vera Mesereaux, the French American beauty and barefoot danseuse, will appear in a Historic-Delsarte demonstration, teaching the art of grace by the poetry of motion. Mlle. Vera Mesereaux is the same famous barefoot dancer who has been conceded by the press throughout the world to be Maud Allan's only rival.

Orville Stamm is a 17-year-old youth who holds a piano and an acompanist on his chest while singing a solo. He will do a strong-man act with new frills. He follows this up by lifting a horse, mounted on a platform, supporting the enormous weight by one arm and his hips. His physical culture poses are said to be very striking.

The Robinson Brothers and Wilson are a trio of singers who are bound to be a big hit of the bill. They aim at the artistic effect in nonsense, ragtime and general all-around singing and dancing.

A refined Hebrew characterization will be the offering of Murray Bennett, past master at character parts, and his contribution is purely along refined and elevating lines.

Eugenie Le Blanc, the nimble-footed lassie, will add piquancy and dash to the bill with her versatile entertainment.

Latest motion pictures also are included.

IDORA PARK

It is anticipated that a great crowd of out-door fun lovers will attend Idora Park today. Of course the numbers will not measure up to those of last Tuesday when THE TRIBUNE played host to many thousands, but the manifold attractions of this beautiful spot will undoubtedly serve to bring out a big attendance.

As the mercury continues to ascend in the tube the attendance increases at a rate highly gratifying to the management.

During the past two or three weeks the numbers that have entered the turn stile at "Oakland's Park Beautiful," has shown a substantial increase over past seasons.

Each year Idora Park is the spot selected for a number of picnic and outing parties. During the summer months of this season a great number of societies, lodges and fraternal organizations have made arrangements to spend the afternoon and evening at Oakland's big pleasure resort.

Of course the numerous and noved concessions and the elaborate fun making devices are attracting a goodly share of small coins. The mammoth skating rink continues to pull and the season promises to be a record breaker to devotees of this popular and healthful sport.

COLUMBIA

In the heart of the wondrous land of Egypt, in the ruined Temple of Luxor, the mecca of tourists, the plot of "In Mummy Land," this week's offering of the Columbia, is laid. The comedy is by Adam Hull Shirk, author of "The Aviators," and "The Broncho Busters," which were produced by Dillon and King with much success.

"In Mummy Land" concerns the adventures of Mike and Ike in Tgypt. Mike is a professor of Egyptology and Ike is his assistant. They encounter Saba El Rank, an ancient Egyptian who has lived through the ages like Phra, the Phoenician. He has a magic staff which they secure and by its means cause Cleopatra, the serpent of the Nile, to rise from her sarcophagus and breathe again. Then the fun commences. Mike's wife objects to Cleopatra who takes the professor for her long lost Anthony. Situations pile upon situations and the play ends in a scream.

Special scenery representing the ruins of Luxor has been prepared. Several unique sets of Egyptian costumes will be worn by the Ginger Girls while the musical program will be of high order. Dillon and King will appear as the professor and his assistant; Frank Bonner has a grotesque role as Saba, the old Nile dweller; Charlie Reilly will interpret an English tourist, madly in love with Daisy Perkins an American girl portrayed by Miss Clair Starr. The sumptuous character of Cleopatra, Queen of the Nile, has been entrusted to Maude Beatty. Miss Hazel Gottung will supply much comedy in the role of Mrs. Dooley, Mike's wife.

The Ginger Girls will appear to advantage as Egyptian maidens and all in all, "In Mummy Land," which has its premier performance this afternoon, should prove delightful.

An old-time case, where mistaken identity sent a famous Frenchman to the guillotine is shown in pictures at the Oakland Photo Theater. One of the interesting things about this spectaculir photoplay is that it is true, and one of the terrible things about it is that it could and very probably does happen in these days. "The Orleans Coach" is a startling motion picture, produced by the Pathe Company in three acts, a play that depicts a true story at the very places where this tragedy occurred over a century ago.

These were the days when the great Napoleon Bonaparte was only a struggling lieutenant in the French army, with never a thought that in a few short years he would be the master of Europe. Already the rumblings of the downtrodden peasantry had assumed a menacing form. France was in the throes of the bloodiest revolution that has ever been written into the history of any nation. A few years before the unambitious Louis XVI and his Queen Marie Antoinette were borne in the blood stained trumbril, that same two-wheeled cart that had carried so many of the aristocracy to their doom, to their deaths upon the scaffold. "The Sans-Culottes" had become mighty, the law a mockery. Slight pretexts were sufficient to send brave men and women into the great beyond.

The tale of "The Orleans Coach" is the story of a mistaken identity. An innocent man looked like another man, an arch criminal—the former lost his head under the gleaming guillotine, and the villain escaped. Jean Roussel was the victim of that ever-present judicial perplexity; "circumstantial evidence." It is a story that is as well known to the European, as is the story of Alexander Hamilton to every American. It has been told many, many times and thousands of French men and women have dropped a tear at the thought of the inexorable fate of an honorable man.

If Jean Roussel had never taken his daughter to dine at the restaurant in Paris, he would perhaps never have been seen by that sly crook, Nickolet. This villain observed the exact likeness between Roussel and that other criminal, Gasnier by name. If he had never gone to that restaurant, these villains would never have known that the good Roussel was going to visit his father, whose wayside inn lay along the road of the Orleans Coach route. If Napoleon's armies had not been battling in Italy, the

WHAT NEXT?

IS THIS WIERD "SHADOW DANCE" EXECUTED BY PRETTY, SUPPLE MRS. CARL PREETORIUS, OF CHICAGO TO FEED THE NATIONAL MANIA FOR CLASSIC DANCING?

SPINNING the wheel of terpischorean progress around one more division we find the "shadow dance" under the indicator.

"And what is the shadow dance?" you may ask.

The same question was asked when Gertrude Hoffman created so much stir with her "Salome"; the same question was asked when the turkey trot first made its bow on the "Barbary coast," or any other old place where it originated or was said to have originated.

Some weeks ago London was agog over the "shadow dance." Now a Chicago woman—Mrs. Carl Preetorius—has danced it. She dresses in somber, darksome robes, dances in a dark room with special lighting effects, and displays the human emotions in shadow, a weird and unusual effect being produced. She recently danced it for the entertainment of the friends of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour at her Lake Forest villa.

"Dance of Spirit" Idealistic.

It promises to become the rage—professionally. While it is not a dance that everybody might indulge in, as the turkey trot, it will no doubt reach almost as wide popularity in a short time.

In the "dance of the spirit," Mrs. Preetorius attempts to give the human emotions and experiences a spiritual interpretation. Her form is lovely, she is graceful, lithe, beautiful, and silent as she glides from one pose to another, all representing some phase of human life or emotion. Every muscle and tendon of her body has been so perfectly trained and responds so accurately to her command that at times she seems to be the living essence of grief or joy. Hers is the idealistic dance, representing the spirit or soul to which the body responds.

Her costume is the extreme of simpleness. It has the long, straight lines of the Greek tunic, but so cleverly has it been fashioned of some soft, diaphanous material that it takes on the lines of her figure as she sways from one lovely pose to another, accentuating the beauty of her form. It is longer than the tunic worn by the interpretative dancer, which reaches only to the knee. It sometimes trails on the floor, lengthening still more the already long lines of her body.

Mrs. Preetorius believes that silk stockings and dancing shoes hamper the artistic dancer, so she dances in her bare feet. She does not wear a jewel of any kind. There is nothing to attract the eye away from the head, body, and limbs, which she depends upon to interpret clearly the soul's pilgrimage. She does not depend upon eccentric costumes and fantastic oriental jewels for unique effects.

Isadora Duncan Her Inspiration.

"Isadora Duncan inspired me to study the dancing art," said Mrs. Preetorius. "Her Greek dances interested me intensely. Of course, in a way I have borrowed some of her ideas of the dance, but I feel that I have gone farther in the art than Miss Duncan. She has a splendid mind and correct ideals, but her body lacks the necessary exquisite training that is necessary to express and carry out those ideals. In other words, her body does not entirely respond to her mind, and the interpretation is not always clear—it cannot possibly be without perfect physical control.

"Ruth St Denis, on the other hand, has a perfect muscular control. She holds you in the chains of supple muscles and movements of the arms and head that tell a hundred tales. My lessons with her helped me wonderfully. However, I feel that Miss Ruth St. Denis limits her art by dancing only the Hindu and Egyptian dances. They do not allow of much originality. There are certain set standard and technique from which she never gets away.

"Her 'Dance of the Five Senses,' the 'Padha dance,' and the 'Parda are all wonderful. But the modern dance of today in its highest form is even more wonderful, for it allows of more inspirational work and originality.

Modern Dance Wonderful.

"The 'Shadow dance' or 'Dance of the Spirit' is essentially modern. It is interpretative dancing in its way; it interprets the emotions, the moods, and the soul. It is more spiritual than realistic."

Mrs. Preetorius interprets music by showing the story the composer endeavored to tell in his composition. She suggests an ethereal spirit rather than a goddess. The orchestra does not accompany her. she is a part of the music, so completely does she enter into the dance. At times she seems to float in the air. There is a lightness about her dancing that is unusual. The observer frequently feels that she is treading upon air instead of solid substance. Like a spirit from another world, she sways from one graceful position to another, always changing, sometimes tragic, sometimes gay, but graceful and unearthly at all times.

Mrs. Preetorius says that the shadow dance is an interpretative dance in every sense of the word. Unlike the dancers of most classic dances, she drapes her figure in sombre black, the effect being striking in the extreme when fantastic lights are thrown over her moving figure She interprets the music of various masters in her movements and bars from famous pieces.

Chicago society, ever ready to take up a new and popular diversion has signified its intention of accepting the shadow dance—as an entertainment. It is a novelty in that it is grewsome and wierd. The dancer allows her hair to hang loose, her robes are long and hang in deep folds about her body.

Gossip About Makers of Books and Their Work

The Macmillan Company has been answering the call of the public for good literature, and it has been sending out some of the best books of the year. A book destined to have a great influence in the social progress of the nation is entitled "Woman and Social Progress." It bids fair to be a companion picture to Olive Schreiner's "Woman and Labor," which last year became one of the standards in the literature of the world, profoundly affecting public opinion.

The book "Woman and Social Progress," issued this month by the Macmillans is by Scott Nearing of the University of Pennsylvania, and by Nellie M. S. Nearing, a graduate of Bryn Mawr and of the University of Pennsylvania. It is a discussion of the biologic, domestic, industrial and social possibilities of American women. There is not a mother in the land who should not make the contents of this book her own, and certain chapters may be read many times, among them the discussions on "The New Leisure for Women," "The Home Training of the Girl," "The Opportunities Before American Women," "The American Woman's Choice," "Women and the Future," "Women as Spenders." In the introduction by the authors we read:

"The American woman is unique. In England she is envied; on the Continent she is revered. Nowhere else in the world, except possibly in Australia, does her counterpart exist. The distinctive position of the American woman is the outcome of four factors:

"1. Opportunity of education.

"2. Freedom in choosing occupation.

"3. Legal equality.

"4. Abundance of leisure.

"Because of these four advantages the American woman is the first woman in the history of modern civilization who can 'sass back' and maker her 'sass' good. Her father does not own her. Her husband may not kill her, sell her, or even beat her. She has been educated to believe that she is as good as any man. She has been sufficiently trained to be able to earn a living; she has numerous opportunities for gainful employment; she is therefore self-reliant, and economically independent.

"If she chooses, on the other hand, to maintain a home, she is well fitted for the task. Equality, education and leisure place within her reach the possibility of become an effective homekeeper and a mother.

"The American woman, as an independent human being, is presented with the opportunity to contribute, in many different spheres, her share towards social progress.

"While man's activities for the next century are definitely determined, woman's activities are, on the contrary, a matter of great uncertaintity. Woman's capacity is the great undirected force in modern society. The sphere of domestic activity and motherhood is limited to married women, who contribute less than sixty per cent of the women fifteen years of age and over in the United States. The remainder—the girl before marriage, the woman who never marries and the woman who, for some reason, is forced after marriage to earn her living—await direction in their occupational choices.

"On half the race cannot efficiently do the work of the world, hence woman much contribute her society to social progress. The American woman stands at the parting of the ways. The old world of subjection and dependence lies behind her. Before her opens the new world of individual development and achievement. Her opportunities for training have never been equalled; her opportunities for activity are daily enlarging."

One of the most important discussions is along the line of domestic service, a theme that is admirably considered:

FOUR POSSIBILITIES.

"Domestic service presents four possibilities.

"1. It may become a profession, performed by a trained group.

"2. It may be taken over by a menial class.

"3. People may live in apartments.

"4. They may have their work done co-operatively.

"There seems to be no other solution. If domestic service is made a profession; if the hours are reasonable, the conditions fair, the pay good; if the meniality is eliminated, then the housewife may expect a group of high class servants, her equals in education and refinement, who will do her work as the bookkeeper does the work for her husband—as a professional matter. On the other hand, the housekeeper may insist on her 'prerogatives.' Then she may expect to develop a servile class. This class will be inferior to the professional class in every sense of the word, and as figs seldom form on thistles, it will seldom do good reliable work.

"Two plans of co-operative housekeeping present themselves as alternatives to this ugly dilemma. Families may live in apartments, eating in a common dining room, of food prepared by a highly paid corps of chefs, depending on the servants of the apartments for their service; or they may live in individual houses, and have the cooking, cleaning and heating done on a co-operative basis. Thus far the first of these two plans has been the one generally adopted. Men then supplant women in domestic service, and domestic work becomes a profession for them.

"There is one ray of clear, bright light on this dismal horizon—that is the advent of the mother's helper. She is a girl with a high school education, often a trained kindergartener; she takes care of the children primarily, and sometimes of the home. She is not a servant, but a member of the family—the equal of the children and the parents. The mother's helper has a distinctive vocation, for which she is prepared, and in which she has a position as definite as that of the girl who runs a typewriter in an office or a loom in a factory.

"The near future should see a widespread introduction of this "mother's helper" into American households. Perhaps you may be willing to entrust the management of your household to an uneducated, uncultured woman, but if you respect the future welfare of your children, you dare not entrust them to a person who is not in a position to associate both with you and with them, on a basis of perfect equality. No servant is competent to care for, or watch over your children. If you cannot do all the work yourself, and few mothers can do it adequately, demand a young woman of ability, trained to the management of children and of household affairs. Such a demand of the mothers, wisely met by the schools, should pay a leading role in solving the servant problem.

"School courses should be developed to produce, on the one hand, well trained cooks, and on the other hand, trained mother's helpers. Both professions are of the utmost importance—the former to the vitality of the nation—the latter to its future. Perhaps only one woman in twenty-five can afford a mother's helper. Certainly less than one man in twenty-five has a stenographer. Nevertheless, if stenography can be made a profession paying $7, $8, 10 and $15 a week, the wise rearing of children can be put on a level at least as high as that of running a typewriter and at wages commensurate with the service rendered.

"In these two branches of domestic service—cooking and child caring—there is a wide range of opportunity for American women. Both trades are skilled, and both can be made of fundamental value to the future of the American people. Only when the domestic servant loses her stigma of servility and becomes an employe able to maintain her self-respect, dignity, and independence, will the trained worker be induced to enter domestic service.

AS FOR THE BOYS.

The cry used to ring out incessantly, "What shall we do with our boys?" The refrain from the girls now echoes through the land "What shall I do?"

Girls come home from college—and what are they to do? "To keep mother company," some one answers, but mother finds that situation a great bore, neither will she relinquish the reins of the household over which she has ruled wisely and well.

And there is mother herself to be considered, when the last child has been safely sent off to college. What is she to do with the leisure which stares her in the face. She is a far better companion for her husband, in their later years together, for the far horizon which both may have, for the outlook beyond the home. The book recognizes that "new spirit" which is moving everywhere.

In the chapter on "Women as Selectors" we read:

"For the men who are looking deeper than surface indications, women must be worthy in the true sense of the word. They must be individualized and boast some positive attainments. This rising standard is true in the case of men, but it is even truer in the case of women. The traditional woman married in order to be married. The high school and college trained girl of today marries to secure a good mate. The traditional woman was forced to marry, either from the necessity of relieving her father of the burden of her support, or of escaping the disgrace of single blessedness. The educated girl of today goes to work, when her education is finished, and waits until a man appears who is really worthy of her. If he never appears, she remains single. Women are setting a standard for men, socially, intellectually, morally; and the men who fall below that standard must be content with less worthy women.

"Selection, through parenthood, determines the characteristics which will be possessed by the new generation. Within certain limits, women are the selectors, and in so far as this relation holds, they determine the heredity of the race. Women therefore hold in their hands the opportunity to interpret selective mating and parenthood in terms of race culture and progress. While each woman's field of selection is limited, within that field lies a great opportunity for service. Should women maintain their present standards of worth, and continue to demand the same standards of men; should they use their selective power to bring together the noblest and best in each generation; then they may decide to transmit to the future the noblest and best of the present age."

In the concluding chapter one reads:

"Some occupation woman should have, the nature of which can be determined only by her special aptitudes. There are two alternative occupations open to women, first, motherhood, and second, some form of industrial pursuit. Neither occupation is exclusive of the other and most women should, at different periods of their lives engage in both of them."

"Women and Social Progress" should constitute a text book in our leading universities, and many fathers would find it truly uplifting, in helping them to decide what is best for their daughters.

TITLE CHOSEN FIRST.

It is seldom that the title of a book is chosen before the book itself is written, yet such was the case with "The Broken Bell," by Marie Van Vorst. Close to Miss Van Vorst's summer home in the hills near Rome there stands a large Franciscan monastery, the bell of which Miss Van Vorst could hear plainly as it rang the Angelus, or summoned the friars to chapel or choir. One day while it was ringing it cracked, and then was heard no more. The guardian of the monastery explained to Miss Van Vorst that they had sent it to the foundry, where it was being recast, and that soon it would be ringing as sweetly as ever. "Yes," replied the novelist, "that is just the way with a woman's heart. It is broken today, but an entire change of circumstances will recast it, and it will be just as good as ever." The fancy pleased her, and around it she wove her most delightful novel, which she has called "The Broken Bell."

Miss Marie Van Vorst has written "The Broken Bell." It is just what the public has long wanted to fill the void left by the death of Marion Crawford. It is full of sunshine and the snow of high mountains, color and the glow of high passions. It treats a poignant problem of love and marriage which it brings to an ethical conclusion.

The local color is very fascinating. It is this which lent the charm to Mrs. Humphrey Ward's "Eleanor," and it is the Italian setting which made so many of Marion Crawford's books successful. For instance one stands with Marie Sant Alcione in the gardens of San Marcello.

"Before them stretched some hundred feet of old cloister garden. Over the marble fountain in the center grew the abundant, clinging, roving, nesting, flowering vines. Through the brilliant leaves here and there the vivid color of the old stone basin shone out and the worn curb gleamed like glass. Orange, mandarin, laurel and olive trees, bent with age and ruin filled the quadrangle, and at the east corner an umbrella pine, perfect in its plumy velvet crest, reached toward the upper arches of the second story.

"On three sides of the garden stretched the cloisters and their arches, the white and yellow stucco flaking off here and there, the colors vague, in tones as soft as those of Egyptian monuments; and along the west rose the high balcony, its terrace, its railings, its windows and balustrades in tender tones of white and pink."

All through the book are the most beautiful sketches of Italian scenery gracing the deeper notes of the book, those chapters which tell the story of [illegible] love which has come to Maria, and which she has conquered. And then we come to one of the most uplifting chapters in the book, "The Way to Happiness." And lo, the contessa has returned to her home, and we seem to hear the message so true, now as of old, "and a little child shall lead them." The countess is again in her home in Naples.

GOLD OF AUTUMN.

"The hillside golden with autumn, the gold of the vineyards, the gold of the light itself, glowed under her eyes like a ripe fruit. The beautiful room full of flowers, sweet with the scent of violets, had the air of being inhabited by some one who loved its environment, of being the home of a woman who is happy, and who is at peace. Between her fingers the contessa swung to and fro a golden rubber orange on its string before the eyes of a child who sat on her knees, whose hands clutched at the yellow wonder; the baby's laugh was sweet as little bells. He was a vigorous child, less ethereal and exquisite than little Landro, a child to live, to endure, to struggle up, to sustain his family and his race."

And Father Faversham, the delightfully holy man of God comes in to tell Maria that the broken bell has been recast and that its tones are once more exquisitely sweet.

"Contessa," said the priest suddenly leaning forward, "there are as many ways to happiness in this world as there are human souls, believe me. Every soul would find its own bliss if it would walk in its individual road, praying God. There are those who disgrace their ideals, of course, some of us in the belief that desire is happiness, that gratification is pleasure, soil ourselves in vain. There are those whose minds and hearts are so clean that only purity and goodness can ever give them any peace. There are women," he lowered his voice, watching her face as it bent over the child, "who because they are sacred, lay down their luxury and their pleasure, their love and their passion at the feet of goodness, whether they found happiness or not the Book did not say, I think they did, I believe they did."

Marie's arms were around her child; her fact was intent, there was a purity about her expression, softened by its motherhood, etherealized by its renunciation.

"And you," Father Faversham said, "are one of the sacred women."

STORY OF SCHOOL LIFE.

The average boy needs books for his summer reading and boys and men alike will enjoy Brewer Corcoran's story of school life, "The Bantam," for most men are boys at heart, and we can all enter unreservedly into the spirit of youthful adventure. "The Bantam" has just been published by the Harpers.

The author's true appreciation of character, and of manhood in the making, appeals to something deeper than the sense of fun. Mr. Corcoran has portrayed the boys and young men of St. Jo's with engaging naturalness. They are as enterprising and as much in love with life as a group of Homeric heroes. Their frank, slangy talk is a constant delight. The reader chuckles over the swagger, the self-assertion, the cruel candor which gives a spice to jolly good-fellowship; but he laughs with, not at, the youngsters, and in his heart, perhaps, rather envies them. We are inclined to take them as seriously as they take themselves — a sign that the author has portrayed them with understanding.

The Bantam is Charlie Fitzhugh, son of a general who has won distinction in the Philippines and elsewhere — one of the "old boys" of St. Jo's whose name and fame are traditions of the school. Fitzhugh has a hard time at first, runs athwart customs, is hazed, and has one or two notable fights. The story of how he makes good and wins the right to his father's old nickname of Vic takes strong hold upon the sympathy, and it is varied by many enlivening escapades. Incidentally, the account of a football game in this story, and the description of the boat race in which Fitzhugh, as coxswain, bullies and encourages the crew to victory are of the kind that make the reader's nerves tingle as if he were looking on at real contests.

Mr. Corcoran as a boy went to St. Paul's much as the hero of "The Bantam" went to St. Jo's, and he writes with that reminiscent zest which cannot be imitated.

WILLIAMSON BOOK.

The new Williamson book, "The Guests of Hercules," according to all authorities, gives one of the most accurate pictures of Monte Carlo and its life, in modern literature. As an instance, in its review of the book The London Graphic says in part:

"Novels whose scenes are set in the principality of Monaco are mainly remarkable for their inaccuracy, a statement which is as sweeping as it is true. Almost inevitably does the author in his description of the colossal wins and losses of the hero or heroine—or villain or villainess—fall into some error which makes his book ridiculous to those who have any knowledge of the games which makes the tiny principality that unique corner of the earth that it continues to remain. . . . It is not for nothing that C. N. and A. M. Williamson have spent so many winters on the Azure coast, and the result of their observation is to be found condensed in this story, which is the truest, most accurate Riviera novel ever offered to the public."

The review also notes the significance of the title of the book, which is derived from the ancient legend that Hercules made the mountains of Monaco his home.

It is one of the most successful books sent out this year by Doubleday, Page & Co.

GALSWORTHY A SUCCESS.

John Galsworthy is one of the most successful of our modern English writers, consequently his opinions are of extreme interest. The Bookbuyer writes of him:

"There is little trace of the influence of Dickens in John Galsworthy's 'The Patrician' or his other novels, yet he sets Dickens above all other English novelists. 'Dickens was distinctly the biggest novelist we have ever had,' he declared in a recent interview. 'He was a "reformer" in the sense that he had a great influence. His books resulted in a distinct increase of humane and broad-minded feeling in the community. But "reformer" is an awkward word. What Dickens did was to sweep away the cobwebs. He was the great scourge of Bumbledom.' The Englishman smiled again. 'You know what I mean by Bumbledom? Official red tapeism, and all that.

"'Dickens was so big, so broad-minded. Novel writing has made progress in mere art since Dickens' time. He sinned against all the little canons of art, but he was big enough to stand that. He was the biggest man we have ever had. His personality, his love of people—these were so great and so broad. And Dickens has stood the test of time. He is as readable now as he was when his books were written. And that in itself is a tremendous tribute to Dickens' scope.

"'Thackeray, too, was a big man—not so big as Dickens, but a big man none the less. Time cannot destroy him, either.

"'George Eliot has never interested me much. I can't say why I don't like her books, but somehow I don't. I can take up a novel of Dickens or Thackeray at any time and become lost in it. But I can't do that with George Eliot. I don't find her interesting.

"'Of Thomas Hardy I don't care to speak, because he is still living. As for George Meredith, he was a big man who, to my mind, would have been bigger if he had not let his poetry invade his prose so hopelessly. I think that is where the responsibility lies for Meredith's obscurity.'

"Not in 'The Patrician' surely is there anything Dickensian, but perhaps now and then there is in the sketches and studies of 'A Mother' and certainly, though true creations of the writer, those delightful vagabonds of 'The Pigeon' would feel very much at home in the Dickens world of characters.

ALMOST REAL PERSON.

Molly Carter, the delightfully luscious heroine of "The Melting of Molly," is almost a real person in Nashville, Tenn., which is the home of Maria Thompson Daviess, the author. Many of Miss Daviess' friends read the book while it was still in manuscript form, and on St. Valentine's day Miss Daviess received several boxes of flowers and candy addressed to "Mrs. Molly Carter." Miss Daviess, who enjoys working in her garden, and who finds it a first-class weight-reducer, says that had she made Molly do more of the same kind of work she would have "melted" faster.

"Freckles," the first "best seller" written by Gene. Stratton-Porter, whose subsequent books, "A Girl of the Limberlost" and "The Harvester," have likewise enjoyed tremendous success, has been dramatized and for the last two weeks has been making a very successful tour of New York state. After the play has been thoroughly tried out, it will be given a metropolitan production. The appealing story has lost nothing by the dramatization and big things are predicted for it. Mrs. Stratton-Porter's new book, "Moths of the Limberlost," is scheduled for publication in June.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Frederick A. Stokes Company sends out some literary notes this month that are of exceeding interest. In regard to social systems of colleges we read:

"Owen Johnson, whose incisive remarks in 'Stover at Yale' on the college secret societies started something of a controversy, has begun a series of articles in Collier's called 'The Social Usurpation of 'Our Colleges.' He maintains that Yale, Harvard, Princeton and other colleges are becoming largely 'social clearing houses,' so that the man with a college degree may be distinguished from the 'mere masses.' Mr. Johnson is himself a Yale graduate. He declares that his crusade has the support of men like Senator Beveridge and Woodrow Wilson.

"The majority of the members of Owen Johnson's class, Yale, 1900, according to a poll taken by 'The Yale News,' agree with his criticisms in 'Stover at Yale' upon the social organization of the university, especially the fraternity and society system.

"Postal cards with three questions were sent to the 300 members of the class, and 56 replies were received. The first question was, 'Do you think the story "Stover at Yale" a true impression of Yale at that time—1900?' Nineteen answered 'yes' and nineteen answered 'no,' the others expressing qualified opinions.

"The second was: 'Do you think the attacks on the social system just or unjust?' Twenty-eight answered 'yes' and eight 'no.' The third was: 'Do you think Stover was justified in his attitude of antagonism toward the societies?' Twenty-six answered 'yes' and twelve 'no.'

"Another novel by Robert Hichens has been made into a successful play, for 'Bella Donna' has just been staged in London, with Mrs. Patrick Campbell as leading lady, and elaborate settings showing the Nile country. At the same time, the play from Hichens' 'Garden of Allah' has been a success in New York, and several managers are considering his latest book, 'The Fruitful Vine,' for dramatization, particularly because of the intensity of Hichens' expression of woman's mother love as shown therein.

"It is generally supposed that volumes of short stories, even by well-known writers, never sell, but Edna Ferber's first volume of tales, called Buttered Side Down,' has gone into a second printing, a short time after its publication. At the same time, her novel, 'Dawn O'Hara,' published a year ago, has a steady sale, and has just gone into a sixth printing, though it was a 'first novel.'

"This seems to be a day of 'serious books.' Olive Schreiner's 'Woman and Labor' sells as continually as when published a year ago. It has gone into a sixth printing. Madame Montessori's own book, 'The Montessori Method,' describing her system of scientific pedagogy, had to be reprinted immediately after publication.

"Though published three years ago, in the spring of 1909, Susan Glaspell's 'Glory of the Conquered,' has just been reprinted for the fourteenth time."

SAUSAGE MADE WOMAN INSANE

Neurologist Declares Gluttony Is Frequent Cause for Mania.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 15.—That one may be intoxicated by gluttony to the point of insanity was the declaration of Dr. Thomas Williams, a neurologist, of Washington, D. C., who addressed the American Medico-Psychological Association.

Not only did the physician hold to this radical view, but he cited a case where he had effected a cure of violent mania by changing the diet of a woman glutton so that she should have plenty to eat, but of foodstuffs that would not have an intoxicating effect.

Doctor Williams said that he studied this case at the York Retreat, at York, England, in 1907, and that since then he has studied other cases fully, verifying his conclusions. He said that in speaking of intoxication he was not referring to liquors in any way, but to the toxic effect of certain foods on certain persons. He said the adage, "One man's food is another's poison," is scientifically accurate.

Dieting had been tried with the glutton in York, but the woman would get the toxic or poisonous foods on the sly. One food that intoxicated her and brought on a spell of insanity was pork sausages. Doctor Williams said he removed the sausages and let the patient partake of foods that did not contain the same toxic germs. She was permitted to eat to repletion. Her spells of insanity had been two months apart, but when the two months passed there was no return of the mania, and after abstaining three months more from sausages she was completely cured.

Doctor Williams' paper was upon "Pathogenic Factors of Mental Disorders." One of the factors was food intoxication and another factor was imaginary hallucinations. A boy 8 years old fancied a wild animal big as a tiger leaped upon his back. Doctor Williams argued with the boy and convinced him that this was imaginary and that he could not bear up against the tiger. He got him to try it for a half block at first, then lengthened this to a full block, and so on until the child was cured.

At the Theaters

Orleans Coach would not have been carrying huge sums of money and Roussel would have been saved if—but, there are so many "ifs" connected with the robbery of the "Orleans Coach," that only the seeing of this remarkable portrayal can possibly convey an idea of the tremendous workings of fate. The inexorable march of events reads like fiction but, that "truth is often stranger than fiction" was never better exemplified than in this tragedy.

The atmosphere of the "days of terror," the costuming and scenes have been excellently obtained by the Pathe players. Many of the scene have been re-enacted upon the very spots where occurred the dramatic events. The length of the film gives full scope and opportunity of presenting the complete tale in easily understood detail. Never before has the opportunity been given to Americans to so well appreciate conditions as they existed under the First French Republican regime.

The film will be unfolded for the first time today at the Oakland Photo Theatre. Performances will be given tomorrow and Tuesday, June 17 and 18, thus finishing the exclusive engagement for the city of Oakland. Special effects are already under full headway to complete a brilliant and noteworthy musical program to accompany this picture.

MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT.

Next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 23, 24 and 25, the Edison Company of players will enact their latest three-act photo play entitled "Martin Chuzzlewit," adapted from Charles Dickens' famous novel, the story of which has been read by thousands of lovers of this famous author's works. Its presentation is most timely, this year, being the year of Charles Dickens' centenary. Much effort and time is being devoted to the selection and rehearsing of a special musical program best adapted to this latest masterpiece.

ALCAZAR

"The Deep Purple" enters on its second and final week at the Alcazar Theater beginning tomorrow evening. The production has been in every sense a happy one. The presence in the company supporting Richard Bennett of Ada Dwyer and Mabel Morrison who originated roles in the New York presentation and the capable manner in which Belasco and Mayer's players took hold of their parts assured the play an additional week's run.

Among those in the company who have been much praised for individual work is Louis Bennison whose able characterization has placed him on a plane almost level with the star and has earned him much commendation.

The County of Alameda, through the Board of Supervisors, reserves the right to use in the several departments of the county government greater or less quantities than enumerated in the proposals and schedules should the public interests so require, bids to be awarded to the person or persons whose bid is the lowest on any item or items.

The Board of Supervisors also, in considering any bids, reserves the right to reject any and all proposals should the public interest so require.

Samples where required are to be presented for examination by the Board of Supervisors at the Board room, the same to be properly marked with name of bidder and schedule number. Samples submitted by successful biders to become the property of county without cost, county to have right to deduct amounts due contractors for any claims that may accrue through breach of contracts.

No bid will be considered unless made upon said schedules nor unless accompanied by certified check payable to the order of John P. Cook, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, certified to by some responsible bank for an amount which shall not be less than 10 per cent of the aggregate amount of the proposal or proposals which it accompanies.

Said check to be forfeited to the County of Alameda, as agreed and liquidated damages, should the party or parties to whom the contract shall be awarded fail to enter into the contract within ten (10) days after the award or fail to give a bond required by the Board for the faithful performance of the contract.

All bids must be inclosed in sealed envelopes, addressed to the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County, and be indorsed on the envelope furnished by the clerk, "Proposals for furnishing supplies for the County of Alameda, required by the various departments of the county government," giving the general name and number as on the schedules or as otherwise provided in schedules.

Dated, June 10, 1912.

JOHN F. MULLINS,
Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, Alameda County, California.
JOHN P. COOK,
Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

LEGAL NOTICES

Important Notice to Voters of Registration

Office of John P. Cook, County Clerk, Oakland, Alameda County, California.

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of section 1094 of the Political Code of the State of California, all voters of Alameda County must apply for re-registration in order to be able to vote at the primary election to be held on September 3, 1912, and for the general election to be held on the 5th day of November, 1912.

Owing to the fact that there is no provision of law granting assistance to the County Clerk in the registration of voters, it is important that voters should apply for registration at once, in order to expedite the work.

Such re-registration began on the first day of January and will be in progress at all times until August 3d, 1912, for the purpose of enabling voters to qualify for the primary election, after which registration will again open and continue until October 5th, 1912, for the purpose of enabling voters to qualify for the general election to be held November 5th, 1912.

The attention of voters is especially directed to the recent decision of the supreme court, in which it is held that all voters must have registered this year in order to join in the signing of any certificate of nomination in behalf of any candidates for public office to be voted for at the primary election, to be held September 3d, 1912.

Attention is further directed to the following provisions of the Political Code of the State of California, relating to registration:

Section 1097. No person's name must be entered by the Clerk unless:

1. Upon the production and filing of a certified copy of the judgment of the Superior Court directing such entry be made.

2. If a naturalized citizen, upon the production of his certificate of naturalization, which certificate must be issued ninety days prior to the succeeding election, or upon his affidavit that it is lost or out of his possession, which affidavit must state the place of his nativity, and the time and place of his naturalization, together with his affidavit that he has resided in the United States for five years, and in this State for one year next preceding the time of application, and that he would be an elector of the county, or city and county at the next succeeding election; provided, however, if such naturalized citizen shall have been previously registered as a qualified elector in any of the counties or cities and counties of this State, and shall produce a certificate of such registration, issued by the party authorized by law to issue such certificate, which shall recite the time and place of naturalization of such elector, such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of his naturalization. In the event that such naturalized citizen shall state in his affidavit that he was naturalized in the county or city and county in which he seeks to register, or in the event that he was previously registered within the preceding eight years within the county or city and county in which he seeks to register, and his certificate of naturalization has not been revoked, he shall not be required to produce his certificate of naturalization, nor to make such affidavit of lost certificate in lieu thereof, provided, however, that in any county or city and county where the affidavits of registration have been destroyed by fire or conflagration, or other public calamity, the above stated provision as to previous registration within the preceding eight years shall in such county or city and county, apply only for such number of years past as there shall exist a record of previous registration, and not to exceed in any event said eight years.

3. If born in a foreign country, upon his affidavit that he became a citizen of the United States by virtue of the naturalization of his father while he was residing in the United States, and under the age of twenty-one years, and that he is, or would be an elector of the county at the next ensuing election.

4. In all other cases, upon the affidavit of the party that he is or will be an elector of the county at the next succeeding election. Such affidavit must be made before the county clerk or officer charged with the registration of voters, or their deputy. If any elector is absent from the county in which he claims residence, he may appear before any judge or clerk of any court of record, or notary public, or if in a foreign country, before any minister, consul, or vice-consul of the United States, and make and subscribe an affidavit as to his residence, specifying in what ward or precinct he claims residence; that he will be necessarily and unavoidably absent from said county, or city and county, on all the days allowed by law for general registration of electors, and setting forth in such affidavit each and all the matters required by section one thousand and ninety-six of the Political Code of the State of California, and forward such affidavit, duly authenticated as above, by mail, enclosed in an envelope, addressed to the county clerk of any county, or the registrar of voters in any city and county. Upon receipt of such affidavit by such clerk or registrar of voters within the time allowed by law for registration, it shall entitle the name of such elector to be entered by the clerk in the proper register in such precinct.

5. In every case the affidavit of the party must show all the facts required to be stated in the entry on the register, except the date of the entry.

Further notice is hereby given that affidavits of registration must be sworn to before the County Clerk or his Deputies and that they cannot, owing to the provisions of the registration law, be sworn before any other officer.

The office of the County Clerk will be open for registration until further notice from 9 o'clock a. m. until 5 o'clock p. m. of each day, except Saturdays, on which day the office will close at 12 o'clock noon.

Dated: March 11, 1912.

JOHN P. COOK,
(SEAL) County Clerk.

Poll Tax Notice

Office of the Assessor of Alameda County.

Oakland, March 11, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that the State Poll Tax of two dollars for the year 1912 is now due and payable at the Assessor's office, room one, Court House, or to a Deputy Assessor.

Section 3839 of the Political Code reads as follows:

Every male inhabitant of the State over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, except paupers, insane persons and Indians, must annually pay a Poll Tax of two dollars, provided the same be paid between the First Monday in March and the first Monday in August.

Then it shall be three dollars.

Section 3846 of the Political Code makes it the duty of the Assessor to demand Poll Tax of every person liable therefor, and on the neglect or refusal of such person to pay, he must collect by seizure and sale of any personal property owned by such person.

Under Sections 429 and 435 every person who refuses to give his own name or the name of any person in his employ, or who in any manner obstructs the Assessor or any of his deputies in the collection of the State Poll Tax, is guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine of $500 or imprisonment in the County Jail, or both fine and imprisonment.

Only those persons under twenty-one or over sixty years of age are exempt. Poll tax must be paid on demand.

C. F. HORNER.
Assessor of Alameda County, Oakland, California.

In the country home of her parents in the Santa Cruz mountains, Miss Helen F. Taylor will become the bride of Albert Dentan on Tuesday next. The ceremony will be witnessed only by relatives and a few close friends. The bride will wear a conventional wedding gown, but no veil, and will be attended by her twin sister, Miss Eva Taylor, and two little flower maidens. Following the wedding breakfast, which will be served a lfresco, the bridal pair will leave for Yosemite Valley. On their return they will make their home on Sixty-third street, Oakland, which Denton has prepared for his bride.

Miss Taylor is a graduate of the University of California, and up to the past year has been special instructor in manual training in the Oakland school department. Denton is an examiner in the San Francisco clearing-house.

One of the engagement announcements made a few days ago in New York concerned Miss Louise Knowlton and Buell Hollister.

Miss Knowlton is a sister of Miss Madeline Knowlton, who is to become the bride of John E. Cowdin on the 25th of this month. Mr. and Mrs. John Cheever Cowdin (Florence Hopkins), who left here yesterday to continue their honeymoon abroad, will tarry in New York a while in order to be present at the ceremony.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. Insley Blair (Natalie Knowlton) was one of the fashionable events of metropolitan society last winter, so it would appear that Dan Cupid and the matrimonial bee had met with startling success in the Knowlton-Cowdin-Hopkins families.

Miss Elyse Schultz and Samuel Hopkins will plight their troth on the 26th of June in Trinity church

HOW DO YOU DRESS YOUR FEET?

"Taste should be used Discriminately for Footwear as for Headwear. The Beauty of the Feet is most Important" Says

Lillian Russell

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1912: By Lillian Russell.]

THERE has never been a day when women were not proud of their slim, well turned ankles, and yet the prevailing fashion of white topped boots goes further to disfigure that "well turned ankle" than any other fashion which women may follow.

Women in New York wear the white topped boots without judgment or discretion. You will see a stout woman with overdeveloped ankles walking innocently along Fifth avenue, oblivious to the fact that she is the laughing stock of everybody. Then, again, the white topped boots are often seen worn with a dark short skirt, which gives the effect of shortening the height of any woman.

The only women who can wear white topped shoes becomingly are the thin women with slim, beautiful ankles. And then they should be worn only with white gowns. The same rule should apply to the wearing of white stockings with black low shoes. White stockings, no matter how fine the quality, will add an inch in appearance to the measurement of any ankle excepting when worn with a small toe slipper of satin or kid and with evening dress.

Well Dressed Foot Pleases Men.

Surely some women cannot see their ankles as others see them. I am telling no secret when I say that most men see a woman's foot before they see her hand, and often before they see her face. Nothing pleases a man more than to see a woman with a neat, well dressed foot. Too small shoes are not attractive; the shoes must be long enough to prevent cramping, for a cramped foot causes the ankles to puff and joints to enlarge.

Nothing makes a foot slim and gives strength and suppleness to the ankles so much as plenty of walking. If woolen stockings are worn to cause the feet and ankles to perspire while walking they will become thin and trim. If when returning from such a walk the feet are rubbed with half of a lemon, rubbing in the lemon juice thoroughly, they will become white and will not swell.

A fine, healthy foot, well dressed in a low shoe of the gun metal kid, or even of patent leather, with a plain black silk stocking, pulled well up so that it does not wrinkle around the ankle, is a mark of beauty to any woman. But a white top to a black shoe makes the ankle appear larger than the foot and is most awkward looking.

Taste should be used as discriminately for footwear as for headwear. I am sure that there is a great satisfaction in knowing that one's feet are fine to look at. The beauty of the feet is important. The feet are sometimes small affairs, but if not well treated they have the power to make one most miserable.

Foot Dressing Index of Character.

I have heard men say that they judged a woman's character by her foot dressing. So if you care for man's approval and criticism, be careful about how you dress your feet.

Nature forms every foot on a plan of her own. Mankind seeks to improve its shape by clothing it in habiliments outlined upon an entirely different basis. The result, while possibly temporarily satisfactory to the eye, is eventually productive of deformities, excrescences, sensitiveness, and tenderness; and not the least because the last on the list, a direct connection between the tortured members and the most touchy portion of the temper.

Sensibly considered, nothing of beauty is gained by wearing shoes that are too short or too narrow. There is nothing of grace in the motion of a woman who hobbles along on exaggerated French heels which are built out under the insteps of shoes into which her feet are literally forced. Besides, if her foot is not naturally shapely, thus shod it will soon communicate its ugly outlines to the short, tight shoe, upon which every ungainly curve of the foot is pressing so hard; while if it were clad in one tight over the instep but comfortably loose through the vamp, low in the heel and longer than the foot, the latter would not disclose its imperfections so distinctly, the walk would be more graceful, the wearer more comfortable, and the shoe would much longer retain its original shape.

It is with pleasure that the gradual decadence of the French heel for street wear is chronicled and the adoption of longer shoes with flat heels is observed; for both changes herald a decrease of suffering and an increase of shapeliness.

It is or has been difficult to convince the average woman that a long, slender foot is far prettier and more in accord with classical types such as artists and sculptors love to portray than the chubby, semi-Chinese looking member which they fancy, vainly fancy, is the more attractive foot. Nor has it been an easier matter to persuade them that a greater appearance of slenderness is attained than is really natural to their feet by the wearing of shoes longer than they usually select, but of a size that is one width narrower.

Adherents of Style Increasing.

Every woman of artistic taste loves to have a slender looking foot, and that many are being convinced of the above theory is evident from the increased number of apparently slender feet seen upon the street and the advance in the sales of shoes a size or two longer than those sold for the last few years.

A woman has only to try this experiment in the shop where she buys her shoes to become convinced that her foot is far prettier in a longer, narrower shoe than in the short, broad one she usually buys. For instance, if she has worn a shoe that is No. 3½ in length and C in width, let her ask the salesman to bring her a pair of her usual size and another pair [illegible] length and A or B in width. Upon one foot [illegible] of the first pair and upon the other the [illegible] which must fit tightly over the instep. Then let her judge for herself by all of the varieties of inspection a pretty woman adopts when she selects her boots which of the two looks the better—the short broad boot or the long, slender one.

A long shoe lessens many of the miseries produced by a short one and it need not necessarily be very long to effect such a change.

It may have a pointed toe and a moderately high heel and be as shapely in outline as the daintiest short boot that ever was seen; but it will permit a grace of action and a comfort in that grace that will soothe an irritation of the toes and temper like magic and at the same time present a more fashionable, refined look than the nattiest short shoe that ever was worn.

It peeps from under the skirts with a sort of deception every woman will forgive when she learns that in her long, narrow boot her foot actually looks much smaller than it does in the one whose tips meet those of her shoes and whose vamps seem possessed of a desire to crush the dainty bones and flesh within them or disclose every defect that the feet may possess.

Shoes Too Loose Cause Corns.

The tight shoe wrinkle can always be seen upon the forehead of a woman, no matter how earnestly she strives to banish it, and wrinkles are the depredators of feminine beauty, the most dreaded and the least [illegible].

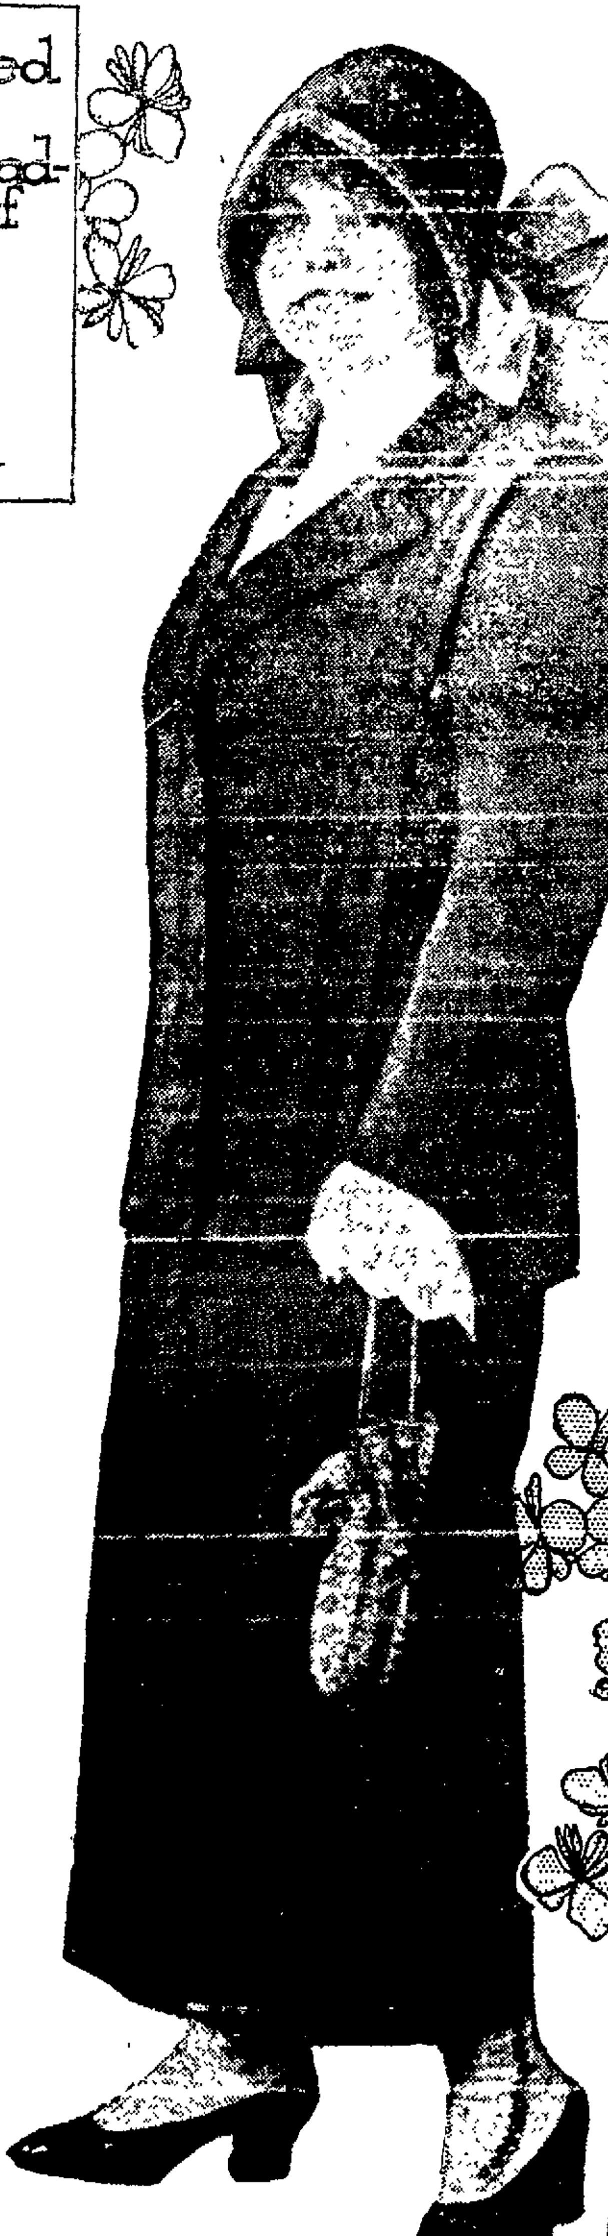
He who claims that corns come from shoes which are too loose has some grounds for his argument since the friction of a shoe that is too large may cause the trouble. Certain it is he will have more advocates of his theory among womankind than the man who affirms that corns result from shoes that are too tight. In a way he is entitled to the majority, for if a shoe is exceedingly tight there is no chance for friction, and the latter is generally conceded to be the chief foundation for corns.

Besides, whoever knew a woman who wore her shoes [illegible]

If the sufferer from corns lives where she can secure the services of a reliable chiropodist, I recommend her to seek him at once for two reasons: First, if he is at all skillful he will immediately relieve the difficulty temporarily and the patient may go forth with a firm and comfortable step instead of the halting, careful one with which she arrived. Besides, she will have gained an insight into the methods employed which will enable her to "treat" her corns herself and thus secure partial immunity from their tortures even though she be remotely situated.

The procedure is painless and [illegible] be called bloodless surgery. A liquid is brushed over the corn which deadens it for the time being, and then with sharp instruments of shapes adapted to the requirements of the difficulty each corn is skillfully pared and softened; then it is "dressed" with a shield cut from chamois, buckskin, or felt and fastened on with strips of adhesive plaster, after which an unguent is applied.

The shield is shaped to the space it is to overlay and has a hole at the center so that the corn itself will not be covered, and its main object is to keep the pressure of the shoe from the corn, thus giving the latter an opportunity of healing. When the unguent has been applied then a piece of adhesive plaster is placed over the hole in the shield to prevent the unguent from rubbing off.



White topped boots should never be worn with dark skirts. They make the ankle appear double its size and have the effect of shortening the height of any one.

If you wish your feet to appear small, always select dark shoes and stockings for your bathing suit.

When you return from a walk rub the soles of the feet with half a lemon.

Do not be guilty of wearing white stockings with black shoes.

Smart walking shoes for traveling and for summer wear.

ANNA: I am afraid you would not be satisfied if you used henna. It would make your hair too red. I wouldn't advise you to dye your hair because you want it to have a reddish glint. However, if you have fully decided to do it I would advise you to go to a reliable beauty shop and have it done by an expert.

HELEN: In order to reduce a fat back, practice with a broomstick, using it as a wand. Hold it always behind the back, raise and lower it, jump with it in your hands, twist and turn and swing it, always working with it behind you. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you a dietary for reducing flesh and the [illegible] exercises for reducing the hips.

MOTHER: If your daughter's hair is thin and will not grow I would advise you to have it "bobbed." This will make it come in thicker. Keep it that way until she is about 8 or 10 years old, then let it grow, and you will see that it comes in heavier. I would not advise you to use anything on it, for she 's too young

As I stood there in all that wondrous void, the projecting stone on which I stood snapped loudly. In another second I was straddling a section of the world and hurtling through space to I knew not whither. Above me the world, which I had but just quitted, grew smaller and smaller, until it finally disappeared.

Thus I rode the stone downward at a frightful pace. Far, far below there loomed a little dark spot, which grew larger with each succeeding mile I dropped. Finally I came upon it, and just before landing I jumped from the stone in order to break the force of my drop. The rock fell upon the object and smashed.

Into a million pieces the rock was broken. Suddenly I realized that the object on which the stone had fallen and upon which I then stood was alive. Two monstrous horns loomed before me, and these I grasped just in time to save myself from slipping off the substance on which I stood as it began to move.

I was getting hungry when, about two miles below, I spotted the earth. We were right over the tunnel which I had dug. Carefully I balanced myself on the tips of the zoobledezowie's horns, dropped, fell into the tunnel and walked home to supper.

The zoobledezowie, I might explain, was about a mile long, somewhat resembled a comet—on the tail of more than one of which I often had ridden—but was covered with huge scales which incessantly showed beautiful prismatic colors. It could wiggle its ears like a donkey, and its mouth resembled a vacant bark. As we dashed hither and thither, I worked myself to a point between his horns close to his eyes and clung on for dear life. We went so fast that an icicle froze to the fire on my cigar.

'Liars, Coyotes, Thieves,' Howls Heney as Committee Stands by President

Threatened Gun Play Stopped by Senators and Sergeants in Council Room

(By W. H. CULVER.)

CHICAGO, June 15.—The national committee made a grand run today and a wonderful finish a little after 8 o'clock tonight. The final lap was a hot one. It was made with Francis J. Heney howling "thieves" and "crooks" at the committee in general and "liar" at James Kennedy of North Dakota in particular, with sergeants-at-arms clustered thickly about him and watching every movement of his right hand towards his hip-pocket.

Regardless of Mr. Heney's colloqural ejaculations, the committee went right along with their work. Heney did not even cause them to wobble from the path.

TAFT GETS 62 VOTES.

When the national committee met at 9 o'clock in the morning, those who had reposed faith in their friends thereon expected those friends to deliver to President Taft 50 delegates for the temporary roll of the national convention.

The national convention did that and more. It delivered to President Taft 62 votes for that said temporary roll-call, or a grand total of 235 delegates to the temporary roll out of a possible 254.

Colonel Roosevelt got for the temporary roll today four delegates out of 66 cases passed on in the course of the day. Added to the 15 they have given him, that gave him a grand total of 19 out of 254.

NEARLY GUN PLAY.

Today was the liveliest of the seven the national committee has sat hearing the long list of contests. And it might easily have been the deadliest. There were no fisticuffs, but Heney gave the lie direct to James Kennedy, the burly member from North Dakota, and everyone was afraid to guess what might have happened if a dozen members and as many assistant sergeants-at-arms had not intervened, and intervened quickly.

STARTS FOR HENEY.

When he got the lie in his face, Kennedy started after Heney, and seemed in a hurry. Heney did not move, but stood steadily, repeating over and over, "You're a liar, you're a liar," as though he meant to set the phrase to music and sing it.

Whether or not he was armed, according to his reputation, no one, perhaps, except the sergeants, who got close in, know. But his hand rested lightly where a revolver ought to be when a rough-and-ready citizen is in full dress. And he seemed to be waiting for something to happen.

Fortunately, the two men were a good distance apart when Kennedy began his rush. That fact gave Senator Boise Penrose an opportunity to block the way with his bulky form and by that time the sergeants had surrounded Heney and 20 members had cornered Kennedy.

The ruction started at the opening of the hearing of the Washington contest. It had been a hard day, and when it at once turned hot, tempers that had been frazzled by the constant bickering and nagging of a week, went to smash.

There was a tentative overnight understanding that the Washington cases—contests for eight seats for the state-at-large and for six district seats—should be consolidated.

Senator Miles Poindexter, representing himself and the other Roosevelt contestants, was willing to consolidate, but he wanted all the time the rules would have allowed for the cases if tried separately to be given him for the consolidated cases. This would have been an hour and a quarter. Charles Dick agreed to be content with 30 minutes for his side. A. M. Stevens moved "that the usual time for consolidated cases be given, namely, 40 minutes to a side.

CALLS THEM "COYOTES."

Heney had been hectoring the Taft men sitting in the committee all day, calling them "thieves" at one time, machine men, hand-picked crooks at another, and again "coyotes." So when he began speaking on the motion with more references to "stealing," "theft" and the like, the Taft side began to hiss him and to talk back.

"You can steal from me, but you can't keep me from telling the people of the country about it," he shouted, and as there were hoots and

Huzzas of Throngs Greeting Which Colonel Receives in Chicago

Breaks Through Files, Saying That He Will Fight to the Finish

(BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE.)

CHICAGO, June 15.—At the very moment the National Committee was taking the last of his Texas delegates away from him, Theodore Roosevelt breezed into Chicago, made his way to the Congress Hotel through a howling, cheering mob and flung defiance of the bosses from a second-story balcony to a crowd that numbered nearly 10,000.

His coming was one of the most dramatic incidents of his picturesque career. Little staging had been done. Few preparations had been made. But ten seconds after the Colonel alighted from the Lake Shore limited at the La Salle street station everybody in Chicago appeared that he knew and converging thousands were blocking every street and avenue within a quarter of a mile of the Coliseum.

COLONEL FOR FIGHT.

In word and in countenance the Colonel was for fight. He spoke of his opponents as thieves, and said they were going to lose. He fought with his own powerful arms for a way through the crowd when he got to the hotel. Flushed of face, with the perspiration dripping from his forehead, he plowed past the jam that blocked the door, grimly declaring that there was but one way to victory, and that was the route by way of battle.

The Colonel's arrival had a depressing effect on his enemies. His

Maxine McDougald Agrees to Leave Max Schwabacher and State

Wealthy Father of Young Man Is Said to Have Made Settlement

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Maxine McDougald, the girl for whom Max Schwabacher, son of Sigmund Schwabacher, faced a world of criticism and lost his beautiful young wife, has "sold out" her affection for the wealthy young man and is about to leave San Francisco for an indefinite stay in Europe. The terms of her compromise with Sigmund Schwabacher who has been trying for a long time to release his son from the McDougald girl's charms, are announced as follows:

Cash, $5000.

All the jewelry which young Schwabacher gave her.

The automobile with which he presented her.

The furniture in Miss McDougald's apartment is for sale and she is expected to take her $5000 and release young Schwabacher at once. One of the requirements of the settlement is that she go to Europe.

Miss McDougald's name was brought into the divorce proceedings which Mrs. Max Schwabacher, who resides at the Fairmont Hotel, brought in August last year. Friends of the couple claimed that the husband was so infatuated with Miss McDougald that he would make no effort to hinder the divorce. Another interesting aftermath of this domestic tragedy is the report that as soon as Mrs. Schwabacher receives her absolute decree she will marry Dr. A. Abrams, a wealthy physician of San Francisco.

SHOWERED KISSES OF DESPAIR

Burning Letters of Countess to Accused Slayer Are Read in Court

'Have Not Flirted Single Moment,' Denotes Lover Was Jealous

ROME, June 15.—So much morbid interest has been raised among women by the Paterno murder trial that the judge has ordered the doors closed during intermissions, when sensation-seekers, by using influence, had managed to obtain a view of the prisoner in his cage. All persons not directly concerned in the trial are excluded.

The reading of the Countess Trigona's letters was concluded today. The defense claimed that one wherein the countess reproached Paterno for refusing her financial aid exonerated him from the accusation of trying to blackmail her.

"REFUTED, MY GUILIA."

When the letter was read Paterno exclaimed:

"I don't mind if I am sent to the convict prison now. The charges of blackmail are refuted by you, my Guilia."

Poignant letters from the murdered countess to her slayer were read. In a letter dated Turin, October 2, 1909, she writes:

"My Adored Enzoi: I feel extremely nervous today and more low-spirited than ever. I miss you terribly, my own Enzoi.

"Enzoi, my own, have pity on me, for I am alone in the world. How miserable I am, how cruelly I suffer. * * * Please, please, pardon me, my Enzoi, but I feel as if my heart were giving way. I live in a state of constant, excruciating anxiety which is slowly undermining me, body and soul.

FRENZY OF DESPAIR.

"My love, my love, who knows what pain I am giving you in writing thus. Pardon me and love me as I love you. I kiss you with the frenzy of despair, thirsting for your love.

"Your own G."

Another letter dated Palermo, December 25, 1909, speaks of one of Paterno's scenes of jealousy during a social gathering and concludes:

"It breaks my heart to leave you, but then I am convinced that you never really cared for me. I wish you every possible and impossible good luck. You have destroyed one of the most beautiful love dreams that ever woman built up. Even from afar I shall always follow you with love and longing. Good-bye, by adored love.

"GIULIA."

ADORED TO MADNESS.

In a third letter, written December 30, 1909, she writes:

"My adored Enzoi—Your sadness tonight has left me sadder than yourself and I am going to bed with a heavy heart. How I longed to comfort you with my caresses and to shower kisses on your lips until a little trace of gladness should have descended upon your exasperated soul. XXXX Good night. In the next letter, which is undated, the countess writes:

23 KILLED IN STORM IN SOUTHWESTERN MISSOURI

Cyclone Sweeps Through Kansas City, Leaving Wreckage in Path

KANSAS CITY, Jun 15.—Twenty-three persons were killed in cyclones in southwestern Missouri this afternoon. Three women, one of whom lives in Kansas City, were killed three miles east of Drexel, Mo., when their house was blown down, burying them in the debris. Five persons, Fred Grover, his brother, Gibbs, and three children by the name of Cameron, were killed near Merwin, Mo. A bunk car belonging to the Kansas City Southern Railway, occupied by Greek track laborers, was blown off the track between Merwin and Drezel and fifteen of the Greeks were killed.

Sweeping across Kansas City from the southwest, a combination cyclone and tornado early tonight did damage estimated at $250,000 to property, killed a boy of nine and injured half a dozen other persons. The greatest damage was done in the east section.

The storm came shortly before 7 o'clock. The wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour. Hail and rain accompanied it. In that part of the city where the hail fell the force of the wind grew less. The total rainfall was .94 of an inch. In the first five minutes of the storm .6 of an inch fell.

Thousands were caught in the storm, dozens of automobiles were left standing in the streets and abandoned, the street car traffic was paralyzed in all sections of the city, electric light wires torn down and for a time the telephone service was badly crippled.

1000 ROOFS DAMAGED.

Along the path of the storm for half a mile or more across the city giant trees were blown down, splintered or broken off half way to the top. Roofs were torn from buildings, while plate

Masked Bandits Hold Up Oakland Saloon; Escape

Two masked bandits held up the saloon of Charles J. Lane, known as the Mission bar, 1970 Telegraph avenue, at 12:45 o'clock this morning, obtaining $100 from a cash register and about $25 from four patrons of the place, who were stood up against the wall. The robbers escaped.

With bandanas tied over the lower portions of their faces, the men stepped into the barroom suddenly from the Telegraph avenue entrance. Both held revolvers in their hands, and one of the in a rough voice ordered J. F. Wilson, the bartender, to throw up his hands. The other bandit turned his attention to the several men who were standing at the bar. Then, while he covered the victims with his revolver, his partner forced Wilson to open the cash register while he removed its contents. After that the patrons were searched. The holdup occurred so quickly that the men on the inside of the saloon had no chance to defend themselves or escape from the room. After the holdup the bandits warned the victims to make no outcry and stepped into the street, where they boarded a Telegraph avenue car northbound. They were seen to alight from the car at Twenty-second street by the Key Route flagman, who later told the police that the men ran westwart in the direction of San Pablo avenue..

It is understood that two of the victims of the holdup, besides the bartender, were James Ward, who lives not far away on Jones street, and Attorney Gray.

Lone Highwayman Takes Cash Away From Merchant

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—At the point of a loaded revolver in the hands of a lone highwayman, at 11 o'clock tonight, F. Chicas, a grocer at Dolores and Cumberland streets, was forced to hand over $41, the entire contents of a cash register. Chicas was making up his accounts when the robber entered and the latter's menacing attitude caused the grocer to hand over the coin without protest. As soon as the man had left, however, Chicas notified the Mission station by teelphone and Policemen King and Keane were sent out in the automobile patrol. At 19th and Guerrero streets they encountered a man whose actions were suspicious and whom they suspected might have been a lookout. He was taken into custody and a revolver and a quantity of cartridges were found in his pocket. At the station he gave the name of Alfred Kilpatrick.

Chinatown Joints Are Raided by New 'Sarg'

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Sergeant Ross, who has just taken charge of affairs in Chinatown, surprised the gambling keepers tonight by the suddenness of two raids made shortly before midnight. Without warning large posses of officers swept down upon two of the resorts conducted by Yee Mee. One of these was the far-famed Siberia Club at 27 Ross alley, where 48 Chinese were taken into custody after doors had been chopped with axes and several barricades had been scaled. At 133 Waverly place 28 arrests were made and here it was necessary for the patrolmen to crawl through a narrow aperture on all fours before they could make their way into the resort.

Water 8 Feet Deep In New Desert Town

SAN BERNARDINO, June 15.—Late reports from the flooded districts along the Colorado river between Needles and Yuma indicate that the new town of Blythe is practically doomed. The residents have been busy today transferring their belongings by boat from the town, which is now surrounded by water six to eight feet deep. A big break is reported in the levee opposite Needles tonight and water is pouring onto the thousands of acres of rich ranch property.

Samuel G. Blythe Reviews the Situation as He Sees It in Chicago

By SAMUEL G. BLYTHE

(Copyright by Samuel G. Blythe)

CHICAGO, June 15.—The great, basic truth concerning the political situation in Chicago, the one fact about which the whole convention revolves, is a very simple truth. This is it: No man in this city nor any man of this hemisphere, or the other one, knows absolutely who will be nominated for President by the convention that meets next Tuesday.

Many men say that they know; many claim to know, but no man knows, for every claim put out is founded, not on fact, but on hope. Stripped down to the bone this is the condition that exists: The Roosevelt managers are certain they have secured some of the Taft delegates, but they are uncertain how many delegates the Taft managers have secured. The Taft managers are in the same case. Each side makes confident assertions, but each side, secretly, is scared stiff. The fight is not only to retain delegates, but to obtain them.

Delegates May Jump From Traces

The Taft men say they have from 550 to 565 delegates no arguments or inducements can take away from them. Then they show their fears by asserting that if Roosevelt men do get any Taft delegates they have pledged Roosevelt delegates who are ready to desert Roosevelt and come over to fill the vacancies. The Roosevelt men talk impressively of a certain number of delegates counted for Taft on the rock-bottom, inside Taft list who will vote for Roosevelt on all ballots, but they wonder if all their own men are tried and true.

Thus the struggle has developed from an ordinary political manipulation to a question based on the mental and moral stamina of a definite number of men. It isn't politics that overshadows. It is the personal equation. What will these men do when they come to the doing time? Will the Taft men, bound by no ties other than loose party strands, hold firm, or will they give in to the arguments of Roosevelt men that the only way to win is to name Roosevelt? The person who can answer that question can tell who will be nominated, but that person hasn't appeared in Chicago yet, for the answering of it involves the solution of some 107 separate individual psychological problems, and most of the psychologists around the various headquarters are rank amateurs.

No Sign of Break in Situation

Even the injection of one bull moose into the situation this afternoon did not change the aspect of affairs except to make the result more indeterminate. Mr. Roosevelt arrived, and the clamor was tremendous, but the politicians kept on working steadily and the delegates remained a mystery. Something may break before Tuesday that will settle the fight in one of three ways—it can be settled with Taft, with Roosevelt or a third man, but nothing has broken yet, and not many cracks are apparent. Neither side is sure; each side has hopes plenty, but each side, also, has a supply of fears that hang around persistently as the negro brethren and are of the same color.

Naturally, each side has a plan of campaign, aside from the minor strategic details that always go with national nominations. The plan of the Taft men is broad and conspicuous. The Taft

CALIFORNIA APEX OF ATTACK

Delegates From This State Advise Their Leader to Go the Limit

One Punch Will Start Grand Mixup Between Rival Factions in Chicago

(By EDWARD H. HAMILTON)

CHICAGO, June 15.—It seems that California is to be in the very front rank of all the fighting. She took her place this afternoon when Colonel Roosevelt came bounding into the ring, into which he some time since shied his hat.

In the throng that greeted him — conspicuous over that throng—was California's plainly-lettered placard, reading on one side: "California's twenty-six votes for Roosevelt."

On the other side was Governor Johnson's stinging message to the national committee declining to submit the question of property to those who steal it.

WILD NOTE OF WAR.

When the Colonel, gray slouch hat in hand, appeared on the Congress Hotel balcony, he began right away:

"My friends"—and there was a great cheer of greeting for his words—"My friends, Chicago is a bad place for men to try to steal things. I want you to look at that banner. California's 26 votes are mine and shall be counted as such. Remember, the receiver of stolen goods is no better than the thief."

There's your war note, wild, with California as the text and theme—and now how is the fight to come on?

CAN START SOMETHING.

Well, it can come on in this way: When the fight on temporary chairman comes up, as it will on the report of the national committee naming Root for the place, California will be called third in the list of States.

Then Gov. Johnson, chairman of the delegation, will rise in his place and in his best fighting voice declare:

"California casts 26 votes for ———," whoever the anti-Root candidate may be."

Thereupon Mr. Tryon or Mr. Meyerfield is expected to rise in his place and say:

PREDICTS FLOOR BATTLE.

"I challenge the vote of California and demand a roll-call."

"The gentleman cannot demand a roll-call, as he is not a delegate," will be the natural retort from the Governor.

"Thereupon the chairman of the national committe, who will be presiding, will sustain Tryon and Meyerfield, the two Taft delegates seated by the committee and then:

"I appeal from the decision of the chair!" might very well come from the governor, backed by the whoop of the Roosevelt men. Then would come at once a test of strength between the Taft and anti-Taft forces over the question of sustaining the chair. Of course such a test may not be considered necessary or advisable, but it seems that California can thus begin the fighting if she wants to.

TRAVEL BY SANTA FE.

And the remainder of the delegation arrived today full of fight and resolutions. They [illegible] Santa Fe depot by a band and marched behind that band with their Roosevelt banners flying to the Congress Hotel, where the Roosevelt headquarters are. At the hotel, along the streets, and in the headquarters the delegation was warmly received, because they were the first large bunch of delegates to come marching in with the fanfare of trumpets and banners blazing.

Immediately the delegates got together in their spacious parlor at the auditorium and listened to Governor Johnson recite the grievances and explain the hopes of the Roosevelters. The governor stirred them to cheers in any case. It will not cease, of course, if the win with Taft, or the Roosevelt men win with consider the possibilities. No matter what the managers are, the fact is that when you elimi- and forth, Taft and Roosevelt have about an [illegible] Taft has secured men to take the places of the Taft men Roosevelt has won over. It requires 540 votes to nominate. La Follette has thirty-six and Cummins has ten. Supposedly, these La Follette men and these Cummins men will stand firm. Therefore, if a little band of delegates, say thirty or forty or fifty, care more for the party than the individuals in it, should band together and vote for some third man, the way could be paved for a compromise. It would not take much to create the situation, whatever the outcome may be. The States of Montana, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming, for example, could do it, or the delegates from Michigan and Kentucky or any little body of men from various States.

This is not a prediction that there will be a compromise. It merely shows how a compromise might be effected, and recites the obvious truth that a great number of Republicans desire such a compromise. If there was a big commanding Republican in the background, some man like Blaine, for example, or any other great figure, it would be easier to compromise than it will be, provided the plan is tried, for the available man for the third leg of the triangle is not easy to find. Not many men of political calibre are in sight, nor out of sight.

Only Corporals and Sergeants

It is a delicate, difficult, complex situation. And aside from Mr. Roosevelt, no commanding figure is on the ground. Instead of being led by generals, the opposing forces are led by squads of sergeants and corporals. When anything is to be decided upon there is no man on either side, save Roosevelt, to say "do it" or "do not do it" with sufficient force to compel obedience. Instead, every proposition is milled over by a dozen or so little leaders, and loses efficiency in the milling.

Meantime the clamor is continuous; the spectacle is interesting; the flub-dub is persistent. The sergeants and the corporals confer and converse. The partisans parade and pervade. The near-treason society methodically performs more near-treasonable acts in the way of throwing out Roosevelt delegates up at the Coliseum. The down-with-the-bosses association explodes into fervid denunciation regularly every half hour in the Florentin room of the Congress Hotel. Bill Barnes and Bill Flinn play battledore and shuttlecock with the colored brethren. The lobby of theaters give constant exhibitions of the most useless performance on earth. Five hundred newspaper reporters bore into one another for information. The politicians of former days do their pathetic struts through the crowd, and the newer ones wonder, casually, who they are. The old-timers have all emerged from the high grass. There is more talk and less to talk about than one would suspect to read the reports. And over it all hangs a pall of hot political air, hotter than usual at such gatherings but of no more consequence.

There is a situation, a trembly, wavering, almost nebulous situation, and there is a question, an insistent, persistent, harrassing question: What will be the outcome? There isn't a person on earth who really knows.

THE COLONEL AT THE BAT

By GERALD P. BEAUMONT.

(Apologies to Phineas Thayer.)

It looked extremely rocky for the Colonel's side that day,
The score stood bumpty-bump to bing, with but an inning left to play;
So when Georgia died at second, and Alaska did the same,
A pallor wreathed the features of the losers in the game.

But still the Colonel's minions wouldn't let the Taft club rest
With that hope that springs eternal within the human breast.
For they thought: If only Teddy could get a whack at that,
They'd put up even money with the Colonel at the bat.

But Flinn preceded Teddy, and Dixon came up, too,
And the former was a "bloomer," and the latter ne'er "came through";
So on that roaring multitude the shade of Bill Taft sat,
For there seemed but little chance of Teddy's coming to the bat.

But Flinn let drive a single that went clear to Oyster Bay,
And Dixon touched the rocket that sent Teddy on his way.
And when the dust had settled and they saw what had occurred,
There were delegates on second and some more of 'em on third.

Then from the struggling multitude went up a joyous yell;
It rumbled to the White House, and to the West as well;
It struck old Philadelphia, and knocked off the famous "hat"
Of Teddy, mighty Teddy, who came forward to the bat.

There was haste in Teddy's manner as he stepped into his place,
There was wrath in Teddy's manner, and his teeth shone from his face;
And, when responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed that "hat,"
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Teddy at the bat.

The nation's eyes were on him, his time at bat the third;
The nation's ears resounded with that "short and ugly word."
Then when the Taft men's pitcher ground the ball into his hip
Defiance glared in Teddy's eye, a sneer curled Teddy's lip.

And now the Root of all the row came hustling through the air,
And Teddy stood a watching it like a lion in its lair;
Close by the Colonel's stomach the ball unheeded sped—
"That ain't my choice, "said Teddy; "Strike one," the umpire said.

From the benches of the Teddyites there went up a muffled roar;
"It's robbery," yelled Johnson, and Heney, too, was sore.
"Kill him, kill the umpire," shouted Flinn, who held a brick.
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Teddy waved his stick.

With a smile of Afghan charity, great Teddy's visage shone;
He bade Bill Flinn throw way the brick and let the game go on.
He signaled to the twirler, and once more the missile flew;
The ball sped by the Colonel's nose; the umpire said "Strike two."

"Fraud," cried the maddened thousands; "fraud," yelled Dixon, too;
But Teddy still had one more chance, and the wild excitement grew.
They saw his face grow stern and cold; they saw his muscles strain;
And they knew that Teddy wouldn't let the roller roll again.

The sneer is gone from Teddy's lips, his teeth are clenched with hate;
He pounds the stick upon the ground as though 't were Bill Taft's pate.
And now the pitcher holds the ball, prepared to let it go;
And we're all forgetting supper for the sake of Teddy's blow.

Oh, somewhere in this funny world they're arguing over fights,
And some are strong for Prohibition, some for women's rights;
And somewhere men are sure of heaven and somewhere they're in doubt.

But this is what WE want to know: WILL THEODORE STRIKE OUT?

SINGLE, LONELY PUNCH IS ALL THAT IS NOW NEEDED

and again to grindings of the teeth. It was agreed to issue a sort of declaration of importance and note of defiance combined. Behind the agreement was a threat to bolt, jump over the banks and upset everything unless California were granted her full rights.

Meyer Lissner was deputed to put the resolution of intention and defiance into shape for general publication, and he hastily sat and wrote the following, which was submitted to Chester H Rowell and Governor Johnson before it was given to publicity:

"Resolved, That the California delegation will not under any circumstances stand for a reactionary program, and that we are prepared to, and insist upon, going the limit to carry out the will, not alone of the Republicans of California, but of the real Republicans of the United States.

"We authorize our chairman and recognized leader, Governor Johnson, to commit the delegation in any manner that he may deem necessary or advisable in order to carry out our determination to secure a progressive victory through the submission of the name of Theodore Roosevelt to the voters of the country."

"Is the resolution world-shaking?" I asked of Rowell.

AUTHORIZE BOLT.

"Well, it may be state shaking," was his reply, but the originators of the resolution that permits Governor Johnson to declare a strike, a bolt or a fist fight would explain it no further.

Later the gossip got abroad that other Roosevelt states would adopt similar resolutions, and that underlying the declarations was a purpose to force Roosevelt as a candidate, no matter what the convention and the steam roller might do for Taft.

"Well, I should not be surprised if other states should take similar action," was as far as Meyer Lissner would go in this matter, and Marshall Stimson merely agreed that it might be the starting of a general movement.

APEX OF ATTACK.

Californians like Johnson and Heney were close in the Colonel's councils as soon as he arrived, and evidently he intends to use the state delegation as the apex of his attacking force. It is going to take some nerve for Tryon and Meyerfield to go up and demand that their votes be cast on the Taft side, for the noise and the fighting are evidently to be with the Colonel.

Meyerfield has not shown on the scene, and for Tryon, as soon as the national committee had seated him, left for New England. Consequently his intentions could not be learned, nor could he be found to make reply to the sassy message sent him by some of his fellow members of the Union League Club, anything but congratulating him on his victory in being seated.

ARRIVAL DISAPPOINTING.

As for the Colonel's arrival, of course it was the one great event of the day. But to some it was a bit disappointing. There was not anything like the crowd or the enthusiasm that I had expected when he made his balcony speech at the Congress Hotel. There was a bit of a thrill in it, and there was a good crowd at the depot when the train came in and good cheering along the line of march.

But we had been led to expect much more, and so the coming of the Colonel was hardly up to the play bill announcement. Now it remains to be seen whether he can tear up the paper majority for Taft that the national committee has so painfully made up for the dear fat President.

ASKS ABOUT BILL.

As a whiff of peace in all the clamor of fighting, in came United States Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada and remained long enough to see Governor Johnson and talk to him about getting in the platform an endorsement of the Newlands-Bertholdt bill concerning river improvement and the impounding of storm waters. The senator has done a lot of work on this subject, and Governor Johnson promised that he would see that the resolution prepared by the Nevadan gets to Gifford Pinchot, who is at work on the Roosevelt platform and is California's member of the platform committee. The Newlands' resolution follows, and it intimately concerns the improvement of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers of California, where $5,000,000 annually is to be spent:

TO CONTROL RIVERS.

"We favor the expenditure of at least $50,000,000 annually for the next ten years, and the creation of a special fund for that purpose, for the regulation of the flow of our rivers in aid of navigation, such regulation to include in addition to levee protection, the diversion of flood waters and the headwaters of source and tributary streams into storage reservoirs for the purposes of irrigation and water power development, including therein co-operation with the states in the development of our waterways for every useful purpose and especially including therein the reclamation of arid and swamp lands and the development of water power. Such work to be contemporaneously conducted in the Mississippi valley and in the watersheds of the Atlantic, the Gulf and the Pacific coasts. The recent devastation of the lower Mississippi valley accentuates this movement and necessitates not only additional banks and levee protection below, but the control of the headwaters above."

CERTAIN OF MIXUP.

But it's hard to get people to consider such important matters when they have their fists rolled up and are glaring at each other ready for a smash. There is rapidly developing a chance for general fisticuffs in the way the Roosevelt and Taft delegations jeer and jostle each other in the hotel lobbies, which are slowly getting crowded. The Roosevelt men, with megaphones, sing songs to the effect "We Want Teddy." The Taft ment interrupt with "We Want Taft" in persistent chorus.

"Get out, you postmasters!" sneer the Roosevelt men, and just one punch would start a general mixup. It seems sure to come before long.

cries of "sit down," he snarled. "I told you I had lived in Arizona and was so used to coyotes that their yelps only soothe me."

"Let him talk; that's the way he makes his money," broke in Kennedy.

"Well, I don't know how you get yours," Heney snapped.

"Honestly, and not like you do by lieing to the people for a living," Kennedy retorted.

LIE IS PASSED.

"You're a liar," said Heney deliberately, and there was dead calm all at once. It was then that Kennedy made his start and the members and sergeants intervened and stopped what might have happened. After that the Washington cases were argued, and the Roosevelt contenders were rolled just as effectively and perhaps a little more vigorously than if there had been no passing of the lie.

Colonel Cecil Lyon of Texas was the first one to get the full weight of the steam-roller.

Officially and in the open, Lyon was accused of rough-riding and steam-rolling the party in Texas for his own ends, of calling snap conventions, and various other things. He was charged with running a "lily white" party, with getting out mandamuses to prevent Taft delegates from attending the convention, of bi-partisanism and various other political high crimes. Especially he was accused of calling a state convention with one delegate for each county and with an added delegate for each 500 votes cast for Taft four years ago.

But that was not the underlying reason. The word had gone around that there had been too much Lyon in Texas. First, it was reported, the Colonel got all the postmaster and other patronage from Taft, and then used it to get delegates for Roosevelt.

SPIKES IN ROLLER.

Then, also, the report went, Colonel Lyon was responsible for giving out the incorruptible colored delegate story of the night before and that was what induced the hands to put the spikes in the roller.

Colonel Lyon argued his own cases. In answer to the "lily white" charge, he walked over to his "bete noir," as he calls him, "Gooseneck Bill" Jones, the negro orator of Texas, and shook his finger under Jones' nose.

"You," he said, "are the one responsible for the failure of the party in Texas. You are the one who makes the trouble."

The eleven district contests were tried one at a time and took up a lot of time, ad two of them, those of the Third and Fifteenth districts, were given to the Lyon-Roosevelt delegation. But enough had been taken to put Lyon out of control of the organization.

HENEY BREAKS LOOSE.

When the Taft men were seated for the state-at-large, Heney broke loose for the first time.

"This is not plain stealing," he said. "This is treason to the republic. This is the most shameful thing I ever saw, and you, Murray Crane," shaking a finger in the direction of the Massachusetts Senator, "you are responsible. Shame on you! Shame!"

Senator Borah wanted to make some remarks, and Senator Crane asked leave for him, but others objected. But when it was all over Lyon said:

"You have repudiated me, gentlemen, but the people have repudiated the most of you. I'll come back, but you'll never come back."

The contests for the 20 Virginia seats were all heard in a bunch. It was a case of an all-white delegation to one of all shades of black, from coal to pale yellow. There was some ardent oratory between the son of a Confederate general and a colored gentleman with a goatee, but that was all.

Then came Washington. The Rooseveltians had been crying "Stop thief!" over that contest for two weeks, and they kept it up when they got before the committee.

W. T. Dovell, representing the Taft crowd, claimed a straight, regular list of candidates, and protested the regularity of the Aberdeen convention, which the Rooseveltians had insisted was held behind closed and locked doors at that. And though Heney demanded a roll-call, only seven others backed him up, and the 14 Taft men were seated by a viva voce vote.

The contest for the District of Columbia was short and sweet, and the irregularity of National Committeeman Sidney Bieber was quickly established to the satisfaction of the Taft crowd.

So at a quarter past 9 o'clock the fires were drawn from under the boiler of the steam-roller and the committeemen sought food and rest after 12 solid hours of nagging, worrying, general turmoil, added to six other days not quite so long, but nearly as bad.

SPRINGS SURPRISE IN DARROW TRIAL

Letter in Reference to Dynamite Plot Produced by District Attorney.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—District Attorney Fredericks, early in this morning's session of the Darrow trial, withdrew his objection to the court's ruling of yesterday permitting the defense to place Anton Johannsen and Olaf Tveitmoe on the stand to prove that Darrow had no connection with the abduction of Mrs. Flora Caplan, a witness for the prosecution in the McNamara case. Earl Rogers, Darrow's chief counsel, thereupon withdrew from the courtroom and Darrow himself questioned Johannsen.

Johannsen testified that he took Mrs. Caplan to Reno and thence to Chicago on his own initiative. He denied that he had consulted with Darrow or any of the attorneys for the defense before he started on the trip.

On cross-examination Fredericks asked Johannsen if he had not sent a cipher message from Reno to Attorney Harrington of the McNamara defense, to the effect that Mrs. Caplan was safely out of the state. Johannsen swore he had not. Then the district attorney sprung a surprise by producing the cipher message and it was read into the record. It had the effect of impeaching Johannsen's entire testimony and at the same time established a connection between Johannsen and Harrington, the latter at that time an agent of Darrow.

The defense claims that Harrington acted independently of Darrow. When court convenes Monday afternoon and the state has finished with Johannsen, the defense will put Tveitmoe on the stand.

CHICO ALFALFA MILL READY FOR OPERATION

CHICO, June 15.—Manager C. E. Bennett of the Chico Alfalfa Milling Company has the local mill ready for operation, and should the supply of alfalfa [illegible] this season. Approximately $3000 has been expended within the past few weeks in remodeling this mill, with a view to increasing capacity and securing economy of operation.

DR. HORN TO SPEAK.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—"The Everlasting Promises" will be the subject of Rev. J. W. Horn's sermon tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Centenary Southern Methodist Church, Bush street, between Gough and Octavia. "The Conversion of Saul of Tarsus" will be the evening topic at 8 o'clock.

SAW BREAKS AND DECAPITATES MAN

Sebastopol Laborer Victim of Fearful Death in Woodyard.

SEBASTOPOL, June 15.—Charles Westgate met with a terrible death in the woodyard of the Enterprise Bottling works. He was engaged in running a wood saw when portions of the saw flew to pieces. The sharp teeth severed the man's head completely from his body, cut off one arm and shockingly gashed his head. The decapitation was done in such a manner that the head fell to one side of the saw frame and the trunk on the other.

At the time of the accident it was at first thought that Westgate had slipped and fallen across he carriage, but later investigation showed that the saw had broken while revolving at high speed. There were two other men employed in the woodyard at the time of the accident, but they escaped unhurt. Westgate was about 50 years of age, and is survived by a wife and three children.

NEW MILL AND BUSINESS BLOCKS BEING ERECTED

RICHMOND, June 15.—The Richmond Mill and Feed Company, whose large and valuable plant and several thousand bushels of grain was consumed by fire last winter and which built a new structure complete this spring, signed a contract today for the erection of a large addition to the plant, the present mill no longer being adequate to the growing business and demands of this city. Additional machinery will also be installed and work will commence on the new building Monday morning. It will be iron and concrete and in every way fireproof.

The excavation for the new Thurman business block at Fourth and Macdonald is completed and work on the foundation and basement will commence Monday. [illegible] made on the four-story LaSalle building on Macdonald avenue, in the heart of the city. The business block of Councilman Ludewig will soon rear its walls on the avenue, and the Pillow block is almost completed. Four other business structures are under way.

FALLS FROM STREET CAR.

J. D. Mecume, 50 years old and living at 1922 Nineteenth avenue, slipped from a street car at Fortieth street and Broadway last evening and was badly bruised about the body. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital by Acting Steward [illegible].

DEPOSITORS OF DEFUNCT BANK RECOVER $13,066

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—By the sale of four pieces of property, $13,066 has been recovered for the depositors of the defunct California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. Judge J. M. Seawell confirmed the sale on four pieces or realty, but withheld approval on eight other parcels on the protest of the depositors and the receiver that larger prices might be expected if they were held another week and again auctioned off.

The property was sold at auction by Receiver Frank J. Symmes. One of the bidders whose purchase of a lot at Eighth and Brannan streets was not confirmed, but Receiver Symmes declared the lot was worth $20,000 at least, though the offer was for but $14,500.

No bids were received for the bank site at California and Montgomery streets. The minimum offer must be $450,000. Two of the pieces of property sold were in Alameda county, another being a parcel of 122 acres in Lake county, and a lot at Cook and Geary streets was bought for $1500 by Fred L. [illegible]

ROBBER SUSPECTS ARE IN CUSTODY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—John Burt and Nels Johnson, the latter known as "Bert, the little Swede," has been arrested for vagrancy, and are being held with bonds fixed at $1000. The police believe that they may be the men responsible for robbing John Vincenzi of Courtland of $1200. Vincenzi will be sent for in an effort to identify them.

DETECTIVE GREETS MAN AT FERRY DEPOT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—N. H. Linkheart, alias M. T. Burkheart, was arrested at the ferry depot tonight by Detective Thomas Tomlon of the local department and taken to the city prison. Linkheart was apprehended on the result of information [illegible] from Kern county, California, to the effect that he is wanted there for embezzlement. He has been working some time in the oil fields.

BUILDING 10 STEAMERS.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—According to a consular report received at the state department, there are 10 steamers of more than 3000 tons each in course of construction in Japan at the Kawasaki yards, Kobe, and the Mitsu Bishi yard, Nagasaki. These vessels are being built in anticipation of the opening of the Panama canal.

BEE-KEEPERS IN DESPAIR OVER SPREAD OF DISEASE

LONDON, June 15.—The third report of the Board of Agriculture on the Isle of Wight bee disease, eagerly anticipated by beemen and orchardists who the threatened with ruin by a present epidemic of the disease among British bees, does not inspire them with much hope.

Discussing remedies for the mysterious malady, the report concludes that "it is exceedingly improbable that any of the drugs in use will be found to be of value in combating the disease." The disease has been clearly traced to that ancient foe of the beekeeper, Nosema apis, which is also known as May sickness, often epidemic among bees in other countries. The report advises the removal of healthy stocks from their present locations, for the germs evidently remain in the ground and, though a hive may be immune itself, it can transmit the disease. The only safety, therefore, is an entirely new start for the beekeeper.

Buckinghamshire is planning to raise, on June 27, in the Vale of Aylesbury, a memorial to her favorite son, John Hampden, who, according to Macaulay, would have been the George Washington of his country of he had survived the terrible wounds which he received in a fight with Prince Rupert's cavalry at Chalgrove. Posterity has placed Hampden first among the Parliamentary party which opposed Charles I., and he began the fight in Parliament as a representative of Buckinghamshire.

23 KILLED IN MISSOURI STORM

glass windows were shattered in dozens of downtown stores. The insurance patrol answered more than 100 calls, while reports show that more than 1000 roofs were damaged.

The only loss of life recorded in the city was at 1819 East Seventh street, where the Garland apartment partly collapsed. The structure is four stories high. The back end of the building crumpled into the basement, burying Mrs. Emma Elkins and her three children--Burn, aged 9, who was killed outright; Lester, aged 7, who crawled through a broken window and escaped with a few bruises, and Donna, 5 years old, received broken bones and bruises. Miss Thelma Treadway and her sister Flossie, living on the third floor, were carried to the basement when the structure fell. Thelma is fatally hurt.

FOUR KILLED BY STORM.

TUSLA, Okla., June 15.—Half a dozen towns in northeastern Oklahoma were hit by a cyclone tonight. Four were killed and much damage was done at Neelogany. A "Katy" train is reported to have been blown off the track between Bartlesville and Osage City. Bartlesville and Pawhuska also suffered.

DAMAGE IN OKLAHOMA.

TULSA, Okla., June 15.—The worst wind and electrical storm in its history visited Tulsa and vicinity between 6 and 8 o'clock this evening, accompanied by a torrential rain. Much damage was done by the wind and lightning.

Boy Crushed to Death Returning From Outing

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—John Maguire, three years of age, son of Philip Maguire, a well-known liquor dealer, was injured on the county road near Larkspur, in Marin county, late this afternoon, and died at 11:30 o'clock tonight at the Children's hospital. The child's death came as the climax of an unfortunate accident which marred a day of pleasure in the country, indulged in by the Maguire family. Philip Maguire, who little John Maguire stood in the road- Market street, left his home at 2886 Twenty-third street this morning, accompanied by his wife and child and a number of friends. The party enjoyed a pleasant day and was returning when has stores at 601 Kearny street and 502 way almost directly in front of a soda wagon, which ran him down before he could be rescued. The wheels of the heavy team passed over his stomach, crushing him severely. He was brought to this city and removed to the Children's hospital, but despite the effort of the physicians he died.

To Fill Oak Trees in Effort to Save Them

The park commissioners have taken steps to save the oaks which made this city famous, and Henry Breck, an expert, has been retained to endeavor to preserve the lives of the trees. At present Breck is filling large fissures in the trees with cement.

THOUSANDS CHEER FOR THE COLONEL IN CHICAGO

friends were correspondingly elated, and if you listened to and credited the prophesies that are running around the corridors of the Congress tonight, you would think that Roosevelt's name is the only one to go before the convention.

HAS NO DELUSIONS.

Mr. Roosevelt himself, however, has no such delusions. He knows that there is a fight against him, and he has assured his friends that he is ready for the hardest and the bitterest struggle of his career.

After Mr. Roosevelt had been virtually catapulted into the elevator and up to his quarters on the political floor of the Congress, the crowd, which had been stopped by the police outside, began to yell for him.

He sat down for a brief instant, shook hands with a few of his followers who had managed to find their way in his wake into his room, and then, putting on his new slouch hat, rushed into the hallway through another room and out on the stone balcony that bridges the main entrance of the Congress on Michigan avenue.

WAVES HAT AT CROWD.

A wild yell greeted him as he appeared, and he instantly seized his hat and waved it frantically at the crowd.

"Come on, Teddy! Make the big talk!" yelled somebody.

"Tell us what you're going to do to them!" shouted somebody else.

"Give 'em the devil!" roared a deep bass voice from way back on the plaza across the avenue.

Without waiting to be introduced, the Colonel began.

"This is a bad place to steal anything."

"And they better not try to steal anything from you!" shouted a Roosevelt fan.

"From us, you mean," replied the Colonel, and again the crowd broke out into a howl of delight.

Just about that time a big bunch of Californians pulled up in the avenue bearing in their center a banner which read:

GRINS AT BANNER.

"California will not submit to a trial of a stolen property case by the thieves."

The Colonel looked at the banner and grinned.

"I got California's 26 votes, and it is my intention that they shall be counted," he shouted. "This has come down to simply a naked fight of honesty against dishonesty, of honest men against thieves.

"The people have spoken and the politicians must learn to answer or understand. They will be made to understand that they are the servants of the rank and file of the plain citizens of the republic."

At this point the crowd elected to cheer for a few minutes, and the Colonel stood back and gave them plenty of time.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS.

"This is no faction fight," he continued, when the crowd showed a readiness to listen once more. "It is a contest between the people themselves and the perpetual politicians, representing all that is worst in corrupt politics and business, and the people will soon be able to destroy corrupt politics and to conduct their business for themselves.

"We had with us in the primaries —"

"Illinois," yelled a Chicagoan from the rear ranks.

"Yes, Illinois," said the Colonel, showing his teeth. "We had Illinois' fifty-six votes and we had those of every state where the people have expressed their will at the primaries.

"In these states we have beaten them from five to one to eight to one. The people are now more strongly with us now than they were at that time, and they will refuse to submit to any robbery now.

"It is a naked fight against theft, and theft will not win."

HURRAHS FROM CROWD.

There was another prolonged cry of approval and the Colonel, bowing and swinging his hat through a circle, backed out and holed up in his room with the leaders who have taken charge of him. It was no easy task to get back.

In the corridor just outside the door through he had passed to gain access to the balcony were fully a thousand people, all determined to see him and shake his hand.

A detail of police under Deputy Chief Schuttler, the strong arm man of the Chicago force, formed a line and shot him through the center of it, holding back the yelling, howling mob meanwhile. But the best progress he could make was slow, and it took a full minute for him to move twenty or thirty feet that he had to travel.

CROWD GOOD-NATURED.

The crowd that went to the depot to greet the Colonel had waited fully an hour in the train shed for him before the limited, which had made up an hour to get him to Chicago on time, arrived. It was hot waiting, day, witha copper-cloud-hung sky that day, with a copper-clod-hung sky that turned back the smoke of the city and drove with it the heat down on the heads of everybody.

But the crowd was good natured, so good natured in fact that when the Colonel actually came through the gate they began good naturedly tearing each other's clothes off to get to him.

A band stationed in one corner tried to get up a diversion, but the crowd knew where the real band was and refused to be lured away.

After disposing of Mrs. Roosevelt, Theodore Jr., Mrs. Theodore Jr., little grandchild, Kermit and Archie, the Colonel met Senator Dixon, E. W. Simon and Alexander Revell of the reception committee and suffered them to lead him through the streets to a waiting automobile.

NOISE THE THING.

It was hard going. Despite the efforts of the police, the crowd pressed in, demanding a speech or a handshake. They got neither. Dixon strove to tell them that both would be forthcoming in due time, but he might as well have tried to talk to a boiler factory. Everybody was doing his best to make noise, trumpets were bellowing, the band was making a ragtime uproar in its corner, and even the cries of the cabmen in the La Salle street entrance could not be heard.

The Colonel got into his automobile with a quick leap, other machines bearing other Roosevelt fans wheeled into line, the band got into three or four machines and the parade was on its way.

There was little formality about it. The streets were crowded with traffic, but the traffic got out of the way. What made the trouble was the crowd. The station is some half a dozen blocks from the hotel. Everyone of these blocks had its mob, and every mob had its own particular style of yelling at the Colonel.

SHOT INTO LOBBY.

When the main entrance of the Congress was reached, the crowd that had already collected there was reinforced by the crowd that had followed on from the station. They were packed solid clear to the street and for a block on either side.

The police unloaded the Colonel, formed a square about him and shot him into the lobby.

A vacant elevator awaited him and he piled into it, together with as many men as it would hold. Meanwhile the band marched on past and tried to drag a musical herring across the trail to divert the mob, but with much unsuccess. Most of the crowd knew that the Colonel had gone up stairs, and up stairs they went, by elevator or on foot, men, women and children, all of them either talking excitedly or shouting at the top of their lungs. A good many scenes of exciteemnt have been witnessed in the classic halls of the Congress, but in the opinion of James Faulkner, who has seen them all, this eclipsed anything of the kind ever attempted in the excitement line.

FIGHT ON HIS HANDS.

Most of the mob beat the Colonel to the second floor, which had been reserved for him, and he had another fight on his hands when he set out for his room. He got there finally, however, drew a couple of deep breaths and then embarked on his Juliet speech from the balcony to the thousands of admiring Romeos congregated below.

The speech done, the Colonel again sought the shelter of the room in the corner that has been set apart as a council chamber and a husky attendant slammed the door in the face of all those who tried to follow.

Among the latter were Medill McCormick and George W. Perkins, both of whom, having real money, are very welcome in all political headquarters.

Perkins and McCormick had to wait ten minutes, banging loudly on the door, before the doorkeeper would even open it. Then he peeked through, looked them over a minute, listened to their declarations of identity and finally admitted them.

HIS DEAR FRIENDS.

Meanwhile the general crowd was milling. They wanted to get in. They wanted to see the Colonel. They were his dear friends and they must see him.

At last Senator Dixon came forth.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!" he said. "You must wait. You must be patient. Mr. Roosevelt has had an exhausting day. He is tired. He cannot see anybody tonight—nobody. He wants rest. If you are his friends, you will go away and let him have it."

So the crowd reluctantly went away and hunted up Tim Woodruff to find out how soon he was going to switch.

Downstairs a former Roosevelt adherent was rubbing a sore physiognomy and reviling all booms.

"What's the matter?" asked a friend.

"Aw, one of them there slide trombones that was playing 'Everybody's Doing It' hit me on the nose," he groaned. "I'm against demonstrations."

TURTLE TURNS THME TURTLE.

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—To avoid running down a big mud turtle, W. H. Bergs steered his auto on a grade near French gulch, Shasta county, in such an unusual fashion that it turned turtle. Luckily, the machine was going slowly and all occupants escaped before the machine capsized. They righted the auto and went on their way.

capable of in order to follow you everywhere, you would have more faith in me and you would make me suffer less."

Still another she writes:

DEAD WITH ANXIETY.

"My Enzoi: Since yesterday evening I am half-dead with anxiety. Where are you? What are you doing? What is the matter with you? I waited for you at the window until 3 o'clock, and this morning at 7 I telephoned to your grandmother for news, but was told that she had no longer any telephone. My adored love, are you ill? My own darling, my life, if you were to fall ill, how could I possibly exist without seeing you?

"The mere idea of your being absent causes me great concern and terrible agitation, my treasure, my sweet Enzoi, my dear, good boy. Get well soon if you wish me to live. I embrace you and kiss you with despair ever so many times, dear love. Take great care of yourself and think of me. I am miserable without you. Your own G."

JEALOUSY APPEARS.

The next letter reproached Paterno for his jealousy, saying:

"Perhaps I was wrong in dancing that quadrille with that naval officer, but how could I help it?

"I swear to you on all that I hold most dear and sacred in the world that I have not flirted a single moment. I have nothing, absolutely nothing, to reproach myself with.

"I shall spend the rest of my life hidden away somewhere and you will no longer be troubled with me. I send you a kiss. Do not wish me ill. Your G."

ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

April 12, 1910, she tells of anonymous letters received by Count Trigona in which the unknown enemy upbraids her for her conduct with Paterno. A postscript adds that "fifty-five copies of the letter have been sent to friends and acquaintances in Palermo and Rome."

A letter written during Paterno's absence for a week at Pinerolo Cavello school, near Turin, is dated April 15, and says:

"Never has the theater seemed so sad and depressing to me as tonight, my Enzoi. How I missed you. I feel profoundly sad and miserable. I cannot live without you. This life of continual struggles, of brutality, of martyrdom I cannot continue.

"Only with you, Enzoi, can I be happy. You are very young, my Enzoi, and surely the future holds in store for you, who knows how many other joys, but I have only you in the whole world; and the idea that I may some day be compelled to give up this love makes my brain reel. What shall I do when you leave me? I shall not be afraid of death; life without your love would be unbearable.

"I want you, dear; I want your kisses. I want your adorable caresses and your sweet words, that cast a spell over my soul. I will write again tomorrow. Your own G."

CLERGY TO GATHER NEAR TAMALPAIS

Week of Outdoor Conference for Protestant Ministers Is Arranged.

This whole week—June 17 to 23—will witness an outdoor assemblage of scores of Protestant clergymen in conference in a redwood grove near the base of Mount Tamalpais. They will hold three sessions a day in a natural forest-canopied theater at Mill Valley. Each session will be presided over by a different minister, but the general themes of the week will have to do with prayer or the interpretation of the Bible.

The peace of meeting is called Rockhurst. It is the private country home of Mrs M. Barry Goodwin, a former missionary in China and herself the sister of Maud Lillian Beru, the opera singer. Ultimately Mrs. Barry Goodwin purposes to endow Rockhurst as the permanent home of such annual conferences of west coast ministers and also as a rest retreat for missionaries returning to their America homes. In addition, Rockhurst is to be made a place of comfort in midsummer for working city mothers with little children that need the country air and quiet freedom such as the Rockhurst wooded fields so amply provide.

Rev. J. A. Fraser of Oakland will open the services each forenoon. His address will be followed only by a talk from Miss May N. Blodgett of Detroit, reminiscent of her personal experiences as a public life reader throughout the eastern states.

During the conference many of the ministers are living upon the premises, where tents have been pitched to supplement the commodations of the residence.

Rev. William Roder of San Francisco was chosen to take share of the opening day's sessions.

All protestant ministers are free to participate, and its public is welcome so far as space will permit accomodations among the towering redwoods of the grove. There are forenoon, afternoon, and evening meetings.

Grand Jury Inquiring Where Scotty Got Gold

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—"Where did Scotty get his money?" That question, asked by thousands of curious persons from one end of the continent to the other ever since the mysterious and unique character, "Death Valley Scotty," first emerged from somewhere about seven years ago and painted a bright red streak from the Pacific to the Atlantic, may be finally settled to the satisfaction of all, for there is at last to be an official investigation into his intimate affairs. His business relations will be inquired into Tuesday by the county grand jury. The probe is to reveal the fact as to whether Scotty ever had any paying mines in Death Valley or whether he was a faker and was supplied with the money for advertising purposes. Subpoenaes have been issued for Scotty and the officials of the Death Valley Scotty Gold Mining and Development Company, a concern which was incorporated at Phoenix, Ariz., on May 23. Scotty was served with a summons late this afternoon in the county jail, where he now lingers, charged with contempt of court because he disobeyed the orders of Judge Craig in disposing of property before settling a judgment secured against him for medical services on account of his brother.

While Watchman Blinks, Dynamite Sticks Vanish

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—A package of dynamite containing seventeen sticks was stolen, almost within sight of a watchman, early this morning at Zoe and Bryant streets and it may now be in the hands of professional thieves or worse. The explosive was to be used for blasting and was the property of the Healey Tibbetts construction company. It was stored in a lot for the night, and the man detailed to guard it had left his post but for a moment, and it was during his absence that the robber, who must have been watching, succeeded in accomplishing the theft.

Did She Get Message From The Spirits of Titanic Dead?

MME. SOPHIE RADFORD DE MEISSNER, WHO CLAIMS TO HAVE RECEIVED SPIRIT MESSAGES FROM TITANIC VICTIMS.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Mme. Sophie Radford de Meissner, widow of a well known Russian diplomat, claims to have received spirit communications from the victims of the Titanic disaster.

For some years Mme. de Meissner has been interested in Spiritualism but not in a professional way. She received her first message from Major Archie Butt and was addressed to the President.

In the communication Major Butt described his passing over the line of mortal consciousness, but he said he felt entirely happy. Although, he said, he was sorry to have left the President at this moment.

Mme. de Meissner was a daughter of the late Admiral Radford. She mar married de Meissner when he was secretary of the Russian Legation at Washington. He has been dead sixteen years and recently his widow has resided in

Famous Old-Time Theatrical Manager Will Be Long Remembered.

With the passing of Louis R. Stockwell from the stage of earthly activities, San Francisco in particular and the Pacific Coast in general loses one of its best-beloved and most famous old-time theatrical managers. Though the present generation of theatre-goers is not as familiar with the name of Stockwell as are those of a couple of decades ago, still the work he did in the local dramatic field has won a place for him in the history of histrionic events of this city. Stockwell, who at the time of his death was 62 years of age, had lived fully half of that time in San Francisco, where until a few years ago he was one of the best-known figures in the local theatrical world. Every old-time theater-goer will remember with affection "Stocky," as he was familiarly known to his hosts of friends, and during the closing years of his life, when adversity and finally blindness overtook the veteran manager, they remained true to him and sought by every means to soften the blows which fate dealt him.

In his time Stockwell not only knew well some of the present-day stars, but it was under his guilding hand and counsel that many of them learned the art which has since carried them to the top rung of dramatic fame. He played with Edwin Booth, with Lawrence Barrett, with Joseph Jefferson, with Adelaide Neilson. Henry Irving was his intimate friend. So was Dion Boucicault. From those great masters of his art Stockwell imbibed high ideals. Later he communicated these ideals to younger players who came under his direction. He was a great teacher as well as a fine actor and a great manager. Some of his pupils are today among the finest ornaments of the American stage. Blanche Bates is one of the present-day stars who owes her fame to Stockwell's discovery, and of her the veteran manager was especially proud. It was through Stockwell that she secured her first important engagement, and it was also his [illegible] that enabled him to secure her starring contract with David Belasco.—The Wasp.

GIRL SOMNAMBULIST WALKS FOR TEN MILES

LAKEVIEW, Ore., June 15.—Miss Nellie Porter, 20 years old, arose from her bed and, while still asleep, walked ten miles, and was found at 2 o'clock in the morning, when she fell exhausted upon the porch of the Glidden residence, in New Pipe Creek, fifteen miles south of here. [illegible] restored to consciousness, and now has nearly recovered.

She did not know how she had reached the Glidden home. The last she remembered was going to bed at the home of the family for whom she worked, three miles away. Her tracks were followed through the fields, woods, over rocks and through creeks which she had forded.

A wound on her breast is believed to have been caused by a barbed wire fence through which she crawled in the darkness.

SHE CAN'T ANNUL HASTY MARRIAGE

Law Gives No Relief to Heroine of Romantic Escapade.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The haphazard marriage of the seconds to an elopement cannot be lightly set aside. Justice Goff, in the supreme court refused to grant to Mrs. Lucy Fried the relief she desired and dismissed her suit for an annulment. The young woman declared that she had been "scared" into compliance by a threat to shoot, but the court notes that on her own admission she did not take the threat seriously.

"The law cannot give relief for the consequences of romantic escapades or whimsical notion," wrote Justice Goff. "Its offices can be exercised only for legal cause for relief. It has not been satisfactorily proved to have been imposed or to have existed in this case, and consequently the case must be dismissed."

The bride was Miss Lucy Warschauser, daughter of a Bronx painter. She met Fried in a telegraph office, where he was an operator, when she went in to send a message to a wealthy uncle in San Francisco. The young man called at her home, and later became one of the assistants in the elopement of Miss Hattie Warschauser in November, 1911, with Albert Seixas, who were married in Jersey City by a justice of the peace.

At the trial of her suit Mrs. Fried testified that Fried took her aside, showed her a revolver, and threatened to shoot her unless she would consent to marry him.

WHO WANTS TO BE AN IDEAL HUSBAND?

BOSTON, June 15.—Miss Jessie Holliday, the young English artist, who is to wed Edmund Trowbridge Dana, grandson of the poet, Longfellow, in speaking of her coming carriage to the young Harvard man, laid down three rules for the ideal husband.

Here they are:

The ideal husband does not smoke.

The ideal husband does not drink intoxicating liquor.

The ideal husband does not eat meat.

"Now, these principles mean more than they are likely to set forth," said Miss Holliday. "For a woman to marry is self-restraint. The trouble with many men is that that do exactly what they please.

"Socialism breaks up selfishness in man. The married man must not be selfish; he is the kind of man who will spurn that word 'obey' in the marriage service in the Church of England.

"Then, an ideal husband will believe in woman suffrage. He will not be boss of his own home and make his wife a mere chattel. He will give the same privileges he has himself."

HUSBAND USES AX TO TRIM WIFE'S HAIR

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—One of the indignities alleged by Mrs. Lulu Engel in her divorce petition against Martin Engel, is that her husband suggested she should go out and find some other man "to love her a little."

Mrs. Engel says her husband posed as a single man and became engaged to a young woman who prepared her trousseau to marry him before she found he already had a wife and child.

On one occasion, Mrs. Engel says, her husband invited a man to the house whom she had never seen before, and asked him to spend the evening "and amuse the old lady" while he went out to call on some friends. Mrs. Engel has been separated from her husband for a year and says he is a civil engineer employed in East St. Louis. She asks the custody of her 5-year-old son, [illegible]

MARRIAGE CLERK ENDS LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

MILWAUKEE, June 15.—It was a disappointed wouldbe bride and groom that wended their way down the court house steps. They had been refused a marriage license.

He was apparently about 19, though he said he was 21. His home was given at Wheaton, Ill., and his name was given as Edward V. Armitage.

She was older, about 25. Perhaps this was the reason why she waited in the corridor while Edward interviewed the license clerk. Her name was given as Harriet L. Baer.

The troubles arose when "Cupid," the clerk, asked whether the bride-to-be was single, widowed or divorced. A quick flush in the young boy's cheek told of the tender point, and he answered that she was divorced.

"Has she been divorced six months?" asked Cupid. "Yes," said the boy. "Are you sure it is not eight months?" persisted Cupid. "It is over six months," answered the lad. "May I see the lady?" asked Cupid.

That settled it; for although the boy acquiesced, the lady did not. And love's young dream was shattered again.

The Wisconsin laws, like those of Illinois, require that persons divorced must wait a year before remarrying.

Another interesting point in this case is the fact that this couple went to the city hall first, where they were charged 50 cents for the filing of an application for a marriage license, without discovering that they could not be married. The application was made out by Gustav Kuechler, as are many others of a similar kind which come from the city hall nowadays.

MUTE FOR 15 YEARS, TALKS AS FATHER DIES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 15.—Grief at the deathbed of his father restored speech to Thomas E. Austin, who today talks clearly after 15 years of silence. Austin is 31 years old. With the rest of his family, he stood by the deathbed of his father, Thomas M. Austin, Monday, unable to utter a word while the rest were praying. Suddenly he burst forth: "Father, father," he cried, "we don't want you to leave us."

"If my death brings back your speech," answered the dying parent faintly, "I die happy."

FATHER OF GIRL KILLS HER SUITOR

HOUSTON, Texas, June 15.—Romance suddenly turned to tragedy here when Lloyd Jackson, a wealthy youth, was killed by D. M. Moody just as Jackson and Moody's daughter were about to elope and be marride.

Jackson was killed as he waited near a second-story casement of the Moody home. Moody asserts he shot because he thought he had caught a prowler about to enter his daughter's room.

In a dying statement Jackson asserted that Moody had objected to the match.

FOUNTAIN DIVERS WET WITHOUT AND WITHIN

NEW YORK, June 15.—Half a dozen boys were diving for coins in the fountain in City Hall park yesterday afternoon, much to the amusement of onlookers, who were tossing the money into the water. Soon a young man, much the worse for drink, made his way to the edge of the fountain. Playfully he splashed a little water on one of the boys and the latter retaliated with interest, observing: "Now, you're wet outside as well as inside."

The wet one tried to reach his tormento

The wet one tried to reach his tormentor and his cap fell into the fountain. One of the boys grabbed it and, wetting it thoroughly, threw it full in its owner's face.

The crowd laughed, and while the intoxicated one was wiping the water from his eyes, one of the divers threw the cap again in the water, while the boys in the fountain deluged the intruder. Maddened, the "soused" one pulled off his shoes and tossed them at the boys, who dodged them. Then the urchins seized the shoes and jammed them under the feed pipe at the bottom of the fountain.

The shoeless, hatless one then began to chase the lads around the park. He caught one and started to cuff him, when a patrolman interfered. The policeman escourted the drunken youth, sans shoes, sans cap, but smiling, to Frankfort street, where the crowd of 500 which followed watched him as he "beat it."

SWEET-TONED "HELLO" LEADS TO ELOPEMENT

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—A sweet-toned voice which greeted him every time he picked up the telephone to ask a number is said to have been the starting point of a romance which resulted in the elopement Tuesday of Robert E. Bumstead, bookkeeper for the General Roofing Manufacturing Company in East St. Louis, and Miss Edna McGarrahan, telephone operator at the plant. The decision to marry Tuesday was not reached until 4 p. m., when they came to St. Louis just in time to get a license before the office closed.

The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal church, on Arsenal avenue, near Grand. The couple then returned to the home of the bride, 1819 North Fortieth street, Lansdowne, East St. Louis, and announced the marriage.

GIRL LAUGHING GETS PIN STUCK IN THROAT

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 15.—Miss Margaret Stiner of Berwick, is in the City Hospital, here with a pin lodged in her throat. An X-ray examination has been made, but the photograph has failed to show the location of the pin.

Miss Stiner had a pin in her mouth when talking with friends. Some one cracked a joke, and she laughed so heartily that the pin was forced into her throat, where it has lodged.

SAMUEL STUDIES HIS COLOR LINE

Negro Population Over 25,000 in Eight of Largest American Cities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—A preliminary statement giving, for each city of over 250,000 inhabitants, the distribution of the population according to its elements of color, nativity, and parentage, as shown by the returns of the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, was issued today by Director Durand of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce and Labor. The statistics were prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population in the Census Bureau, and are subject to revision.

Distinction is made to the statement between white persons of native and foreign birth, respectively, and also for the native white with respect to parentage. Those having both parents native of the United States are classed as native parentage; those having both parents born abroad or one parent native and one parent born abroad are classed as of foreign or mixed parentage.

The distribution of the total population of each of the nineteen largest cities according to color, nativity, and parentage is presented in two tables, by absolute numbers in Table No. 1 and by percentages in Table No. 2, below.

In thirteen of the nineteen cities of 250,000 inhabitants or more in 1910 the foreign-born whites constitute between 25 and 40 per cent of the total population. These cities, with their respective percentages, are: New York, 40.4; Boston, 35.9; Chicago, 35.7; Cleveland, 34.9; Detroit, 33.6; Newark, 31.8; San Francisco, 31.4; Milwaukee, 29.8; Jersey City, 29; Minneaplis, 28.5; Buffalo, 28; Pittsburgh, 26.3; Philadelphia, 24.7. In these cities taken together the foreign-born whites constitute 34.7 per cent of their combined population, but for the remainder of the country outside of these cities, the percentage is only 11.2; for Continental United States as a whole the percentage is 14.5.

If the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, as well as the foreign-born whites, are considered it appears from Table No. 2 that the proportion of the total population represented by white persons of either foreign birth or foreign parentage is very large in most of the nineteen cities named; in each of fifteen cities the percentages for these two elements, taken together, represent more than half the total population and in eleven of them it is more than two-thirds. These eleven cities, with the percentage of their population represented by these two elements, are: New York, 78.6; Milwaukee, 78.6; Chicago, 77.5; Cleveland, 74.8; Boston, 74.2; Detroit, 74; Buffalo, 71.3; Newark, 69.9; Jersey City, 69.7; San Francisco, 68.3; and Minneapolis, 67.2.

There are eight of the larger cities in each of which there are more than 25,000 negroes and in three of them they constitute a considerable proportion of the total poulation. Of the cities named, Washington, with 94,446 negroes, has the largest proportion, 28.5 per cent; New Orleans, with 89,262 negroes, the second largest, 26.3 per cent; and Baltimore, with 84.749 negroes, the third largest proportion, [illegible] per cent. New York has 91.709 negroes, almost as many as in Washington and more than in New Orleans, but of its total population the negroes constitute only 1.9 per cent. Philadelphia has 84,459 negroes, or 5.5 per cent of its total population; Chicago 44,103, negroes, or 2 per cent; St. Louis 43,960 negroes, or 6.4 per cent; and Pittsburgh 25,623 negroes, or 4.8 per cent.

HEY DIDDLE! ALSO, GOSH! COW SEEKS MOON AGAIN

CHICAGO, June 15.—Cattle sold at the highest prices ever recorded in the history of the stock yards [illegible]. Predictions among catle buyers are that if the present high prices continue the consumer will pay considerably more for his meats.

Beef sold at $8 per hundredweight today, an increase of $2.50 over the price of the same grade of cattle, first class, a year ago. Cattle this year have shown an average falling off in weight of eighty pounds a head, meaning that already there is a shortage over 500,000 pounds of beef.

The population of the country has increased 21 per cent, while cattle receipts so far have fallen away [illegible] pounds.

TWO MILLIONS OF CHILDREN AT WORK

Startling Figures Quoted on Conditions by National Labor Committee.

NEW YORK, June 15.—There are more than 6,000,000 illiterates in the United States, and one in seven of all children between 10 and 14 are not in school, accordign to the Child Labor Bulletin, a new quarterly review issued today by the National Child Labor Committee. Twenty-nine states do not care whether children can even read and write when they permit them to go to work, and "there are a million children today under the age of 16 years who are employed in the various industries of the country, in addition to another million in agriculture, only a part of whom are assisting their parents on the farm."

The first number of the Bulletin is devoted to child labor and education, the subject of the eighth annual conference of child labor, held in Louisville, but incidentally it shows how far the United States has progressed since the first child labor law was passed in Massachusetts in 1876. Thirty-nine states have passed child labor laws since the organization of the National Child Labor Committee in 1904. The fourteenth birthday is now the lowest limit for work for children in the northern states, with the single exception of New Hampshire, and in four southern states—Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Virginia. What is involved in the absence of adequate restrictions is vividly expressed by P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education. "In the Carolinas I have seen children under ten years of age working their lives away in the mills. Their pale faces haunt me still. I saw little boys eight years old drinking black coffee at midnight to keep awake until the end of their shift at four or five o'clock in the morning. Then they went out of the hot, steaming noisy mill into the cold air of the morning to their homes probably for a little fitful sleep and a drowsy, joyless day, only to come back at night and grind again through the long, dark hours."

"In four States: Ohio, Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan," Florence Kelley says, "there is now provision made to lift the burden upon the widowed mother by giving her, as her right and not as the dole of a private charity, an allowance out of the public finances on condition that she stay in her home and keep her children at home and in school as the State requires." As Jean Gordon of New Orleans puts it on another page "Certainly the mother does as much for the country in rearing her children as the veterans did in killing her sons."

Occupations dangerous to health or morals are singled out by some few States and forbidden to minors under sixteen or eighteen or twenty-one, as for example the night-messenger service in New York and nine other States.

Having noted progress the Bulletin offers the following indictment of the child labor system, namely, that "child labor means racial degeneracy, the perpetuation of poverty, the enlargement of illiteracy, the disintegration of the family, the increase of crime, the lowering of the wage scale and the swelling of the army of the unemployed."

The National Child Labor Committee says it intends to issue the Bulletin regularly because of the splendid results already secured through pamphlets. Other numbers will be devoted to one or another phase of the child labor problem, and will keep subscribers in touch with the progress of the fight against child labor and with the result of investigations.

HUBBY TAKES PLEDGE; WIFE WITHDRAWS SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—George Linne, lighthouse keeper at Goat Island, took the pledge in Superior Judge Thos. F. Graham's chambers yesterday and his wife, Lillian, withdrew a divorce complaint charging cruelty, which she filed on June 6 last.

Mrs. Linne charged her husband with having beaten her on many occasions, with threatening to kill her and her daughter, Lorraine, aged [illegible], and with breaking the glass panels in the door of their home on June 2 last.

She was in court Thurrday to prosecute her action. She told the judge she still loved her husband and that their married life would be happy were it not for liquor. "The Great Reconciler" sent for the husband. Yesterday they both came to court. Linne said he loved his wife and child and was sorry for his past acts.

The judge asked Mrs. Linne if she would forgive her husband if he would take the pledge. She said she would be glad to. Thereupon with the judge as a witness he took a solemn pledge never to touch drink again in [illegible] left the courtroom in honeymoon mood.

HURT IN FALL.

In attempting to alight from a moving car last evening, Miss Mangios Calda, 418 Forty-eighth street, fell to the pavement and sustained a cut over the right eye and bruised her hands and arms. The young woman was picked up half-unconscious by Conductor Butler, who had charge of the Telegraph-avenue car, and carried to a drug store at Telegraph avenue and Twenty-ninth street, near which the accident happened. The hurts were dressed and Miss Calda was taken to her home.

THOUSAND REALTY MEN WILL CONFER

Biggest Meeting in History of Association Set for Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 15.—Decorators were set to work today to prepare the Armory building for the reception of the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, which is scheduled to meet here on June 19, 20 and 21. According to the committee of arrangements, under whose direction the work is progressing this year's meeting will number over 1000 delegates from all parts of the United States—the largest number ever attending a meeting of the organization.

Especial interest is centered in the program this year because of the number of important subjects to be discussed. Among these are, "Advertising Real Estate," "Licensing Real Estate Brokers," "Subdivisions," "How to Conduct a Rental Department," "Exclusive Agency and Multiple Listing Systems," and "How to Develop and Handle Salesmen." Each of these matters will be handled by an expert in practical real estate.

In addition to the attractive business program which will greet the delegates, there will be an extensive list of social diversions. Those will include an elaborate program at Fountaine Ferry Park on Wednesday night; an entertainment of the ladies' auxiliary of the national association by the feminine contingent of the Louisville branch of the organization on Thursday; a grand reception and jubilee ball on Friday, and a special excursion to Mammouth cave on Saturday.

It was also announced today that beside the set addresses, three will be ample provisions made for the discussions of questions raised by members of the audience. This section of the convention will be presided over by President Thorpe, who will limit discussions to fifteen minutes.

PLACED ON PROBATION.

On the recommendation of Assistant Probation Officer Robert Tyson, P. J. Purcell, one of the three Southern Pacific employes arrested for defrauding the company by falsifying the records of ticket sales in Melrose and in the company auditor's office in San Francisco, was placed on probation for six months this morning by Judge Mortimer Smith. Purcell is under 21 years of age.

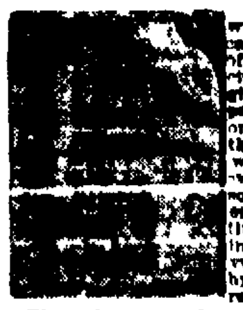
So keen is his perception of human anatomy by this method that, without asking you any questions, he not only can tell you the weak and diseased organs of your body, but can tell you if you had a pain that occasionally bothered you.

T. FOO YUEN, C. E. H., is also equally skillful in his knowledge of herbs (of which he uses over [illegible] in his practice) and of the combinations of them in remedies that cure every ailment that flesh is heir to, provided, of course, that the patient is not too far gone to respond to treatment.



T. Foo Yuen has written a book called "The Science of Oriental Medicine, Diet and Hygiene," of over [illegible] pages, which any one may have for the asking, and which appeals to every thinking person on the subjects enumerated in the title. It is intensely interesting and is very much prized by those who have read it.

There is no quackery about him. He believes in God, the creator of mankind, and that he has given great power to man in the knowledge of healing diseases.

Out of town patients can be cured as well as those who come to the office.

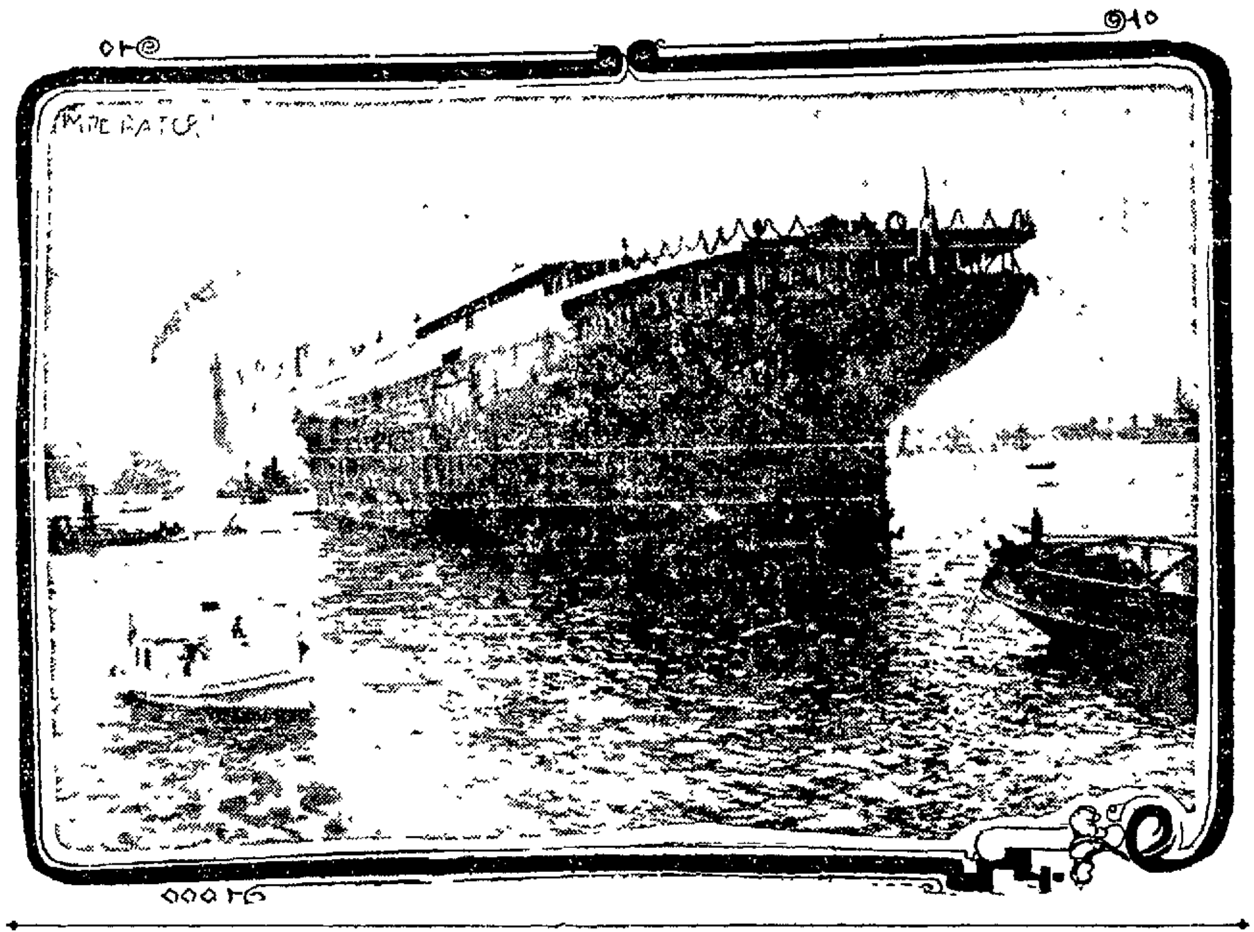
KAISER CHRISTENS IMPERATOR, NEW LINER, WORLD'S LARGEST



The Imperator, a new Hamburg-American line steamer just launched, which is the largest ship in the world.

HAMBURG, June 15.—The Imperator is the largest steamship in the world. Emperor William christened the gigantic ocean greyhound when she was launched at Hamburg May 23

The new ship belongs to the Hamburg-American line and is ten and a half feet longer than the Titanic She has a length of 900 feet and her double bottom is 767½ feet long, 85 feet wide and 6 feet high, and has a cubic capacity of 291,000 gallons.

This massive shell weighs 50,000 tons and to push this vast weight an average of 22½ knots it was necessary to install engines capable of developing 70,000 horsepower

Construction was begun in June, 1910, under the direction of the Vulcan Shipbuilding Works

NORMAL MECCA FOR PILGRIMAGE

Jubilee Commencement Week at San Jose Will Draw Thousands.

SAN JOSE, June 15—The coming week will witness the annual commencement Jubilee of the San Jose State Normal School, always a big event in the summer pleasantries of the Garden City.

The week's festivities will open Monday evening with the alumni reception in Normal reception hall The following committee has been appointed to arrange the details:

Joseph Hancock, general chairman; Anne Shillingsburg, Robert Lee, Alex Sherriffs, Nell O'Brien, Rachael Crawford, Bess Williams, Carolyn Bradley, Bessie McCabe, Ray Bridgman, Olive Reed, Fred Moore, Genevieve Nicholson and Daphne Pitman

Tuesday morning will be devoted to the production of a cantata, "The Lay of the Bell," translated from Schiller by Troutbeck, and set to music by Andreas Romberg. The Normal Choral Society will do the singing under the direction of Miss Ida M. Fisher. Tuesday evening the students and their friends will gather in Assembly Hall to witness an extravaganza in five parts, entitled "Frills and Follies." The piece is the joint product of the various school sororities and will be staged under the direction of Willis Cline.

FLORAL ALLEGORY.

The junior-senior farewell will take the form of a floral allegory on the campus early Wednesday morning, interpreted by 800 students in processional dance, song and symbol. The annual meeting of the alumni association will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday. In the evening of the same day the senior class night exercises will take place in Assembly Hall.

Thursday, the last day, will witness many class reunions, a basket ball game between the Normal and the Alumni, and in the evening the golden jubilee and commencement exercises. Representatives of early classes, prominent members of the alumni and state officials will be present.

MANY TO ASSIST.

Willis Cline is general chairman, with the following committees assisting him.

FISH BONE STARTS BLOOD POISONING

Enters Foot of Milkman and Operation Is Necessary.

EUREKA, June 15—Persons are occasionally known to suffer as a result of running a nail into their foot but Herbert Gow, driver of a milk wagon, encountered a new menace to the pedal extremities of mankind when he stepped on a fish bone The bone entered his foot and blood poison set in, requiring an operation a few hours afterwards

Gow was covering his route and while taking a shortcut across a yard, felt a sharp pain in his left foot. He examined the member, which was giving pain, and found a fish bone had penetrated the sole of his shoe and entered his foot. He removed the bone and continued his work of supplying his customers with milk

About two hours after the incident his foot began paining and he was forced to go to his home Dr. Robert Gross was called and an operation decided upon as the foot and leg from the knee down were swollen. Several drops of poisonous matter were removed from the foot but it is not believed further complications will result.

SERVANT WANTED HANDSOME CHAUFFEUR

CHICAGO, June 15—When Mrs. Amos M. Cottrell of Elgin advertised for a "girl" and promised an automobile ride every week as one of the privileges of the job, she thought she had solved the servant problem. Yesterday she found she was in error—her advertisement lacked the charm "good looking chauffeur." This was made plain in the following letter which she received

"CHICAGO, May 17 Dear Mrs. Cottrell.—I saw your ad in the Record-Herald. I would like to see picture of chauffeur before considering the position. Hoping to hear from you, I am yours very truly.————

"It won't do any good," said Mrs. Cottrell, "because I have a splendid girl and have 'turned down' half a dozen. Besides, Mr. Cottrell drives his own car, and I don't know as I want a girl who is ambitious to attract my chauffeur.

BRIDE RIDES FIFTY MILES ON HANDLE BARS

CHICAGO, June 15.—A motorcycle designed to carry only one passenger, figured in the elopement of Miss Thera Knudson and Evan Davies, both of Milwaukee, to Waukegan, yesterday Scorning prosaic means of transportation, Miss Knudson rode on the handle-bars of the motorcycle from Milwaukee to Waukegan, a distance of fifty miles, while Davies manipulated the brakes and throttle.

The ride started innocently enough. Davies met Miss Knudson while he was riding about in his motorcycle, and invited her to ride with him There was no other place for her to ride except the handle-bars of the machine.

During the ride the elopement was planned and the motorcycle turned toward Waukegan. They were married by J. V Balz, a justice of the peace. The return journey was also made on the motorcycle.

THEFT SHY 49 CENTS FOR GRAND LARCENY

ELY, Nev, June 15—Because the amount taken from the cash register of the Golden Rule store amounted to less that $50, just $49.51, to be exact, the charge of grand larceny made against F C Jungbluth has been dismissed

Jungbluth will be tried on a charge of petty larceny, the penalty for which is a jail sentence Had he been convicted of grand larceny he could not have escaped the state's prison

Jungbluth was a clerk in the Golden Rule and was short in his accounts He was charged with grand larceny by the proprietor, who admitted that he was mistaken in the amount he alleged Jungbluth to have taken.

U. C. ASKS TO AID CONSERVATION OF DEER

UKIAH, June 15—Among the problems which the University of California has [illegible] conservation of the deer of the state To this end Frank C Clarke, son of William Clarke, of Laytonville has been investigating a parasitic disease which has caused great havoc among the deer in certain parts of the country He has been appointed state fish and game commission fellow in the University and will divide his time between expeditions in the mountains and work in the laboratories at Berkeley, studying the cause and the prevention of various diseases to which deer are subject.

STATE BOOSTERS TO HOLD SESSION

California Development Board Delegates Will Assemble in San Jose.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Advices from all parts of the State received by the California Development Board indicate that the 17th semi-annual counties' convention of that organization will be attended by considerable more than 1000 delegates The ever-increasing interest shown by county officials in matters of State-wide interest is a marked advance over the attitude shown in similar cases a few years ago

The San Jose meeting, which is to be held June 21 and 22 will discuss two very important subjects The first, "Good Roads," with special emphasis given to Federal highways and the second, "The Efficient Local Organizations" The good roads question has a strong appeal to many classes of people, not only to automobile dealers and the automobilists themselves, but farmers, manufacturers and merchants are vitally concerned in the necessity of securing extensive higaway systems throughout the State.

STATE STANDS HIGH.

California stands very high among the States of this country in percentage of good roads. It is nevertheless true, however, that California is not making the most of her scenic advantages. Certain parts of Europe which are no more wonderful from a scenic standpoint than many parts of this State, reap tremendous financial advantages from tourists The development of a national State highway system in California will give to California an added source of wealth. The good roads movement inaugurated by the California Development Board will inaugurate a campaign to secure the national highways system.

That the meeting will have practical results is shown by the fact that the principal addresses on this subject will be given by John Brisben Walker, chairman of the National Highways Association, and by E A. Batchelder, executive officer of the Automobile Association of America, who comes across the continent for the special purpose of appearing before this counties' convention. Batchelder is reputed to be the greatest good roads authority in the United States and is making a life-long study of the subject.

BOOSTER ASSEMBLAGE.

The delegates in attendance at the San Jose meeting, as indicated by correspondence on file at the offices of the California Development Board, will consist of officers and directors of chambers of commerce and other promotion organizations from all parts of the State, supervisors of each county, leading agriculturalists, manufacturers and merchants.

The second part of the program, which will include a discussion of "The Efficient Local Organization," will be of great value to chambers of commerce men in attendance An effort will be made to stimulate the smaller chambers of commerce in California and to increase the efficiency of each organization

California has over 356 chambers of commerce and promotion organizations —probably more than could be found in any other State in the Union California is probably the best advertised State in the Union.

FATHER EXPOSES 'SUN WORSHIPER'

CHICAGO, June 15.—For more than ten years the fad, intermittently, of Chicago's queer religious votaries, Ottoman Zar-Adusht Hanish, self proclaimed modern Zoroaster, was unmasked before the federal grand jury here today by his father, Richard E Hanish, an ordinary music teacher from Milwaukee.

The founder, promoter and only priest of the sun worshipers, who claimed to be a Persian and told romantic tales of his birth and upbringing among the mystics of the far east, is only an ex-printer, according to his father, and was born in Germany forty six years ago

Recently Hanish came into prominence in conection with the case of Mrs Elisabeth Lindsay, widow of a wealthy Philadelphia contractor, and her son "Billy." Mrs. Lindsay was said to be under the complete influence of the man, traveling with him the country over and paying all expenses She and the boy are missing.

SPAIN FREE FROM POLITICAL TROUBLE

Railroad Strike in Andalusia Is All That Worries Kingdom.

MADRID, June 15—Exception made to the railroad strike in Andalusia, Spain has been free of late from social, labor or political problems calculated to give rise to fears that the revolution in Portugal was having its effect in the neighboring Latin nation. After the Portugal upheaval Europe generally thought Spain would begin to feel the influence of what was called the world movement in placing greater power in the hands of the masses of the people. The bloody revolt in the Catalonian provinces several years ago was regarded as only the first step of a revolutionary movement which would later engulf all Spain But the expected revolution has not come to pass and today Spain may be said to be unusually tranquil

The railroad strike in the Andalusian country was not directed in any way against the monarchist form of government, nor was it even an attempt for higher wages It was merely an effort to resist a project of the government whereby the employes were obliged to contribute a small part of their earnings to a mutual aid and sickness fund

The Canalejas government has lasted beyond the dreams of the most enthusiastic Spanish politicians and seems to be pleasing the country generally despite the fact of constant talk of a reversal of the power to the conservative party.

ADROIT STATESMAN.

Canalejas has proved himself an adroit statesman throughout many difficult moments in the last year or two, and it is generally believed that when he abandons office it will be because he seeks a respite from the occupying duties of premier The conservatives are constantly plotting to return to office, and it is alleged that they were responsible for a recent division in the Canalejas cabinet over an old-time story of political corruption The differences were quickly smoothed over, however

The possible return of the conservatives, with former Premier Maura as their leader, is viewed with considerable apprehension in some circles as it is feared that this would again excite the radical elements into new manifestations against the monarchy Nevertheless, it is openly stated in the chamber of deputies that the conservative party will return to power as soon as the budget is voted.

King Alphonso is one of the most active sportsmen in Europe He is a fine shot, but nothing pleases him more than to get on the field, astride of a fast pony, and play a good game of polo He has just had a striking victory when the polo champion cup was won by the king's team, the king himself taking the leading role It was a very quick and clever contest and it was only in the last few moments of the game that His Majesty's team succeeded in securing the victory by the margin of two goals. Many American tourists were present to applaud the royal win.

TO GIVE BANQUET IN HONOR OF COLONEL REES

RICHMOND, June 15—Arrangements have been completed for a conference between Engineer Thomas H Rees, Engineer P. A. Haviland and the city council next Friday evening at an adjourned meeting of the city council, when Colonel Rees will submit the figures and data collected by his engineers of the federal engineering bureau on the Richmond inner harbor, in order that the council may take steps toward putting through the project and also other waterfront improvements and take the necessary steps to secure a government appropriation for a part of the work

Prior to the meeting of the council Colonel Rees will be tendered a public reception at the Grand Canyon Chateau, at which the council members, heads of civic organizations and other prominent men will be present and attend the reception and banquet The reception committee for the occasion is composed of Mayor J C Owens, C H. Robertson, W. H Wrense E H Harlow, Dr C. R Blake and M. J. Beaumont.

EXHIBIT OF LIVE STOCK IS URGED

Holding of Show in Oakland Regarded as Good Plan.

EDITOR TRIBUNE—A short time ago you published a supplement indorsing the "Back to the Land" movement in connection with your valuable paper, THE TRIBUNE, which is also being followed up by the opening of acreage property in all directions

I understand that when the Oakland auditorium is finished we are to have a "Land Show" similar to New York, Los Angeles and other cities to show what can be produced in this section of California.

At the present time the state of California is making special preparation for the international live stock exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 Already they have secured the services of Mr. D D Lively of Portland, Ore, as chief of the live stock exhibit, a gentleman who for many years has been identified with live stock exhibits and thoroughly understands the handling of such matters to bring them to a successful issue

The securing of such a man to take the lead in an exhibition of this kind shows the interest taken in live stock in general.

At the present time so many people are interested in anything pertaining to agriculture or horticulture that this is Oakland's opportunity to take advantage of this feeling of going "Back to the Land" by making preparation to hold an exhibition of live stock in Oakland for 1913, so that those who contemplate exhibiting in San Francisco in 1915 will have the opportunity of finding out their weak points, if any, and making the necessary improvements, if needed, for there is no doubt competition will be very keen for international honors in San Francisco in 1915

Some years ago an exhibit was held at Tanforan which I believe was a financial failure The cause of failure must be very apparent—the distance from San Francisco being about thirteen miles, and in order to make an exhibit of this kind a success it must be within easy distance, for it is the patronage in the evening which helps so much to swell the gate receipts.

In Oakland we have every opportunity of making such an exhibition not only a financial success, but what is really of more value, the opportunity to educate the public to appreciate what has been done and what can be done with improved stock on small holdings, where they must practice intensified and scientific farming, not only along any one particular line of work, or one particular breed of animals, or one variety of poultry, for under various conditions of soil and climate we have some breeds that do so much better in one locality than they do in another; and at each exhibition of this kind it would bring together many breeders advocating the claims of their particular breed

In Oakland we have the population to support such an exhibit, we have the transportation facilities for handling the stock and the people to the best advantage, and we have the men and the material to make it a success

Sacramento holds the State Fair every year Modesto is talking of holding a live stock show. The interest taken at the University Farm at Davis, Yolo county, is on the increase. More students have registered for the term this year up to the present time than at any previous term

The new agricultural building at Berkeley is finished and is well worth a visit to see what is being done by the students who are taking up agriculture along practical and scientific lines.

And we have the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and if such a body of men were to take this matter up and could get in touch with such men as R. O McFarland, ePter J Shields and Charles S Hughes, officers and directors of the Live Stock Journal, Sacramento, one would think Oakland could have an annual live stock exhibition of which California would be proud Numbers of farmers are coming into California from other states, and are demanding better stock. Why wait for 1915

Yours very truly,
F MILLER

RESIDENTS DESIRE SERVICE RESTORED

Bearing a petition with the signatures of several hundred residents of East Oakland, a committee headed by Dr. J. Pond and Attorney Harry A Encell waited upon General Manager W R Alberger yesterday and asked that the car service now operating over the Eighth street dam be discontinued and a return made to the terminal at Thirteenth and Washington streets Alberger promised that the matter would be laid before a directors' meeting Tuesday evening.

The car line in question passes by F. M Smith's mansion at Eighth avenue [illegible] Twenty-fourth street Recently the service was switched along Fifth avenue and thence over the East Eighth street dam thus dispensing with the old stub car service The protestants now state that the Fifth avenue track is in poor condition, the rubbish dumps south of the dump odious and the terminal inconvenient They would welcome a return to the former service Koenig & Kroll moved to 444 Eleventh street, ground floor, Security Bank building.

Deserted Infant Is Found by Policeman

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—A girl baby, about 4 months old, nicely dressed and crying lustily, was found deserted tonight in the station of the United Railroads at Forty-eighth street and Cliff avenue by Policeman Kennedy of the Richmond station. The infant was in long clothes and was lying on top of a package containing milk bottles and baby's garments. At sight of the officer the child immediately stopped crying and amused the passengers on a Sutter street car as it fingered the patrolman's star on the long trip to the city prison. The police are making an effort to learn the identity of the parents and in the meantime the babe is at the Detention Home.

ICE SIGHT AT SEA NEAR CAPE HENRY

BALTIMORE, Md., June 15. — The report by Captain L. Mure of the British steamer Valetta of having sighted floating ice within less than a day's run of Cape Henry was the subject of considerable comment in marine circles, the presence of ice so far south at this season being an extremely rare occurrence. According to the log of the Veletta, about midnight on June 11 in latitude 37.30 north, longitude 74.24 west, approximately one hundred miles northeast of Cape Henry three pieces of ice, the largest about 200 feet long and somewhat higher than the Veletta's decks were seen at a distance of a quarter of a mile.

WOMAN TEACHER AT 85 IS HONORED

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Miss Eliza M. Clark, who forty-two years ago held the proud honor of being the first woman city superintendent of schools in America, having been elected in Bennington, Vt., was the recipient of a surprise party a few days ago given by members of the Reciprocity club, in honor of her 85th birthday.

WERE THESE JURORS MARRIED? PERHAPS

PITSBURG, June 15.—"For beating his wife, guilty as indicted; for beating his of the court" mother-in-law, recommended to the mercy of the court."

On this verdict, returned in court yesterday, Joseph Nojedly, a machinist, was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of 6¼ cents and to serve thirty days in jail

TITANIC INVESTIGATION IS CONDUCTED BY STERN JURIST

LORD MERSEY, head of the court that is investigating the Titanic tragedy in London.

LONDON, June 15.—The inquiry which is being conducted here regarding the loss of the Titanic has been much more thorough than it was at first supposed would be the case. Sir John Charles Bigham, Lord Mersey, heads the court of inquiry. He is the son of a Liverpool merchant and was born in 1840. He studied in Berlin and Paris and was admitted to the bar in 1870. He served in Parliament from 1895 to 1897 and then became a judge of the King's Bench Division of the high court of justice. After 12 years he became head of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the high court, serving one year.

During this Titanic inquiry he has shown a determination to bring out all the facts, no matter how damaging they may be to the owners of the Titanic. Bruce Ismay, president of the White Star line, has more than once during this investigation felt the lash of this typical British justice.

INNER HARBOR TO BE RUSHED TO COMPLETION

Deepening and Widening of Channel Will Be Great Improvement.

BANK NEAR BRIDGE IS MENACE TO BIG SHIPS

The deepening and widening of Oakland's inner harbor channel is being speedily rushed and according to a statement made by Captain William Osgood, in charge of the dredge operations, the work will be completed in six months. The dredge Yankee of the American Dredging Company, after several delays, is now starting in in earnest on the big job and yesterday evening saw the completion of 400 feet of the widened southern portion of the channel. The portion of the channel so far completed is 150 feet in width, thirty feet in depth at low tide and 400 feet in length. It is hoped by marine men from all parts of the coast who enter this port that the mud bank off Webster street will soon be removed. This bank not only proves a menace to navigation, but it also puts something of a black eye on the city. Several times each month vessels run up on the bank and are forced to remain stuck until the tide rises or are pulled off by tugs. The bank has become such a nuisance that very few skippers attempt to get in at this point if it is possible to discharge at some other wharf where there is deeper water. The cost for the work would be but $10,000 at the most and would take about one month to complete. This is practically nothing when compared with the great harm the mud bank is doing toward hindering the harbor's growth.

The bank stretches from the Southern Pacific ferry slip at the foot of Broadway to the Webster street bridge, where it breaks off abruptly.

DREDGER SHAFT BREAKS.

The breaking of the shaft of the dredger, John McMullen, seems to have come at an inopportune time, as for a few days it was feared that the contract for the work of preparing for the 1915 exposition could not be completed on time. The San Francisco Bridge Company, however, has put the dredger Oakland on the job and with the completion of the McMullen's repairs at the United Engineering Works both vessels will begin working on the site of the exposition. Occupying the same ways with the McMullen at the United Engineering Works is the big Golden Gate Dredging Company's clamshell dredger Golden Gate, which is also undergoing a general overhauling.

After a lengthy period of idleness on the mudflats off East Oakland the schooner C. T. Hill, one of the first lumber carriers of this coast, was shifted across the bay to the Union Iron Works by the tug Pirate of the Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company. The little vessel will undergo a general overhauling preparatory to going into the lumber trade route.

LONG WHARF ARRIVALS.

Vessels arriving at Long wharf yesterday afternoon are as follows: The steam schooners Pasadena, Captain McGovern, from Bandon, discharging lumber; Novo, Captain Johnson, from Fort Bragg, discharging ties; Aurelia, Captain Carey, from Columbia river, discharging lumber; the steamers Buckman, Captain Wilson, of the Alaska-Pacific steamship Company, from Seattle, discharging 250 tons of merchandise, consisting of beer and milk and loading 500 tons of freight, and the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's freight and passenger steamer Queen, Captain Johnstone, from Victoria, discharging 500 tons of freight and receiving 1000 tons.

After discharging a portion of her lumber cargo at Long wharf the steam schooner Samoa shifted around to the Sunset Lumber Company's wharf to complete her discharge.

The Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company's launch Colon while up river broke her propeller shaft. She will have a new one installed today.

CROWLEY COMING HERE.

Considerable interest is being manifested by marine men not only at this port but at other points along this coast over the three-cornered competition which has grown up in the past two months among the three rival towboat concerns of this port, two of which, the Crowley Tugboat Company and the Shipowners' and Merchants' Tugboat Company, commonly known as the Redstack Company on the San Francisco side, and Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company of this side. The Crowley Company has added to its fleet of big steam tugs, including the tugs Hercules and W. H. Buhne. The Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company has made wondrous strides in the enlarging of its big fleet of tugboats during the past few months, increasing its fleet nearly 100 per cent.

For the past six months the Crowley concern has been endeavoring to get a suitable location on this side of the bay for the establishment of a branch. Thus far they have been unsuccessful, although according to general opinion it will not be long before the San Francisco concern is located on this side.

Not only are the officials of the Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company making arrangements for the enlarging of its big fleet, but the company's headquarters at the foot of Webster street are receiving extensive repairs

PRE-COOLING PLANT ENDS JAG IN JIG TIME

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 15.—Dissipating a "jag" in seven minutes is the record that has been established by the pre-cooling plant recently established at San Benito, in the lower Rio Grande valley. This plant is one of five in the United States and the only one in the South. It was opened only a short time ago. One day while a car was being cooled preparatory to loading it with fruits and vegetables the men having charge of the work found a man lying in the gutter, having indulged unwisely in the juice that steals away men's senses. Thinking to play a joke on him they placed him in the car. He had been lying in the sun, with a temperature playing about him in the neighborhood of 100 degrees and the sudden change to a temperature only a few degrees above the freezing point was something of a shock. In one minute he was tossing about, in two minutes he was sitting up and at the end of seven minutes he was beating on the car door clamoring to get out. He told the jokers he had heard of the efficacy of a "cooler," but had never tried it before.

BUYS CHECK FOR $350 FOR $13; BOGUS? SURE

CHICAGO, June 15.—Edmund Furerer, a retired farmer of Sheboygan, Wis., asked the police to search for a stranger who sold him a worthless check for $350 for $13 in cash. The two met on a street car and after a few minutes' conversation the stranger produced the check and asked Furerer to cash it.

"I have only $13 with me," replied Furerer.

"Well," said the stranger, "I need that $13 badly; it's worth more to me this minute than $350 would be later. Give me the $13."

Furerer surrendered his money and was greatly surprised to learn that the check was worthless.

PRICE OF BEER RAISED 50 CENTS A BARREL

CHICAGO, June 15.—The wholesale price of beer is to be raised 50 cents a barrel tomorrow, according to an announcement made by the official organ of the local brewers' association. This is the third increase within eight months

HEADACHE CURE FATAL; OPIUM KILLS NURSE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Believed to have taken an overdose of an opium preparation in an effort to cure a headache, Miss Annie M. Ryan, 26 years old, a trained nurse, living at 747 Seventh street, southeast, died at Casualty Hospital about two hours after being taken there from her home.

According to a sister of Miss Ryan, the young nurse returned from the automobile races at Benning complaining of a severe headache. She took some medicine. Miss Ryan's condition alarmed her sister, and she summoned Dr. N. W. Moffat, of 1300 East Capitol street, to the house. He advised that the sick woman be removed to Casualty Hospital.

The physicians there found evidence of opium poisoning, it is said.

On being notified of the young woman's death, and the symptoms of opium poisoning, Coroner Nevitt directed that the body be removed to the morgue, where an autopsy will be performed.

Miss Ryan was a daughter of John W. Ryan, of the same address.

PSUEDO KNIGHT IN FURTHER TROUBLE

T. B. Henry Took Out Papers as Public Notary Without Legal Right.

Secretary of State Adds to Information in Hands of Police.

"Lord" Thomas B. Henry, whose escapades of the last few months in Oakland and Chicago have been gradually coming to light, is becoming more deeply involved each day, according to the police. Last evening Captain of Inspectors Petersen received information from Secretary of State Frank Jordan that Henry had been granted a notary public commission on October 1, 1911, while he was posing as a real estate dealer in Fruitvale.

Henry, who is being held at the city prison, admitted to the police and Deputy District Attorney W. B. Smith that he had taken out the papers of a notary public, although he was not a citizen of the United States. He said that they were obtained through his attorney. Who the attorney is he refused to say.

That he had taken out first papers in citizenship in Chicago was also admitted by the prisoner. He claims that he is a lawyer, but that he never practiced in this country. Whether or not he ever practiced in any other country he refused to state.

TO TAME WILD SISKIYOU TRIBE

Amador Missionary and Wife Will Invade Haunts of Karoks.

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—In the far western end of Siskiyou county there is a tribe of untutored and simple Indians known as the Karoks, and to them the Episcopal church of the Sacramento diocese is sending a churchman as missionary to their ignorance and superstitions. The Rev. John E. Shea and his wife, formerly of Jackson, Amador county, arrived in Sacramento en route to their distant and isolated post, where they will be for five years.

Choice fell upon the Rev. Shea because he was well known to Bishop William Hall Moreland of this city for his adaptability for languages and good work among some of the Indians in other parts of the state.

The Karok Indians number over 1000 and live along the Klamath river, in wild and almost inaccessible territory. White men have found them thieves and deceitful, and in their simple knowledge of things spiritual there has never come anything excepting the Great Spirit. The Rev. Shea and his wife will not only attempt to teach the Indians of the Karok tribe the word of God, but will advise them in their physical welfare and in the science of social life. There is no marriage condition among them, they do not know what money or contracts mean and they do many things in pure ignorance that the missionaries will endeavor to correct.

Mr. and Mrs. Shea will spend a few days here visiting with Bishop Moreland and will leave for their post Monday. They go to Hornbrook by rail, thence 80 miles by stage to Happy Camp, and then 35 miles by horseback to the Indian village. They expect to live in a tent until they can build a cabin, as there are no houses in the district to which they are going.

BRING FIRST SHIPMENT FROM SALMON PACK

SEATTLE, June 15.—Bringing the first shipment of this season's pack of Alaska canned salmon the Alaska Coast Company's steamer Admiral Sampson, has arrived from Copper river and Cook Inlet ports. The vessel has as a cargo a shipment of 2500 cases of the Petersburg, Alaska, cannery's output. Two other Alaska canneries, those at Port Graham and Seldovia, both on Cook Inlet, already have more or less salmon of this season's pack ready for shipment.

AT DR. RADER'S CHURCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Rev. William Rader, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church, Jackson and Fillmore streets, will preach tomorrow morning and evening. In the morning at 11 o'clock the subject will be "Great Visions of the Soul." In the evening at 7:45 a service introduced by special music will be held. It will be a popular meeting, especially for men. Subject, "The Making of a Man."

T. R.'S CAMPAIGN IS LIKENED TO U. S. GRANT'S

Famous Warrior Made Similar Fight as Colonel Just 32 Years Ago.

TRIED TO 'GO BACK' BUT NEVER MADE IT

Garfield, "Dark Horse," Carried Off Nomination in Hot Struggle.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Every political student who has delved into those musty archives wherein are kept the records that tell of great political battles past and gone, must be struck with the similarity of the pre-nomination fight waged by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in this year of our Lord 1912, and that conducted by General Ulysses S. Grant, exactly thirty-two years ago.

Grant's campaign was for the Republican nomination for the third term after a lapse of four years—so is Roosevelt's.

Grant was a soldier of achievement—as is the hero of San Juan Hill.

Grant's campaign followed a world-girdling trip, during which he received the welcome and praise of strange sovereigns and peoples—Roosevelt has but lately returned from his African hunt and a triumphant tour through Europe.

THE POPULAR IDOL.

And Grant was the popular idol of the people—a claim made for Colonel Roosevelt by his supporters.

But not alone are the two campaigns similar in these particulars. The construction of the Grant and Roosevelt campaigns has many points in common, for Grant was opposed by Blaine—even as Roosevelt is opposed by Taft.

The fight in the convention hall was one of the bitterest ever fought in the annals of Republican party history.

The convention convened in Chicago on June 2, 1880, with over 10,000 spectators lining in the galleries to watch the battle royal. And for over a week the Blaine and Grant forces battled together before Garfield, a dark horse, won the nomination.

Conklin opened the nominations by presenting the name of Grant, and he did it with an imperial grandeur and with a degree of eloquence that was impressive. Had he been as discreet as he was eloquent his speech would have been a perfect exhibition of impressive oratory; but Conklin, inspired by his love of Grant, antagonized the Blaine delegates by his pungent satire anent the Blaine cohorts who disregarded their instructions to vote as a unit for Grant.

SPEECH BY CONKLIN.

He referred to Grant as a candidate "without patronage," without emissaries, without committees, without bureaus, without telegraph wires running from his house to this convention hall, or running from his house anywhere. His speech, however, left Grant weaker instead of stronger.

Following Conklin's speech for Grant, and Garfield's speech for Sherman, the name of Blaine was presented by Joy. Joy's advocacy of Blaine was tame and disappointing, beside the masterly orations of Conklin and Garfield. But Blaine's candidates were strong and were firm in their conviction of ultimate victory.

The balloting began. Three hundred and seventy-eight votes were necessary for a choice. On the very first ballot Grant received 304 votes, while Blaine was given 284. Sherman got 93.

Garfield himself got one vote on the second ballot. Blaine lost two votes and Grant gained one. And so the factions struggles on for thirty-three consecutive ballots.

For thirty-three ballots Grant never got more than 309 votes, Blaine never more than 285, Garfield never rose above two votes in all.

GARFIELD NOMINATED.

The thirty-fourth ballot began—the second week of the convention—and the delegates, worn out with the struggle, prayed for a compromise candidate. It was here that Garfield began to display strength. He was indeed the only logical compromise candidate, though many favored Senator Windom of Minnesota. His landslide started when Windom's delegates met in caucus, a minority deciding to vote for Garfield in preference to their candidate.

At the end of the thirty-fourth ballot Garfield's vote registered 17 instead of 1, Grant got 312 and Blaine 275. Still no one had reached the 378 necessary to nomination.

They voted again. This time Garfield jumped to 50 votes, Grant got 313, and Blaine lost 18, falling to 257. The thirty-fifth ballot was called and the storm broke. The Blaine column swerved to Garfield almost unanimously.

When the votes were counted it was found that Garfield had 399 votes in all, Grant 306 and Blaine 42.

The dark horse, Garfield, had won.

Grant's supporters had stood by him with marvelous fidelity. He started with 304 votes, never falling below 302, never rose above 313 and ended on the final ballot with 306. He had the ablest galaxy of leaders that ever appeared at a national convention in support of any one candidate.

NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM FOR LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—E. F. Scattergood, chief electrical engineer of the aqueduct power bureau, submitted to the public service commission a report showing that the estimates of cost for a complete and appropriate electrical distributing system for the city, which estimates were used as a basis for discussions at recent meeting of the board, indicate that such a system as contemplated would cost the city $5,632,000. This system provides for all street lights, commercial lights and power within the present city limits as estimated for the year 1913. Scattergood's report contemplates an underground system, approximately one-third greater than the present underground area, and an overhead system for both street lights and commercial lights and power purposes throughout the remainder of the city.

SHAD BAKE IS BIG FUNCTION ON RIVER

[illegible] preparations are being made for the shad bake which is to be held on the island just above town, in the Feather river, tomorrow. Invitations have been issued to various sporting clubs, and responses have been received from Colusa, Sacramento, San Francisco and Grass Valley. It is thought that about 200 guests will be in attendance.

A committee consisting of Henry Marcuse, Leslie B. Crook and Dr. Barr picked out an ideal spot on the upper end of the island, where the bake will be held.

Editorial

Three months now in our new store.

Twelve satisfying weeks to us and to an appreciative public—to us in an increased business commensurate with our growth, to the public in shopping facilities not to be enjoyed elsewhere in Oakland or across the bay.

These three glorious months have been devoted to an unrivaled display of merchandise, to glad greetings to old friends and the making of new, to a gradual perfecting of a store system that makes shopping here pleasurable as well as profitable.

In addition the special attractions designed for the comfort and pleasure of our patrons have brought us visitors, not only from our own immediate section, but from nearly every State in the Union. Men and women who had heard of the new Capwells came to see, and pronounced it to be without a peer in point of beauty, in its unique roof garden, floods of daylight and in the service offered.

And so with this magnificent start we face the future with confidence and a stronger desire for still greater progress. A store must set its own course or drift with the current. We have never drifted, but kept a true and steady course. Whatever is worth while in merchandise or price is the compass by which Capwells has been guided.

We steer ahead with confidence in ourselves, in Oakland, in the people who have made the new store possible.

COSTLY BATHS
MILLIONAIRES' HOMES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—These disturbances over at San Quentin have called sharp attention to the maudlin and sentimental fashion in which the entire prison question has recently been treated in California. Our lawbreakers have been written of and coddled as if they were the most precious and necessary citizens. No wonder they think they should have strawberries and cream and meringue glace. Somebody ought to start a champagne and burgundy fund for the poor persecuted dears.

You may have noticed that no matter how accursed and bloodthirsty the murder, the murderer, once convicted, becomes a sainted and sweetened being. He ought to be elevated to some high position—not by a rope; oh, mercy, no!—but by the gift of the people, enraptured at his sweet humility. You notice we don't hang anybody under the present regime.

A Lot of New Fads Coming Over

So at the next session of the Legislature the faddists are going to ask for the abolishment of capital punishment so that murder may be treated, as De Quincey considered it, as one of the fine arts. Then the red slayer's saintliness will increase with each well-tooled slaughter.

And there is also the age of consent, which is to be boosted from its present place at 16 years to 21, if possible, but to 18, anyhow, making blackmail one of our most thriving infant industries to be protected and encouraged.

There is agitation, too, for a non-partisan Legislature, just as we are having a non-partisan judiciary. And these are merely the beginnings of the fads to which the State is to be subjected.

"I'm going to start a society for the protection of the law-abiding," said an old cynic at the St. Francis the other night. "We are the only people for whom nobody seems to care a hang. They protect and slobber over the criminals who prey upon us, and then they practice on us all the fads and fancies of legislation. It is high time we got together and cried 'Help!' in one mighty voice."

In the Matter of Hotel Charges

In many of the eastern cities there is admonition to the San Francisco hotel men not to raise their charges during the 1915 exposition. You'd think those eastern cities never did such a wicked thing. But the men who are at or going on to the conventions in Chicago and Baltimore will have sad tales to tell of extortion and bedroom robbery.

The writer was in Chicago during the convention of eight years ago. At the Lexington Hotel, a mile or more from the center of activities, he had to pay $12 a day for a small room and a bath that he had to share with a man in a connecting room, who also was charged $12 per.

But this was mild when compared with St. Louis, where the fair and the Democratic convention were on at the same time. There, at the Jefferson Hotel, two of us were wedged in one small room, with one bed, one cot and a bath, and for these meager accommodations we were charged $36 per day—just for a place to sleep and to bathe. Really those eastern cities ought to agitate for low hotel rates in San Francisco.

Plenty of Accommodations for All

San Francisco is peculiarly a city of hotels. It is notable among the cities of the world for its ability to accommodate a crowd.

When Sam G. Blythe, the "Who's Who" man and the most famous of Washington correspondents, was out here last he remarked:

"I never have seen a place with so many hotels. You can't turn your eyes in any direction without being met by hotel signs by the dozens. I am going to write an article on San Francisco as the city of limitless hotel accommodations."

And the hotels still are building, still are building. By 1915 there will be a solid hotel from Powell street to Van Ness avenue and from Market street to Sacramento. And it can be said for the San Francisco hotel men that they haven't raised their rates in the past, no matter what the strain.

Where Are the Practical Jokers?

"Are all our practical jokers dead?"

So asked a gray-bearded club man at the Bohemian, and naturally he was asked what prompted such a question. Some remarked that there had been no notable practical joking in the club for a long time, and then the gray-beard went on to say:

"Why, in the older days there was some mad prank every few months—something that all clubdom talked about. But you never hear of anything now. Since Pete Sloan and Leonce Sheldon passed, the race of practical jokers seems to have run out.

"The older jokers used to be keen for opportunities all the time, and no expense was too great or work too arduous to keep them from putting through a prank they had determined upon. But now I notice glaring opportunities in all directions and nobody to act on them. For instance, I nightly see a great electric sign, flaming, flaring on the night. It reads:

" 'BARE BROTHERS.'

"Now if Harry Gillig or Hermann Oelrichs, or Sloan or Sheldon were alive, or if Harry Dimond or Billy Berg were in action, as sure as fate some night that sign would flame on an astonished but laughing community:

" 'BARE SISTERS.' "

The Usual 'Summer Drop'

Already we begin to hear from some of our merchants the well-known word that business is not what it ought to be. We get that cry every year at about this time. Some of the merchants pull long faces as if their business was going right to pot.

But there is nothing unusual in the matter at all. It is just the story told every year. The people are going into the country. There are not so many of them around to buy things. They'll all come back soon and business will go on again as usual.

The newspapers prepare for this exodus. It is what they call the "summer drop." It means that circulation will fall off up to about 4000. But the papers know their subscribers will all come back; and some day the merchant will also prepare for his "summer drop" and take his measures accordingly instead of setting up the usual wail about business going to the dogs.

A Contest Worth Seeing

We have all sorts of contests, but now some of the men about town are suggesting a new one that would stir up a lot of interest, and I suggest to some of the charity workers that they get in and make a benefit performance of it.

I refer to a contest in ragging.

Now it is very hard to rag gracefully. Few men and women excel in it. Among the men about town the three notable raggers are Charlie de Young, Bill Lange and Bud Havens. There are others who fancy themselves.

So suppose we get up a cup and a charity show and have a ragging contest, with a lot of fun, plenty of excitement and money in gobs for the poor.

What's in a Name?

They are telling a good newspaper story on a young reporter on an afternoon paper, and so that outsiders may understand the tale it must be stated that the letters "M. G." on newspaper copy mean "Must Go." They are appended by one of the editors to indicate that in the making up of the paper the story so marked must not be left out.

On the afternoon paper referred to after the young reporter had come to work, the make-up man found himself flooded with copy marked "M. G." He complained to the managing editor:

"Why are you puting so many 'M. G.' stories up to me?"

"I haven't marked an 'M. G.' story in two days," was the reply, and naturally there was an investigation.

It was found that all the young reporter's copy had been sent in marked "Must Go"—"M. G." So the young man was put on the carpet.

"What do you mean by marking all your copy 'M. G.?' " asked the managing editor sternly.

"Why, I noticed that the other reporters initialed their copy before sending it in, and so I initialed mine 'M. G.'—'Moses Green.' "

His Definition of the Hobo

Patrick J. Kindelon, the chief detective and special agent of the Southern Pacific Company, who has gone to Buffalo to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Special Agents, has made a study of the hobo and his kind that infect railroad tracks and trains, and the number he has arrested is legion. His classification and definition of the hobo in his variety is both interesting and novel. He says a hobo is a man between 20 and 30 years, who can "make" a moving train going from fifteen to twenty miles an hour, and who builds fires inside of freight cars in cold weather and rob stations and farmhouses. A stewbum is what is left of a hobo after he is 30 years of age. He cannot "make" a passenger train any more. A kid is a lad who runs away from home between 14 and 20 years. After begging, stealing and being in jail, he graduates into the hobo class. A blanketstiff he styles a degenerate workingman between 40 and 60 years of age, while a gay-cat is a well-dressed young man who mixes with tramps and steals rides with them. Hoboes make the gay-cats do the begging at junction points because of their good appearance. The jungle-buzzard is a cross between a prizefighter and the jungle-cook, the man who does all the cooking for the gang. The buzzard appoints the committees from the jungle of the gang to go out and either beg or steal bread, potatoes, chickens, etc.

Luxury Aboard Private Train

J. Hobart Moore of Chicago, now at Santa Barbara, is the successor of Dr. Seward Webb of New York as the arbiter elegantiarum, so to speak, of how one should travel to and from California. There was a time when it required a train of five or six of the finest Pullmans to convey Webb, whose wife was a Vanderbilt, to the coast for a winter outing. Annually, he came in that style with his entourage, making a great howdy-do. The last year or two, however, California has seen nothing of him. Moore has taken his place on a more lavish scale. He is one of the family of that name, who, with D. G. Reid and the late W. B. Leeds, made a fortune out of the Rock Island road. He is still in the property, along with W. H. and E. S. Moore. For several months past, J. Hobart has been at Santa Barbara with his family, his autos, horses, polo ponies and whatnot. He brought them all out in a finely-appointed special train. A telegram has just been sent by him to the lake city to send the train out to convey them home by way of Los Angeles and El Paso. All the metal work in the private car used by Moore is gold-plated, whereas Dr. Webb was content with silver-plated work in his home on wheels. All the windows of the Moore car are draped with fringed French cretonne of a picturesque floral design in red and green, which harmonizes with the deep red leather upholsteries of the dining and observation rooms. Small, but costly, pictures hang above the glass-enclosed sideboard, which shows rows of shining silver on the shelves.

How the Windows Got Broken

United States Senator George S. Nixon of Nevada, who died the other day, once told the writer in a chat at the Palace, where he was a frequent guest, that the first money he ever earned as a boy was shooting mountain quail near his home in Auburn, this state, for the San Francisco market. When he went to Nevada to live he said his earthly possessions were carred in his pocket and represented $18 in coin. There is no doubt but what his estate, when settled, will amount to several millions, the greater part of which he made during the past twelve years, after the Tonopah and Goldfied mining discoveries. He liked to tell of the time when he was working as an operator at the Humboldt, Nev., dining station and was handed a telegram by an Englishman who proved to be Oscar Wilde. The message was addressed to an actress in San Francisco, Wilde being en route here at the time. It read:

"Dreadfully dull journey; very lonely without you."

After his last successful campaign at the primaries for re-election as senator he wrote out a campaign account as follows:

New tires for autos, $400.

Payments for broken windows, $143.27.

He covered 6500 miles of rough country in his primary fight, which accounts for the auto tire expense. In his campaigns, the late Senator Stewart of Nevada would use up ten or twelve horses. One day, after the news of his victory at the primary, Nixon happened to be in Goldfield. The narrow street became jammed with people to congratulate him, and everybody was invited to drink. In the jam and rush a lot of store windows were broken. He paid for all this damage.

Wingfield Wanted the Toga

Governor Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada in appointing George Wingfield as United States senator, in succession to Nixon, has rounded out the former's most romantic career, and given the state another rich man in the upper house of Congress. Had Nixon lived, there is no doubt but what he would have aided Wingfield in an effort to get Senator Newlands' toga. It is understood they had always planned such a coup, and that Newlands was aware of the combination. It is certain, therefore, that Wingfield has long been ambitious for the political honor he has just attained unexpectedly. He is rated as being a millionaire seven or eight times over, with an annual income of half a million. In business life he has such powerful associates as William H. Crocker of this city and the Bernard M. Baruch coterie of financiers in New York. In business judgment and success, and in general repute and education, he certainly is the equal of men like Sharon and Fair, who were senators from Nevada. With probably the exception of Nye and Stewart, the state has always had millionaires as senators, so Wingfield will probably not be objected to by anybody on that account. His wife is a woman of education and refinement, and the daughter of a banker named Murdock of this city.

Huntington's $12,000 Bathrooms

Two $12,000 baths in his country home in Southern California, which is nearing completion, puts Henry E. Huntington in the van of the extravance and luxury in that respect in the West. One who has got a glimpse of these bathing rooms, in the form of marble pools, with decorative silver and brass effects, asserts that none in the land can exceed them in beauty, and probably not in cost. The same authority, who is a skilled artisan in such work, says the rich people of California, together with easterners having homes in the state, spend much money on their bathrooms. He cites the mansion on Van Ness avenue, which was built by the late Claus Spreckels, saying it has a $10,000 bath. The Pasadena home of Adolphus Busch of St. Louis has an $8000 bath. The new home of the William Miller Grahams at Santa Barbara, on the site of their present residence, "Bellasgardo," has included in its plans a marble bathing pool to cost $7000. He mentions at least sixty wealthy people in this city, Burlingame and in and around Los Angeles who have spent all the way from $2000 to $6000 on their bathrooms.

His Fortune Slipped Away

I ran across Williard V. Huntington, a cousin of H. E. Huntington, and a nephew of Collis P. Huntington, the other day. Williard continues to make his home in this city. Not taking kindly to a railroad career, his uncle got out of patience with him and failed to remember him in his will. Collis P., however, advanced him money some fifteen years before he died to speculate in real estate north of Golden Gate Park, now known as the Richmond district. In these deals he got embarrassed and the uncle finally took everything off of his hands, giving him $100,000 in cash. Today all of this property is owned either separately or jointly by H. E. Huntington, Mrs. Arabella Huntington, Collis P.'s widow, and the Huntington Land Company. These holdings aggregate about $600,000. But Williard is not crying over spilt milk. He's of a jolly, careless disposition, and at present is devoting his time to rewriting his book of descriptive chapters, reminiscences and random poetry called "Oneonta," after the name of the New York town in which he and his cousin and uncle were born. One of the poems is entitled "Yesterday." When the book was first offered, Williard gave a copy to a friend in this city, a wag and dilettante. The latter wrote a parody on that poem and called it "The Day Before Yesterday." Williard never forgave him.

Everybody Pleased and Happy

Gyula Ormay, the brilliant and handsome pianist of the Palace hotel orchestra under Leader Hoffman, and his bride of fifteen months are the proud parents of a baby daughter, and are being made the recipients of many congratulations. Mrs. Ormay is a daughter of John Stark, an orchestra leader of note in Los Angeles, and formerly of this city. Ormay and his bride had an elopement in order to circumvent the opposition of her parents. She left her home one night and the next thing anybody knew was that she and her musical lover were spending their honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. Her indignant father, on hearing about the runaway marriage, is said to have laconically remarked:

"My responsibility for her ceased as her last foot stepped over the family threshold."

But everybody is pleased and happy now.

Has No Use for Literary Colonies

Writing to a friend here, Gertrude Atherton, the leading American novelist of today, says she intends to come home to California to vote this fall. Meanwhile, she will spend most of her time in the east, principally in and around New York. Mrs. Atherton is said to contine to have little patience with either Chicago or Carmel-by-the-Sea. Of the former, she once said:

"I would rather to go Hades than live in Chicago."

About Carmel, she once told the writer:

"I keep away from all literary folk out here. In the first place, when I made my debut they all resented my existence because I did not come out of Bohemia, and the same spirit still endures, the more because I no longer rank as merely a California writer. In the second place, I think all literary coteries, and particularly 'colonies,' unhealthy, for they degenerate into mutual admiration societies, and their members end by being content with one another's praise, and forget or affect to despise the great public beyond, which is quick to forget them. I have a theory that to accomplish big things you must stand alone. For my part, I can only write on Mt. Tamalpais or in San Francisco in summer, when it is cool, windy and bracing."

Mrs. Atherton is greatly pleased over the large sale her latest novel, "Julia Frane," is having. It is cause for admiring wonder how, in the narrative of this book, the writer has, with a deft, artistic hand, treated of London society, Persian religious unrest, new business, the Boer and Spanish-American wars, the San Francisco disaster of 1906, West India life, present phases of American political life and whatnot and made a smooth-running story of absorbing interest.

Served Him Just Right

Here is where the biter got bit, and you will say it served him good and plenty when you hear the tale.

No allusion is intended to a certain family in the town, which is airing its quarrels in both the civil and criminal courts.

Mrs. ——— is about to sue for divorce. She won't back out, either. Her husband has acquired wealth and wants a more fashionable life partner. He was puzzled about how to get rid of No. 1, who is a sweet, lovable woman, under 35. He finally hit upon a scheme. Unprincipled as it showed him to be, he did not hesitate to try and carry it out. Going about the matter brazenly, he called upon an old friend, one not a stranger to unconventional affairs with women, to help him out. He asked this man, a friend of the family, to take his wife out on an auto ride and have the machine break down conveniently, so that he and the wife would have to stay at some country resort or hotel all night. The next day, at the psychological moment, he, as the irate husband, was to raise a big row, and lay the foundation for a divorce. The friend seemingly assented, and then informed the wife. Hearing the next day that that evening the husband had an appointment with a certain woman upstairs in a French restaurant, he posted the wife and arranged to take her there to catch hubby. The latter is said to have been paralyzed with surprise when the wife and friend rushed in on him and his fair and naughty companion. The two men indulged in a fierce fight in the room, the wife coolly looked on as the other woman fled in dismay. Hubby is nursing a broken nose and black eye, and his friends, who have heard of the affair, are "cutting" him. From all accounts, the wife, in her complaint, is to fully expose husband and plot and claim half of his $150,000 fortune as community property; then, if some other woman wants him, well and good.

Purchased for Cash All His Land

I am in receipt of a copy of Stephen Bonsal's biography of General Edward F. Beale, the father of Truxtun Beale of this city and San Rafael, Mrs. John R. McLean of Washington and Cincinnati and Mme. Bakhmeteff, the wife of the Russian ambassador to the United States. The latter trio inherited from their father four ranches, comprising 276,800 acres of land, in Southern California, which they recently sold to a Los Angeles syndicate. Beale, as surveyor-general under President Lincoln, ran the forty-fifth parallel west across the country to the Pacific ocean, and did other noteworthy work. For a time, in this connection, camels imported from Egypt were used. They were finally turned adrift on the Mojave desert, where some of their descendants are still to be seen. Apropos of General Beale's acquirement of large land holdings in California and his work as surveyor-general, the biography, among other things, has this to say:

"A witty, though absolutely groundless story, is told about Lincoln and General Beale, and the latter's great landed possessions. Lincoln is reported as saying that he could not reappoint Beale as surveyor-general because 'he became monarch of all he surveyed.' As a matter of fact, General Beale, to the amazement of many of his friends, who have since died poor, purchased for cash all the land in California of which he died possessed, and the purchases were made long before he became surveyor-general. While Beale only paid 5 cents an acre for much of this land, this was 5 cents an acre more than most people at the time thought it was worth, and it was well known that for years no white man could be paid to live on the place during the general's frequent absences for fear of marauding Indians and white outlaws. General Beale enjoyed the 'surveying story,' as he called it, as well as anyone else, but once said: 'Some day the archives of our country will tell why Lincoln made me surveyor-general. It had nothing to do with rod or chain, but much to do with the metes and bounds of the Union.'"

The Tricks of Shoplifters

The veteran detective, a member of San Francisco's "finest," smiled dubiously as he read in the papers last week a dispatch from Los Angeles that Miss Cecilia M. Chappelle, accused of shoplifting, had been discharged on her promise not to try to commit suicide, and because she claimed her stealing was due to an injury to her head sustained a year before. Talking to himself, as it were, the trained and experienced sleuth observed that he never heard of either a shoplifter or pickpocket trying to commit suicide, and that some injury to the head was a threadbare excuse with nine out of ten people accused of shoplifting. Like the poor and taxes, shoplifters are always on hand, he further commented. Some of the big retail stores have been suffering considerable of late from their pilferings, and detections have been but few. One of the latest methods of stealing by female shoplifter, he says, is to have a slit in the dress near the belt. As she stands near the counter she can deftly seize the article desired, be it a piece of lace or costly fabric or a bit of jewelry, and slip it into the skirt. The folds of the skirt are voluminous and readily conceal the thing stolen. Women are especially ingenious in this kind of theft, their dress, of course, greatly aiding them. Some tricks are successful because of their simplicity. A fashionably dressed woman may walk into the clothing department, look over a coat, pick up one, fold it neatly, place it under her coat and walk away. If she is detected, she will indignantly declare that she bought the suit some time before and that she was just bringing it back to be altered.

Crooked Poker Game for Women

Chester A. Bell, in his divorce complaint, charges that his wife conducts a poker game in the choice residence district at 1337 California street, which is largely patronized by women of the better classes. Whether his charge is true I do not pretend to know, but it is a fact that several poker games exclusively for women are flourishing in this town, and they have already disrupted several households. In some of these places, the woman who wants to "try her luck" is up against it in the very worst way, for the "stacking" and other manipulations of the cards is of the rankest kind. Like the crooked games at men's resorts—klondike, hyronemous, keno, roulette, faro, stud poker, craps and chuck-a-luck—the woman victim, boob and sucker, has no more chance than a snowball in a red-hot furnace.

Many graduates of bridge whist in respectable homes are said to be gambling in these places. I am acquainted with one man, by the way, who knows his wife is both a poker and bridge whist fiend. He used to give her $200 a month for clothes and pin money and she was quite content. Then she got to playing bridge whist.

"My wife has the fever bad," he tells his few intimates. "I used to like a little game of poker, but I have had to stop it altogether. Why? Well, simply because of her love for cards, my wife learned to play poker. She said it was child's play compared to bridge. It must have been, because she made a point of it to insist on playing a little game with me whenever she had lost at bridge. That is the way she managed to recoup her losses. She would clean me out, and I always thought I was a pretty good poker player. Now I have stopped playing poker altogether. My wife loses at bridge pretty regularly. She is spending her $200 a month that way. In fact, I have to give her $300 a month for clothes and spending money now, and yet none of the dressmakers' bills seems to be paid. Believe me, a poker or bridge whist playing wife is no good thing to have around the house."

Bohemians Enjoying Paris

Four leading members of the Bohemian Club, including its president, George F. Richardson, are having a delightful time in Paris, and intend sailing for home from London at the end of this month. Raphael Weill, Sr.; Frank K. Ainsworth and Frank Unger are the other three. This latter trio sailed from this port for Japan last March on a tour of the world, including Egypt. Richardson went direct to London and the continent in April, and met his fellow clubmen recently in Florence. Since then they have been traveling together, and, from all reports, they are having the times of their lives. Weill's wide acquaintance with people of prominence in the French capital is one of the reasons why the quartet is being royally entertained there. They were recently given a dinner there by a relative of Weill, that is characterized as being the "last thing" in the way of decorative effects and ministrations for the inner man. Twenty-four were at the table, and carrier pigeons flew into the room while the coffee and cigars were being enjoyed, bringing messages purporting to be from San Francisco friends of the four travelers. Bohemia is certain to be delighfully regaled with many a tale when the globe-trotters return.

Big Retainer for Henry Ach

Henry Ach, the attorney, has been given a retainer of $15,000 a year to act as one of the legal advisers for the Associated Oil Company, the largest concern of its kind in California. The public knows Ach best as the lawyer who made one of the most remarkable legal battles in the history of the West when he defended Abe Ruef. The members of the bar have long known him as a very able lawyer in civil cases, and he has been a money-maker for years in that line of practice. To them, therefore, it is not surprising that the oil syndicate has seen fit to retain him to handle some of its varied and important legal affairs. Others corporations have been making use of his services for ten or twelve years past. His success with their affairs is what has led to his appointment by the Associated.

Attorney Who Can Make a Bed

Frank H. Powers can make beds as well as successfully practice law and occasionally write a novel. Powers is the founder of Carmel-by-the-Sea and the largest owner of property in that famous literary colony. Some time ago part of his help in the hotel suddenly quit. When he arrived on the scene there was confusion and disorder. One of the remaining employes bemoaned the fact that there was nobody around to make up the beds.

"That's easy," replied the attorney, off-handed; "I'll do that myself."

True to his word, Powers started in, and, like a trained chambermaid, he handled pillow cases, mattresses, blankets, sheets and all the other kinds of bedding and bedclothes. When he had finished everything looked spick and span, the pillows smooth, white and at the proper angle at the head of the bed, and bedclothes lying as unruffled as a still pond in the summer days. He would not like to have the job often, however, and don't need to. But praise him to his face as a bedmaker and you will have won his friendship for life.

Coming Visit of Nobility

The forthcoming visit to this city of Mrs. W. B Leeds, with the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, en route to New York and London from Japan, causes a certain prominent San Franciscan, a friend of the duchess' father, Eugene Zimmerman, the Cincinnati multi-millionaire, to recall how the latter on one occasion, while visiting in London, gave a newspaper interview in which he bemoaned the fate of the American millionaire, saying, among other things, that he was a target for everybody and everything. Some of the funny paragraphers took notice of his wail. One of these rhyming comments, entitled "Nobody Loves a Millionaire," is in the possession of the local man alluded to, and one of its verses runs like this:

He Was a Quick Touch Artist

"And so, as Mr. Zimmerman is Mr. Zimmerman,
And you hardly will dispute that I am I,
I've hit on what appears to me to be the only plan
For putting right what Fate has sent awry.
Just listen for a moment, and you'll see if it will strike
You as being what is right and just and fair:
Let him go in for politics, which he appears to like
And I will be the humble millionaire."

A visitor's card to the Bohemian Club, given a certain Englishman a few days ago, has been canceled because of his persistency in "touching" members for loans. How much he got is not known. He was not at all backward in asking for large sums. In one case, he asked for $1000 and was refused. It is alleged that several members accommodated him with sums ranging from $50 to $100 on his story to the effect that his London draft had been delayed and would arrive two days later. This tale was his stock in trade as a quick-touch artist. By means of it he got into the good graces of a Chicago business man in Honolulu, who paid his way to this city and his bill at the St. Francis for a week. It was through the Chicago man that he met Bohemian Club members, and got from one of them a card to the club as a visitor. The lake city man finally repudiated him, but not before he played his role as a borrower of cash in the club.

Perhaps It Was Strange

This wife understands life as it is, as can be readily seen from the following conversation with her husband:

She—What are you going to do today, John?

He—I'm going to take Smith of New York on a walk about town, for he has not been here since the fire.

She—I don't think he will enjoy himself, so long as you are not drinking now.

He—Smith is not drinking, either.

She—Then I can't imagine how in the world either of you will enjoy the walk.

Versatility of Sam Blythe

Sam G. Blythe, the well-known political writer and Washington correspondent, who is to report the national Republican and Democratic conventions for THE TRIBUNE, has been a frequent visitor to this city during the past two or three years. Blythe is a very versatile fellow, a mine of information, a good listener and a charming story-teller. One of his best tales relates to the days when he was a city editor of a big daily paper. A pert, young chap one day applied to him for a position as a reporter. Asked as to his education, he said he had been in grammar school.

"Do you think that enough?" asked Blythe.

The young fellow thought it was, especially in view of his other qualifications.

"And what are those?" he was asked.

"Well, I have been a plumbers' helper, and my work frequently took me to buildings and homes where I met many of the most prominent people of the town," was the delightfully confident reply.

SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY TO WELCOME FRIENDS TODAY

Great Pageant Will Mark Passing of Last Collegiate Exercises

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, June 15.—Santa Clara's sons and their thousands of friends will flock hither tomorrow to participate in the pageant that will mark the dedication of two new buildings and the passing of the collegiate mark. All classes and creeds will be represented in the great gathering, and the day will go down in the annals of the institution with its Golden Jubilee, the Passion Play, and other "red letter" events for which the mission town is famous.

In response to invitations sent to organizations and societies of all kinds, including the Native Sons and the Native Daughters of the Golden West, have come numerous communications promising the support of their presence, many bringing with them beautiful banners, splendidly trained drill teams, and, in some cases, well-tuned bands.

The festival begins at 1:30 with a pageant marshaled by F. W. Ryland, W. J. Foegate, aide, which marching through the town, will pass under a gigantic arch, erected in the campus.

The many organizations, which will participate in this pageant, will form picturesque and attractive features. The Native Sons of the Golden West, representing the early miners, will be there. The Knights of Columbus robed in the [illegible] white cords, will represent the early Franciscan fathers. Depicting the Spanish soldiers and cavaliers, the San Jose Loyal Order of Moose will be next in line. Then will follow the visiting and local members of the Young Men's Institute, portraying the early Californians. Following the Young Men's Institute will come the Native Daughters, in white, with Spanish colors in evidence. The Young Ladies' Institute parlors will appear in unique regalia. To terminate the procession, the Red Men will show in Indian costumes.

DRILL TEAMS TO SHINE.

Some of the councils of the Young Ladies' Institute will show some marvelous drill work in marching, while others of the Young Men's Institute will try and outdo them with grotesque and artistic evolutions.

The parade will be followed by a series of wonderful tableaux, staged under the direction of Charles D. South, while the scenery has been painted by that clever artist, Michael O'Sullivan, whose work has won for him a high place in California art.

These tableaux will represent epochs in the history of Santa Clara from the days when the Franciscan fathers first came among the Indians here to the present day—right up to the hour of the laying of the cornerstone of the new buildings. To the gaze of the spectators will pass in review scenes from the early days of Spanish colonization as well as others from the days when Father Nobili started the great work of founding and developing a college at the old Mission, of which a replica has been carefully modeled, thus adding [illegible] interest to the scene.

In order to present these events several hundred amateur actors have been called into requisition and many of these have come forward from various organizations, who were anxious to help make an unqualified success of the event. Native Sons of the Golden West have vied with councils of Knights of Columbus and Young Men's Institute in offering their services, and the effect will be magical.

Then the spectators will witness the awarding of the diplomas to graduates and of the special degrees granted to the few favored ones, who have shown themselves worthy of such honor, and Roy A. Bronson will pronounce the valedictory. This young man is one of the most popular members of the graduating class, who on many previous occasions has made his mark as a brilliant speaker and a promising student. He will return next semester to take up the course of law at the University, thus becoming a pioneer university man of Santa Clara.

ANCIENT VESPER SERVICE.

If it were possible to attribute more or less interest to the various features to be presented at Santa Clara tomorrow afternoon probably the prize would go to the rendering of the vesper service, which will be held at 6:15. This will be given by the Franciscan Fathers in the open and will be an exact reproduction of the same service as carried out in the early days when Father Serra and his noble followers gathered the Indian neophytes around them to close the day in solemn devotion.

The Young Men's Institute and the Young Ladies' Institute of San Francisco propose to go down to Santa Clara in the early morning, leaving here by special train at 8:45. There will be many hundreds of them, and, when arrived at Santa Clara, they will have mass in the open, celebrated by Father William Bennett, S J., while Father Charles Bradley, C. S. P., will give an address.

Almost at the same hours an immense procession of automobiles will leave the civic center of San Francisco [illegible] the whole of the peninsula, winding up in the university grounds.

ALUMNI ARRANGEMENTS.

The committee of the alumni of Santa Clara University which has been making the arrangements for this feature of dedication day states that between 400 and 500 cars will participate in the run. This committee, of which Marius J. Kast is the chairman, has had Frank E. Carroll attending to such details as require a knowledge of automobile affairs, he being experienced in the automobile business. Carroll has perfected plans for what is called a sealed handicap race, for which prizes will be awarded at Santa Clara. A number of special prizes are to be given for cars driven by ladies. Every auto, regardless of its speed or make, will have a chance to win a prize under the conditions of this run. Every driver before leaving will be handed a sealed envelope, in which his starting time will be noted. Cars will assemble at Marshall square and the civic center at 8.30 o'clock Sunday morning, and the start is to begin at 9 o'clock. Persons not owning automobiles can make arrangements with the committee for hiring them at reasonable rates.

SPECIAL RATE MADE.

The railroad has made concessions in their rates for tomorrow. The round trip will cost only $1.25 from San Francisco to Santa Clara, and arrangements have been made for a considerable reduction in the price from up country places. Intending visitors from such places should secure from their respective station agents from whom they purchase their tickets a receipt for this purchase, which they will present to Mr. J E Green at Santa Clara, whose endorsement will secure the promised reduction.

The reception committee will have representatives in each car, and from these all needed information may be obtained.

The first general excursion train leaves the depot at Third and Townsend streets at 12 noon, and will be followed with ten minutes interval by [illegible] may be obtained today, Saturday, at the regular ticket office.

The return trains will begin to leave Santa Clara at 7 p. m.

LEAVES FOR VACATION.

Harry L. Alkus, manager of Smith's Money-Back store of this city, leaves today, accompanied by Mrs. Alkus, to spend his vacation at the Santa Cruz beach.

SURGEON CHASES FLEEING PATIENT

Anxious Family of Fugitive Trails Along Through the Streets.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—A fleeing surgical patient, a pursuing surgeon, and an anxious family trailing along in the rear, was the exciting scene which enlivened Towne avenue. The patient, Willie Borgwardt, 20 years old, made a successful escape from the awaiting implements of the surgeon, who visited his home at 722 Towne avenue, at the request of Willie's father, to perform a minor operation on the son.

The younger Borkwardt objected to the operation, especially after the surgeon arrived and he witnessed the sterilizing of the surgical instruments, which had anything but a pleasant look.

Realizing that unless prompt action was taken that he would be operated on, young Borgwardt excused himself a minute and went into the bathroom. As soon as he could, Willie decamped through the window.

As the boy made his escape, surgeon, father and mother joined in the chase, but the younger man proved the better runner. [illegible] of hours' search of the neighborhood, the elder Borgwardt called the detective department by phone and asked them to locate his missing son.

COOL WEATHER HELD BACK VALLEY FRUIT

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—The cool weather is not altogether favorable to the rapid development of fruit, according to reports received by the California Fruit Distributors, but a considerable quantity of deciduous varieties is now being shipped.

The apex of the apricot season is expected to be reached next week, when the Winters and the Vacaville sections will offer their largest supply.

The cherry season is already on the decline. Only Black Oregons are being shipped from sections north of the Santa Clara valley, and most of these are from the Placer district.

The crop of Alexander peaches has not been heavy and the supply will soon be over. Following Alexanders will come Hales and following them Triumphs will be ready for shipment

QUICK RELIEF TO SUFFERERS FROM RHEUMATIC ILLS

Sulphurro Proving Blessing to Mankind Through Its Power in Restoring Health.

Coast Clay Company.

South Bellingham, Wash

My Dear Mr. Stewart:

I wish to write and congratulate you on the wonderful sale of your Sulphurro, though it is not to be wondered at, when one reads the many testimonials that you receive from all parts of the country from a few of the many people whom it has so completely cured of different ailments.

Having lived in the Yukon nearly 14 years, I contracted rheumatism which was troubling me so that I had tried everything that I was able to get that was good for rheumatism, but found nothing that was any good till last June. On coming outside to Seattle, I heard of your Sulphurro, which you kindly furnished free of cost. In less than a month I was completely cured and have not had a pain or ache of this nature since.

One of the leading druggists here in Bellingham told me yesterday that they sold more Sulphurro than any other proprietary medicine that he handled in his store.

(Signed) W. P. BRAYTON

Seattle, June 15.

Quick relief for rheumatism is Sulphurro's record in every case of rheumatism, where the patient has followed the directions given in the interesting 32-page booklet which accompanies each bottle of the medicine. Cases of years' standing have been relieved in a few days, with complete cure in a remarkably short time following.

Hundreds of former sufferers all along the Pacific Coast owe their restoration to health to Mr. Stewart's Liquid Compound of Sulphur. Every genuine bottle bears a fac-simile of his signature.

Sulphurro in 50-cent and $1.00 bottles, at all druggists.

SNAKES HOLD-UP CAR, FRIGHTENING WOMEN

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—Car crews on the Kirkwood-Ferguson electric line sometimes have to get off and clear the snakes out of the way so that timid passengers can get aboard in Brentwood.

As a car was on its way to Ferguson Motorman Frank Morris saw an excited company of women standing back about fifty feet from the crossing of the Creve Coeur branch of the Missouri Pacific Railway, with their skirts drawn discreetly about their ankles. He stopped his car and they pointed down the track. He looked and saw two snakes.

He armed himself with the switchbar, and the conductor, Bernard O'Reilly, joined him with a broom, and they killed the snakes before the women would board the car.

WOMAN SENSELESS, DOG FALLS ON HER

READING, Pa., June 15.—As Mrs. Charles E. Kirlin was walking along the sidewalk there was the flash of an object in the air and a dog came hurtling downward and landed squarely on her head, knocking her down. Persons ran to her assistance and picked her up unconscious. She was taken to her home in an automobile, where she is now confined to bed.

The dog, as badly scared as his victim, ran away with many yelps and was soon lost to view. It is not known whether the animal leaped or fell from the window. The police are investigating.

WORKMAN DIGS UP $12,000 STOLEN GEMS

BOSTON, June 15.—Jewelry valued at $12,000, which was stolen from the summer home at Monument Beach of George J. Gardner and James Jackson, of Boston, and Fred F. Field, of Brockton, has been found by a workman. While digging a post hole on the John Parkinson estate at Monument Beach the workman's shovel uncovered a large pail containing the plunder.

Mr. Gardner identified many of the gems as his and brought them to this city today. The robbery occurred last September, and it is thought the thief planned to leave the jewelry buried until he had a favorable opportunity to sell it.

CENTIPEDE BITES MAN, ITS BED-FELLOW

FRESNO, June 15.—George Peterson, a man employed on the ranch of Dr. H. A. Sweeney, at Caruthers, was bitten by a centipede and was rushed to town by Walter Lindsay in an automobile for treatment. Though his arm was badly inflamed and swollen around the wound, Dr. Sweeney bandaged it well, and said that the accident would not prove serious.

Peterson rose early from his out-of-doors bed, and while in the act of putting his shirt on received the bite in his upper arm from the centipede which had made its bed in his shirt sleeve.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY HIS PLAYMATE

Injured Lad May Not Survive Mishap Which Ended Their Play.

BULLET PUNCTURES LUNG OF VICTIM

Boy Who Did Shooting Unconscious for Hours After the Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Playing with a home-made rifle, which they had manufactured out of pieces of old weapons, two little boys, Elliott Tyrill, aged 14, and Joseph Sullivan, aged 13, life-long chums, caused a tragedy late this afternoon. As the result of an unfortunate accident, Tyrill lies at the Central Emergency Hospital hovering between life and death, following an operation by three surgeons, and his playmate is at home, hysterical and suffering from nervous prostration following three hours of unconsciousness.

Tyrill is the son of the late Corporal Jerome Tyrill of the Southern police station, while Sullivan's father is Patrolman Patrick Sullivan, one of the best-known members of the department. The families live side by side at 814 and 812 Douglass street, respectively. The lads were playing this afternoon in Sullivan's basement when the shooting occurred. Mrs. Sullivan had requested her boy to whitewash the cellar. On a shelf lay a sawed-off rifle, which it is believed the boy had assembled from pieces of old pistols. That they had the weapon was not known definitely to the parents of either, but Sullivan was handling the gun when in some manner it was discharged and struck his friend, the bullet going through the right lung and emerging at the side under the arm. At sight of what he had unwittingly done the lad fainted, and as his chum was being carried into the ambulance the latter said to Sullivan, who was recovering:

BOY UNCONSCIOUS.

"Don't feel badly, Joe; I am not hurt much."

Tyrill was rushed to the Mission Hospital and Sullivan was taken along in charge of a police officer. When the institution was reached it was the uninjured lad who demanded most of the attention. His hysterics were uncontrollable and he finally lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he did not rally until nearly 8 p. m., when he was taken home. Tyrill was operated upon by his family physician, Dr. Butler; Chief Surgeon Weeks and Assistant Surgeon Harder of the Emergency Hospital service.

Several days ago Policeman Patrick Sullivan, Joe's father, heard a shot and saw the two boys in the yard. They dodged his question as to where the report came from, although he told them that if they had a gun they had better give it up or someone would get hurt.

PAINTED MONEY FOOLS THIEVES IN BAR ROOM

NEW YORK, June 15.—Two burglars entered a cafe in Brooklyn. On the wall was the painting of a $10, a $2, and a $1 bill. When the burglars made their entry they went first to the cash drawer and took $12 in regular money. Then one of them flashed a light around the room and saw the picture. They thought it was one of the kind of ornaments that are often seen in saloons, and which are supposed to represent the first bills taken in after the place was opened. If these burglars had any sentiment they curbed it, as they thought that $12, whether the first or the last money taken in over the bar, was needed in their business.

So they carefully cut the picture from the frame, evidently thinking they would soak the money from the canvas when they had more time. The police are now looking for some one who has heard a noise like a disappointed burglar kicking himself. They believe, with that clew, they can find the burglars who stole the painted money.

KNIFE TO BE USED TO RELIEVE CRIMINAL

CLEVELAND, June 15.—William L. Bernard, aged 20, of Columbus, who pleaded guilty to having pawned $540 worth of samples of a local knitting company to pay New York gambling debts, asked the court to permit an operation on his brain to cure his craving for gambling. Bernard desired the operation rather than a prison sentence.

Bernard said his gambling fever robbed him of all reason, that he believed an operation would cure him, but if not, he nevertheless would be happy to have given surgical science opportunity to determine whether a gambling mania might be cured with a knife.

The prosecuting attorney agreed to have an examination made by alienists, and pending their report Judge Kennedy postponed sentence.

BIG ONYX DEPOSITS SUBJECT OF DISPUTE

SAN DIEGO, June 15. — R. H. Cole of Los Angeles arrived here en route to Lower California, where he proposes to make a fight for the possession of vast onyx deposits of immense value. These properties are now held by the Pedrara Onyx company, the Lower California Development company and the Hale concession, companies with an aggregate capitalization of $5,000,000.

Cole proposes to make his fight on the contention that under the Mexican mining law a grant of land does not carry with it the mining deposits that may be found later. F. J. Lee, manager of the Pedrara company, stated, that he had consulted attorneys who had assured him that Cole's contention would not hold, but other lawyers here dispute the correctness of this advice.

The steamer Excelsior of San Pedro leaves here June 20 to bring out a cargo of onyx valued at $100,000. A shipment worth about this amount arrives from these mines four times a year.

RICH ORE IS TAKEN FROM HOMESTAKE MINE

ETNA MILLS (Siskiyou county), June 15.—John F. Boyce, superintendent of the Homestake mine, came out today with 100 pounds of specimen ore that was taken from the mine last week. The rock is immensely rich and assays as high as $150,000 per ton. The mine is owned by R. S. Taylor, attorney, of Yreka, and the ore will be on display at the Mining Congress at Yreka in July.

The Taylor Lake mine, owned by the Harris Bros., has been leased to Dr. Inscor, who will interest southern capital to develop it. This is the property that was formerly bonded to Charles Truaz of Chicago, who shut it down, leaving about $10,000 of unpaid bills.

PLAN TO ENLARGE WINEHAVEN PLANT

WINEHAVEN, June 15.—As a result of the visit here of President Fitzpatrick of the California Wine Association, plans have been completed for the erection of several large additions to the big plant of the company here during the next few months. Among these will be a new cooperage plant, located between the main winery building and the engine-house. Additions will also be made to the bottling plant. Each year the association expends large sums of money for improvements to its immense plant at this place and the new building to be erected at this time are in line with the general improvement which the company has been carrying out since the establishing of the winery here.

ILLINOISANS WILL ENTERTAIN VISITORS

Members of the Illinois Society are planning to assist in the entertainment of the two commissioners from Illinois who are expected on the coast the first of the coming week to select the site for the state building at the 1915 fair. The commissioners are Colonel M. B. Bradley of Danville and James McLaren White of Champlain, the latter being supervising architect for the building.

It is expected a delegation from the local society will assist in the flag raising following the choice of the site, and efforts are also being made to entertain the visitors while on the coast.

COAST CONCESSIONS TO BE INTERNATIONAL

SAN DIEGO, June 15. — Mexican concessions of the privileges of fishing, guano gathering and lobster trapping along the entire Lower California coast and the coast of the Mexican mainland almost as far south as Mazatlan, will remain in the control of the International Fisheries Company for several years to come, according to Alfredo Sandoval, local representative of the concessionaries.

Mexican revenue cutters are to patrol the coasts of Mexico in the near future, according to Sandoval. One, already purchased, is to run the east coast, and the other is to do service on the western shores. One of its duties will be to require all fishing boats to exhibit a Sandoval permit.

As the schools of barracuda and halibut shift frequently between American and Mexican waters, it is thought that the fishermen of San Pedro and San Diego will find the new arrangement a heavy blow.

SANTA ROSA RANCH TO BE SUBDIVIDED

SANTA BARBARA, June 15.—The Santa Rosa ranch, owned by the J. W. Cooper heirs, has been sold to George W. Root and J. D. Hartin of San Francisco, and the 16,000 acres will immediately be subdivided and placed on the market in tracts of from 100 to 1000 acres. The negotiations have been in the hands of G. W. Pratt of Lompoc, who will also have charge of the subdividing of the estate. The Santa Rosa rancho is one of the best known of Spanish day land grants. The Santa Ynez river runs through it. There are about 4000 acres of fertile bottom land, 3500 acres of rolling hills, well adapted to agriculture, while the remainder is grazing land. Francisco Cota was the first owner of the ranch under a Mexican grant of July 10, 1830.

BIG ALMOND CROP HELD FOR BETTER PRICES

YUBA CITY, June 15.—The almond situation is favorable, as the crop is above the average and word has come that the foreign importations will not be as heavy as usual. From all reports offers have been made from 10 cents for Drakes to 14 cents for Nonpariels, but the firms buying have different figures and the growers outside the state exchange are not taking to them. Many are joining the organization. The local association will have i nthe neighborhood of 350 tons.

PAWNS HIS TEETH TO PURCHASE MEAL

OXNARD, June 15.—Pawning a set of upper teeth in order to get money for food, George Franklin is now facing a peculiar situation. He now has sufficient money with which to buy a meal, but he has no teeth with which to eat the meal when he gets it.

The man walked into a local pawnshop and, removing his teeth from his mouth stated that he would take $2 for them, for he was very hungry. When asked how he expected to eat without his teeth he remarked: "Well, if I have no money, how can I eat? I can at least take soup now."

HEAVWY ALFALFA CROP.

CERES, June 15.—Most farmers have finished cutting their second crop of alfalfa and it is one of the largest that has been cut in this district.

DOG TREATS BURGLARS AND POLICE ALIKE

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Burglars and policemen look alike to a watch dog at the San Diego Motorcycle repair shop. Being unable to distinguish the difference, he gave Motorcycle Policemen Bowles and Hill the warmest kind of a reception when they endeavored to enter his master's shop with a skeleton key at a late hour. In fact, he was still chewing a mouthful of blue pantaloons when the boss, "Rad" Radcliff, opened up this morning.

Hill and Bowles took their motorcycles to the Radcliff shop to be repaired, and last night when they called for them, they found the place closed. They know Radcliff well—he was once a policeman—so they decided to go in and help themselves. The back door was opened with a skeleton key, and both cops were searching the place for their machines when Mr. Dog made his presence known. He's a very serious dog, with a strong dislike for trespassers, and when he got through presenting his side of the argument he was in complete possession of the place. Bowles and Hill, who were then three blocks up the street, had decided to get along without their motorcycles until today.

FLIRTER IS JAILED IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—After attempting to flirt with three young women, one of whom he grabbed about the waist, a man giving the name of J. J. Tiley, was arrested at Fourth and Spring streets by Traffic Officer F. L. Johnson and lodged in the city jail. He is officially charged with disturbing the peace, but the real offense, according to the police, is "mashing."

Tilley attempted to convince the officer that a mistake had been made, and then attempted to escape by fighting with the patrolman. Again at the police station Tilley resisted when he was searched and his property taken away from him, but his struggles availed him nothing. He was placed in jail and his bail fixed at $250, which he was unable to provide at a late hour last night.

'WISE AS DONKEY' MEANS SOMETHING

SAN ANTONIO, June 15. — "As little sense as a donkey" is a favorite expression of contempt, but sometimes the four-footed creature shows intelligence far greater than the two-footed species. There is a donkey in Laredo, one of the onion centers of southwest Texas, whose daily performance is entitled to special mention.

The donkey is attached to a water cart, a two-wheeled vehicle used by Mexicans to peddle water among the homes of their "peon" countrymen. It is driven across a railroad track about 10 times each day and each time, as it nears the track, stops and brays vociferously. No amount of persuasion can get it across the track until it has stopped and given notice to trains on the right of way that it is coming.

EGG WITHIN EGG IS SAN MATEO PRODUCT

SAN MATEO, June 15.—An egg within an egg was laid by a hen owned by Hugh McLoughlin here today. The egg weighed six ounces. Experts assert that it is the largest that has ever been laid in the state. The inner egg occupied the place in which the yolk is usually found.

WE CURE WHERE OTHERS FAILED. WHAT WE HAVE DONE FOR OTHERS WE CAN DO FOR YOU. HERE ARE THE TESTIMONIALS.

Alameda, Cal., June 7, 1912.

To Whom It May Concern:

I was suffering with diabetes and constipation for many years, also often had headache and indigestion. I have been treated by many doctors, but none of them could help me until I was recommended to Drs. Chan and Kong. When I first consulted with them they did not ask me any question. They simply felt my pulse and told me every ailment I had correctly, and said they would cure me. I began to take the treatment immediately, and in one week I felt much better, and after continuing the treatment for three weeks I was entirely cured, although I am 70 years of age. But since I took their treatment I feel myself that I am young again. "As I am gaining my strength and weight all the time, I feel certain that they gave me many years to live." Therefore I am pleased to write this testimonial, and I tender them my deepest appreciation for the good that they have done me. I can conscientiously recommend them to anyone who is suffering as I did.

Yours sincerely

(Signed) CAPT. A. ANDERSON,
1529 St. Charles St., Alameda, Cal.

To Whom It May Concern:

I beg the pleasure, in justice to you and to those who are suffering as I did, to give my testimony, which you are at liberty to use any time and anywhere. I had a severe case of kidney trouble of long standing, also an enlarged liver. The complication of ills resulting from these two afflictions almost made me insane. I was sleepy all the time; had a general feeling of suffocation, smothering; my back so weak I could walk only a couple of blocks at a time; then I became completely exhausted. My eyes would fail me a couple of days at a time and so many other alarming symptoms that I felt my case was hopeless. I had treated with other doctors until I was discouraged and disgusted. As a last resort I called on Dr. Chan. I thought I would have to give him my history from the time of my birth, so that he would understand my case, but imagine my surprise, after the doctor examined my pulse, he didn't ask me one single question. He told me everything that was the matter with me better than I could have possibly told him. I began treatment immediately, and after two days I felt like a new person. My friends noticed the change. So I continued the treatment for nine weeks, at which time I was entirely cured. It looked impossible to me that I could be cured so quickly, but I am sound and well. I feel that he actually saved my life. Thanks to Dr. Chan and his wonderful knowledge of the human system. I can conscientiously recommend him to those who are suffering from any cause whatsoever. Very sincerely yours,

BECOMES BRIDE FOR SIXTH TIME AT 72

CARLYLE, Ill., June 15.—Six times a bride at 72 years of age is the record revealed by the marriage of Thomas J. Ritchey, 62, and Susan C. McNeill, 72, both of East Fork Township.

As Susan Elmore she became the wife of George W. Bender in Keyesport in 1895, and this was her third marriage. She was 56 years old then. His death left her a widow. Five years later her marriage to Nelly McNeill, an old soldier and a wealthy citizen of Keyesport was celebrated. Domestic tranquility did not prevail in their household. Partings were of frequent occurrence, and their disagreements reached the courts in the form of a divorce suit.

The decree of seperation was entered in due form. It was not long before the old couple developed a longing for each other. A second wedding in 1903. They lived happily until union was unexpected by the relatives and friends of the bride.

Factional Quarrels Killing the Party.

Apparently it has not occurred to many Republicans that the candidate they nominate at Chicago will have to be elected in November. They talk as if the nomination settled the election, and are careless about what they say or what effect their recriminations have on the public mind. Every intelligent person must realize that the fierce and bitter talk being bandied back and forth makes it more difficult to elect the nominee whoever he may be. In the heat of partisanship men have ceased to be Republicans or to have any solicitude for the welfare and success of the Republican party. They are Roosevelt men or Taft men rather than Republicans, and have lost sight of the principles of the Republican party in their zeal to nominate their candidate in any way they can. They forget that the Republicans must present a fairly united front if they are to win the coming election, and winning the nomination will mean nothing unless the election can be won. Billingsgate does not promote harmony in the party ranks nor does it invite the support of thoughtful men. The penalties this embittered contest invites should not be overlooked. The consequences should make men pause—that is, if they are loyal Republicans and sincerely attached to the principles of their party. Rule or ruin seems to be the motto of the faction leaders, and the ruin of all and the rule of none seems not unlikely to result. The row raging at Chicago is positively disgraceful. It is inexcusable, and is ripping the Republican party wide open. Is that what the faction leaders want?

There is not much noise and fireworks in a safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July, but there is more peace of mind and fewer fires and shocking accidents. Likewise, there is not so much excitement in spectacular and skyrocket politics, but there is more peace of mind, safety and sanity in the other kind—the kind that appeals to reason, patriotism and calm judgment rather than passion, prejudice and the imagination. The people generally have come to favor safe and sane celebrations of the national anniversary; let us hope that they will come to see the wisdom of safe and sane politics. The issue between fireworks and sober sense is now being drawn.

The American Flag Abroad.

Epes Randolph, manager of the Harriman lines in Mexico, says conditions on the west coast are about as bad as they can be. Nearly all the foreigners have got out of the country, and mining operations are practically suspended. Speaking of the protection afforded by the United States to the lives and property of American citizens in Mexico, Mr. Randolph said experience had taught him that the American flag meant very little abroad.

There is much truth in what he says. A certain class of Americans have attempted to use their citizenship for base purposes, and in the past our government has been too careless about protecting its honor. But experience has justified the government in being cautious about taking up the complaint of every person claiming to be an American citizen who goes to Mexico and gets into trouble. Men claiming to be American citizens have been mixed up in all the recent disturbances in Mexico. Many of these men are undesirable citizens in any country, and their business in Mexico is no credit to them or our government.

They are disturbers. They violate the terms on which they are guaranteed protection and the privilege of residence. Their conduct embarrasses our government in its effort to protect decent men and women in the rights guaranteed them by treaty, and they give the American nation a bad name abroad. And it occasionally happens that the blameless suffer for the sins of the turbulent and dishonorable, and that the governemnt is slow in demanding redress of bona fide grievances because of the many lying complaints made by worthless adventurers who wrap themselves in the folds of the American flag whenever their nefarious operations get them into trouble.

Still it is the duty of our government to sift the true from the false in the complaints coming from Mexico, and to vigorously assert the rights of the worthy and innocent who are robbed and wronged in the internecine strife raging in that country. The American flag should mean more than it does, should command more respect than is accorded it at present. There should be more decision and resolution in demanding redress for injuries inflicted on American citizens residing abroad—not Mexico alone, but all countries.

Justice to the Meadow Lark.

If anyone doubts the value of the meadow lark as an insect-destroyer let him attentively watch a field that is being plowed. He will see the larks gather in numbers behind the plowman and industriously feed in the freshly turned earth. If he will kill one of the birds and examine its crop he will find it filled with insects that feed upon plant life. He will discover that the larks are clearing the ground of the farmers' pests.

It is true that the lark also eats grain and sometimes helps himself to grapes, but for every cent's worth of damage he causes he does a dollar's worth of good. He does not touch grain or fruit if he can get worms and other insects. Ground insects are his favorite food. A study of the feeding operations of larks in fields that are being plowed will vindicate the character of this much-maligned bird.

Ignorant prejudice is mainly responsible for the demand that the lark be outlawed by statute. It is entertained by many honest men who have jumped at conclusions. If the farmer will watch the larks while he is plowing his land he will see that they are his friends and are destroying his enemies. In a way they protect his crops, and the depredations they commit are trifling compared to the good they do.

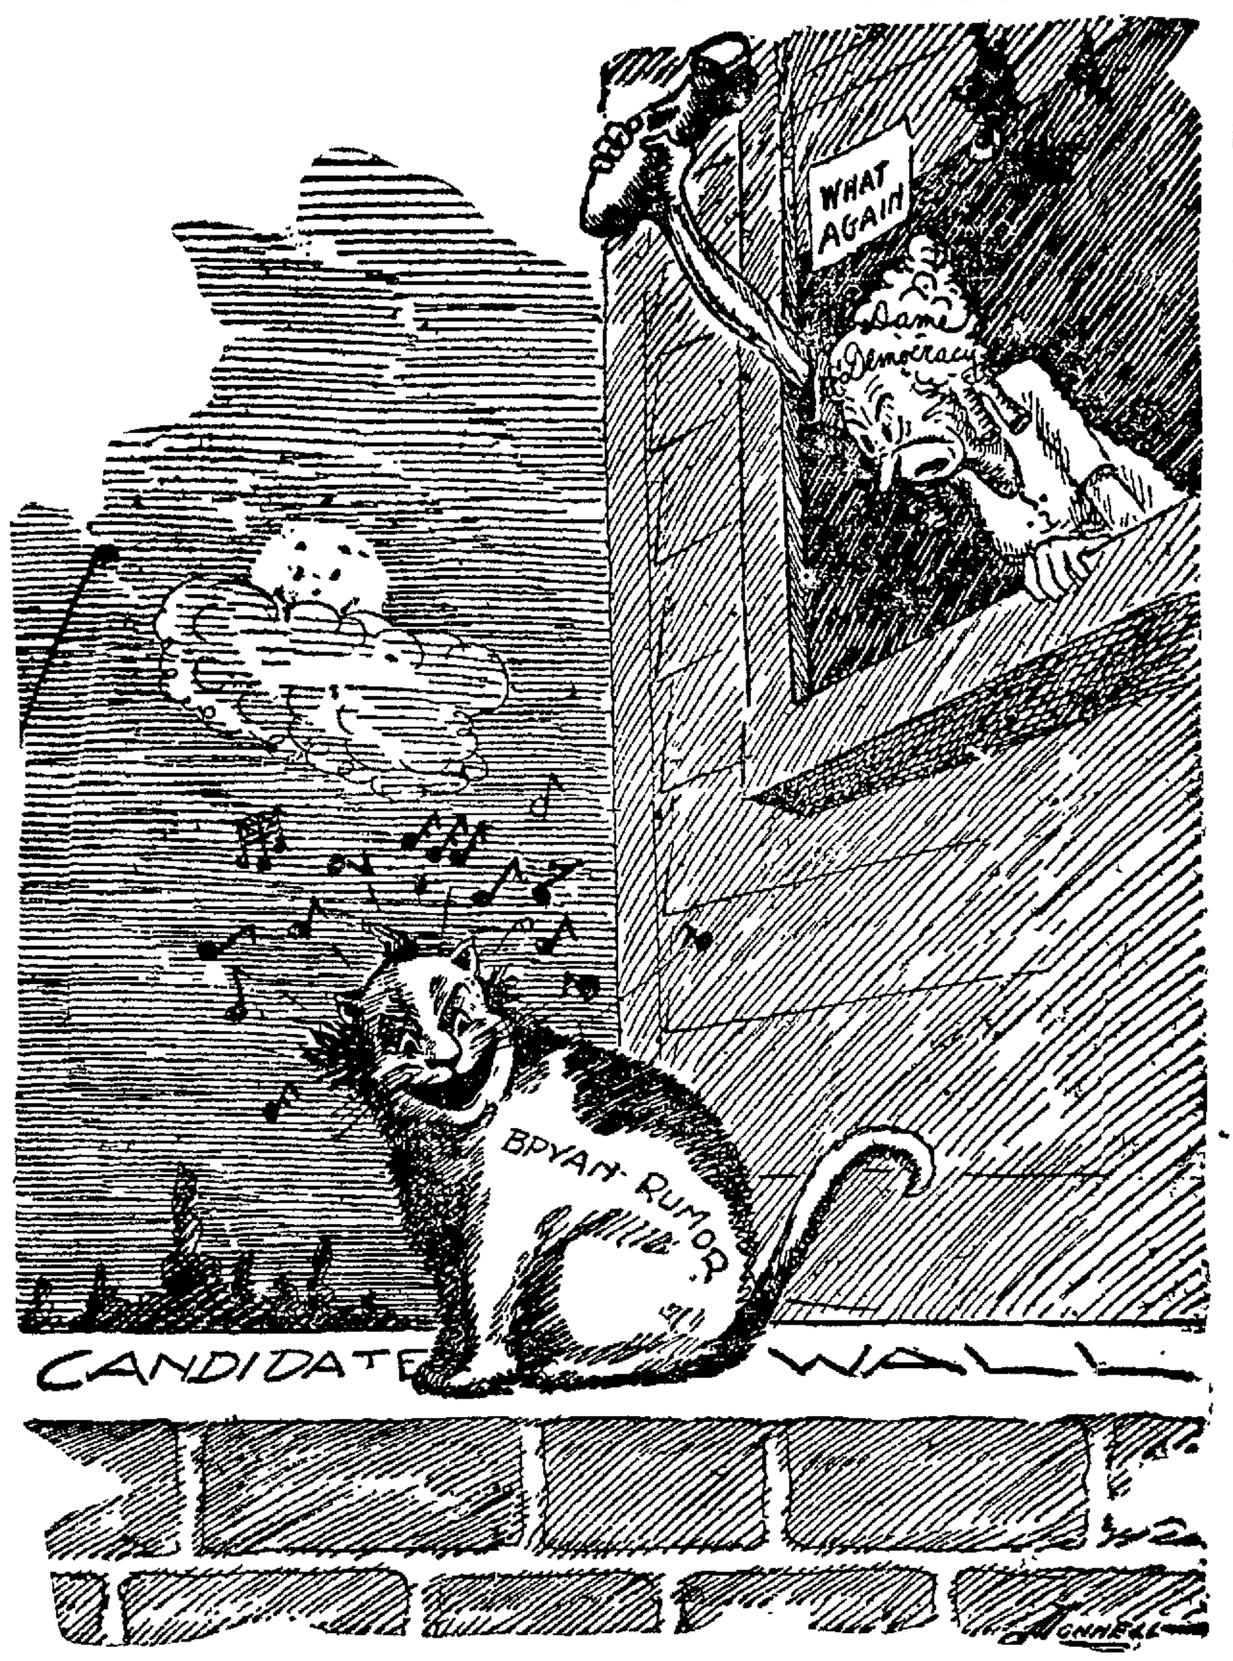
NINE LIVES



—ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH.

A New University for Texas.

A new institution of learning, richly endowed, will open its doors for the admission of students in September. It is the Rice Institute at Houston, Texas, which will be a university in fact, if not in name. It has been planned on broad lines and has abundant funds to equip it and finance its operations. It will have by far the largest endowment of any educational institution in the Southern States. It will be the seventh most richly endowed college in the United States.

The Rice Institute is the benefaction of the eccentric millionaire who was murdered in New York some years ago by a lawyer named Patrick, who claimed the Rice estate under a forged will. Patrick is now serving a life sentence in Sing Sing. The last financial statement of the trustees, recently issued, shows that the Rice Institute owns property valued at $9,816,000, of which upward of $9,000,000 belongs to the endowment fund. The net income of this endowment fund exceeds $400,000 annually, and is increasing yearly.

The buildings of the new institution have been carefully planned for their use, and are located on a tract of land 300 acres in extent in the suburbs of Houston. This tract is destined to be enormously valuable in the course of time, but its chief point of interest in the present day is that it offers abundant room for future expansion. It will never be necessary to buy more land on which to locate buildings, athletic grounds and botanical gardens. The necessity for all these things were considered when the buildings were planned and located. With ample funds at their command the trustees provided for future needs.

The Rice Institute will hold the same relation to the University of Texas that Stanford does to the University of California. It will be a privately-endowed and controlled institution for the free education of both sexes, and will doubtless have the same spirit of generous rivalry which prevails at Berkeley and Palo Alto. The State University of Texas does not hold the same rank as does the University of California, but it is a fine, growing institution nevertheless, and will probably be benefited rather than injured by the rivalry the Rice Institute will introduce. It is younger than Baylor University, a Baptist institution at Waco, or Southwestern University, a Methodist institution at Georgetown, but it is larger and better equipped than either, and is an honor to the State. Rice Institute will supply an institution of a character that it needs—one that is beyond the reach of political or ecclesiastical influence with abundant means to support it. In these respects it will be different from any other large university or college in the South.

Rice Institute was originally planned for a technical school, but the trustees have finally decided to equip it as a university, and letters, philosophy and speculative science will be included in the courses of education.

The movement to have a law passed restricting the sale of deadly weapons will not accomplish much good so long as murderers are allowed to go unpunished. The quickest and best way to get results is to hang persons guilty of cold-blooded murder and promptly send to prison all who commit unjustifiable assaults with deadly weapons. It is true that it is too easy for the criminal-minded to procure pistols and knives, but no law that human ingenuity can devise can prevent the criminal-minded from obtaining weapons. Swift and sure punishment for crimes of violence is the better way to check crime. It is feasible, and squares with the elementary principles of justice.

Questions of Terminology

Of a spot that was dear to my childhood
I'd sing
In the vein reminiscent so often employed;
Of the trees and the blossoms, the cool
crystal spring,
The moss underfoot and the vines that would cling,
To shelter the day-dreams which here
I enjoyed.
But I shudder and vainly endeavor to write!
Some rough pioneer caused this terrible plight,
Both meter and rhyme in astonishment stick—
It is known to the public as "Ganderfoot Crick."

I fain would write some lines to a lady fair,
A lady so graceful and gentle of voice,
A ripple of song that would sweetly declare
That she is a being whose charms are so rare
As to render her worthy a potentate's choice.
But my efforts poetic to lift her to fame
Are checked when I find I must mention her name.
My prospects poetic have gone to the dogs
Because she was christened "Mehitabel Boggs."

MASH THE MASHER

The problem of what to do with the street masher is no problem at all to a New York man, who despoiled the gutter flirt's countenance so thoroughly that the fellow will long be unable to get any woman to even look at him, to say nothing of considering him a gentleman

It might be a good plan to form a masher-mashing society. The task of beating up the masher can be performed by any one with sufficient agility to catch the sentimental one before he can break and run. Once captured, a whole neighborhood would joyfully join in giving him a little of what is coming to him.

That is about the only way to deal with the cheap chump who ogles women on the street corners. The woman who is thus annoyed cannot call a policeman, because of the publicity involved in having her tormenter arrested and prosecuted There is no such necessity for her being known in the matter if the fellow be trounced, however, for the victim of his attentions can go calmly on her way while the member in good standing of the masher-mashing society administers the first, second and third degree work to the would-be Lohtario.

Let the New York man's excellent example be followed by other men everywhere Mash the masher!—Springfield, (Mo) Republican

AMERICA LEADS WITH TYPEWRITERS

Exports of Machines From This Country in One Month Valued at Million.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The United States leads the world in the exportation of typewriters In the single month af April, its exports under that head exceeded one million dollars in value as compared with $138,232 in April, 1897, while for the complete fiscal year which ends with June the total will be about $12,000,000, or 8 times as much as in 1897, the earliest year for which a separate record of this trade was made by the Bureau of Statistics

The growth in exports of typewriting machines has been steadily maintained during the 15 years covered by the official record. In 1897 the total exportation was $1,453,117, in 1902, $3,302,191, in 1907, $6,274,439, and in 1912, as previously stated, will approximate $12 000,000. From these figures it will be observed that this class of exports doubles in every five years For the entire period from 1897 to 1912 the aggregate exportation of typewriters of domestic manufacture has been $82,694,836.

This rapid development in exports of typewriters is typical of many other intricately constructed and delicately adjusted machines of American manufacture. Of cash registers, for example, the exports increased from $818,096 in 1900, the earliest available year, to approximately $3,500,000 in the current fiscal year, scales and balances, from $381,886 in 1897 to $1,000,000, electrical appliances, including telegraph and telephone instruments, from $3,631,759 in 1903, the first year in which a separate record was kept up, to $11,000 000, sewing machines, from $3,340,241 in 1897 to $10,000,000; printing presses, from $649,710 in 1897 to $3 000 000; and machinery of all kinds, from $29,442,884 in 1897 to approximately $115,000,000 in 1912. These figures do not include automobiles, of which the year's exports will amount to about $27,000,000; mowers and reapers, which will approximate $20,000,000, and threshers, which will approximate $4,000,000.

MANY GROWING MARKETS.

Most of the typewriters exported from the United States are sent to Europe, where business and industry have long been in a state of high development. In certain of the newer communities, however, such as Canada, Argentina, and Australia, this class of manufactures finds a large and growing market. Basing the figures for twelve months upon the ten months' figures already compiled by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the exports of American typewriters to the United Kingdom will be between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000; to France, about $1,500,000; to Germany, approximately $1,300,000; to Russia in Europe, about $750,000, and to all other Europe, a little over $2,000,000. Nearly $1,000,000 worth will go to Canada, about $500,000 worth to Argentina, $300,000 worth to Mexico and Brazil, $400,000 worth to Australia and other British Oceania, $200,000 worth to the British East Indies, $100,000 worth to Cuba, and about $500,000 worth to various countries located in every part of the civilized world.

The extent to which American typewriters are finding favor even in the great manufacturing centers of Europe as well as in less advanced parts of the world may be inferred from the growth in exports by countries in the period of 1897-1912 covered by the official figures. Taking the ten months ending with April, 1897, and comparing the exports during that period with those of the corresponding months of the current year, those to the United Kingdom increased from $619,386 to $2,137,297; those to France, from $80,222 to $1,105,609; and those to Germany, from $201,369 to $1,095,121; while those to all other Europe increased from $142,591 to $2,301,465. In the same period our exports of typewriters to Canada increased from less than $27,000 to $745,714; those to Mexico, from $20,000 to $263,222; those to Argentina, from $10,950 to $331,849; those to Brazil from $3,557 to $248,470; and those to the British East Indies, from $6,498 to $157,240

The supremacy of the United States in the exportation of typewriters, computing machines and cash registers is illustrated by the following table showing the exports of this class of machinery from the world's leading commercial nations in the calendar year 1911.

FIGURES SHOW EXPORTS.

Exports of writing machines, computing machines, etc., from the United States, Germany, France, and the United Kingdom, calendar year 1911:

United States	$15,268,557
Germany	2,065,840
France	421,319
United Kingdom (typewriters only)	131,814

Germany's exports under this head consist mostly of computing machines, and are chiefly sent to Austria-Hungary and Russia, a very small proportion being sent to the United States. Most of the exports of writing and computing machines from France are sent to Algeria, Germany, and the United Kingdom, with smaller amounts to the United States and certain of the French colonies.

FIND SODA SPRINGS.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., June 15.—Four big soda springs have been discovered in the Crater National Park by Gamewarden Rambsby. He declares the water is equal to that of any spring in the Sacramento river canyon. A company is to be formed at once to develop the springs.

To Keep Skin White, Velvety, Wrinkle-Free

(Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm)

C M. W says: "My arms are so coarse and rough I cannot wear short sleeves. What do you advise?" The treatment recommended to "Anise" will doubtless overcome this condition.

A F G asks "What should I do for crow's feet and for a baggy neck?" Try a wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. This is immediately effective in an wrinkle or flabby condition. Use daily for awhile and results will surprise you.

Anise: A simple way to keep your skin smooth soft and white is to apply ordinary mercolized wax before retiring washing it off in the morning This keeps the face free from the particles of lifeless cuticle which constantly appear The wax absorbs these worn-out particles, so the younger, fresher, healthier skin is always in view An ounce of mercolized wax may be had at small cost at any drug store. Use like cold cream.

ILLITERACY PUTS U. S. BAD THIRD

Yet Circumstances Show the Country in Better Light Than Figures.

WASHINGTON, June 15—Considered without qualifying circumstances, the latest official reports indicate that only three persons out of ten thousand in Germany are unable to read or write, Great Britain is 150 per 10,000 as against 770 per 10,000 in the United States. These figures are based on a comparison of illiteracy among some of the leading nations which has just been made and issued for free distribution by the United States Bureau of Education. The Bureau has used the preliminary figures of the 1910 census for this country, and the latest offical reports available for the others.

Although America seems to make a bad third in the comparison, the Bureau of Education's publication calls attention to circumstances which tend to put a much better face upon the matter. Thus, the American figures include the entire population more than ten years of age, while the German figures cover only the army recruits, and the British statistics are based on data drawn wholly from official marriage registers. Hence the German and British statistics deal only with adults, and generally speaking, with physically and mentally normal adults, while the United States census includes without discrimination everyone above the ten-year age limit.

MANY FOREIGN BORN.

Again, it is pointed out, the showing of the United States is brought down by reason of the fact that the country has a large population of foreign-born whites as well as of colored persons, among whom the percentage of illiteracy is 12 8 per cent and 30 5 per cent respectively. The illiteracy among the native whites of this country is only 3 per cent.

Density of population has an important bearing on the problems incident to bringing the children together for purposes of education, and therefore is an important consideration when discussing illiteracy statistics. In this connection the document issued by the Bureau of Education shows that the number of inhabitants per square mile in the German Empire is more than 310, in Great Britain practically 462, and in this country just a shade over 30. France, with a population of 189.5 persons to the square mile, has 11 4 per cent of illiterates in its population over ten years of age. It should be noted, however, according to the Bureau of Education's report, that this includes a large number of persons who never had the benefit of compulsory education laws, which were enacted in 1882.

NATIONS COMPARED.

The great nations of Western Europe are compared with the United States for the reason, among others, that like this country they all have well-organized systems of public instruction. The Bureau of Education's examination of five nations of Southern and Eastern Europe shows that the proportion of illiteracy here runs from 26 to 70 per cent. "The lowest ratio for this group," says the Bureau of Education's monograph, "exceeds that for the Southern States of the Union, where the greater part of the American colored population is massed."

NEW CLUB BUILDING.

LOS ANGELES, June 15—A five-story class-A structure will be erected for the Railway Men's Club at a cost of $750,000.

UNCLE SAM WILL INDEX CHILDREN

Card Directory Will Answer Queries as to All School Children.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Every child in the elementary city schools of the United States is to be card catalogued, and a running history of his entire school career in the grades kept permanently on file, according to plans formulated by investigators whose report has just been issued for free distribution by the United States Bureau of Education. Although this plan has just been inaugurated, it has the approval of the National Education Association, while some 300 cities have already begun to keep the cards. Eventually, it is anticipated, about 6,000,000 pupils will be thus tabulated.

With the new card-catalogue system in full operation throughout the country, definite and scientific answer can be made to a large number of questions the solution of which must now be guessed in large measure. How many times has a given child been detained in a grade? How many backward, over-age, or retarded children are there in a given city's schools? How does this showing compare with other cities? Does foreign birth affect progress? If so, how? Does kindergarten training help a child through the grades? How does absence from school affect progress?

The form of a card contains the following entries, among others: Age of child; date of admission to school; grade, days present; health; conduct; scholarship, place of birth, vaccinated; name and occupation of parent or guardian

As the child moves from grade to grade, or from building to building, the card containing his past record will follow him, as will also be the case even if he should move from one city to another. In this way his entire past and present in school will be checked off against each other, point by point and year by year.

In addition to introducing the cumulative index card as a means of keeping the school history of every American child, the committee of investigators has also drawn up a uniform method of reporting fiscal statistics, so that costs may be computed upon the same universal basis

The new scheme of school statistics was drawn up by a committee appointed by the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, working in co-operation with the United State Bureau of Education. The result of their labors is issued as a Government document under the title "Report of the Committee on Uniform Records and Reports," and will be sent free upon request to the United States Commissioner of Education, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

SCIENTIFIC TARIFF REVISION FAVORED

NEW YORK, June 15.—More than 250,000 business men throughout the United States will present a demand to both the Republican and Democratic national conventions for a tariff plank endorsing the principles of scientific tariff revision through a permanent commission, according to an announcement made by John Candler Cobb, president of the National Tariff Association.

NOVEL IDEAS TO GREET EDUCATORS

Federal Bureau Will Show International Congress New Wrinkles.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—How to wash the air; why the color of the wall affects a child's vision; the "curve of learning;" and the operation of the aesthesiometer and erograph are among the exhibits to be made by the United States Bureau of Education at the first exhibition ever given in America which deals with the general field of public health. The Bureau's exhibit will show the hygiene of the school and the school child, as part of the exhibition to be held before the Fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, meeting in Washington next September.

Among other advance information just given out, the Education Bureau specialists who have the school hygiene exhibit in charge, make the statement that one exhibit will show that stuttering is about three times as common among boys as among girls.

The Bureau of Education's exhibit is divided into sections. The first of these considers the hygiene of the school child taking up such subjects as food, sleep, and clothing With the co-operation of school architects and makers of school furniture and school appliances from all over the country, the Bureau is also preparing exhaustive exhibits on the hygiene of the school building and the hygiene of instruction. Other sections of the school hygiene exhibit will take up the hygiene of physical defects, the medical inspection of school children, and open-air schools.

SECRETARY OF STATE SEES 'EM IN DREAMS

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—Secretary of State Jordan's mail is full of inquiring letters about photographs, he sees photos in his dreams, and they hang about his table when he eats.

Several weeks ago the report of a large photograph concern in San Francisco appeared before him to ask for a general letter of introduction to all "state officials" who may wish their photographs taken for use in the blue book for 1911, which is soon to be printed under the direction of Jordan The secretary thought it a good idea.

A month elapsed. Then, one by one, but gradually increasing until they monopolized the daily pile of his mail, came letters galore; letters from the constable of Squdunk township, Imperial county, from the Justice of the Peace of Death Gulch township, Alpine county, etc, asking where they could best have their "photographs taken for the coming blue book." The photographer has evidently been busy; Jordan will ve, explaining

WONG PAYS FOR WHIFFS.

SAN DIEGO, June 15—Wong Que, Chinese, only had two whiffs from his opium pipe when disturbed by the police, but in police court he was fined exactly $25 a whiff. Judge Puterbaugh told Wong that opium smoking was about the worst habit he knew of.

"And if you want to continue its use, you had better go back to China," advised the court

Wong said he was going to quit hitting the pipe. He couldn't stand the $25 a whiff ruling.

ATONEMENT OF PAN IS TO BE GIVEN AT THE GREEK THEATER IN AUGUST

Aftermath of Bohemian Club Midsummer Jinks

Out of doors dramatic performances have become common in California and a number of clubs and societies made the production of one or more plays in the open air an annual event. The pioneer in this line of artistic endeavor was the Bohemian club, and its midsummer high jinks in the redwood grove near Guerneville that the club owns has become world famous. Beginning as an entertainment that consisted of more or less unrelated papers, recitations, songs and instrumental pieces, this has developed into a serious music drama, written, composed and presented by members of the club for the enjoyment of their fellow members and the few who are fortunate enough to secure visitors' tickets.

Prepared especially for presentation out of doors, no one of these dramas has ever been presented elsewhere than at the grove, but more and more the principal features of the annual "concert" that follows the return of the club from its outing has become an account of the play for the year.

Last fall not only were an outline of the play, excerpts from it, and the principal musical numbers given, but stereopticon views of a number of scenes from it were presented. The next step was logically the repetition of the entire drama, provided a place suitable for such a repetition could be found in the vicinity of San Francisco. The performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "As You Like It," and similar plays in the Greek theater convinced those in charge of this year's play that with slight modifications it could be presented successfully there, in order that, as a prominent official of the club expressed it, "the result of the club's efforts in their best form might be given to the world to show how seriously its members have striven to take advantage of the natural opportunities which our climate affords," and proposals were made to the musical and dramatic committee of the university for its repetition.

While all the arrangements have not yet been completed, they have progressed so far that the committee is authorized to announce that in all probability "The Atonement of Pan," this year's "grove play," will be presented in the Greek theater on the evening of Saturday, August 24, two weeks after its production at the grove and one week after the opening of the university for its fall term.

The book, which those who have been privileged to see it, pronounce one of the best that any member has produced, is by the well known lawyer and litterateur, Joseph D. Redding, the writer of the book of the successful opera "Natoma," and the music by Henry Hadley, the conductor of the San Francisco symphony orchestra. This orchestra in its entirety will perform the music, but the acting and singing will be entirely by members of the club.

The part of Pan will be created by the most popular of American baritones, David Bispham. As he alone in an individual recital drew an immense audience to the Greek theater, there is every prospect that its utmost capacity will be taxed by this performance. The members of the Bohemian club will naturally be given the first opportunity to secure seats, but the theater is so large that in all probability several thousand tickets will be left to be sold to the general public. A more detailed announcement concerning the performance may be expected later.

ENJOYABLE RECITAL.

On Wednesday evening of last week a musical evening was enjoyed at the home of Miss Ida Brooks by the boys of her class and their friends. Piano numbers were rendered by Ernest Lawson, Verne Van Amringe and Grant Billington. Raymond Carrol, violin pupil of C. F. Hamm, assisted.

A TALENTED LAD.

An event of much interest in musical circles this week was the piano recital at which was heard that talented little Oakland lad, Jeffrey Heymann, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Heymann of 1660 Waverly street. The child shows remarkable musical ability and plays with astonishing understanding. His technic, especially his runs on the piano, called forth bursts of applause from the enthusiastic music lovers in the audience.

He inherits his musical gifts from his mother, who is a sister to the well known composer, E. H. Ellis.

He is at present studying with Miss Bailey and his progress in his studies is very rapid.

Oaklanders will watch with interest the progress of this small prodigy.

BLANCHARD RECITALS.

Eugene Blanchard presented his pupils in a piano recital on Tuesday evening at Ebell Hall when a large and enthusiastic audience gathered to listen to an unusually well selected program.

Good clear technic and a scholarly interpretation was given by Miss Mildred Randolph, Miss Mae Osborn, Miss Josephine Adams, Miss Antonia Jensen and Miss Ramona Leonard.

CHURCH SOLOIST.

A vocal recital will be given by pupils of D. P. Hughes at the First Unitarian Church on Friday evening June 4.

BIG CHORUS PLEASES.

A chorus of thirty voices from the First Baptist Choir of Berkeley, under the direction of F. A. Woodward, gave a concert to an appreciative audience at the Shattuck Avenue M. E. Church, Sixty-third street and Shattuck avenue, recently. The entire program was well rendered, and each number received generous applause. Special mention should be made of the solos by Miss Moore, Miss Talbot, Mr. McLure and Mr. Custer.

Miss Irma Bromley, impersonator, delighted the audience with several selections, and Miss Patterson, a violinist of rare ability, also added largely to the pleasure of the evening.

The concert was the last of a series of three entertainments given under the auspices of the official board of the church.

SING FOR ORPHANS.

A concert for the benefit of the inmates of St. Vincent's Orphanage at San Rafael was given at Mill Valley on Wednesday night. Mrs. Grace Davis Northrup of this city, Luther Marchant, Uda Waldrop and Miss Carrie Grebel-Weston were among the artists who contributed to a thoroughly enjoyable program.

NEW CLUB LEADERS.

The Eurydice Club has chosen the following officers for the coming year: Mrs. J. H. Remmer of Alameda, president; Mrs. W. H. Cohick, vice-president; Mrs. Ula Leavitt, secretary; Mrs. H. R. Hill, treasurer; Miss Gertrude Nelson, librarian and Miss Dorothy Crandell, assistant librarian. Edwin Dunbar Crandall is director of the club and Mrs. Lowell Redfield, accompanist.

The first concert of the season is planned for early November.

M'KENZIE RECITAL.

The vocal pupils of John W. McKenzie will give another one of their recitals on Friday, June 21, at 531 Twenty-seventh street, when Miss Ruth McKenzie, Miss Marie Nichols, Miss M. Titus, Miss Marion Stone and others will give selections.

R. R. COMMISSION ENGAGES EXPERT

Arthur Kelley of Olympia to Place Valuation on Electrical Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Chairman John M. Eshleman and his associates of the State Railroad Commission announced today the appointment of Arthur Kelley of Olympia, Wash., as assistant electrical engineer. Kelly will report direct to the commissioners' chief engineer, W. A. Thompson.

The new official comes highly recommend as an expert. He is a graduate of the department of electricity at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., and for the past two years has been the assistant electrical engineer of the Washington public service commission at Olympia. In that position he has rendered valuable service to the northwest state in placing valuation on telephone, water, gas and electric light and power properties.

Recently Kelley spent several months in this city studying the books of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in order to make a report on its operations in Washington and the value of its plant in that state.

His work in California will be similar to that he has had up north, but on a much larger scale.

FLOODS STOP EXCURSION.

BUTTE, Mont., June 15.—Because of floods on the Gilmore and Pittsburg Railroad the excursion planned by the Butte Chamber of Commerce to Boise and other Idaho points has been postponed. The special bearing more than a hundred Butte business men was scheduled to leave here Sunday morning. It is the intention of the Chamber of Commerce here to arrange their excursion for early in July.

The New Store Front at Mackay's

Anticipating the termination of our lease, we looked around for possibly a better location. But we couldn't find it. We made our reputation at this location. Besides, why should we go to a higher rent district and be forced to charge higher prices on our goods? So we have entered into a new lease for a term of years, and are starting improvements at once. There will be no finer Furniture and Carpet Store in Oakland when we are finished. A new front—new show windows—new entrance—marquis—a beautiful daylight lower floor—the newest facilities and finest equipment for handling a fast growing business.

PRECISION TO BE TAUGHT AT SCHOOL

500,000 Electrical and Mechanical Engineers Want New Institution.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The 500,000 or more electrical and mechanical engineers in the United States are having a marked effect in starting a new school of writing. The language of the engineer is the language of precision, and this applies especially to the electrical engineer. The last census shows that in the decade ended December 31, 1909, the value of machinery and apparatus used in the generation and utilization of electricity [illegible] from $165,000,000 to $248,000,000, or 130 per cent. For the interchange of ideas on all of these vast enterprises there are thirty-three technical papers dealing with electrical science and the electrical trade. In addition to this, much matter is prepared in popular form for the daily and weekly press. The experts in the various departments of the big establishments exhaust themselves in efforts to explain the nature and uses of some of their electrical installations to popular writers, but the difficulties are immense.

Everyone knows how the digging of the Panama Canal is progressing. Few people know that a million dollars' worth of electrical machinery was installed there last year, and what it is being used for.

Americans have been accused of being careless and inaccurate in their mode of expression. The scientific departments of colleges and universities have outstripped the academic departments, and this may prove the salvation of the language. So minutely and conscientiously accurate is the man with a technical training that "may" has almost entirely replaced "can" in his vocabulary, even when no condition is implied. No truly conscientious engineer would state that a machine "must" operate continuously with little attention, since there is no compulsion, and the machine might never be started. He might possibly commit himself to the extent of saying that a machine "must be capable of" continuous operation. In describing electrical machinery every item must be individualized. If large electric fans are constructed for operation in either a horizontal or vertical position, the electrical engineer would [illegible] it inaccurate to state it in the foregoing fashion unless the machines built to operate in one of these positions were absolutely identical in construction with the machines built to operate in the other. He has a horror of collective or generic terms, and would specify that these fans were built in two designs and many varieties, and that one design was for operation in a vertical position. Another foible of the technical man is the omission of the article whenever possible.

This has a clarifying effect and is not ungrammatical. The language of precision differs almost as much from popular terminology as the "precious" speech of the Seventeenth Century differed from the ordinary language of the street.

LONG PATHWAY OF CRIME IS BLOCKED

Zollie Clements, Criminal of Century, to Be Sent to Prison for Life.

Murdered Policeman Brown of Oakland, Is Claim, and Laughed at Police.

STOCKTON, June 15.—Zollie Clements, self-confessed murderer of five men, who for the past two weeks has been on trial here for the killing of William H. Newman, a saloonkeeper, was this afternoon found guilty, his punishment being fixed at life imprisonment. The verdict was reached after four hours of deliberation. The defendant showed no signs of emotion when it was read. His two sisters were visibly affected.

Clements is declared by the police to have murdered five men. The details of three of these crimes, they say, are matters of police record. He is accused of having shot James Markham, May 18, 1902. Markham was a mechanic of Sacramento, who resisted an attempted holdup. Clements at that time was but 16 years of age. After the shooting he joined a crowd of citizens who gathered at the police station to hear of the tragedy.

MURDER IN OAKLAND.

According to the police, Clements killed Patrolman Brown of Oakland in September, 1904, while the policeman was questioning him about a holdup which he had committed a few blocks away. Three days later Clements stood on the sidewalk and watched the Brown funeral pass. Since his last arrest he has boasted that he "gave the laugh" to the police pallbearers who accompanied the hearse.

William H. Newman of Stockton was killed January 15 in his saloon while Clements was passing to a rear gambling room.

Clements escaped, and the next morning began work with one of his roommates, whistling and singing at his task, apparently in the best of spirits.

BROUGHT TO BAY.

Five days later he attempted to hold up the James Martin saloon in Sacramento, and while engaged in a revolver duel with the bartender was shot in the arm by the porter, who procured a shotgun from the rear of the saloon. After a running fight with the police, he was arrested and confessed later to all that he could recall of his long career of crime.

The convicted murderer was a carpet-layer, who worked industriously and steadily, kept good company and attended church regularly. In his confession to the police he said that the thrill of his criminal exploits was such that he was irresistibly drawn into them, despite all that he could do to fight against wrongdoing.

SHELL MOUND DISPLAY OPEN TO PUBLIC

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—The collection of remains from the shell mound builders and other earliest inhabitants of San Francisco and the bay region, which has been on view at the University Museum of Anthropology at the Affiliated Colleges for the past two months, will be open to the public for the last time tomorrow. Monday the collection will be withdrawn and the installation of an entirely new exhibit, the opening of which is to be announced in two weeks, will be begun.

The shell mound display has been of particular interest to teachers and school pupils, and about twenty classes have visited the collection in order to inspect at first hand the relics that are the only source of information extant as to the human beings that preceded the Indians whom the Mission fathers found in the state.

The exhibit is being withdrawn only for lack of room. It will be kept intact for exhibition at the exposition in 1915.

GREAT TIMBER TRACT WILL BE OPENED

EUREKA, June 15.—The immense timber tract owned by N. B. Dotson of Chicago and Pasadena, just over the line of Humboldt county, in Siskiyou county, will soon be opened for logging operations. This port will bet benefit, as railroad is planned to be brought from Forest to Eureka. According to information received here by a civil engineer who has been looking over the proposed route for the railroad, bonds of tthe corporation to control the railroad have been pqlaced. The road will be used in transporting logs to the mill, in bringing lumber here and later probably be converted into general freight and passenger line.

THIRD TERM GHOST NO NEW TERM IN AMERICA

Seeming Admonition Has Been Source of Weighty Arguments.

DRAGGED INTO LIGHT BY FOUR PRESIDENTS

Tuesday's Republican Rally Will Once Again Tear Subject to Pieces.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—When the political giants meet in Chicago on Tuesday to wrestle through the roll-call for the selection of a favored son to head the Republican party in its fight for the presidency there is one thing that is sure to play a large and important part in their ultimate decision—and that is third term precedent and prejudice. Cohorts of La Follette and Taft will rise to the occasion and hurl their oratorical broadsides against this "gross violation of an unwritten law, this defamation of Washington's precedent." And the henchmen of Mr. Roosevelt also arising to the occasion, will refute these broadsides with quotations from the sacred constitution and even from the words of General Washington.

THE THIRD TERM GHOST

The third term ghost, like Marley's immortal shade, is no new character to Americans. Periodically politicians have oiled its clanking chains and led it forth to exhibit to the voters. Four of these occasions arose toward the end of the second terms of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and Grant, and in all of them, with the exception of Grant, the third term was repudiated—Grant made a bid for a third nomination on the Republican ticket and was beaten in 1880.

The arguments for and against "successive" terms at the White House, however, date back to the days of the framing of the constitution, for even then the bogey of a "dictator" haunted some, while others held that succession to the office of the Chief Executive should not be denied a wise and good President who shall be needed by the people in time of national danger."

The first discussion of the subject that has been officially recorded was that which took place in Philadelphia at the constitutional convention. Here Edmund Randolph, a delegate from Virginia, first raised the question of a practical dictatorship through the submission of a resolution providing that the President should be elected for six years and should be ineligible for re-election. This resolution was tentatively adopted, but was later replaced by the resolution of Charles Pinckney, from South Carolina, which provided for a four-year term for the President and said nothing about his eligibility for re-election. This was the resolution finally incorporated in the constitution.

WASHINGTON'S ADMINISTRATION.

The next matter that will be considered by the pro and anti-third term men on Tuesday will be the administration of General George Washington, the "Father of His County."

Washington was tired of the arduous duties of Chief Executive even before his first term elapsed, and announced, through correspondence and conversations, that he would not be a candidate for even a second election.

At that time Thomas Jefferson expressed himself in thorough accord with the views of General Washington and placed himself on record against the reeligibility of a President for election. Popular opinion and pressing political reasons, however, prevailed and Washington accepted a second term at the White House.

At the close of his second term General Washington steadfastly refused to consider a third term and retired to private life, without, however, placing himself squarely on record as against a third term for a President, save by his physical action. In fact, he left a loophole for the present-day advocates of a third term for the President by saying that "he could see no propriety in precluding ourselves from the services of any man who, on some great emergency, shall be deemed universally most capable of serving the public." Despite this assertion Congress, taking his physical action as proof of his desire, passed a resolution expressing an earnest wish that his example might be a guide to his successors.

JEFFERSON'S ATTITUDE.

Jefferson himself was the next to be faced with the necessity of deciding upon the third term question. He said that "should a President consent to be a candidate for a third election, I trust he will be rejected on this demonstration of ambitious views."

Andrew Johnson was the third President to meet the third term ghost, and he laid it effectually by urging the passage of a law definitely forbidding a third term.

There was no attempt to break this rule till near the end of President Grant's second term, and that attempt was frustrated by a nearly unanimous vote of the House to the effect that to do so would be "fraught with peril to our free institutions. Four years later, however, the third term propaganda for Grant was revived, his backers claiming that the inhibition was only against a third consecutive term. His defeat at the Republican national convention is a matter of history.

Through all this mass of testimony on the subject of a tenor of the White House extending over more than two terms will the Republican factions trample in their battle royal for a nominee on Tuesday. And should Roosevelt triumph or should the Republican machine be split in twain with the gallant Colonel leading one branch and Mr. Taft or some other Republican commanding the other, the third term ghost will spend a busy season till the voters in November either lay it away for use on some future occasions or dispel it forever by overruling its seeming admonition.

GYMNASTS OF U. S AT INDIANAPOLIS

Order Representing 40,000 Will Hold Congress in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 15.—The twenty-fifth biennal convention of the North American Gymnastic Union, scheduled to met in this city June 22-26, will be attended by gymnasts from every part of the United States. This union is one of the oldest in the country and numbers among its members over 40,000 athletes.

June 22, the first day of the convention, will be given over to the graduation exercises of the Normal College of the North American Gymnastic Union, an institution conducted by that organization for the instruction of teachers of physical training. The exercises will be held at the German House, where the convention will also take place.

June 23, 24, 25 and 26 will be devoted to the athletic stunts of the delegates. These will compete in every form of test known to strength and skill. Many valuable prizes have been donated for presentation to the winners. These prizes will be presented by the Hon. Hugo Meunch, judge of the Circuit Court of St. Louis, and Professor Bernard Faust of Cornell University, both of whom will also address the delegates on the benefits to be derived from gymnastics as an exercise.

Competing teams and delegates will come from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, New Orleans, Atlanta, Birmingham, Charleston, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Paul and Minneapolis. In addition to these teams there will be competing athletes from nearly 240 gymnastic societies throughout the United States and Canada.

GUGGENHEIM CLAIMS DIVORCE VICTORY

CHICAGO, June 15.—Another step was taken in the Guggenheim divorce case, when Circuit Judge [illegible] made formal entry of an order dismissing three of the pleadings of William Guggenheim and sustaining five of his pleas to the bill filed by Grace B. Guggenheim, asking that the divorce decree granted her in 1901 in Chicago be set aside.

Counsel for Guggenheim contend that the order is a victory for him, estopping further action by the complainant. The woman's attorneys insist that, under the ruling, they will continue to prosecute the case and cause the original divorce to be set aside.

TALENT BALKS AT BUYING UP WHEAT

Backs Away From Offerings and Refuses to Absorb Available Supplies.

(By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.)

CHICAGO, June 15.—Scattered longs, as well as a big local long in July wheat, attempted to market that future in only fair sized quantities today, but the talent backed away from the offerings and refused to absorb the supplies available in the pit even at lower prices. Had not some of those who were short desired to even up their position over Sunday and absorbed a part of the offerings late, the price break would doubtless have been severe, as the pit contained many stop-loss orders. As the session drew to a close there was a reaction and advance from the lowest prices. The weakness of July pulled the September down somewhat during the earlier hours of the session, but the more deserted months showed some strength late.

FASHIONABLE TO SELL.

It was again fashionable to sell July and buy September. The old-time longs in wheat are not so sure of their position as they were for several months past.

Ideal weather may now be seen in the corn belt, and with the exception of cut worms reported at Cairo, Ill., and hot winds in Texas, the plant is progressing favorably. The Patten followers are still long on the September future and Arthur Cutten is also believed to be a moderate sized holder of that month.

REDUCTION PROMISED.

Stocks of standard oats promise a good reduction for Monday, as withdrawals were 700,000 bushels and cancellations 565,000 bushels. Receipts of all oats for the week were 1,207,000 bushels, which was 462,000 bushels smaller than the shipments.

While there was some investment buying in [illegible] days, the demand was hardly equal to the selling by longs in the way of liquidation. The big packers who are the holders of the cash meats and lard here were again on the selling side.

The grain list was lower today—⅝@¾c for wheat, ¼@½c for corn and ⅛@¼c for oats. Hog products were lower all around.

MOUNTAIN LION NINE FOOT, SHOT IN TREE

SALINAS, June 15.—A mountain lion measuring nine feet from tip to tip, was killed by an employe of the Titus Bros., who was on his way to town from the Corral de Tierra. The big cat was discovered in a tree by a dog. Unfortunately for the cat the employe had also a [illegible] one shot from the rifle brought the animal down.

SUE FOR FALSE ARREST.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Alleging malicious arrest, Pearl and George Manville, sons of Mrs. Frances N. Manville, of Santa Monica, began suit against Charles E. Rose and his wife for $5000 each. After serving a sentence of eight days on a charge of purloining chickens from the Rose coops, the boys were arrested a second time, but on trial in the police and juvenile courts were discharged as innocent.

WALL STREET HAS MOST QUIET DAY

Sales Show Small Balance as Compared With Same Day Last Year.

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)

WALL ST., NEW YORK, June 15.—Trading was so light in Wall street today that Reading, with 82,000 shares, furnished a fourth of the total volume. In the early part of the day the tone was heavy, but toward the close prices showed an advancing tendency. At no time were stocks pressed for sale and the net changes were of no importance. It looked as if traders were being coaxed to sell Reading, Lehigh Valley and Can stocks short, but few were persuaded.

The bank statement showed no important change in any item. The cotton market rushed up early in the day, and then on promise of rain in Texas broke nearly a dollar a bale. It closed in the midst of a feeble rally. Grain continued its downward movement.

DULLNES ON CURB.

On the curb market the same state of dullness existed. The tobacco shares were most active, Cigar Stores and McAndrew & Forbes being in demand.

All the talking speculators were intensely bearish, but the actual traders were either gently bullish or non committal.

The number of shares of stock sold today was 114,150, against 168,759 a year ago. The par value of bonds sold today amounted to $456,000, against $1,568,000 a year ago.

DENTIST ACCUSED OF FELONY EMBEZZLEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Dr. George Morey, a local dentist, was arrested today on a charge of felony embezzlement, sworn to by Joseph Groudall, general manager of the Loftus Jewelry Company, and was released on $2000 cash bail. He is accused of the misappropriation of fifty shares of the capital stock of the United Properties Company, the holding concern of the Key Route and Traction companies and other corporations. The warrant was obtained in Judge Sullivan's court, attorney Henry David representing the plaintiff.

WOMEN TO PARADE CONVENTION WEEK

BALTIMORE, June 15.—Baltimore [illegible] parade on Thursday evening of Democratic presidential convention week as a demonstration to the delegates and the leaders. Several thousand women are expected to be in line. The parade will be led by mounted suffragists. Whether the women will make an effort to obtain a suffrage plank in the Democratic platform was not known. Democratic national committeemen were visited by a delegation of women representing the Women's National National Democratic League, who volunteered their services in the coming campaign.

WOMAN TALKS HER WAY OUT OF COURT

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—"You have talked yourself out of court," was the remark of Justice Reeve, as he peremptorily [illegible] Buffington, who charged her husband with having failed to support her.

Mrs. Buffington had been forced to admit on the witness stand that she recently realized $10,000 from the sale of an Orange county ranch.

Mrs. Buffington, who is about 45 and of the attractive blonde type, bit her lips in vexation, then volunteered that the property she sold was hers.

"My husband can't share a penny it brought," she declared.

"You proposed to him and promised to nurse him back to health if he married you, didn't you?" demanded Attorney Gesner Williams, for Buffington.

"Propose to him? I should say not," retorted the witness with a sniff.

"Mrs. Probasco, did you [illegible] this case?" asked Deputy District Attorney Ince of the [illegible]

"Humph, who are you," demanded Mrs. Buffington of the [illegible] her voice drowning Mrs. Pro[illegible]swer, and the latter smilingly [illegible] to her seat.

THIS IS AQUATIC DAY AT N. BEACH

Great Water Pageant to Be Presided Over by King Neptune.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Final touches are being put today on the arrangements for San Francisco's first big Aquatic Day celebration, to be held tomorrow at North Beach. This morning the work of decorating the beach from Black Point to Hyde street was begun by a force of men under the direction of the decoration committee, composed of J. G. Stevers, E. D. Grace and Charles M. Farrell. Lowell High School boys assisted in the work.

Tomorrow the beach will be strung with flags and bunting upon the poles erected today. The diving platform, 35 feet high, has been completed, and old piles that interfered with swimming and boating have been pulled up by a pile-driver.

Tomorrow's aquatic festival will be unique in San Francisco. It will start with a great water pageant, presided oved by King Neptune. The landing of Columbus will be depicted. The discoverer's ships—the Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria—will be reproduced and manned by the Italian Fishermen's Association, whose president, Emanuelle Maggio, will take the part of Columbus. Pohonochee Tribe, No. 10, of the Improved Order of Red Men, will co-operate in the spectacle, its members taking the roles of the Indians who stood upon the beach and watched the landing of the discoverer.

NAVAL MILITIA.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in the festival and numerous organizations have announced their intention to take part. The naval militia will participate in the day's sports, having arranged a cutter race between two boat crews of the U. S. S. Marblehead. There will be barge and skiff races between crews from various yacht clubs about the bay, swimming races for all distances that will bring out the best talent on San Francisco bay and fancy diving exhibitions.

The Aquatic Day celebration has been arranged by the Recreation League of San Francisco to encourage interest in water sports and to draw attention to San Francisco's need of a people's recreation beach or aquatic park. It is pointed out as an unusual condition that San Francisco, surrounded on three sides by water, has no place where the people may go to enjoy swimming and boating. North Beach offers the ideal place in a cove that makes swimming safe and a secure anchorage for small craft.

The program will begin tomorrow at 12 o'clock sharp. The place of celebration may be reached by taking the Hyde-street cable car and going to the end of the line, the Polk-street cars to the end of the line at Lombard street and then walking three blocks, or the Union-street car and getting off at Van Ness avenue. A good view may be had from any place along the beach. A sheltered stretch of beach may be reached by following the road through the Fort Mason reservation.

CHARGES ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL

Former Ingleside Bookkeeper Obtains Warrant Against Prisoner.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—William Kennedy, a former bookkeeper at the Ingleside county jail, is supposed to bring sensational charges in connection with his application made today for a warrant against George Cushway, a prisoner at the institution. Cushway is serving a term for burglary, and Kennedy applied to the bond and warrant clerk today for a warrant against him charging attempted jail breaking. The matter was continued until next week.

Kennedy says that Cushway had a rope, a knife and a fork concealed in his cell. He intimates that he will subpena John Rogers, convicted of the murder of Benjamin Goodman, and who is serving a term in San Quentin, to testify in connection with conditions in vogue at the prison.

OAKLAND CARPENTER INJURED IN BAD FALL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Frank M. Sanders, a carpenter residing at 417 Twenty-eighth street, Oakland, was seriously injured at noon today while at work at New Montgomery and Jessie streets. Sanders plunged from a building in course of construction and struck on his arm and hip. He was taken to the Central emergency hospital, where it was found he had sustained numerous abrasions and contusions, a fractured radium and a dislocated hip.

N.D.G.W. INDORSES HOME INDUSTRY

Grand Parlor Adjourns After Interesting Sessions in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—The Native Daughters of the Golden West expressed their unanimous endorsement of the home industry movement of this state as part of the business of the last day's session of the annual Grand Parlor, which has been meeting here during the week.

The president read the report of the home industry committee of the San Francisco parlors. Meetings have been held to arouse interest and spread knowledge concerning home industries, and accounts of these were included in the report. Mrs. Bessie Kohn, who was not present at the session, presented the report, which was read by Mrs. Steinbach.

As the final event in the day's program, Mrs. Emma W. Lillie, worthy supreme grand president, acting as installing officer, conducted the newly-elected officers into their positions. Assisting Mrs. Lillie was Mrs. Mamie Carmichael, retiring grand marshal, who was the marshal for the installation ceremonies.

The following women were installed: President, Mrs. Olive Bedford Matloch; vice-president, Mrs. Alizon F. Watt; secretary, Miss Alice H. Dougherty; treasurer, Mrs. Susie K. Christ, marshal, Mrs. Amy McAvoy; inside sentinel, Mrs. Anna Preston; outside sentinel, Mrs Mary Bell; organist, Mrs. Edith A. Trubucco; grand trustees—Miss Josie Barboni, Miss Anna I. Dempsey, Mrs. Belle Smythe Gribi, Miss Margaret Grote Hill, Miss Myra McDonnell, Miss Grace Willy, Mrs. Emma Boardman Wright.

Mrs. Lillie reported for the 1915 committee. She recommended that the Native Daughters maintain headquarters in San Francisco, preferably in the California building, during the exposition.

The state of the order was reported upon by Mrs. Emma Gett, and as the final report of the day came that of the secretary, Miss Alice Dougherty.

The Grand Parlor adjourned tonight to meet next June at Lake Tahoe.

AGE HAS NO FEAR FOR MASTER CUPID

Bride 76 Says to Groom 74, "Both of Us Will Be Young Again."

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—"Our sun is setting. We have not the years before us that the majority of bridal couples face. But we are happy and our love is youthful. Love does not know age."

That is what a 76-year-old bride and a 74-year-old bridegroom said as they began their honeymoon in a little cottage in Sawtelle. They were married at the Sawtelle Methodist Church, Rev. H. K. Van officiating.

The couple are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Prior, the bride having been Mrs. Almina M. Dyer, 207 South Second street, Sawtelle. It was Prior's third time before the marriage altar. He has seceral children living in Seattle.

This twilight romance began when Mrs. Dyer visited the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, where Prior had been since 1896. There were long strolls down the shady paths and chats on the benches in pleasant bowers.

"Both of us will be young again," they explained.

At that time Mrs. Dyer was living with a friend in South Eighth street. She was a member of the J. A. Martin Relief Corps.

Quietly they planned their wedding. They came together to Los Angeles and obtained the license. Then, just as the sun was sinking, they were declared man and wife in the Sawtelle church.

"It was the most appropriate hour for the ceremony," said the bride.

In telling of the romance Mrs. Prior said that, when her husband died, after 40 years of marriage, she declared she never would remarry.

"I told my friends that there was not a man on earth that I would marry," she said. "I had a pension and was comfortable. But then I met Mr. Prior and I just changed my mind."

Prior's second wedding also occurred while he was at the Soldiers' Home. Mrs. Prior died about a year ago.

BOY TRIES TO SAVE BABY FROM ANGRY BEES

FORT COLLINS, Colo., June 15.—Wandering into the inclosure where the beehives are kept, the little 2-year-old daughter of A. A. Lyons, a well-to-do farmer living two miles southeast of town, was so severely stung by the bees that for a time it was feared she would die.

The bees literally swarmed over her, stinging her so furiously that her body was swollen by the poison.

The 3-year-old brother of the little girl proved himself a hero. He remained faithfully by his sister, though he was stung several times. When asked why he did not lead her away, he said she was so frightened she could not come, so he just stayed with her.

The cries of the children attracted the attention of the father, who was working a short distance away, and he rushed to their rescue and carried them to the house.

WIVES NOT LUXURY; GOOD ONES, NECESSITY

CHICAGO, June 15.—"I have always considered that a wife was a necessity and not a luxury," said Judge Goodnow, of the court of domestic relations, to Dr. Thomas D. Lantry, who was charged with non-support.

"I think a good woman is a necessity to a good man, and as the years pass the necessity is increased. Wifeless men between 30 and 50 years are in more trouble and cause more trouble to their friends than married men. Woman is an anchor and the home is a refuge. The hotel, club, restaurant, and the saloon, which are the headquarters for the majority of wifeless men, are not elevating."

Dr. Lantry said his wife was jealous of his female patients. This she denied. Mrs. Lantry left her husband, alleging cruelty. They were told to go home together, and come to court again and tell how they got on.

CARMEL'S BARBER RATTLED BY 'TOAD'

Lone Tonsorial Artist Has to Study Styles of Every Period.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, June 15.—Carmel's one, single, lone barber is nearly crazed by the demands that are being made upon him during the last weeks of preparation for the festival. No sooner had he learned the hair-cut proper for Egyptians of the time 3000 years before Christ, necessitated by the principals and chorus of "The Toad," than rehearsals of the pageant began, with episodes of Indians in the twelfth century and Italians in the sixteenth, requiring new styles, or old styles revived, of hair dress. The young men and women of Carmel are particular that there shall be no anachronisms, and Carmel's barber is devoting all his spare time in study of the plates and old prints which depict the methods of his ancient predecesors.

There is also a musical committee, which is sparring almost continually with the orchestra over the music which will be served up for pageant and plays. At the head of Carmel's critics is James Redfern Mason, who is an acknowledged authority on classical music in America. For many years he has been the dramatic and musical critic of the Boston Transcript, and he is determined that the incidental music of "The Toad" shall agree in quality with its dramatic excellence and that Alice shall wander through Wonderland without any discords to mar her journeyings. It is through his efforts that a small orchestra of the very best musicians upon the Coast has been obtained, and the plays will be musical treats as well as regalement for the eye.

Prof. William Popper, Semitic languages, University of California, who has made especial study of the customs of ancient Egypt, will see that "The Toad" adheres to history and tradition in its costumes and acting. The cast is practicing the high sign of royal salute and the grocer greets the approaching customer with a hand thrown palm forward high above his head. It is a bit startling at first, but Carmel is full of startling things and artistic temperaments.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY TO MEET IN SPOKANE

SPOKANE, Wash., June 15.—The national assembly of civil service commissioners will meet here for its fifth annual convention on June 21-22. Delegates will be sent to the convention by the various federal, state and municipal civil service commissions and boards throughout the United States. The object of the convention is to spread the merit idea among those attending the meeting. Among the prominent speakers who will talk on the delegates on this subject are President John C. Mason, who is also president of the Illinois state civil service commission, and John T. Doyle, secretary-treasurer of the national organization and secretary of the United States civil service commission.

HARK TO THE TALE OF A KITTEN'S TAIL

It Goes to Show That Sailors Know the Worth of a Troubled Cat.

This is the tale of a kitten's tail as pinched by a crab in the bay, and the story of how, a mascot is now, sung in a sailor's lay. Cupid it's name, and known to fame as the luck of the Istmian's crew, it started out on the freighter's route, bound for a country new. But alas and Alack, when the bosun's back was turned to another party, Cupid fell from the deck on Neptune's neck, heave ho, my hearty.

With a shivering shank on a friendly plank the kitten rode on the bay, till the inbound tide furnished a ride, as Oakland tides all may. "Blow my lights for a pair of tights," said the mate of the good ship Mariner, "if there ain't a craft with a kitten aft, Bosun get me a camera!"

As the Mariner bore toward the Oakland shore, "Cupid" began a dance like a busted bunny with a pain in its tummy, or a bug in its ear by chance.

But the truth was known when a friendly loan of a boat was made for the sail, and the Mariner's men picked up "Cupid," and then—found a crab had clung to its tail.

So that is the tale of a kitten's tail, 'tis a broken tail at that, but it goes to show that sailors know the worth of a distressed cat. For Cupid now is perched in the bow of the ship that saved his limb, and woe to the rat, while out on a bat, that comes within reach of him.

SAN PEDRO MAY HAVE NAVAL SUPPLY STATION

SAN PEDRO, June 15.—A rumor has been circulated in the harbor district that the government contemplates the establishing of a naval supply station in the outer harbor at a time contemporaneous with the opening of the Panama canal. Such a station, it is pointed out, is essential because of the strategic position occupied by Los Angeles harbor.

BAFFLES JACK FROST.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 15.—C. M. Grow, manager of the Pacific Electric Gas and Electric Company, has perfected a plan for preventing frost from injury in the citrus groves during the coldest weather. He plans to pipe gas into the groves and have mushroom heaters placed at measured intervals. In a test in the H. I. Van Frank grove the temperature was increased 19 degrees in 20 minutes.

400 YEARS of TOBACCO

ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH OF MILADY NICOTINE, AS SOLACE FOR THE WHITE MAN, CELEBRATED BY WHOLE WORLD.

FOUR hundred years ago—Oct. 12—the white man first learned to woo my lady Nicotine!

Four hundred years of tobacco!

It has had calumny heaped on it; it has enslaved the world's greatest generals; it has inspired many of the world's greatest books, it helped sustain Edison in his world famous inventions. It has sinned, according to the purists, but it still remains a beloved institution in every part of the world.

Christianity reaches but a part of the peoples of the world. Mohammed failed to conquer Europe. Wheat, beef, opium, potatoes, taro, eggs, shark fins, quinine, alcohol, salt —all are used, but none is used in every portion of the globe. But tobacco is used everywhere. Christian and Turk, Chinaman and Indian, Hindu and Solomon islander; every breed and creed of man the whole earth round smokes or chews or snuffs the weed.

America can claim the one universal custom. The American Indian was the discoverer of the great narcotic.

Many Variations of Habit.

Strange are the variations of this strange habit that has become world wide in the last 400 years. The Negritos of the Philippines are cigar smokers and they are said to hold the cigar with the lighted end in their mouths. A nice cool smoke is not what they want. The Hottentot of Africa will sacrifice as much as any man for his smoke. He will sell his wife for tobacco. The Patagonian of the Straits of Magellan has a system of smoke swallowing by which he throws himself down on his stomach and secures a few moments of drugged ecstasy.

Away across the oceans in the Himalayas, the roof of the world, the lost Aryans smoke through the snow. They make a miniature tunnel in the drift. At one end they burn the tobacco with a hot coal and at the other openings of the tunnel they lie on the snow and smoke. The Moschans of Africa are such ecstatic users that they cram their noses so full of the weed it hangs from the nostrils and has to be dug out with a tiny silver spoon made for the purpose. The Kaffirs of South Africa mix their snuff with ashes and pepper in order to make it bite more strongly.

Curious "Chew" in Africa.

The Dschesire in Africa mix their tobacco with water and natron, making a sort of "pap" which they roll in their mouths. In South America some of the Indian tribes far up the Amazon are said actually to eat the tobacco in their eagerness for its effect.

All this has come from the discovery of Christopher Columbus. The humble red man who has given the world scarcely anything else has given it this one habit, more general than any other. From a few thousand American Indians, its only devotees, tobacco has claimed race after race the world round till now the number of its slaves is but a little short of the population of the earth.

The first pipe smokers, it is claimed, were the medicine men. Tobacco was used in the first place as an incense to burn before the great spirits. The burning of tobacco was an expression of man's homage to him just as the burning of spices, such as frankincense and myrrh, has been in the orient since time began. Among the Indians from Hudson's bay to Cape Horn the plant was regarded as sacred, hence the present use, "divine" weed.

Hariot, one of the first English travelers to note the custom, writes: "It is of so precious estimation among them that they think their gods are so marvelously delighted therewith; wherefore they make hallowed fire and cast some of their powder therein for a sacrifice."

Tobacco Offering to "Gods."

The Indians of North America welcomed Sir Francis Drake and his sailors as gods and gave them jars of their most choice tobacco. The medicine men as the representatives of the gods were accustomed to narcotize themselves like the Delphic oracle by inhaling the smoke from a fire of tobacco leaves. From these trances they came to tell of the god. The medicine men as healers prescribed for their patients a course of smoke, and the sick man in turn was sent into a tobacco sleep. Gradually the habit spread. The sick man, finding himself sick a second time, did not go to the medicine man, but hunted up his own tobacco. By the time Columbus came everybody, men, women, and children, was smoking pipes or crude cigars.

Strange to relate, about the first use of tobacco in Europe was also as an incense. During a part of the seventeenth century tobacco was burned in church, together with frankincense. The first appearance of tobacco on the English stage was in Ben Jonson's comedy, "Every Man to His Humor." In this play Capt. Bobadil appears smoking a pipe in company with others addicted to the same practice and who are contemptuously styled in the stage directions, "a rout of stinkards."

Bobadil is made to break out into the following flambuoyant praise of his pipe: "Sir, believe me on my relation for what I tell you the world shall not reprove. I have been in the Indies where this herb grows and where neither myself nor a dozen gentlemen more of my knowledge have received the taste of any other nutriment in the world for the space of nine and twenty weeks, but the fume of this simple only. Therefore, it cannot be but it is most divine. I do hold it and will affirm it before any prince in Europe to be the most sovereign and most precious weed that ever the earth tendered to the use of man."

Strange to say tobacco smoking was regarded as bad form in England fifty years ago. It had lost its high standing of the earlier period and was held to be the practice of only the vulgarian. The Bohemians could indulge, but the man of rank and social standing could not. But this temporary blight has worn away from the reputation of the "tobacco drinker" and today the highest gentlemen of the land indulge.

At the present time in all civilized countries the percentage of nonsmokers among grown men is very low. In most barbarous lands not only the men but the women and the children smoke. When the first teachers went into the Philippines they reported the small islanders as getting out their pipes for a puff during recess.

The word "tobacco" has been exchanged for the word "cigar." The Indians called their cigars "tobagos" and Columbus named an island which he fancied resembled an Indian's pipe, "Tobago." As the first importations of the weed into Europe came from this place the name was assumed as that of the weed itself. The real name is hard to give. The Carribees called it "cohiba," the Indians found in what is now Virginia designated it as "uppowoc," Mexicans knew it by the name "piecolt," in parts of South America it was called "yoli," and the Brazilians called it "petun."

Sir Walter Raleigh is principally known to fame through his real or legendary efforts to introduce "tobacco drinking" to the English court. We all remember the picture in the reader in which the faithful man servant douches Sir Walter with a bucket of water in the belief that his master is on fire.

First Mention of Peace Pipe.

The first mention of the pipe of peace comes through one Montmagny, a Knight of Malta and governor of Canada in 1645, who concluded a commercial treaty with the native tribes of the Algonquins, Montagnes, Hurons, and Cherokees by taking a pull at the pipe of peace. The pipe of peace usually is about four or five feet long, of light wood, and profusely ornamented with ribbons, tresses of women's hair, strings of coral beads, and feathers, particularly those of the war eagle. The women of the tribes felt themselves bound to ornament the calumet in the most handsome and effective manner.

From these small beginnings 400 years ago the tobacco industry has grown with the use of the plant to be one of the greatest in the world. The United States in 1907 produced 711,126,000 pounds; Cuba, 51,506,000; Mexico, 22,750,000; Santo Domingo, 26,460,000; Argentina, 51,000,000; Brazil, 64,266,000; Hungary, 185,018,000; France, 40,810,000; Germany, 61,665,000; Russia, [illegible]; Turkey, 100,000,000; Java, 67,088,000; Sumatra, 47,868,000; Japan, 104,578,000. The grand total of the world's production for that year was 2,888,107,000 pounds.

In the United States in the same year [illegible],000,000 pounds of tobacco were consumed by Americans. Germany smoked, snuffed, and chewed 201,000,000 pounds and Russia, 180,000,000 pounds. The per capita consumption in the United States was 5.40 pounds for each man, woman, and child, which would mean that the average consumption of the real smokers could not have been less than fifteen pounds. Germany and Austria each consumed something more than three pounds per capita. France uses 2.16 pounds per capita; Hungary, 2.42; the United Kingdom, 1.36, and Russia, 1.10.

The complex machinery that culminates in the battle that will take place here on Tuesday is set in motion every four years by a call from the Republican national committee This call bids the state and district conventions convene for the selection of delegates to the national convention.

Each state is allowed twice as many delegates as it has electoral votes Thus, two delegates are chosen for each congressional district by the party convention of that district, and from four to eight for the whole state These latter are called delegates-at-large Each delegate has an alternate

THE DISTRICT PRIMARY.

These delegates before this year were selected on strict party lines and through a machine vote The direct primary was adopted in many states this year, with the result that two sets of delegates were placed before the voters, one for President Taft, and the other to the support of Roosevelt.

In states where the direct primary law does not apply, the different counties of other subdivisions of the state convene and provide for the choice of delegates from their respective sections to the state convention

Then the county committee issues calls to the various precinct committees, or precinct heads, who summon the voters of their districts to primary election to select national and state delegates. The state delegates convene the state convention, and select the delegates-at-large to the national convention.

These national delegates, whether selected direct by the people or by the state conventions, are then passed upon by the national committee, in cases where two men are contesting for a place, this committee deciding which is to make up the temporary roll of the national convention Then the convention itself ratifies the action of the committee, and the nominating body is ready to take up the selection of a Presidential candidate.

The selection of a convention city is made by the national committee, and is bid for by the municipalities desiring the convention Usually the highest bidder is awarded the prize.

SMALLPOX LURKS IN 'RATS' AND PUFFS

DENVER June 15—Warning has been sent out to the women of Colorado by the State board of health that they incur danger of infection from smallpox when they purchase and use the various forms of false hair that have been popular in recent years

The board has been engaged for some time on an investigation of the reasons for the large number of smallpox cases in the State. There were only 483 in 1908, but in 1910 they had jumped to 1096 and in 1911 to 1394 This increase was in the face of elaborate measures to guard the State from infection, and strict quarantine whenever a case was discovered A surprising thing was that a large proportion of the cases were found among well-to-do persons, instead of among those whose surroundings might be assumed to subject them to danger

In the course of its activities the board had its attention directed to the traffic in false hair and looked up the matter It learned that a large proportion of this commodity comes from the Chinese, and is gathered from such classes as are exposed constantly to smallpox and other diseases Some germs have been found in hair that has been purchased and subjected to microscopical examination and it is said that many of the recent cases of the disease might have come from such a source.

SCULPTURE, IF FREE, MUST STIR THE SOUL

WASHINGTON, June 15—Only true sculpture, stirring the soul, can come into the United States free of duty, according to a decision by the Customs Court yesterday, drawing a sharp line between the ornamenter and the sculptor.

The court held that an elaborately carved marble mantel, decorated with artistic pillars and figures, was not sculpture, but a specimen of architectural art, dutiable at 50 per cent ad valorem.

"The ornamentalist in stone," the court decided, "imitates that which he actually sees, and his work goes on further than to please the eye. The sculptor reproducing that which is pictured by his imagination, and his reproduction appeals, not only to the eye, but to the emotions as well."

NOW THEY'LL HAVE TO MUZZLE SQUIRRELS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 15—Residents of Overton Park tonight aided police in searching for mad squirrels that attacked a 16-year-old high school girl. The young woman fought hard against her nimble little assailant and finally escaped to her home nearby, where, weakened from loss of blood, she fainted on the doorstep. Two small boys in the same section today told their parents of a similar attack.

Edna Smith, the girl attacked, is under treatment on the assumption that the squirrel is afflicted of rabies. The squirrel has not as yet been captured.

REBELS THREATEN TO HANG ALL FOREIGNERS

PROTECTION IS ASKED OF THE U. S. GOVT.

General Antomarchi, Leader of Revolutionary Blacks, Causes Panic.

American Soldiers Not Available to Meet Threatened Attack.

(By H. H. STANSBURY.)

SANTIAGO, June 15.—While the staff officers of the Gomez army were celebrating in Santiago cafes today their success in making Washington believe the revolution is under control, the rebel general, Julio Antomarchi came within thirty miles of Santiago and announced his intention of hanging all foreigners in the El Cobre coffee district within the next twenty-four hours.

The El Cobre district is inhabited by about 800 families, the majority of whom are French subjects. Much German and American capital is involved in the crop now ready to be harvested. It is estimated that the crop is worth upward of $5,250,000.

Antomarchi is one of Estenoz' strongest leaders. His threat is published in writing to all property holders. His threatened attack is believed to be part of an adroit move to bring about intervention by the United States.

The French consul, Henri Bryois, and the German consul, Herr Michaelsen, have cabled their respective governments, demanding immediate protection by the United States troops. As a matter of form, the consuls first appealed to General Monteaguedo for protection, but the refugees from the imperiled district now in Havana say they do not want any protection from Cubans.

ATROCITIES CHARGED.

A copy of the rebel threat in hand asserts that retaliation against the foreign element is a direct result of the atrocities committed by Cuban soldiers against blacks who have taken no part in the revolution.

Antomarchi commands a strong force, and all the foreign residents are panic stricken. The facts of the situation were communicated by wireless from the Paducah to the marine headquarters at Fisherman's Point, Guantanamo. Colonel Lejune, commanding the marines in the Santiago district, reported that no American soldiers are available, as to withdraw the detachments scattered through the valley would leave unprotected property of far greater value than that involved in the newly-menaced section.

This state of affairs is the most alarming since the first outbreak, but comes as no surprise to those acquainted with the situation.

THE DEAD TO HORSES' TAILS.

A few guerrilla bands are still terrorizing the country. Negroes that are killed are tied to the tails of their horses and dragged to the approaches of plantations where American soldiers are on guard, and left as an example of what is being done.

Seven separate acts of this uncivilized practice have been reported within the last two days.

Gabriel Lacosto, the aged negro cripple whom Cubans claim is a prophet, has surrendered to Captain Cartillo of the federal army in the neighborhood of Yateras, according to a cable message from Guantanamo. Lacosto has been paralyzed twenty years. He has always lived in Santiago up to a few weeks ago, when he was removed to Yateras, a small inland town, following threats against his life.

All reports to the effect that Estenoz has been killed or captured are without foundation in fact.

Raker Wants to Succeed Himself

Congressman Requests Information Concerning the Primary Ballot.

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—Congressman John E. Raker today applied, through a communication to the secretary of state's office, for information concerning the requirements of candidates for congress to be placed on the primary ballot for the September election. This application indicates that Congressman Raker of the new second congressional district will be a candidate to succeed himself. Under the law today is the first on which petitions for nominations as candidates for congress can be taken out. These petitions must be filed with the secretary of state not later than July 24.

SQUAW APPEALS TO PALEFACE DIVORCE LAW

SANTA ROSA, June 15.—Something of a novelty appeared in the Superior Court of Sonoma county, more particularly in the divorce department of said tribunal. It was an instance of an Indian woman seeking to divorce her Indian spouse.

Mrs. Josephine Manzagna commenced divorce proceedings against her husband, Joseph. But for the remark that the woman's counsel, Thos. J. Butts, let drop as to the fact that both plaintiff and defendant were Indians, possibly little attention would have been paid to the suit.

It seems that Joseph and Josephin have not been getting along as well as they might have done. Josephine had read the newspapers and had noted that she had recourse to the courts to free herself from her husband. Consequently she consulted Counsellor Butts and into his ear poured her story.

In her complaint Josephine alleges that her husband has not trodden the straight and narrow path of temperance. She says he has been guilty of intemperance and has also been cruel to her.

BOWLING GREEN AT PARK POPULAR

Game Now Officially Recognized by Park Commissioners

(By TALIESIN EVANS.)

On Memorial Day, the bowling green constructed by the Oakland park directors at Lakeside Park, near the McElroy memorial fountain, was thrown open to the use of bowling clubs, with a match played between the San Francisco and the Oakland Scotch bowling clubs, in which the representatives of the former triumphed. While the game of bowls was introduced into the State many years ago by the Scotch colony its votaries have been much fewer than its intrinsic merit as a healthful and gentlemanly outdoor sport deserves. Now that it has been officially recognized by the Park Commissioners of San Francisco and the Park Directors of Oakland as an outdoor sport worthy of public encouragement, it may be finally considered now as permanently listed among California's athletic field sports, the two rival bay cities having built greens in their respective public parks.

ANTIQUITY OF BOWLING.

The game of "bowls" is claimed to be one of great antiquity, having been fostered by the Greeks and Egyptians in ancient times. Some time early in the last century, it was introduced into England, the first bowling green being laid out in the Manchester Botanical Gardens, according to the best authority on the subject which I have been able to get. But my recollection of the Botanical Gardens green and the bowls used in the playing of the game inclines me to believe that it was a much more scientific game then than it is now. For example: Instead of being a dead level, as the "green" is in these modern times the "rinks" were laid out in an oval with a curvature to the slightly inclined sides almost imperceptibly rising from the level mid sections of the "rinks," and the "bowls" were pear-shaped and weighted at the narrow end. To reach the "jack"—the goal of the game—the "bowls" were thus forced to travel a crescent-shaped course, and infinite complications and the severest demands on skill and judgment followed any disturbance by the bowling of the position of the "jack" in the course of the [illegible]

That is the recollection I have of the Manchester Botanical Gardens "green" as it existed when I saw it in my early boyhood days nearly sixty years ago. If my recollections are true, the "green" and the "bowls" have been greatly modified since then. The "green" is now laid perfectly level and the "bowls" are in the form of a flattened orange slightly weighted on one side, so that when the momentum starting it on its journey of approximately 100 feet, more or less, begins to be expended, the weighted end of the "bowl" lags and its course is curved. The secret of expertness in the play lies in the delivery of the "bowl," the momentum given it to carry the course and the judgment shown in measuring the allowance by hand and eye for the bias which accompanies the slowing down of its run to the "jack." To the uninitiated "bowling" seems simple in the extreme. Very little experience is needed to disillusionize the novice.

SCOTLAND'S NATIONAL SPORT.

Whatever or wherever the origin of bowling, it divides honors with golf in Scotland for precedence as the national outdoor sport. Every city there has its "bowling greens" as it does its "golf links," and the "bowling greens," for obvious reasons, are more numerously and more generally patronized. What is more to the credit of "bowling" than the healthful exercise it gives its votaries in Scotland is that it has proved to be a most effective moral and temperance agent among the rising generation. Since "bowling" has come into popular favor in Scotland, the long summer evenings of the young men have been spent in "bowling" on the "village green," and the village tavern and "the barley bree" have lost popularity. The kirk has assumed patronage of the "bowling green" as a valuable auxiliary in the work of moral reform. That suggestion ought to carry weight with the temperance people and moral reformers in Oakland, San Francisco and other bay cities, and add materially to the membership of the two clubs now in existence and result in the organization of new "bowling" clubs in these bay cities where clubs do not now exist.

A GENTLEMANLY SPORT.

"Bowling" is strictly a gentlemanly sport, just as the British game of cricket is; or lawn tennis, which is open to both sexes. There is nothing in it to favor a "rough house" or rowdyism. It is barren soil to both features of human habit or development. As an athletic sport, it affords no opportunity for excesses. While it furnishes healthful exercise, it does not exhaust the vitality or drain the physical energy of the player. Cricket is called by American sportsmen a "slow game," although there are times in a match when in batting and fielding there are louder and more exacting calls on the vital energies and endurance of players than in baseball. But "bowling" is an outdoor sport of even tenor in its way. It makes a demand on the intelligence and the judgment in the use of the eye and the hand equal, at least, to that demanded by any outdoor sport, but it never calls for violent physical exertion. The physical energies are, therefore, never overdrawn or exhausted. Those who are advanced in years as well as youths and men in the prime of life find in it equal enjoymen and agreeable social companionship.

Some of the best known citizens of Oakland and San Francisco are represented in the "bowling" clubs. The opening of the "green" at Lakeside Park at the head of Lake Merritt has given an impetus to the sport in this city and the Oakland Bowling club has initiated a movement for the increase of its membership which promises good results not only in the addition of new recruits, but in increasing public interest, also, in this gentlemanly and healthful outdoor recreation to be well-fostered. Practice games are played on the Lakeside Park "green" every Wednesday and Saturday afternoons by members of the Oakland Scotch Bowling club and their friends and the park directors have provided seating accommodations on the banks of the green for interested spectators. Robert Howden is president of the club and among its present members are several of Oakland's best-known and most highly respected citizens.

Fillmore Street Watches Woman Chase Stolen Coat

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—An exciting chase amidst a crowd of week-end shoppers on Fillmore street at 8 o'clock tonight, in which one woman was pursued in frantic fashion by another, resulted in the arrest of Elizabeth Goppa, a domestic, who was charged at the city prison with grand larceny. Her pursuer was Mrs. A. A. Doyle, of 1542 McAllister street, who was walking along the sidewalk when she saw a coat, which she recognized as her daughter's, adorning the person of Miss Goppa. Instantly she recognized the latter as a former servant and tried to arrest her. The woman ran, chased by Mrs. Doyle and many pedestrians. Finally the police took a hand and the alleged culprit was taken into custody. An investigation developed the fact that Miss Goppa had worked at the Doyle home for four days, ending with January 29, and that when she left, clothing belonging to Mrs. Doyle and her daughter valued at [illegible] disappeared. After her arrest tonight the police searched her apartments and recovered almost all of the missing property.

Nevada Will Execute Murderer by Shooting

TONOPAH, Nev., June 15.—A. Mirkovich was sentenced here today to be shot to death at the state's prison August 23. This is the first sentence to death by shooting ever imposed in Nevada, and is possible under a law passed at the last session of the legislature. Mirkovich was convicted of the murder of John Gregevich, a merchant, on May 14.

WHITEWASH IS APPLIED BY 'HOPPIE'

Gallons of It Smeared on Resort by Proprietor Following Expose.

Notorious Cafe Keeper Is More Careful as to Appearances Nowadays.

Lights are still shining brightly in the Hoffman cafe at nighttime, with the exception of the dim passageway leading from the street entrance to the part of the dive designated as the "cafe."

Along the wall in the passageway a number of boxes still hold forth invitations for the loving couples who make the rounds of the night life, and William Hopkins, the proprietor, who is under bond to appear before the superior court next Wednesday on a felony charge, still moves among his guests, affecting a bravado that fain would leave an impression that he is a much-abused person.

"Hoppie," as he is best known among the rounders, continues to "put up the front" that the public has been misinformed as to his true character. In spite of the fact that he admitted living with the woman known as "Babe" Gabriel, although she was not his wife; in spite of the fact that she committed suicide under circumstances that were never entirely cleared up, and notwithstanding the fact that he escaped conviction on the charge of stealing a purse from one of his entertainers only by a 7 to 5 vote of the jury, "Hoppie" boastfully appears each night and extends the glad hand to those who visit his resort.

As to the visitors, however, "Hoppie" is more careful nowadays than before he was exposed in court. No more is the Hoffman the care-free place of entertainment that it was in the old days before the people "got on" to the proprietor. Visitors entering there at any time of day are now open to suspicion. Unless they are known personally to "Hoppie" or some of his bartenders or waiters they are looked upon as spies. Recently, it is said, a number of persons have been refused the service of the house for the reason that they were suspected of being there for some purpose not conducive to the proprietor's peace of mind.

HORROR OF EXPOSURE.

From all appearances, the proprietor is afraid of being found out to a greater extent. He is on his guard and does not mean to be caught napping, for, his friends say, "Hoppie" is worried enough as it is. He will have to face another jury on the charge of taking Thelma Buckingham's purse on April 3, last, while the two were in one of his cafe boxes attempting to settle their business accounts. For the reason that the last jury did not acquit him as promptly as he expected, "Hoppie" fears that he may be "in wrong" and that other people do not look so lightly upon his alleged purloining of the purse and coin from the girl entertainer.

Therefore, the man who has mismanaged the Hoffman cafe for the last few years is on the alert to see that nothing more transpires which might discredit him until after his next trial. Whether or not he will have to spend a term in states prison for the alleged offense is about all that is troubling "Hoppie" at this time.

SILVER FLINT WAS PEER BACKSTOP, SAYS GORE

Veteran Outfielder Pays High Tribute to Famous Catcher of Chicago Team.

One of the greatest outfielders that ever scampered for the sizzling line drives was discussing catchers recently. He was George Gore, in his day one of the fleetest fielders, heaviest hitters, and finest ballplayers. Centerfielder on the famous Chicago White Stockings that under Anson won pennant after pennant, Gore was in a class by himself.

"Frank Flint of our team," said Gore, was the greatest catcher who ever lived. He knew more than any other man with the mask. He had the greatest head of any man in the business. Nobody before or since could touch Flint.

"Every pitcher he ever handled he made a star. Look at Fred Goldsmith and Larry Corcoran. Neither of these men ever showed much when they were with other clubs. Once Frank took them in hand they all developed into stars. He could make cracks out of every pitcher who ever toed the slab. Show me the backstop today who can take any pitcher and make a marvel out of him.

"Goldsmith was able to pitch for us for several years after his arm was like a plate of ice cream because he had Flint behind the bat. Corcoran, you know, was a slightly-built man and as cranky as the dickens.

"The White Stockings were out in California at the time that Hurlburt was president of the club. Corcoran had been heard about by our men, but his sour disposition had queered him with a number of them. Hurlburt was loath to take him. However, he talked with Silver. 'Get him,' said Frank, 'and I'll do the rest.' So Hurlburt took Larry. Our president was a big man physically, and about as fine a chap to work for as you could imagine.

"The boss called Corcoran to him. 'Look here!' said the president, pointing to Flint, 'that fellow is your boss. You do everything he asks you, and don't you disobey him or I'll fire you right off the reel.'

"Corcoran started. He obeyed implicitly and everything went along finely. Larry was soon one of the best twirlers in the league. One day he got one of his cranky fits on him. He wouldn't obey the signals, and crossed Silver several times. The latter took off his mask and went into the box.

"'Larry,' he said, quietly, but his eyes were snapping, you either do what I say or you go straight into the clubhouse—I don't care which you do. Now get busy.' Larry turned around and became reasonable.

"After the game Hurlburt was sitting in [illegible] the clubhouse dressed, and the boss was waiting for him. He called the pitcher to him, 'Look here, Lawrence,' said the old man, 'didn't I tell you that Frank was your boss? Now, if you let another yip out of you like you did today you'll be fired so quickly your head will swim.'

"Corcoran never bothered again. He was only a fair twirler, too. But Frank had him trained to the minute. Yes, there was never a backstop ever lived could touch Frank Flint," ended George.

THERE MAY BE A RACE.

There may be a race in the National League this year, but it will be between Frank Schultze's and Schicty Mathewson's high-powered automobiles.

Ed W. Smith Will Be Third Man in Ring at Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 15.—E. W. Smith, a Chicago sporting writer, today was selected referee for the Johnson-Flynn championship battle here July 4.

This decision was reached at a conference between Champion Jack Johnson and Jack Curley, the latter representing Jim Flynn.

Curley has announced that the fight would be staged at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

ALAMEDA SPORTS PLAN BIG TIME ON JULY 4

Harness Races and Motorcycle Tests Will Fill Out Holiday Program.

ALAMEDA, June 15. — Sixteen motorcycle and harness races, to be held on the marsh track of the Alameda Driving association, will furnish one of the chief attractions in this city on July 4. The meet will take place under the joint auspices of the Alameda Driving association and the Alameda Motorcycle club.

At a meeting of the two organizations held last night, G. A. Nissen of the driving association, reported that he had secured entries for four trotting and four pacing races, some of the finest California horseflesh being entered. Isador Durand of the motorcyclers was also present and stated that his club will put on eight regular events, with several free for all races to follow.

The secretary of the committee reported that he had received communications from the motorcycle clubs of San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Santa Rosa, stating that they will enter in the races. The eight main events will include races of from one to 25 miles.

A number of the local motorcyclists, having obtained permission from Nissen to practise on the track held a try-out yesterday and report the track in excellent condition. A mile was made yesterday in the time of one minute and five seconds flat.

Arrangements have been made for holding in this city, Oakland, San Francisco, Sacramento and Santa Rosa, of a mammoth parade to advertise the event.

It was also reported that the driving races scheduled to have been held in Golden Gate park by the San Francisco Driving association had been called off, and that the club will pull off all the events in this city.

STEVE SURE CAN HIT.

Steven Manning, the popular Buffalo lad, who is playing in left field for the Holyoke, Mass., team, is certain tearing things up and down that way and is now called the fence breaker of the Connecticut league, according to the Springfield Union.

Manning is quite an expense to the Holyoke club, but an expense which every baseball manager would be glad to stand in a case like Steve's.

The club pays $5 for every home run, and Manning is $15 richer as the result of making three circuit drives in a recent game, when Holyoke defeated Bridgeport by the score of 17 to 5.

M'INTOSH HAS DREAMS OF WORLD'S TITLE BATTLES

Australian Promoter Always Has Fancy Ideas of Big Bouts; Has Badly Fooled Uncle Tom McCarey

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Many a moon has waxed waned since Hugh D. McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter, gave out that he was about to embark in his particular line of business in New York, having been invited to do so by "many leading sporting men" of the big eastern city. Mac always promised fuller particulars "by next mail," but as the mail in question is more than a year overdue, it begins to look as though something has gone awry with McIntosh's plans for an eastern invasion.

It was a weird proposition from the outset. New York, like any other big American city has sporting enterpeneurs who can hold their own with men in that line the world around and why McIntosh was heeded to show them how to run things was never very clear. If the Australians had gone there with a string of Australian fighters and merely as a patron it would have been quite understandable, but the suggestion that his presence was deemed necessary to place boxing on a proper footing was a good deal of a joke.

Now that Mac's Australian press bureau stuff contains no further references to his New York invasion we are beginning to wonder whether some one was kidding him or he was kidding the balance of us.

McINTOSH TO STAY HOME.

The very latest from Sydney is that McIntosh is having the rush Cutters bay stadium roofed over so as to be available for boxing matches both winter and summer. This looks as though McIntosh has made up his mind to stay at home and make Australia an all around pugilistic rendezvous.

For that matter Mac is already casting around for winter cards and is not particular whose corns he treads on while reaching for what he wants. He has probably taken the Jeanette-Langford contest from McCarey and while doing so has given the ethics of matching a violent wrench.

The last mail from Australia brought the usual output of press bureau stuff from the McIntosh office in Sydney. One of the circular letters set forth that the stadium was being roofed in and that as a big opening card McIntosh was after Jeanette and Langford. The circular mentioned that some little trouble was expected because Jeanette and Langford were already matched for Los Angeles but expressed the belief that the Los Angeles stumbling block was "something that could be adjusted. "About the same date the writer received a letter from San McKettrick, manager of Jeanette, who at the time was in Paris.

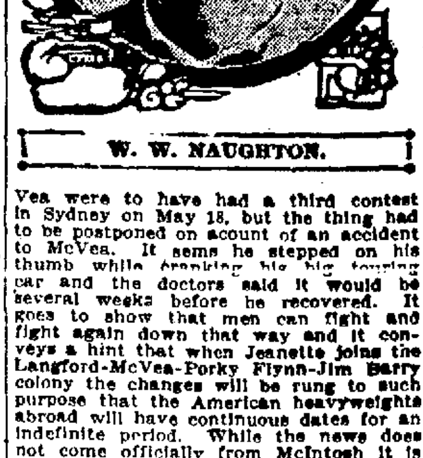
"McIntosh is offering us all kinds of inducements to go to Australia and box Langford," wrote McKettrick. "He says Langford has signed up for a new batch of contests and will not return to Australia for a long time."

About a week later McCarey, the Los Angeles matchmaker, received a cablegram from Langford's manager in Australia, setting forth that they had been made parties to a law suit and would not be able to sail for home in time to keep the July date with Jeanette in Los Angeles.

"We will be back in September; so try and keep Jeanette in the country," said the cable, but after reading the extracts given from the letters received from McIntosh and McKettrick it is easy enough to see that they have put one over on poor old Uncle Tom, the sage of Vernon.

STEPPED ON HIS THUMB.

By the way, Langford and Sam McVea were to have had a third contest in Sydney on May 18, but the thing had to be postponed on acount of an accident to McVea. It sems he stepped on his thumb while cranking his big touring car and the doctors said it would be several weeks before he recovered. It goes to show that men can fight and fight again down that way and it conveys a hint that when Jeanette joins the Langford-McVea-Porky Flynn-Jim Barry colony the changes will be rung to such purpose that the American heavyweights abroad will have continuous dates for an indefinite period. While the news does not come officially from McIntosh it is said that the Australian promoter will offer big inducements to Jack Johnson to make the trip to Sydney in the event of Johnson defending his title successfully against Jim Flynn at Las Vegas on July 4.



W. W. NAUGHTON.

Johnson has never shown any particular desire to revisit Australia as, apart from the admiration his fighting prowess compels he is not popular down that way. If he should decide to go, though, McIntosh's old-time dream of a heavyweight elimination tourney with a real championship contest would be realized at last.

MUCH GROUND COVERED.

Much of the ground that has been covered already would be covered again and Langford and McVea would start off as fresh as though they had never met. Then there would be the winner of that contest against Jeanette and the winner of that again against Johnson, provided there were no draws to be fought off in the meanwhile.

"White Australia" would surely have an orgie of colored pugilism and with all the negro fighters marooned in Kangaroo land there should be a chance for the white hope industry in this country to develop and expand. But in the meantime considerable depends upon the way Johnson gets along with Jim Flynn at Las Vegas. It would be little use of Jack going to Australia if he misplaced his championship.

POE FAMILY EARNED FAME UNBEATABLE IN FOOTBALL

Six Brothers Played With Princeton College and Every One Was a Star.

Football talent often has been discovered to run in veins, says the St. Paul Tribune. It seldom is that one brother of a family is a good player without his brothers proving football ability in more or less degree. There have been many pairs who have played together on the same teams and many more stars who have followed older brother to college.

By far the greatest family of football players were the well known Poe boys, who brought honors to Princeton for many years. This great Nassau recruiting field was the family of John P. Poe of Baltimore, who himself graduated from Princeton in 1854 and was a powerful athlete. Descendants of the Poet Edgar Allan Poe, the six boys thus inherited a rare combination of physical prowess, dash, daring and wits which enabled them to make football history.

S. Johnson Poe, the oldest of the boys, played his game for the Tigers in 1882 and 1883, was a brilliant open-field runner, and started the pace for spectacular playing that his younger brothers kept up. He was a fast man and knew his game, and attracted attention by his skill in the fine points of the game.

EDGAR ALLEN A STAR.

Edgar Allan Poe, second to appear on the Princeton field, was the finest lightweight player of his day. He played in '89 and '99. He was sub quarter in '89, and got his chance in the Harvard game when an injury to "Snake" Ames put him into the game, and acted captaincy. How he took the team in the second half that year and changed the score from Harvard 15, Princeton 10 to Princeton 41, Harvard 15 never will be forgotten by Tiger pig skin enthusiasts. "Peter" Poe, as they called him, turned out to be the best general of the times, and his advice still is sought by the Tiger elevens of today.

John P. Poe Jr. was the third of the great sextet. He played football at 138, but he was a brilliant enough dodger and tackler to be the star of the Orange and Black elevens of '91 and '93. "Johnnie the Coach," as he was nicknamed, was a La La La Willie at the flying tackle game on which the whole Poe bunch was strong. He could make a running dive 15 feet and land his man, and the momentum he gained this way made a dead stop as good as a 200-pound linesman.

Johnnie Poe had one of the best heads in the family, and was a strong advocate of abundant fundamental practice.

ARTHUR BEST KNOWN.

Nelson Poe was Princeton '97. He played as a Tiger in '9 4, '95 and '96. He played the quarter and half, and possessed the same tackling and running ability of his older brothers. He was on the Varsity his whole four years at college.

The best-known and most spectacular of the Poes was Arthur Poe, '90. He played his great game in '98 and '99, and both years individual work won the Eastern championship for his team. This has been won before by a single star play, but never in the history of the war of shoe leather on spheroids has one man been able to win two championships in such a manner. On November 12, 1898, in the game with Yale, by a brilliant dodging run in the open field he carried the ball 98 yards for the winning touchdown. In '99 he practically repeated the performance. Again, in the deciding game of the Eastern championship series, again against Yale, he broke loose around the Eli end and scored on a long run in the last two minutes of play.

The baby of this football family was Gresham Poe. Gresham could not overshadow the work of his brother predecessors, but he was known throughout his college career for the same brilliancy of play which his older brothers had exhibited.

The Poes were all light, and even Arthur, the heaviest of the tribe, never got outof the 40's. Gresham weighed 135 and the other four boys were in the early 40's. The secret of their success was their devotion to the fundamental principles of the game, and it would be hard to find players to beat their consistent accuracy of catching and passing the ball, careful tackling and knowledge of their teams and their signals. They all liked the end jobs, though occasionally a Poe played in the backfield. The quick starting and clever dodging ability of the Poes beat many a more beefy man out of a job with the Orange and Black.

TRIBUNES WILL TACKLE FAST MARTINEZ TEAM

Next Sunday the Oakland Tribune ball team will go to Martinez to play the fast team from there.

The Tribunes will line up as follows: Healon, pitcher; Lydett, catcher; Lyons, first base; Lloyd, second base; Holstrom, shortstop; Van, third base; Cassebaum, left field; Crosby, center field and McCarthy, right field. Dilkenson will pitch for Martinez.

June 23 the Tribunes will play the Oakland Moose team at Freeman's park at 12 o'clock, this being a benefit game for Woods, who was injured in a ball game a couple of weeks ago.

YACHTSMEN ALL READY FOR TRANS-PACIFIC RACE

SAN PEDRO, June 15.—Preparations are completed for the big transpacific yacht race which is scheduled to start off San Pedro breakwater at noon tomorrow and finish at Honolulu. The yachts entered for the race are the Hawaii, of the the Honolulu Yacht club; Ludline of the San Diego Yacht club and the Seafarer of the San Francisco Yacht club. The Seafarer, the last to arrive here for the event, reached port early this afternoon from San Francisco and was given an immediate overhauling in the outer harbor.

GREAT SEMI-PROS TO BATTLE FOR TITLE ON BALL FIELD

ALAMEDA, June 15.—The first of a series of five games between the Alameda Models and the Alameda Krieg & Haltons, for the championship of Alameda, will be played at Lincoln park tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The series is expected to prove one of the hottest and most exciting in the history of the Lincoln park diamond. The line-up for the opening game will be as follows:

Krieg & Haltons—Pitcher, Eric Pollard or Paul Mackie; catcher, Jamie Mackie; second base, Matt Ryan; shortstop, Elmer Gay; third base, F. Schoenfeld; first base, W. Denny; centerfield, W. A. Ebner; left field, F. Thompkins.

The Dow nine and the Hirschfelds of San Francisco will play on the Dow field tomorrow afternoon. The Panama Lumber Co. nine will play the Telegraphs on the North Beach diamond in San Francisco tomorrow afternoon.

EMERYVILLES TO MEET FAST J. H. KRAUSE TEAM

EMERYVILLE, Cal., June 15.—At the Park avenue grounds, Sunday, June 16, 2 p. m., American Rubber Co. vs J. H. Krause.

The American Rubber Co. (home team), has perhaps, the best record of any of the semi-professional teams around the bay. Playing Sundays and holidays they have been defeated only 9 out of 62 times in the last year. The game tomorrow should be a hard fought contest as the J. K. Krause team has been meeting the best of them and invariably winning.

ALAMEDA MOOSE WILL TACKLE ALAMEDA EAGLES

ALAMEDA, June 15.—Alameda Moose ball team will play a picked team of Fruitvale Eagles tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The game will be played at Recreation park at Fruitvale station. A good game is looked forward to as both teams are fast. Speer of the Moose team has signed up several new players [illegible] of whom are good. The Alameda batteries are Manning and Jacobson.

HOGAN GETS A PITCHER.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Pitcher Ovitz, the University of Chicago youngster, will probably report to "Hap" Hogan's within the next fortnight. Ovitz should be in good condition, as he has been working out with the college team all season.

BOOZE AND GAMBLING A MENACE TO BASEBALL

Many Complaints Reach League Headquarters as to Conditions That Beset Game at Vernon and Portland

By BERT LOWRY.

BOOZE and gambling. These two are the menace of clean baseball and the sooner they are forever eliminated from the game the better it will be for the game all over the land, and especially on the Pacific Coast. It is but recently that a San Francisco paper published a statement concerning the deplorable conditions that confronted the decent element at Vernon, and Walter McCredie of Portland was most emphatic in declaring that the article in question was not strong enough, nor did it state one-half of what prevailed at the ball park in the southern part of the State.

Closely following the complaint of Walter McCredie comes one to the Portland Telegram from a fan who sets forth what he saw at a recent ball game at Portland between Los Angeles and Portland. The letter follows:

To the Editor of The Telegram: As a lover of good clean sport, especially baseball, I would like to call attention to some of the conditions at the local ball park.

Last Wednesday I took my boy to the game and occupied seats about the center of the right field bleachers.

About the fourth inning a man came in very much intoxicated, carrying several bottles of beer in his arms, and proceeded to make a disgusting show of himself. He was immediately surrounded by a bunch of tinhorns, who made him all sorts of bets on the outcome of different plays, money being freely passed among them. When a player had the misfortune to cut off a run or made a clever stop of a ball the air was filled with a string of filthy abuse directed at the player or the team in general. This is how the panning of some of Mac's best men started. Not on account of the game they put up, but on account of about 30 cents some piker lost on certain games.

This kind of thing it bad for the game, bad for the decent men that are forced to sit among such a bunch, but worse of all for the little boys under 12 years of age that flock to the games on Wednesday to see good clean sport, not to listen to such filth as was plentiful there last Wednesday.

(Signed) D. McB. R.

EVILS MUST BE CORRECTED.

The writer has no desire to stir up eternal strife, but there is no getting by the fact that booze and gambling are playing havoc with the great American game.

With the closing of the race track, the tinhorn gambler and the sure-thing man had to turn to something whereby he could carry on his business. There is no other sport that runs so many months in the year and naturally he turns to baseball.

It is no uncommon thing at Vernon to see a steady stream of men and boys going from the bleachers to the bars there and filling up on vile liquor and in a short time Barleycorn has control of them and actions that bespeak the rowdy and the ruffian are carried on.

This condition of affairs is brought about from two reasons. First, the saloons of Los Angeles proper are closed on Sunday, but liquor is permitted at Vernon from the fact that it is outside of the city limits. The second reason for this and the real cause of the disgraceful scenes so harshly complained of by Walter McCredie is the fact that directors of the southern clubs permit the sale of liquor on their ball grounds.

GAMBLERS RUN RIOT.

When Walter McCredie made the assertion that gamblers ran riot at Vernon he knew of what he spoke. The writer has been a witness to heavy wagering on the Vernon ball park and he has also seen some heavy wagering on the Los Angeles ball park in a manner that was a direct violation of the law.

Moreover, the writer has seen information of the out of town games withheld from the patrons at the ball park but given to some one who went imme- [illegible] telephone and sent that information into town. For what purpose, the writer was unable to learn, owing to the shortness of his stay in the southern city, but this much is asked: Why was that done? Were not the patrons at the ball park more entitled to that information and at once, in preference to some one on the outside?

From Portland, too, comes the cry that booze and gambling is ruining the game. That letter above is proof that something is wrong in the northern city.

BOOZE CAUSED ABLES' TROUBLES.

BERT LOWRY

It was booze that caused Harry Ables to get into a heap of trouble and his club to be minus his services just when the Oaks needed him most, for it was a time when every game won and lost counted.

Ables had gone downstairs into the booze cage at Recreation park during the progress of the game on Saturday, June 1, and had become involved in an argument with an overloaded fan. Eye witnesses also claim that Ables had imbibed too freely himself and when the fan began to rail at Cy. Parkin, who was pitching, Ables took the fan to task. After a bandy of words both men went to the floor, as the saying is, and Ables received a lovely pair of black eyes. This was what kept him out of the series and worked a hardship on his team.

FEW PARKS ALLOW LIQUOR.

San Francisco and Vernon are the only ball parks on the coast where liquor is sold promiscuously and openly. At Oakland the saloon is far set from the grandstands proper and should a man imbibe a bit freely he does not get a chance to give vent to Billingsgate, as the writer has seen him do at Vernon.

Again, the element that holds forth at Vernon, whether or no there is a ball game, do not bring prestige to baseball. On different occasions prizefighters and their followers make a near-by road house their headquarters and the society that invades the place is far from being the best. Moreover, there are men who hold forth at this place who are known gamblers and have been associated with sure-thing games all their lives.

That Vernon is no place for the Coast league to play ball games is demonstrated in more ways than one. In the first place a woman is a rarity at a morning game at Vernon, while thousands flock to the Oakland park. There's a reason. Booze is sold and drunkenness prevails, while the tinhorn gambler makes the ball park his lair.

JOHN FITZ HAS NICE BRAND OF CURVES TO FOOL HOGAN

Senators Back Up Silent One and He Scores 2 to 0 Over Leaders.

(By W. A. REEVE.)

LOS ANGELES, June 15. — It was a personal combat today between Fitzgerald and Soldier Carson, and at the close the perspiring Sarge emerged on the small end of a 2 to 0 split of the spoils. Cut out the militiaman's one bad inning—the eighth—and they would likely have been chasing the sphere around the Washington park turf till nightfall.

Outside of the eighth there was not a shade of advantage to either of the two gunners. The tight laced flinging of the two pitchers was backed up by brilliant fielding.

Before and after the first half of the eighth but four men got within reasonable striking distance of a count. Two Villagers and two Sacks got as far as third and each time gilt-edged pitching or high-class fielding prevented any further advance.

Shinn opened the eighth with a stiff clout over short. Van Buren did his duty by laying down a neat sacrifice. O'Rourke poked a hard chance at Brashear, who gave Patrick a life on a bad heave. Swain was purposely walked, filling the bags and a wild pitch shoved one over and plugged second and third. Miller squeezed O'Rourke across. Lewis grounded to Carson for the final out but the damage had been uncorked.

SEALS FALL AND IT'S ANOTHER SAD BLOW FOR BILLY

Boots by Cellarites and Hits by Angels Bring Woe to Fans Over the Bay.

Right square on their battered and blistered jaws they got another slam, did this Seal group. Right at the drop of the hat the winger crew gathered two runs, to change the cut a bit: they usually wait till along about the last two innings before starting to line-up the counts.

But wonder of wonders, the thick skinned species of deep sea life repeated in their half of the first to the extent of three runs. This latter morsel of tasty excitement so pleased the staunch home fans they kicked the peaceful atmosphere into an awful foam expressing their approval.

But joy was not for long. Two runs in the third and two in the fifth forced the Angel total to six, while the clan of Reidy, by dint of superhuman effort, manager to squeeze over one lone spot—a count in the seventh.

Although the weather was ideal going was decidedly heavy for pitchers. Nagle was put to watch the guiding of the Celestial bark, but lost his bearings in the first few breakers. Slagle was sent to the handle, and Nagle put in the hold; thereafter things were not in much danger. Miller was selected to lead the Reidy forces, but when the men in the ranks refused to support him Sutor was led from retirement and put in the battle. He tried a few bold shots, waded through a few trenches finally, however, he fell heir to so much trouble that Relief General Toner was called into action.

His efforts were all that could be desired, but the good work came too late. All he could do was to lead a successful retreat. The score:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

DETROIT, June 15.—Detroit could not touch Coombs this afternoon and Philadelphia won a one-sided game, 6 to 1.

Clubs—	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	1	5	1
Philadelphia	6	11	0

Batteries—Lake and Stanage, Onslow; Coombs and Lapp.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Three errors by the White So, combined with ten hits Boston gleaned off Walsh and Benz, sending the former to the clubhouse, resulted in Boston taking the second of the present series. O'Brien was touched up for eight hits, but kept them fairly well scattered. The score:

Clubs—	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	3	8	3
Boston	4	10	1

Batteries—Walsh, Benz and Block; O'Brien and Carrigan, Cady.

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—Hamilton pitched the Browns to a 2 to 1 victory over the New York Yankees today. Ford was hit safely ten times, and but for three bad errors should have won his game. The score:

Clubs—	R.	H.	E.
New York	1	7	3
St. Louis	2	10	1

Batteries—Ford and Sweeney; Hamilton and Stephens.

CLEVELAND, June 15.—Washington made it sixteen straight victories this afternoon and tied Chicago for second place in the American League race, as a result of the latter's defeat at the hands of Boston.

Clubs—	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	5	12	1
Washington	6	13	0

Batteries—Mitchell, Steen, Taylor and O'Neill, Easterly; Cashion, Groome and Williams, Henry.

BLAINE DURBIN SHOWS HE CAN HURL SOME UP NORTH

Hoffman, Coy and Patterson Help Little Southpaw Win Interesting Ball Game From Beavers

PORTLAND, June 15.—Blaine Durbin won a pitchers' battle this afternoon from Elmer Koestner, 3 to 2, because the sphinx-like heaver of the Beavers grew careless in pitching to Izzy Hoffman in the ninth inning and gave him a base on balls, which Patterson and Bert Coy converted into the odd run of the afternoon. The Beavers tried hard to win in their half, but when Gus Hetling soaked Doane, an emergency runner, in the back on the line between second third the jig was up.

The series now stands three to two for Portland.

Both Portland and Oakland fought an uphill battle, the one break in luck going to the visitors.

Portland started off in the lead but the Oaks evened it up and then drew ahead only to be tied in the last half of the same inning. It was the hardest fought battle of the week and the big crowd went into the upper register to applaud the sparkling plays pulled off by Rapps, Rodgers, Patterson and Coy.

HOWLEY HITS WELL.

From a hitting standpoint the work of Dan Howley stood out above the others. The Beaver backstop broke back into the game after a spell on the bench and drove out three clean hits to every field in three times up. Howley's slam to right in the third inning was the first hit of the game, but Dan never got farther than second.

For the Oaks nobody reached first until the fifth inning, when Coy walked.

Two scratch hits gave the Beavers their first tally. Lindsay shot a hard one to Hetling that Gus could not handle. Rodgers feinted around trying to put Lindsay down to second, but finally fanned. Krueger cracked a short fly that Sharpe just tickled with his glove, and Lindsay started to round second and cut loose for third. Leard recovered the ball that Sharpe deflected and threw over Hetling's head to the grandstand. Lindsay got his tootsies tangled up and before he could touch the bag and score Hetling had retrieved the ball, but Krueger was perched on second.

Mahoney was there with an aerial sacrifice and Lindsay beat Coy's throw to the plate, the flying Dutchman taking third.

Rapps hit under one and it soared to Cook to retire the side.

HETLING DRIVES ONE OUT.

As stated before, Coy walked in the fifth for the first sharpshooter to reach first. He stole second on a hair line decision by Umpire Casey. Hetling scudded one over second and the score was tied. Cook followed with a sacrifice and Gus reached third on Bancroft's wide throw of Sharpe and grounder to Rapps. The kid shortstop redeemed himself by killing off Sharpe and Mitze in a double play.

Durbin, who is some wielder of the willow, believe us, opened the sixth with a smash across second base and took the keystone on Cook's sacrifice. Hoffman went out, Bancroft to Rapps and Blaine rested on third, which Rodgers could not field to Rapps in time to retire. Pat. undertook to pilfer but was out a mile. With Lindsay down, Rodgers singled to left. Hoffman scooped the ball and tried to bluff the umpires that it was a fair catch, but failed. Krueger backed Patterson up against the fence in centerfield to get his loft. Then Rodgers broke all speed and endurance records by scoring from first on Mahoney's double to left center.

COY BREAKS IT UP.

There was no more run getting until the ninth. Koestner could not locate the plate for Hoffman and Patterson followed with a sacrifice. Coy shot a fast one through Bancroft's shafts and Izzy loped across the plate for what proved [illegible] the winning run.

Krueger gave the fans a ray of [illegible] in the ninth by lacing one between [illegible] and third. Mahoney tried to sacri[illegible] but hit the ball a trifle hard and [illegible] Teuton was forced at second, Dur[illegible] Cook. Rapps again hit under one and soared to Leard. Manager McC[illegible] decided on a switch, and Doane was [illegible] in to run for Mahoney and Klawitter [illegible] bat for Bancroft. Doane kept up [illegible] sprinting reputation by pilfering [illegible] Just when things looked favorable [illegible] ling knocked down Klawitter's grounder between short and third [illegible] touched Doane on the line before [illegible] could get back to second, closing [illegible] game.

Tomorrow afternoon, McCredie [illegible] send Klawitter back against the [illegible] shooters, while Sharpe will probably [illegible] Parkin, who won an 8 to 3 game [illegible] Thursday.

SPEED CRAZED PUBLIC BLAMED FOR ACCIDENTS

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Charging the public with being responsible for many of the railroad accidents which take a toll of thousands of lives each year, Dr. John W. Hays, of Albion, Ind., declared in a paper read before the meeting of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad surgeons here that 90 per cent of the accidents are preventable.

"The Prevention of Railroad Accidents" was the subject of Dr. Hays' paper. He asserted that nearly all of the accidents are due to carelessness and negligence on the part of the public and the railroad employes, and declared that, no matter how efficient the management of a road is or how good its service equipment, "you cannot prevent the speed crazed public from playing the fool and demanding fast transportation.

Dr. Hays did not spare the management of the railroads in his criticism, and asserted that they should establish a more rigid examination, mental as well as physical, in the employment of men. He emphasised the necessity of railroads weeding from their employes all those who drink.

BEAUTIES OF LAND BEST SEEN BY AUTO

Exploring Abroad Doesn't Surpass Scenes Seen Motoring at Home.

"You don't need to go abroad to see new land and unusual scenes," said Calvin C. Elb, of the Pioneer Automobile Co., the local Chalmers agents. "There are just as 'worth-while' places to visit within a radius o 100 or 200 miles of this city as you will find anywhere in the world. If people only realized what they miss by not exploring the scenes at their own door there would be less regrets over a trip to Europe.

"I will confess that I, myself, had no idea of the beauties of my own country until I explored them in a motor car. It is this great invention which has opened up new scenes to people who live in cities.

"It is surprising what an entire change of scene and atmosphere one will experiment in a few hours ride out into the country. Take any road you will and follow its course; you are soon in a new land. Every turn of the road reveals some unknown wonder of nature. There is an indescribable pleasure in riding along—not caring where you may land—only sensibe of life and motion.

"If riding with a horse and buggy were a pleasure, how much more enjoyable is it to travel swiftly along the road in a motor car. Then a day's trip was only thirty miles at the most, now in an afternoon's auto ride you can cover 100 miles easily.

"One of the most enjoyable things about a motor tour is the different atmosphere it brings you into. It takes you back to your boyhood days, when you lived in the country, and what man with real red blood in him doesn't love the country?

BREATHE PURE AIR.

"You breathe the fragrant, pure air and drink in the beauties of nature. Ahead of you looms a steep hill, bordered on one side by heavy woods; on the other by broad meadows. You know not what lies beyond that hill. You forge to the top and see an even more beautiful vista of water and green fields before you. And so the road goes on—each scene more attractive than the last.

"You see the farmer on his land, tilling his fields and bearing an air of independence that his isolated outdoor life gives him. He waves you a hearty greeting, and you feel as if he has grasped your hand in friendliness.

"You see the township schoolhouse. The children stop their play long enough to give you a happy salute. Everyone seems to be filled with the same spirit of goodwill and friendliness, and you, yourself, become imbued with it.

"Then, thoroughly hungry, you stop in some village and go to an inn recommended by the natives as 'the best in the state.'

"You sit down to a simple, wholesome meal, and are ready to take oath you have never tasted food so good and so well cooked since you were a boy; everything seems 'like mother used to make.'

"You return to the city after your journey, feeling better than you have for weeks. You can go throug ha day's work with unusual vim and zest.

The great surprise is that more people do not take these motoring tours. An automobile is worth having if for nothing else than an experience such as this. There would be less sickness and less discontent if more people would invest in a motor car and become acquainted with the beauties of their own country."

INVENTS SERUM TO STOP CONSUMPTION

Southern Doctor Announces Discovery to Chicago Society.

CHICAGO, June 15.—In a paper prepared by Dr. Karl von Ruck of Asheville, N. C., and read before the Chicago Medical society, he announced that he had discovered a serum, which he believes gives immunity from tuberculosis.

Dr. von Ruck, says his vaccine will kill the germs of tuberculosis in a latent stage, and make the subject immune from further ravages of the disease. Experiments made on children and counter experiments made on animals are said to have demonstrated the efficacy of the discovery.

"The preparation which I have made," said Dr. von Ruck, "and used contains all the soluble proteid constituents of a tubercle bacillus, with the addition of a small amount of fatty extractives. It would require much space to describe the mode of preparation, but this shall be done at an early date."

Dr. von Ruck says his vaccine is harmless and powerful enough to act by one or two applications.

GIRL'S CORSET SAVES HER LIFE

Bullet Strikes Steel and That's All; Who Fired the Shot?

NEW YORK, June 15. — As Miss Lillian Miller, aged 24, of 248 South Ninth street, Brooklyn, stepped from a Hamburg avenue car at Union and Johnson avenue early this morning on her way home from a dance, with George Sutter of 511 Broadway, that borough, there was a shot and the girl fell unconscious. Where the shot came from no one could find out.

After the car had continued on its journey, the girl was taken to the Eastern district hospital by the companion and Deputy Sheriff Packard Sharkey, who was a fellow passenger. At the hospital the girl was found to have an ugly flesh wound in the left side, just under the heart. In one of the steels of her corset there was a big dent, and Dr. Schwartz, who attended her, said the corset had saved her life.

Both the girl and Sutter declared they had no notion who could have fired the shot, but asked that the incident should be kept secret, as they left after the wound had been dressed.

The police were notified, however, and Detective Doyle of the Stagg street station was sent to make inquiry. Doyle soon formed the belief that he was on the trail of a romance. The detective called several times at their addresses, and hours after shooting found that neither the young woman nor the man had reached home.

At the girl's address, which is a rooming house, he was told that about four weeks ago a young couple calling themselves Mr. and Mrs. George Miller had taken rooms and a few days later the man left after a quarrel and did not return. The girl, who said she came from Boston, remained and afterward stated that she had obtained a position as a stenographer in Manhattan.

MICHELIN EXPERT TELLS HOW TO PRESERVE TIRES

When fitting an inner tube it is a good plan to dust a small quantity of talc or French chalk inside the envelope. Just sufficient to cover the interior surface is all that is required. Too much talc, says the Michelin Tire expert, gradually accumulating into solid lumps is a frequent cause of punctures. On the other hand insufficient talc will not prevent the inner tube from sticking to the envelope.

GUATEMALA USES 17 TO 1 MONEY

Americans Need a Trunk to Collect Change for the Double Eagle.

PORTLAND, June 15.—His pockets bulging with Mexican pesos and otherwise laden with Central American wealth, R. C. Hart, chief clerk in the lighthouse service, returned home last night from a month's vacation he spent at Panama and Guatemala. He made the trip to the Southland on the steamer Sonoma, which went on an excursion cruise given under the auspices of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hart says that an American dollar has highty power as a purchasing medium at Guatemala. As an illustration of its importance, he cites that on one occasion he bought a small trinket from a shopkeeper and as payment he tendered a $10 gold piece. Much to his surprise, he was handed back 175 pesos in change. After he had bought other curios and had filled his pockets with the change, he found that he would have to stow away a big portion of the native money in his suitcase and trunk if he brought it with him.

The returned traveler states that a Guatemalan peso fluctuates greatly in value from day to day. Anyone possessing it, he says, does not know what it will be worth tomorrow. But a pretty good rule to go by, he explains, is to figure it at a ratio of 17½ to 1. Because it is so near to the 16-to-1 basis, he declares that the Americans speak of it as Bryan money. He was informed that the Guatemalan authorities are trying to establish the same money system as that of Mexico, where a silver dollar usually can be reckoned as worth 50 cents in American coin.

Mr. Hart spent three days on the Panama canal site, and he predicts that vessels of any draft will be able to go through the big ditch in a year from this coming July. More than 80 per cent of the canal has been completed, he asserts, and the remaining construction work is going along with machine-like precision. He makes light of the few slides there have been at the canal, which he says have given the engineers no concern, as such occurrences had been anticipated.

On both the down and up trips the Sonoma stopped at San Pedro and San Diego. Mr. Hart thinks San Diego is destined to become one of the leading ports of the Coast on account of its excellent harbor. He spoke highly of the excursion, which he describes as having been one of the best-conducted affairs of the kind of which he has any knowledge.

PACIFIC HARDWARE BUYS OAKLAND ROADSTERS

Fourteen Cars of Oriole Model Sold to Well Known Corporation.

One of the most important sales announced last week was reported by the Oakland Motor Company. The sale consisted of closing of a contract for fourteen of the Oakland roadsters known as the Oriole model to the Pacific Hardware and Steel Company Seven of the cars were deliverd yaterday and th remaining seven will be delivered this week.

The Pacific Hardware Company was practically the first to adopt the motor vehicle in its drayage and delivery service, after which it was extended to the selling department.

The fourteen Oaklands replace the equipment that they have been using. It is for out-of-town salesmen, city salesmen and quick delivery service.

The gasoline tank has been moved up next to the seat and a carryall installed behind it. This is for samples and other necessities required by the salesmen, while in the case of delivery service the carryall is used for handling merchandise.

Manager H. L. Hornberger, in speaking of the sale, said:

"I consider this one of the best compliments that has been paid our branch house since it was established. The fact that the Pacific Hardware and Steel Company should put in a complete equipment of Oakland cars shows to me that the experts are commencing to realize fully the great value that our factories product has. We know its value, but another thing is to convince the public of the same. Now when a conservative house that is run on advanced lines changes over its equipment, as has been done in this case, it shows to me that the Oakland car has now reached the foremost rank in this city among the standard makes."

U. S. TIRES WIN ON FAST MOTORBIKE SPEEDWAY

According to reports received by local representatives of the United States Tire Company these tires continue to win honors in motorcyice contests. Following the report of the big clean up in the 600 mile endurance run in Southern California was a telegram from the Denver branch stating that Bowen, riding a Merkel, made three miles in 2 minutes 8 3-5 seconds and 7 miles in 5 minutes 5 2-5 seconds: This shattered all records on the speedy Denver track

The NEW HARLEY-DAVIDSON

The First Comfortable Motorcycle.

The ordinary motorcycle of to-day is built with a rigid seat. Their manufacturers rely on the small springs in the saddle to absorb the jolts and jars. These springs have an action of about one inch up and down. This means that when a rider of such a machine strikes a bump three inches high, these springs absorb the first inch of the jar and the rider gets the rest. This is not true however with the new Harley-Davidson for its Ful-Floteing Seat provides a range of action of nearly four inches, making this machine nearly four times as comfortable as the ordinary motorcycle.

This is only one of the exclusive features of the new Harley-Davidson. We should like to show them all to you.

INTEREST IN GOOD ROADS IS NOW WIDESPREAD

Even Conservative Maine Active in Furthering Popular Move.

A certain member of Congress from Illinois, who is of the belief that in many sections of the country the people have gone "road crazy," recently took occasion to warn a women's convention to this effect This representative doesn't believe in the building of the highway from Gettysburg to Washington to serve as the memorial to Abraham Lincoln, his opposition to the project being quite emphatic. However, there are many other members of Congress who believe in the efficacy of highways improvment, looking upon it as one of the most important duties which the federal and state governments have to perform, and consider that in interesting themselves intensively in the good roads question the people are acting sanely and building wisely for the future

From all parts of the country come indications of this astonishingly widespread interest. In proverbially conservative Maine the A. A. A organization is working hand in hand with Governor Plaisted, Commissioner of Highways Hardison and other state officials, who are in entire sympathy and give all aid possible under the present inadequate road laws of the state. The progress is so marked that provision has been made for the adoption of a patrol system for the maintenance of the Portland to Portsmouth road, the most traveled gateway into the Pine Tree state. President W. B. Parker in a letter to Chairman Diehl of the A. A. A. good roads board, says: "I live in hopes that it won't be long before the tourist will find the best of roads in the good old state of Maine."

SUPPORT GIVEN GENEROUSLY.

Support to the good roads movement is being given enthusiastically and generously, as was pointed out the other day in a ten-year membership application from such a well-known business man as Emerson McMillin of Ramsey, N J., who identified himself with the national association and state body simply because of its good roads activities It is to be noted that while New Jersey was one of the first to build roads, she has yet to provide a uniform plan of maintenance, with the cost of the through roads devolving upon the state, where highways advocates contend it properly belongs in these days of state-wide use of the roads.

A condition that is becoming generally recognized is the need of supplying in thickly populated communities a road better equipped to withstand the gradually increasing wear and tear of motor cars and horse-drawn vehicles. Concrete and brick country pavements are no longer uncommon, and while a greater initial cost is admitted, the lessened expense of upkeep is considered a more than commensurate offset. In Perry, Ia., the commercial club of that city has met with success in its effort to secure a sixteen-foot concrete road, with gravel on the sides, to replace one of the worst strips of road leading into the city, and which has cost hundreds of dollars annually to make passable. Ohio and Indiana are steadily adding to their miles of brick roads, and highway engineers are concentrating their thought on the construction of avenues of traffic with the thorough understanding that roads travel is no longer local in its character.

Internationally the roads question is exceedingly active, and the most recent foreign visitor to our shores is W. Rees Jeffreys, general secretary of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses, who also serves in a similar capacity for the road board of Great Britain. Lord Montague, vice-chairman of the international association, preceded Secretary Jeffreys by a fortnight, and both are here for the purpose of interesting the United States in the next Congress, which will take place June, 1913, in London. It is a certainty that this country will be better represented than ever before, though Americans attended both the Paris and Brussels gatherings. The fact that this will be the first congress in an English speaking country calls for pronounced American support. Mr. Jeffreys will visit some of the largest cities in the country, and the extensive plans for his reception give proof of the attention aroused by his coming.

The first considerable stop will be made at Los Angeles, where a splendid Moon business is being done. The Pacific Coast will then be made up along San Francisco, Portland and Seattle, back through Canadian Provinces, through Minneapolis and Chicago, making a complete journey lasting probably three months.

NEW USEFUL ACCESSORY TO BE SOLD BY JONES CO.

The Jones Auto company just received a shipment of a new article known as Leath-R-Nu, which is used to remodel tarnished lamps as well as renewing auto tops or the cushions of the automobile.

Mr. Jones states that there is nothing on the market like Leath-R-Nu. A single application brings back the original fresh beauty to the dingiest leather. It dries in twelve to fifteen minutes, softens the leather, preserves, also waterproofs it to a remarkable degree.

Leath-R-Nu can be used on either leather, mohair, or rubber tops, side- curtains, auto-trunks, etc. The effect is always the same—just like Nu.

BERRY ROCKWELL NOW U. S. MOTOR ADV. MANAGER

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Berry Rockwell as general advertising manager of the United States Motor Company to succeed Gridley Adams, resigned.

Mr. Rockwell is one of the pioneer advertising managers of the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Company before the formation of the United States Motor Company. Since then he has been advertising manager of the Maxwell division.

In his new capacity, Mr. Rockwell will have general supervision of all advertising of the Maxwell, Columbia, Stoddard-Dayton, Brush and Courier motor cars and Sampson motor trucks.

LURE OF MOTOR CAR TOO MUCH FOR HORSE BREEDER

Joseph Gibbons, president of the Road Drivers' Association of New York, the largest organization of its kind in this country, and one of the most enthusiastic lovers of trotting horses, has taken up motoring and in future will divide his time between a Maxwell Special and his stable of fast horses.

The lure of the automobile was a long time tightening its grip upon Mr. Gibbons, but it finally got him and he succumbed last week by placing his order with the United Motor New York Company for a five-passenger thirty-six horsepower Maxwell.

No-Rim-Cut Tires
10% Oversize
Now the Reigning Tires

Some 200,000 motor car owners have adopted this patent tire.

They have used to date 1,250,000. They are using now nearly 100,000 monthly.

No-Rim-Cut Tires now far outsell any other tire in the world. And the demand has multiplied twelve times over in three years.

That is overwhelming endorsement.

Don't you think this tire worth trying?

Average Saving, 48 Per Cent

The 10 per cent oversize, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

The No-Rim-Cut feature makes an average saving of 23 per cent. For statistics show that 23 per cent of all ruined old-type tires are rim-cut.

Then think of the troubles saved—the worry of rim-cutting—the blow-outs due to overloading.

Do you wonder men are flocking to these patent tires?

A Sudden Fame

These tires have jumped in the past three years from obscurity to fame.

From a minor place they have suddenly come to the topmost place in Tiredom.

But this, remember, is our 13th year. We spent a decade in perfecting these tires before motorists found them out.

The success of these tires is due to endless tests, made on testing machine in our factory.

Some 240 fabrics and formulas were tried and discarded, because we found something better.

We had to first make the best tires in the world, before we outsold the world.

If you will consult men who use these tires you are bound to use them, too. Saving half on tire bills means too much to miss.

Our 1912 Tire book—based on 13 years of tire-making—is filled with facts you should know. Ask us to mail it to you.

RAUCH AND LANG BRANCH OPENED

W. D. Vance Made Manager of New Local Salesroom for Electric.

The Oakland branch of the Rauch & Lang Sales Co., will open during the next few days in pretty quarters, conveniently located, on the corner of 20th street and Broadway.

W. D Vance, well known in this city and a pioneer in the electric field, is in charge of the salesroom and will have entire supervision of the sale and care of Rauch and Lang electrics in this county

This line has considerable prestige throughout the entire country and is recognized as one of the high-class electric automobiles.

With Vance caring for its interests in this locality, working as he will be under the branch in San Francisco, which is a direct factory branch, we'll be apt to hear of considerable success for the line. Vance is a hustler and the R. and L. is a splendid vehicle.

COLUMBUS ELECTRIC MAN VISITS LOCAL AGENTS

George L. Taft, Pacific Coast representative of the Columbus Buggy Co., has been making headquarters for several days with the United Electric Vehicle Co., local agents for the Columbus Electric.

Taft predicts even better business in the year to come not only for his line but also for all makes of electric pleasure automobiles.

NEW TWIN HARLEY-DAVIDSON HERE

Seven H. P. Chain Drive Models, First of Season, Are Received.

George Faulkner has just unloaded his first shipment of 7 H P Harley Davidson motorcycles. These models are the chain drive type and are the first of their style he has received.

The twin belt drive models have been in for some time and a great many of them have already been delivered, in fact, Faulkner's allotment of them is nearly exhausted.

The chain drive machines differ from the belt make in the twin type in several respects They have one more horse power and contain several distinguishing features appealing to motorcycle riders. One of these is the clutch on the rear wheel Extra large sprockets are used resulting in longer wear and a more quiet running machine.

The lines of the chain model are clean cut and the finish of the machine is of a grade to satisfy the most exacting buyer.

SEVERAL DELIVERIES OF WARREN CARS ARE MADE

William Freeling, the local Warren agent has delivered in the past week, three new Warren Cars, as follows: to Dr. Kuder of this city, a Roadster model, to the De Fremery-Cadman Co., a Roadster, and to Lester Thompson a touring car.

Ask the Owners

More than 10,000 1912 Models are in active use.

The Cadillac electrical self-starter has been in the hands of owners for ten months and during that time has been given the severest of tests.

If a self-starter failed only once in one hundred times you would call that a perfect starter, would you not?

The Cadillac starter does not fail once in 1000 times. Do not take our word for this. Ask any 1912 Cadillac owner how often he has cranked his car. We have hundreds of owners in California who have run their cars over 7000 miles and have never cranked them once. We urge you to ask these owners what their experiences have been with Cadillac cars. Ask them how they are cared for after they buy a car. We rest our case entirely with the owners. What other agent can say as much?

Crack Oarsmen Will Show Skill on Bay July Fourth

The championship rowing regatta of the Pacific coast will be held on July 4, under the auspices of the Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen, on a course in the Oakland estuary. The start will be from the Park street bridge in Alameda, and the crews will row around buoys moored off the foot of Grand street, the course being a mile and a half in all.

COFFROTH AND GRANEY STILL SHY A FIGHT CARD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15. — After another long conference and a waste of good money for telegrams, neither Eddie Graney nor Jimmy Coffroth have anything to offer the fight fans in regard to a Fourth of July card.

Abe Attell arrived in San Francisco from Billy Nolan's Middletown ranch today. He looks to be in exceptionally fine trim and is just itching for a chance to get into the ring.

Nolan is still confident that he will secure the Fourth of July card and that Murphy will be the opponent of the former champion. Nolan requests but one concession, and that is for Murphy to make 133 pounds two hours before entering the ring. Billy says that the financial end of the deal has been satisfactorily adjusted and every other condition agreed upon with the exception of the hour for weighing in.

Inasmuch as Attell is so much lighter than Murphy, Nolan feels that he isn't demanding too much when he asks Murphy to train down to the lightweight limit two hours before the fight. In the meantime the fans are wondering.

S. F. A. C.

Aleck Greggains has set June 17 as the date of his June show at the San Francisco Athletic Club, in Golden Gate avenue at Octavia street. Eleven four-round bouts are carded between lads of the various local athletic clubs and Greggains' pupils. Several of the bouts involve amateur or club championships and the club rivalry manifest in each of the premier bouts is keen.

Greggains' shows have been known for years along the Pacific Coast as brimful of fighting action and in this respect many close followers of the boxing game aver that they witness more real fighting at these bouts than at many of the professional shows. Among some of Greggains' former pupils now prominent in the boxing world are Abe Attel, Willie Canole and Jimmy Carroll, all at present more or less in the limelight of publicity.

Greggains, himself, will referee all bouts, while the judges selected are Al Arens, Ed Kennedy and George McLeod, champion lightweight wrestler.

The following is the card:

Bantams—Kendrick O'Keefe, crack bantam Olympic club, vs. Joe Riely, American club champion; Willie Miller, S. F. A. C. champion, vs. Frankie Dolan, Olympic club champion.

Featherweights—Joe Clark, R. R. club, vs. Fausto Ninonuero, S. F. A. C.; Jess Marshall, Bob Johnson's thunderbolt, vs. Kip Valder, "Fighting Feather"; Jack Horner, Dehong club, vs. Phil Morgan, S. F. A. C.; Billy Pyne, Columbia A. C., vs. Frankie Holmes, S. F. A. C.

Lightweights—James Cocks, Redwood A. C. champion, vs. Tom Stevens, S. F. A. C. champion; Chas. McGovern, S. F. A. C., vs. Ray Altman, Dehong A. C.

Welterweights—Jack Russell, Eureka, Cal., A. C., vs. Roy Gurgevick, S. F. A. C.

Middleweights—Gene Chase, S. F. A. C., vs. Melacovich, Slavonian champion; Jack Deckus, winner over McAllister, vs. Herbert Ostrand, S. F. A. C.

ENGLISHMEN PEEVED BECAUSE YANKEES WON'T PERFORM

LONDON, June 15.—Englishmen are much chagrined over the announcement of two American Rhodes scholars that will compete for the United States instead of England in the Olympic games. They are W. A. Ziegler and R. L. Lange, first string men for Oxford against Cambridge for the past two years. They have written to Secretary James Sullivan of the American Olympic committee asking him to enter as members of the American team.

Lange, whose home is in Oklahoma, is a ten second sprinter, while Ziegler, who hails from Iowa, is a weight thrower. Both men were asked to join in the tryout for the English team before they expressed their preference for the American team. The men have been training hard with the Olympic contests in view and hope to be able to score points in the big meet at Stockholm.

ST. JOSEPH STUDENTS PLAN DRILL AND GYMNASTICS

Sunday next, June 16, the students of St. Joseph's Academy will hold their annual competitive drill and gymnastic exercises in the academy gymnasium at Berkeley. There will be five teams entered, each consisting of 20 men. The captains named for the various teams are Vogelsang, Jones, Torres, Hennessy and Lydon.

The exercises will consist of drilling and setting up and individual work on the weights, parallel bars and vaulting horse. There will be five silver and two gold medals awarded, as follows:

A silver medal will be given to the man on each team who has the best individual score, and one of the gold ones to the captain who does the best stellar work. The student displaying the greatest gymnastic ability will receive the other gold medal.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—When the distinguished British soldier, Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Yardee Buller, D. S. O. comes to Washington as military attache to the British embassy he will be received with open arms by society and diplomats.

Lieutenant Buller is the fourth son of the first Baron Churston. He has seen much active service and has been an attache at many North European courts.

WANTS TO RENT THE LAS VEGAS ARENA

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 15.—Captain A. W. Lewis of Sacramento is endeavoring to rent the Flynn-Johnson arena for a championship middleweight bout July 3. He is the Manager of Frank Mantell, the 158-pounder who recently bested Papke on the coast.

Jack Curley wired Lewis that he would rent him the arena if he picked Howard Morrow, Tommy Ryan's charge to go on with Mantell. So, if agreeable, Mantell and Morrow will square off in a set-to the day before the big contest.

DELAHANTY FAMILY RAPIDLY GETTING OUT OF RANKS

DETROIT, June 15.—The name of Delahanty is familiar to all baseball lovers. For years it has been celebrated in the national game. Now there is only one Delehanty left. He is Jim, of the Detroit team, and Jim is sustaining the reputation of the family name. He has been tried in infield and outfield positions, and plays them equally well. He is as valuable an all around player as any man in the game.

MAN IS HANGED LASHED TO BOARD

Harrowing Scene of Execution of Man Who Pleads Innocence.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 15.—His twitching body lashed to an old pine board, Antonio De Remizio, whose home was in Italy, was hanged in the county jailyard here for murdering a fellow-countryman, Tony Serano, at Neffsville, June 6, 1910.

Possibly a more harrowing scene was never witnessed among the twenty-four hangings that have taken place in Lancaster county than occurred today, when the Italian, with protestations of innocense upon his lips, was executed.

A specially woven rope, which had been thoroughly tested, was placed around the man's neck, and as Sheriff Eby sprung the trap the hundred spectators were horrified to see the rope break and the half-conscious body drop to the ground. The executioners hastily picked the body up, and, fearing that there was still life and that he might make an effort to break away, bound him to a board. He lay there fully seven minutes, while another rope, used in a former hanging, was adjusted to the gallows.

The plank, with the half-dead body securely bound to it, was lifted to the scaffold and again the trap was sprung. This time the rope held, and in a few moments the murderer was pronounced dead.

Physicians were unable to tell whether Remizio was partly conscious when he lay stretched on the board, but his body was seen to twitch several times by witnesses. Twenty minutes elapsed from the time the trap was first sprung until the body was cut down.

Remizio to the last said that he would die an innocent man. His family never they will be notified by the attending priest.

DICTAGRAPH MESSAGE BASIS FOR DIVORCE

PITTSBURG, June 15.—An echo of the famous "dictagraph case," in which Earl H. Fellabom, a young contractor, is seeking to gain possession of his daughter from his wife, Marguerite F. Fellabom, was the filing of a divorce suit against Mrs. Fellabom. J. R. McClintock, a retired oil operator of the east, and A. K. Robertson are named in the complaint.

One of the dates mentioned in the bill is March 17, 1912. This is the day named by Fellabom and the detectives in the habeas corpus proceedings as the date on which they heard over the dictagraph the talk of Mrs. Fellabom and Mr. McClintock. Mrs. Fellabom at the time was living in the house, when Mr. McClintock had a favorable opportunity to sell it.

Kaiser's Daughter Hopes To Put End to Old Feud?

PRINCESS VICTORIA LOUISE OF GERMANY, WHO IS REPORTED ENGAGED TO PRINCE ERNEST AUGUSTUS OF CUMBERLAND.

BERLIN, June 15.—The latest report concerning the Princess Victoria Louise of Germany is that she is to be the means of re-uniting the Hohenzollerns and Guelphs by marrying Prince Ernest Augustus of Cumberland.

Princess Victoria Louise is the Kaiser's only daughter, and was born September 13, 1892.

At various times the Princess has been reported engaged to various princes in Europe, and it has also been said that she was in love with a German officer.

SERIES OF TALKS AT HAYNES PARTY

Noted Business Expert Will Address Annual Meeting of Salesmen.

Manager W. B. Cochran of the Haynes Auto Sales Company is in receipt of advice from the factory to the effect that Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, who is a very prominent member of several Eastern societies and academies, will give a series of lectures at the Haynes house party June 25, 26 and 27, on "Business Building, Business Ethics and Salesmanship." Dr. Krebs has made the study of "Man," in connection with business, his theme for several years past and is the author of several books on the Science of Business. John Wanamaker had Dr. Krebs lecture to his 300 employes for over three consecutive years at regular hours each day. His practical ideas and simple, plain, easy way in which he places them before his audiences, makes them most helpful to all. Manager Cochran in speaking of this great "Business Chautauqua" says that more successful business ideas can be obtained by visiting a convention of this kind than years of actual experience would disclose. He expects to leave in about a week for Kokomo.

BEN HAMMOND LEADS IN STANDARD SALES CONTEST

A rather interesting contest is now being conducted by the Standard Motor Car Co. In store for the salesmen selling the largest volume of cars and trucks during the next few months is a trip to the eastern factories which this company represents in the West.

Ben Hammond of the local branch is leading the list of all branch salesmen by a margin so wide at present that he looks a likely winner. Here's hoping he increases the lead and gathers first money.

HOME MADE BISCUITS PROVE FATAL TO DEER

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 15.—Biscuits and pumpkin pie are fatal to deer. A young buck poked its head through the kitchen window of Mrs. Lawrence Dutcher, in Olivnea, Ulster county, and after devouring a dozen biscuits and a steaming pie scampered back into the woods.

Several hours later the animal was found dead by a party of picknickers, and all the village thinks it was killed by acute indigestion.

Deer are so tame near Olivnea that they walk without fear through the streets, and even paw up gardens in search of vegetable delicacies.

STEREOTYPERS' SESSIONS END

No Agreement Is Reached in Connection With Chicago Union.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—The International Stereotpyers and Electrotypers convention adjourned tonight without having received from the special committee of three a definite plan for an adjustment of the affairs of Chicago Stereotypers' Union, No. 4, which by the vote of the delegates the day before was ousted from the international body.

The committee rendered the report that after its conference with L. P. Straube, president of the union which was suspended after its illegal strike in sympathy with the Chicago pressmen, no plan for an amicable adjustment of the Chicago situation had been decided upon. The whole matter was then referred to the executive board, and it will be threshed out later.

Newark, N. J., was chosen by nearly a two-thirds vote as the convention city for 1914, defeating Indianapolis. The city chosen at the last convention for the 1913 convention was Buffalo.

As a consolation for the adherents of the Indiana city, Delegate Carroll suggested that the convention recommend Indianapolis for the 1915 meeting place. Delegate Harry Pohlmann jumped to his feet and said'

"A point of order, Mr. President. San Francisco wants the 1915 convention, and we are prepared to go to any length to get it. You may make all the recommendations you wish to, but remember you will be our guests with the rest of the world in 1915."

MRS. JAMES NEALL, PIONEER, IS DEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—The death of Mrs. James Neall in her home on Bush street closes a chain of associations ling the present social and intellectual life of San Francisco with names and events which gave distinction to its early days Mrs. Neall came as a bride to this city in 1853 with her husband, James Neall.

She belonged to a family of unusual talent and had grown up in the cultured Quaker society of Philadelphia. Mrs. Neall was a friend of Whittier and Lowell, the poets. When the Overland Monthly was launched Mrs Neall was a frequent contributor of both prose and verse. She was a charter members of the Press club and the Century club. Mrs. Neall and she were early members of the Society of Pioneers. When Mrs. Sarah B Cooper formed her Bible class as a center of religious life and social service before these "settlement" days, Mrs. Neall was an active associate, and long continued her help in the promotion of free kindergartens and other practical charities. The Le Contes, the late Mrs. Horace Davis were among her friends; so were unknown girls, hapless women reared in gentle homes of ease, stranded far away among the drift of the days of adventure.

PUNE GROWERS TO GET 5-CENT BASIS

SAN JOSE, June 15.—At a joint meeting today of committees representing the Granges and Farmers' Union the prune crop for 1912 was estimated at 90 per cent of that of last year and growers were urged to hold out for a 5-cent basis, a record two years ago, in selling to the packers. It was pointed out that the crop in Bosnia will fall short, as will the rest of European yield. Apricots and peaches will yield only 75 per cent of the crop of 1911, according to those who reported.

H. G. Johnson of Fresno, business agent of the Farmers' Union, made an address in which he urged the growers to establish their own packing plants and then sell through only one authorized agent. He said the packer will get the best of the grower until this is done.

As a result of the meeting the price of prunes is likely to stiffen as most of the growers are affiliated with the organizations represented.

MILLIONAIRES ENGAGE IN TITANIC LAWSUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Banded together in the prosecution of a suit that promises to develop into one of the bitterest fought pieces of litigation in the history of the western mining world, a carload of local capitalists will leave here tomorrow night for C arson City. There Judge Farrington of the United States Circuit court will proceed Monday morning with the hearing of the suit of the Mammoth National Mining Company against the National Mining Company.

The main point involved in the suit is the question of the apex of a ledge of ore on which there has been a dispute for a number of months.

ONLY COSTS $15,000 TO BE DAIRY FARMER

MODESTO, June 15.—Prof. Leroy Anderson of the University of California has been here securing data as to the opportunities offered the dairy farmer in California. After visiting many farmers in this county he computed figures to show that with an investment of $15.000 a man can buy and equip a 40-acre dairy farm. This includes cost of land at $175 an acre, 40 cows, silo, house and farm buildings and growing alfalfa. The university will secure similar data on various farm industries for the various parts of the State and will publish a pamphlet on the subject for the information of intending settlers.

PRESIDENT OF UNION MISSING SINCE MAY 3

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.— Every effort is being made by the police to find some trace of William Palmer, president of the Glassblowers' union, who has been missing from his home at 3144 Twenty-thoird street since May 3. Mrs. Palmer reported her husbands disappearance to the police some time ago, but nothing has been discovered as to his whereabouts.

ALASKAN VILLAGES HAVE DISAPPEARED

Relief Tug Fails to Find Survivors at Foot of Katmai Volcano.

KARLUK (Kadiak Island, Alaska), June 15 (via wireless to Cordova)—The relief tug Redona arrived here today from a cruise along the mainland at the foot of Katmai volcano and reported that it was unable to make a landing in that section because of the extremely heavy deposits of sand and ashes. No sign of life was seen, and those on the tug were unable to recognize the locations of the fishing villages which were scattered along the coast line before the eruption last week.

The Redonda carried such a small crew that no attempt will be made to hunt for the dead, but a careful watch was kept for any who might be living. They then put about to Karluk, where wireless messages were sent to the revenue cutters.

The men on the tug say the entire coast line to the Alaska peninsula in the vicinity of the volcano is buried so deeply that the mountain appears to slope at an even grade to the water's edge. All landmarks by which mariners have been guided in entering the numerous bays along the coast have disappeared.

BAD BISCUITS WORSE THAN BAD GRAMMAR

LONG BEACH, June 15. — In a speech delivered before the student body of the Polytechnic high school, Prof. W. L Stephens of Lincoln, Neb., who is a strong believer in manual training, said: "Bad biscuits cause much more misery in the world than bad grammar."

"It has always seemed strange to me," the teacher continued, "that a girl who goes into the kitchen to work should lose her social standing, according to the dictum of society, while the girl who works in the store does not. I tell you it takes more brains to superintend a kitchen than it does to sell dry goods."

BIG ORANGE OUTPUT.

LINDSAY, June 15. — Three local packing houses are shipping about 10 cars of Valencia oranges a day, and will continue to do so for more than a month. On account of the unusual cold winter the crop is short and picking did not begin until a month late, but the fruit is of excellent quality and is commanding good prices.

HEAT INJURES BARLEY.

CHICO, June 15.—Farmers in this section state that the barley crop has been injured by the intense heat that was experienced last week. The barley had not yet matured and was still soft, so that the heat dried it up and prevented it from fully maturing. The farmers state that it will decrease the crop three sacks to the acre.

Longfellow's Grandson Weds Pretty Suffragette

BOSTON, June 15.—Edmund Trowbridge Dana, grandson of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and Miss Jessie Holliday, an English portrait painter and suffragette, were married at noon today under the arbor in the rear of the historic Longfellow mansion in Cambridge, where the poet composed many of his enduring verses. The ceremony was entirely planned and written by the bride, who tossed conventionalities to the winds and in so doing found hearty support from the boyish groom. Miss Holliday tabooed the traditional tulle veil and orange blossoms. There were no bridesmaids or best man, no engraved invitations, no ushers, no church ceremony or ministers The knot was tied by Edmund M. Parker, a Boston attorney and justice of the peace, who is a friend of the Dana and Longfellow families, and Miss Holliday was careful to see that her father, Henry Holliday, a retired stock merchant of Harrow-on-the-Hill, England, the only member of her family present, did not give her away.

ITALIAN BOATS TO CALL HERE

Representatives Make Report on San Francisco Harbor and Canal Route.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Prof. A. Brunelli of Genoa, Italy and Luigi Solari of New York, advising director and American agent of the Beloce Steamship Co of Italy, departed for the East today after a week spent in studying the harbor and dock facilities of San Francisco and in getting other information for the guidance of the company in its tentative plans to use the Panama canal and run a line of steamers between Italian ports and San Francisco

The Beloce company operates twenty steamers, mos tof them plying between Italian ports and New York and other Atlantic seaboard cities.

It is the tenth foreign steamship syndicate which has, during the last year, sent representatives to this city to make a report on harbor and dock facilities in view of the forthcoming opening of the Panama canal and its prospective use by it as a new ocean highway between Europe and San Francisco.

TO CELEBRATE MASS.

The Rev. E. P. Dempsey will celebrate a solemn requiem mass in the chapel of St. Mary's College at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for the late Brother Bernard who died two weeks ago in New Mexico. He had gone south hoping to recover his health. He was head of the civil engineering department at St. Mary's for five years.

WIRE TAPPERS FORGE AN ORDER

Western Union Swindled Out of $500 and an Ex-Manager Is Suspected.

PLACERVILLE, June 15.—The police of Sacramento are searching tonight on instructions from Sheriff Hand for A. L. Vignaut to explain whether he is implicated in the forgery of a $500 money order on the local Western Union telegraph office. The work was evidently that of wire-tappers.

The local managers declined to affirm or deny the forgery, but the facts reported to Sheriff Hand are:

J. L. Frazier, the manager, left the office yesterday morning at 9 o'clock to deliver a message. He returned half an hour later and Vignaut was in his office. Vignaut was the former manager here. At 10 o'clock the wire from here to Sacramento "went open." The trouble was located at 11:30 o'clock this morning. A lineman found a piece of baling wire attached to the wire and connected with a barbed wire fence.

It is the theory here that three men were implicated, that one had an instrument near here, heard the message sent and then grounded the wire. The third man is supposed to have drawn the money at Sacramento.

The money order was to deposit to the credit of A. Vertrees in the Sacramento Bank $500. The Payee was C. Holt.

Vignaut left here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Sacramento. His mother lives here, and says she did not know her son had left.

Terrysthesia Makes Dentistry Absolutely Painless

I want every person whose teeth need attention to come to me and let me prove that I can perform any kind of dental work without causing even a twinge of pain

No matter if your teeth are highly sensitive the result will be the same—a complete absence of all discomfort

There are any number of dentists who claim to possess secret methods of eliminating pain, but you have never found one of them who could fill or crown a sensitive tooth without hurting you

Terrysthesia is positively the only method which does away with the pain in all dental operations By means of this grand discovery I can prepare fill crown regulate and extract teeth without making you bat an eye I can treat diseased teeth cure pyorrhoea, remove live nerves or do anything else to your food grinders, absolutely painlessly

Where some or nearly all of the teeth are missing I can replace them by the Rex Alveolar method without the aid of plates or bridgework Rex Alveolar teeth are so superior to ordinary false teeth that they cannot be classed as such It is impossible for anyone but an expert to distinguish Alveolar teeth from natural teeth when once in the mouth

Life is too short to endure the tortures and inconveniences that result from the use of partial plates and old-fashioned bridgework The wearer of Rex Alveolar teeth gets the same pleasure out of eating as if he had all his own teeth Anyone who can afford a plate or bridge can afford Rex Alveolar teeth The work is free from pain and if you have two or more good teeth left in your jaws the rest is easy

Call and be convinced Don't stand off and say "I don't believe he can do what he claims" Come and see for yourself If I fail to make good I'll be the loser, not you

Consultation free No charge for examination and estimate

Hours—8 30 to 5 30, Sunday, 10 to 12

Those who cannot call should write for the free book explaining my Terrysthesia and Alveolar methods

OAKLAND TO FRONT IN BANK JOURNAL

City's Prominence as Shipping Point Exploited in Magazine.

"Oakland, Greatest of Shipping Points," is the subject of an illustrated article in the June number of the "Coast Banker," a publication issued in San Francisco, and devoted to the interests of bankers on the coast. The article is one of a series of nine on the benefits accruing to the coast from the opening of the Panama canal. Its author is D. H. Bradley, assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce.

It and the other eight articles take up the expected benefits to various sections of the coast. It is illustrated with photographs of the business center of Oakland, and a view of the shipping, also with three of the city's leading bankers—J. Y. Eccleston of the Oakland Bank of Saving, Charles A. Smith, Security Bank and Trust Company, and George S. Meredith, Farmers and Merchants' Savings Bank.

SUGGESTS DIVERTING MISSISSIPPI TO LAKES

CHICAGO, June 15—Prevention of Mississippi river floods by construction of a waterway to divert the headwaters of that river into Lake Michigan was urged by Robert R. McCormick, former president of the Chicago Sanitary District, at the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Interstate Drainage Conference. A diversion channel, he said, could be cut through between St. Paul and Green bay, Wis. One might connect crosswise with Milwaukee and a third might run between Galena, Ill., and Chicago.

NEW LIFEBOAT RULE IN EFFECT

All Vessels Landing in America Must Be Fully Equipped.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—All ocean steamers entering American ports must be equipped with lifeboats sufficient to carry at one time every passenger and member of the crew, according to new regulations of the steamboat inspection service, approved by Secretary Nagel

In the case of coastwise, lake, bay and sound steamers, lifeboats for all aboard must be carried except from May 15 to September 15, when such travel is comparatively safe. During that period coastwise steamers must have life saving capacity for at least 60 per cent of those on board, and lake, bay and sound steamers for at least 30 per cent In case of the latter class of vessels, provision need be made for only 10 per cent of the passengers and crew if the boats do not get further than five miles from land, or do not navigate waters deep enough to cover the vessel in case of disaster

River steamers are required to have lifeboat accommodation for 10 per cent of those on board.

COMPLETES PLANS FOR CELEBRATION

New England Association Arranges for Bunker Hill Affair.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15—Final arrangements have been completed by the New England Association of California for its big annual celebration of Bunker Hill Day, June 17, with a New England supper and old-fashioned ball Mayor Mott of Oakland, Mayor Rolph of San Francisco and Mayor Wilson of Berkeley will be present and make addresses at the supper. C. C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific International exposition board will also attend There will be five-minute speeches by Supervisor Charles Murdock, Daniel O'Connell, T. C. Coogan, Thomas E. Hayden, Rev. Bradford Leavitt and M. W McIntosh The toastmaster will be Ralph Hathorn, instead of President Scott Smith, as first expected, and Miss Laura T. Fowler, veteran educator, will make the address of welcome.

Among the novelties of the supper will be a barrel of cider from Concord, N H, oyster cocktails made from Rhode Island bivalves, sage cheese from Montpelier, and mineral water from the famous Poland mineral springs of Maine.

During the intervals of the ball there will be a fancy dance by little Miss Alice Helene Pogue, the ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Alice G Pogue, a well-known society leader. Miss Pogue has attracted much attention by her remarkable talent and has had a number of theatrical offers, which have been refused on account of her youth. She is the smallest and youngest member of the New England Association. Mrs. Henry Lysander Corson will contribute a soprano solo, and there will be other interesting features.

So great has been the demand for eleventh-hour reservations that the Bunker Hill committee has decided to extend the closing time until 1 o'clock p. m. Monday, and persons applying at 411 Phelan building before this hour will be accommodated, unless the maximum limit of 600 are sold before that time.

An informal reception will be held at the Palace Hotel from 2 to 4 p. m., and all persons who have lived in the New England states are welcome to come and get acquainted with folk from their former home section There will be no charge for this reception.

BORROWED CAR IS LEFT ON BOULEVARD

Joy riders borrowed an automobile, valued at $1250, from H. A. Davis of Pleasanton when he left the machine standing at Twentieth and Grove streets The machine was abandoned by the merry party, which had borrowed it for several hours, on the boulevard. No damage had been done the automobile.

Other thefts reported to the police were as follows:

H. G. Ellsworth, 405 Adams street, home entered and ransacked and silverware of small value taken

Mrs. Carrie Clare, 191 Ninth street; room entered and scarf pin valued at $5 stolen.

R. R. Enders of San Francisco was robbed by pickpockets who stole a purse containing $8 from his [illegible] when he was helping his wife on the car at Poplar junction. Three men jostled him at the time

The first gas plant was established year 1812 in the city of London and gas has been getting cheaper ever since

Gas was not generally used until about 1837. It has always been recognized as the most economical fuel for cooking purposes, but a great many people have objected to it caused by the use of cheap, poorly constructed gas ranges The object seemed to be not how good but how cheap a gas range could be sold for. But it is different now, for

The A. B. new idea gas range has overcome every objection to gas for cooking purposes

They are as easy to clean as a china plate. Yes, they cost a little more, but they are worth a great deal more, and you will find them a matter of economy in the long run They are the highest grade line of Gas Ranges ever placed on the market. All parts not aluminized or nickel plated are finished in two coats of black enamel, absolutely impervious to rust. The nickel-plated parts are first copper-plated and then nickeled. The oven racks and linings top burners and burner grates are all finished with aluminum mica preparation, and the white enameled broiler pans and clean-out trays add to make the NEW IDEA.

OAKLAND A METROPOLITAN DISTRICT CENTER

S. F. NOT 'HUB' IN EYES OF UNCLE SAM

Oakland Named as One of Two Centers in California Bay Region.

Census Man Explodes Fallacy of One City Being the "Whole Thing."

Because most of the metropolitan district talk hereabouts has come from San Francisco, practically nothing has been heard except about the "San Francisco metropolitan district."

The term is intended to define the aspirations for a Greater San Francisco. Every town and city within a certain radius of the peninsula city, including Oakland, has been claimed as belonging to the "San Francisco metropolitan district."

But the United States Government has a different conception of the metropolitan district plan William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population in the Bureau of the census, in a bulletin just issued on the population of the United States, indirectly gives San Francisco's sweeping claims the laugh in a chapter on "Metropolitan Districts" He declares that in the United States there are "three metropolitan districts, in each of which there are two cities of such large population that both are treated as the central cities of the district, namely, Minneapolis and St Paul, Kansas City, Kans., and Kansas City, Mo., and San Francisco and Oakland, Cal"

On another page of the bulletin are published figures showing that the per cent of increase in population in San Francisco between 1900 and 1910 was 21.16, and Oakland 124 3 The area in acres of the two cities is practically the same, that of San Francisco being 29,760 and of Oakland 29,248

The metropolitan district is named in the table of figures "San-Francisco-Oakland"

In speaking of Oakland as a metropolitan district center, it might be mentioned that this city has the advantage of being located on the continental side of the bay, and is therefore most favorably situated, geographically, as a real center

NEW BUILDING FOR TENTH ST.

Property Sold, Adjoining Whittier-Fuller Structure, to Be Improved.

One of the principal sales of the week, through the agency of Geo W. Austin, was of a piece of business property on Tenth street, between Harrison and Alice, sold to A J. Raisch of San Francisco for the Oakland combine. Raisch is a wealthy business man and intends erecting a modern building on this property. The price paid was $15 000. The property is 75x100 feet and adjoins the Whittier-Fuller building on the south side of Tenth

The exchange of a large part of one of the principal pieces of business property in Gilroy, which was owned by some Oakland parties, for a ranch containing 100 acres in the Santa Clara valley, was closed this week by the exchange department of Austin's office.

The sale of a fine home on Fifty-sixth street, near Grove, for Charles F Legris to Mr and Mrs M. M. Myers was closed this week.

Another important sale was made on William street, near Telegraph avenue, for C H Smith, a local merchant, to Carl Crew, who is also an Oakland business man. Crew intends to erect a modern building on this property

The office reports that there has been a number of sales made of acreage places in the Redwood Canyon. And during the past week there have also been several sales made in the Claremont Villa Tract, which mean the erection of new and very artistic bungalows at once on the tract

One of the principal purchasers of the past week was Frank Malley, one of our leading contractors, who intends to start immediately on several handsome bungalows

Another purchaser in the Redwood Canyon district was Michael Brennan, who purchased a large piece of this beautiful land and intends to erect a beautiful country home there

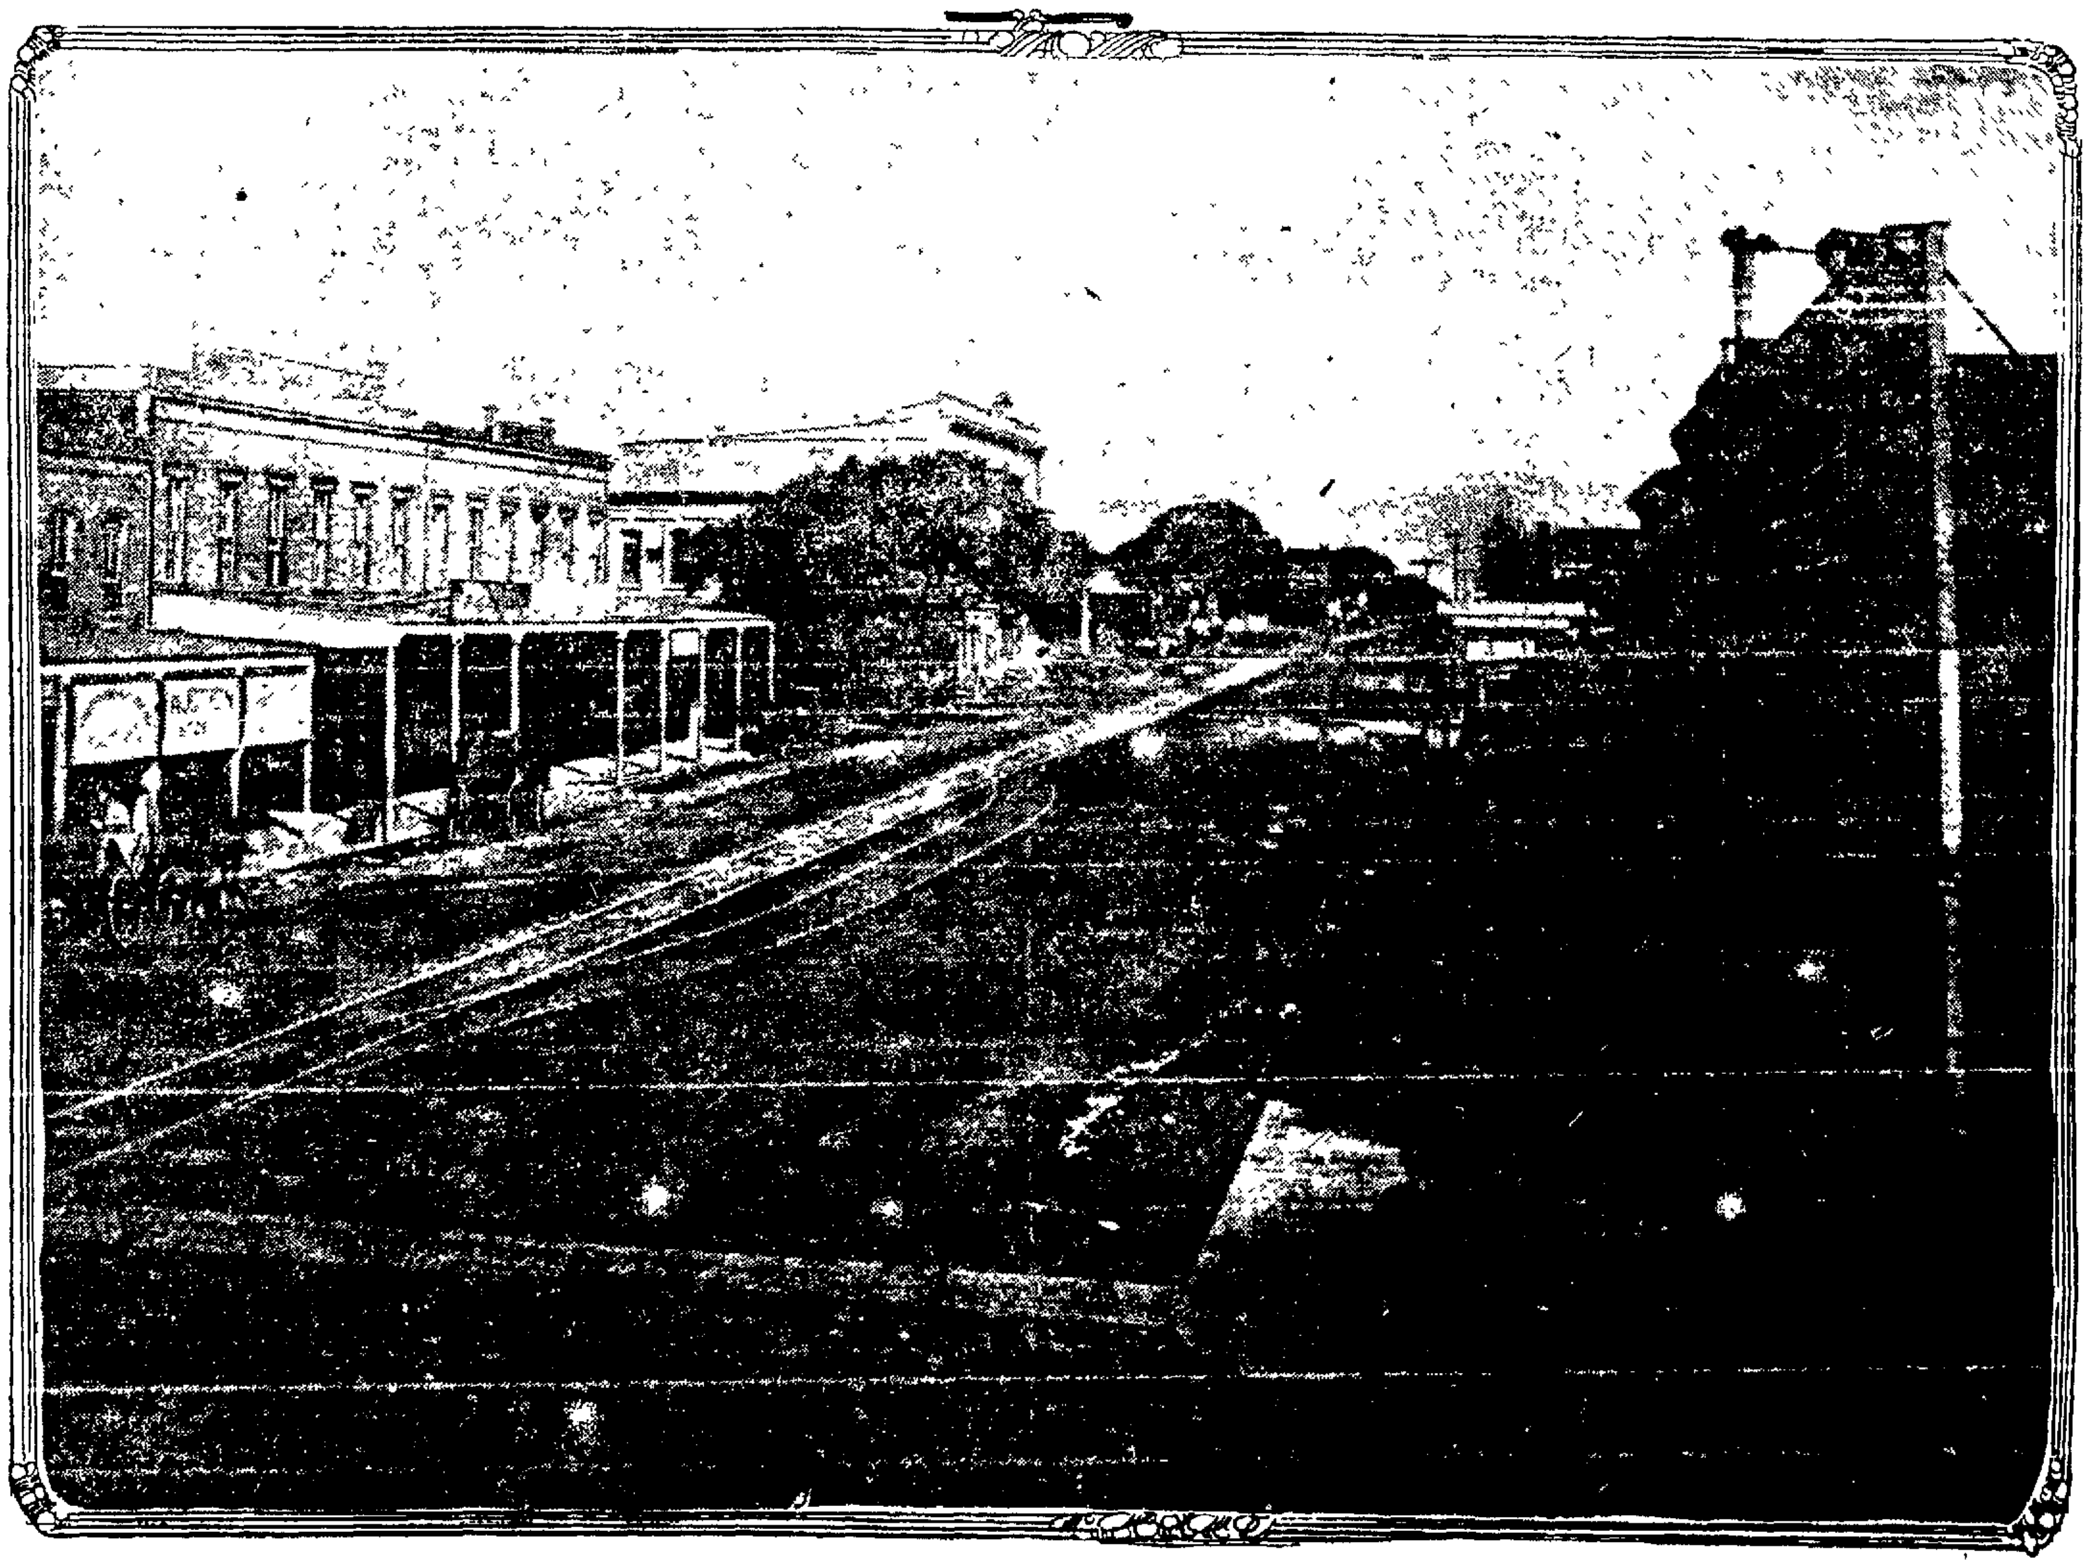
W Thompson has just purchased through Austin's office the beautiful Martin home on Sixty-third street near Racine.

There are now pending several trades for ranches in various parts of the state for residences and business property in Oakland.

BUYS MORE PROPERTY ON SIXTEENTH STREET

James P. Rich purchased a lot on the south side of Sixteenth street, 25 feet east of Jefferson, from Mrs. A. Jacobs This is the second piece of property Rich has purchased in this block in the last 30 days The sale was made through the offices of D F Minney who represented all parties in the transaction Minney reports more activity in this district than in any other in Oakland.

View looking northeast on Broadway from the "local" ferry railroad on Seventh street in 1869. At that time this portion of the wide thoroughfare was the center of the business district.



CAMERA AIDS OLD INHABITANT'S MEMORY OF CITY THAT WAS AND SURPRISES LATTER-DAY RESIDENT

Whether the old inhabitant or the latter-day resident has the greater appreciation of photographs of Oakland taken during the early life of the city is a question difficult to answer. The early settler enjoys such pictures, partly because of the memories of pioneer days which they awaken. The Oaklander of today, who has seen nothing but the modern aspect of the city, is furnished a surprise when he looks at photographs of the Oakland that was—surprise that such changes can be wrought in a few decades. It is not easy for him to realize, for instance, even by glancing at the photographed reproduced on this page of THE TRIBUNE today, that the lower end of Broadway ever looked as it appears in the picture. Oaks on Broadway, all the way from Seventh to Fourteenth street, and perhaps much further! It is true that the oaks gave the city its name, but the present-day resident almost forgets this, and small wonder, when the oaks are being cut down even in the residence sections. The only familiar feature of the photograph of Broadway at Seventh street is the car line, which then ended at Seventh. In 1869, as now, the "switch-back" was in use. The shopping and financial business, in the early days, was transacted in the vicinity of Seventh and Broadway, and it was many years before any large number of mercantile firms or professional men moved northward.

OAKLAND BUILDING GAIN 130 PER CENT

Permit Record Shows Big Increase for Month of May in This City.

Oakland is being well advertised by the Construction News of Chicago, as a city having remarkable building enterprise. Building returns from 72 cities show an increase, in the aggregate, of 20 per cent for the month of May. The individual gains of Oakland and Berkeley are far ahead of the general average, being 130 for Oakland and 132 for Berkeley. This increase is over May, 1911.

During May of this year 341 permits were taken out in Oakland for building to cost $1,208,137 For the same month of last year 290 permits were issued, the aggregate cost being $524,536 San Francisco's gain was 16 per cent.

Rain interfered somewhat with building operations during the week, but at that the total cost of building, for which permits were applied for, reached a total of $90,200 The summary of building permits for the week ending Wednesday evening is as follows

	No of Permits.	Cost
1-story dwellings	25	$46,505

MANY FACTORS CONTRIBUTE TO DEVELOPMENT OF GREATER OAKLAND

Movements of great importance in the advancement of Oakland during the past few days have been the preparations for beginning the deepening of the Key Route Basin, on the western waterfront, where city wharves are to be constructed, the testing of ground on the site of the proposed city auditorium, and the furtherance of proceedings for the extension of Washington street through city hall park, from Fourteenth street to San Pablo avenue.

Money is in the city treasury for the purchase of the Dunn estate and Charles Camden properties at Fifteenth street and San Pablo avenues, to permit the opening of Washington street, and as soon as the routine of abstract work is completed the land needed will be purchased and the buildings torn down, so that the thoroughfare may be extended on a straight line. The proceedings are also under way for vacating the old city hall, which is also to be demolished to make way for the opening. A remarkable change will be wrought in the appearance of the city hall park and surroundings by the Washington street extension, the completion of the new municipal building following the removal of the old, and the erection of the Kahn arcade structure on San Pablo avenue, near Sixteenth street, and at the terminus of Washington.

THE TRIBUNE during the past week devoted sections of two of its regular issues to important development news. One edition gave in detail an account of the extraordinary building activity in the new retail district west of Broadway, involving an expenditure of nearly one million dollars for the erection of eight modern business structures. Another issue was devoted in part to the exploitation of the farming resources of the State, and comprised the second monthly "Back to the Soil" edition of THE TRIBUNE.

Tht publication of illustrations of five buildings in the fast-developing new shopping section, together with the figures of their cost, and other details, was a revelation even to many real estate owners and brokers who had not made a complete survey of the contemplated improvements. Seven of the eight structures planned are already under construction. The buildings are to range in height from three to seven stories and will change the appearance of the skyline west of Clay street. All of the structures are to be erected in the area bounded by Clay, Castro, Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, and the cost will be approximately $750,000. This sum has been expended on a single skyscraping bank building on Broadway, but is a magnificent total for business buildings of ordinary size in a new district, averaging almost $100,000 for the cost of each structure.

This unusual amount of building follows the transfer of about $3,000,000 worth of business property in the new retail section, along Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, west of Broadway.

THEATER BUILDING CORNER IS LEASED

M. A. Gunst Company Regains Store in Macdonough Block.

An unusual leasing transaction has arisen on Fourteenth and Broadway Some months ago the United Cigar Stores company leased the entire corner of the Macdonough theater building causing the M A Gunst company and several other tenants to vacate to make ready for extensive alterations which have now been in progress since May 1 The plans called for a small corner cigar store and two small stores on Broadway besides an elegant cafe entrance to be installed on the Fourteenth street side of the building. This is generally conceded to be the best cigar store corner in Oakland and great was the surprise of local merchants when it was yesterday first authentically made known that the United Cigar Stores company had leased the coveted corner back to its competitor, the M A. Gunst company and would itself occupy the store third from the corner on Broadway The rival cigar companies plan to outdo each other in the elegance of store equipment It is understood that the total rental to be paid by Gunst will exceed $70 000

Another leasing transaction of interest, which is today made public is the lease from W G Henshaw to the Postal Telegraph Cable company of a store on Fourteenth, just 40 feet from Broadway, in the Macdonough theater building This deal is of particular significance in that a great public service corporation has recognized the growing strength of Fourteenth street as a heavy traffic center The telegraph company plans to install an elegant office It is understood that the gross rental for this lease is about $16 000 Herman Rittigstein leasing manager of Laymance Real Estate Co. negotiated the deal.

FOREIGN SHIPS AT WHARVES INCREASE

Remarkable Gain in Shipping Between Oakland and World's Ports.

Deep Sea Freight Shipping to and From Oakland Via S. F. Decreases.

The manner in which Oakland has grown as an independent seaport is strikingly shown by the reports of commerce passing over the wharves of this city, as these reports detail the transactions year by year. The great increase in the number of foreign registered vessels docking at Oakland wharves tells the story.

In 1909, twenty-five foreign vessels put on and took off cargo at the wharves of Oakland's waterfront; in 1910, forty foreign vessels; in 1911, 216 foreign vessels.

Another way in which the growth of Oakland as an independent shipping port is vividly illustrated is by comparing the growth of the commerce which passes to and from Oakland wharves directly in and out of the Golden Gate.

In 1874, this direct shipment through the Golden Gate, to and from Oakland wharves, it is estimated, amounted to about 50,000 tons. In 1890, this class of commerce had grown to 296,000 tons, in 1909, to 861,100 tons; in 1910, to 1,132,244 tons; in 1911, to 1,785,007 tons.

There has been a most interesting development of the commerce over Oakland wharves, other than ferry traffic, since the beginning of the development of the Oakland harbor, in 1874.

The government reports divide this water-carried commerce into two classes. One is designated as "ferry traffic" and the other as "by other vessels." The latter includes coaster, trans-oceanic and river shipping. In 1874, the ferry traffic over the Oakland wharves is estimated to have amounted to 60,000 tons, the traffic by other vessels to 94,000. In 1890, the ferry traffic amounted to approximately 1,000,000 tons, the traffic carried by other vessels to approximately 440,000 tons. In 1909, the government report gives the ferry traffic at 2,235,000 tons, and the traffic by other vessels at 1,255,000 tons. In 1910, the ferry traffic amounted to 2,522,000 tons, and that by other vessels to 1,516,664. In 1911, the ferry carried traffic amounted to 1,785,007; that by other vessels, 2,010,576 tons.

GAIN IN TONNAGE.

In addition to the increase in the number of foreign vessels engaged in carrying commerce directly to and from Oakland wharves, the tonnage of the vessels shows a remarkable increase. In 1910, the net registered tonnage of all vessels docking at Oakland wharves was 1,250,964. The total number of trips made by vessels amounted to 8,120. In the year 1911, the total number of dockings amounted to 8,102, slightly less than the year before, but the total amount of net registered tonnage of the vessels docking at Oakland wharves, in 1911, was 3,482,271, more than double the net registered tonnage of the year before.

The increase in the value of freight handled over Oakland wharves is shown by the figures, which give for the year 1910 a total valuation of $138,059,218, and for the year 1911, $154,224,950.

An analysis of the above figures reveals the fact that during the last three years the ferry tonnage has decreased in proportion to the tonnage carried by other vessels until during the last calendar year, 1911, the amount of tonnage passing through the Golden Gate, that is, deep sea commerce, was approximately the same as the ferry tonnage.

In other words, direct shipments of deep water freight directly to and from Oakland wharves has increased, and the transmission of such freight to and from Oakland, through San Francisco, has decreased.

PROUD BUILDING RECORD IS SET

Berkeley Is Well Up Among the Cities of Country in May Operations.

BERKELEY, June 15.—Real estate dealers and builders of this city are pleased by the proud record for building established by Berkeley during the month of May. Statistics received here as compiled by the Construction News of Chicago show that the increase in building in this city for the month was 133 per cent, or 112 per cent higher than the aggregate of seventy-two leading cities compiled by the News. It is expected that June will show practically as large a gain, as the permits secured during the first two weeks have outdistanced in number and expenditure indicated those for the corresponding month of last year. The figures for May of this year were well over $200,000.

Street work on San Pablo avenue is almost completed, making that boulevard from Oakland to Point Richmond one of the finest thoroughfares in the county. Work is also in operation from Dartmouth avenue to the county line.

There ore now six new clubhouses for University of California fraternities and sororities in course of erection in different parts of East Berkeley neighboring the campus. It is expected that all of them will be ready for occupancy by their respective prospective tenants by the time college reopens.

Chi Omega sorority is building on Le Roy avenue. Sigma Chi is erecting a handsome edifice at College avenue and Channing way. Psi Upsilon is building at Le Roy and Hearst avenues; Skull and Keys at Euclid and Le Roy avenues; Gamma Phi Beta on Channing way near Telegraph avenue, and Phi Gamma Delta on Bancroft way near Bowditch street. Near the latter is the new building just completed for the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Building permits of recent issue are keeping well up to the mark previously set. Among these have been the following:

Two-story 12-room residence, north side of Haste street, 250 feet east of College avenue; Louis Engler, owner and builder; $8000.

Two-story 8-room residence, west side of Los Angeles street, 300 feet north of The Circle; E. B. Spitler, owner and builder; $4000.

Alteration to 2-story 10-room residence, west side of Hillegass avenue, 100 feet south of Russell street; W. P. Smith, owner; $245.

Two-story 8-room residence, north side of Plaza drive, 250 feet east of Nogales avenue; J. S. McFarland, owner; J. M. Wiley, contractor; $4500.

One-story 6-room residence, west side of Ordway street, 150 feet north of Hopkins street; John Wulff, owner; $3080.

Two-story 8-room apartment house, west side of McKinley avenue, 130 feet north of Allston way; George W. Kraft, owner and builder; $2000.

Two-story, four-room addition to residence, south side of Dwight way, 80 feet west of College avenue; Dora L. Martin, owner; $900.

One-story 4-room residence, east side of McGee street, 50 feet north of Derby street; W. S. Brown, owner and builder; $1000.

Two-story 8-room residence, west side of Colusa avenue, 80 feet south of Monterey avenue; Mrs. L. M. Matthews, owner; $3000.

Two-story, 5-room residence, south side of Cedar street, 76 feet west of Bonita avenue; Schmidt and Beichel, owners and builders; $2000.

One-story, 3-room residence, north side of Chaucher, 140 feet west of Bruce street; Mrs. Sannahola, owner; $1000.

One-story 5-room bungalow, south side of Derby street, 100 feet east of Shattuck avenue; W. F. Neary, owner and builder; $2000.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Money on call, nominal; time loans, steady; 60 days, 3 per cent; 90 days, 3 per cent; 6 months, 3¾ per cent.

MANY INQUIRE ABOUT ALAMEDA

Chamber of Commerce Receives Many Letters From Distant Points.

ALAMEDA, June 15.—Alameda Chamber of Commerce is receiving an unexpectedly large number of replies from visitors to this city, especially those tourists who are carried through Alameda on the sight-seeing cars of the Oakland Traction company. Many of the postcards sent to the Chamber of Commerce by these visitors express the appreciation of the tourists of the sights and scenes witnessed on the sight-seeing ride. Quite a number tell that the writer is coming back at a future time to further investigate the charms and beauties of Alameda.

Though no actual building move has yet been made towards constructing the Alameda postoffice, the contract for which was recently awarded in Washington to a Montana construction firm, it is believed here that the firm is already making preliminary arrangements to start construcwork and that actual building will be undertaken in July or by August at the latest.

As soon as foundation tests at the corporation yard are completed a definite announcement will probably be made as to whether or not the municipal light plant is to be moved from the south end of Oak street to the corporation yard at the north end of Grand street. So far the borings made show a discouraging depth of marsh mud, with no sign of hardpan, though the borings have been run down nearly 100 feet. The move to the corporation is deemed a wise one by the electricity commission and city council but has not yet been definitely decided and should trouble be found in locating a satisfactory foundation the new municipal light plant building will probably be constructed on the Oak street site instead of moving the plant to the corporation yard. One strong argument in favor of the move is that fuel oil could be discharged from oil boats directly into the light plant reservoir and a large saving effected in the cost of fuel.

Building permits issued the past week were:

Southern Pacific Co., owner and builder, shelter shed, 2164 Encinal avenue; W. M. Hunt, owner, A. H. Foster and son builder, alterations, 1848 Park street; Randolph Memorial Mission, southeast corner sixth street and Lincoln avenue, addition to church, builder, Silvio E. Ronzone;

August Figone, owner, L. H. Wright, builder, addition to building, 914 Centennial avenue; Joseph Chiantaretto, owner and builder, alterations, 816 Lincoln avenue; N. Reinecker, owner, L. Frischet, builder, new store front, 1802 High street; E. H. Stran, owner and builder, 5-room cottage, 752 Taylor avenue; W. G. LeBoyd, owner and builder, 4-room cottage, 2208 Clement avenue; Mrs. Mary Halton, owner, E. H. Rogers, builder, repairs, 1516 Schiller street; Mrs. K. Hess, owner, Conrad Roth, builder, addition to building, 1522 Union street; Mark T. Cole, owner and builder, 5-room cottage, 1835 Ninth street; V. N. Strang, owner and builder, 5-room cottage, 750 Taylor avenue; A. Waterbury, owner, H. C. Nelson, builder, 3-room cottage, 3011 Madison street; Mrs. G. Bassity, owner, A. M. Waller, builder, flats, 524-526 Central avenue; West End Building association, owner and builder, 4-room cottage, 1820 Hibberd street; W. Hendrickson, owner, R. C. Hillen, builder, alterations, 3286 Briggs avenue; A. Peacock, owner, Conrad Roth, builder, 5-room cottage, 758 Haight avenue.

RICHMOND ANNEX HOMES SELL RAPIDLY

RICHMOND, June 15.—Considering the short time it has been on the market the sales of home building sites in Richmond Annex has been phenomenal. Homeseekers and investors alike are flocking there by the hundreds and the time is not far distant when it will be as thickly peopled as its sister communities, Berkeley and Richmond.

The fact that Richmond is rapidly developing into the manufacturing metropolis of the West is one of the reasons why Richmond Annex is selling so rapidly. And as the manufacturing activities of a community increase so do the number of homes in its vicinity. That Richmond is the ideal and logical location for factories can be seen at a glance. Fuel is exceedingly cheap, as three pipe lines from the oil fields run into Richmond, materially reducing the cost of oil. Electricity is also very cheap in Richmond. The Western States Electric Company is selling power in Richmond at a lower price than can be found in any other city in Central California. Nor is fuel the only manufacturing inducement offered by Richmond.

When the Panama Canal is opened trade on the Pacific Coast will receive a very decided stimulus. And as trade grows so will Richmond grow as a manufacturing center. And as Richmond expands so must Richmond Annex, which is Richmond's only fully developed marine view sub-division. Richmond Annex will be the home and playground of the toilers in Richmond. And it doesn't require an imaginative mind to realize the possibilities of an investment in its realty.

TRIES TO MAKE AN OMELET OF WIFE

NEW YORK, June 15.—"If the three dozen eggs he threw at me hit me I would have been an omelet," Mrs. Mary A. Thornton said to Supreme Justice Goff today, when she was testifying in a suit for separation from Philip Thornton, a police sergeant. Mrs. Thornton, in her complaint, also charged Thornton with hurling a bottle of Italian wine and a hot fruit cake at her.

Counsel for the husband said his client would admit desertion, and counsel for the wife agreed to consent to a decree on that ground.

WOMAN OF 78 WALKS 17 MILES TO CALL

NEWTON, N. J., June 15.—Mrs. Mary George, 78 years old, of Verona, walked seventeen miles to visit her niece here, making only one stop, at McAfee station, on the way.

She had traveled over bad mountain roads and through a treacherous swamp where the water came up to her ankles. She was equipped with stout boots and made her way safely through the marshy land.

After remaining a few days with her niece and getting a good rest she will start back for Verona, again making the journey on foot.

BERKELEY UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA ALAMEDA

MAYOR IS SEEKING AID OF MINISTERS

Reminds Pastors of Berkeley That Cleanliness Is Next to Godliness.

BERKELEY, June 15 — Mayor J. Stitt Wilson preached a sermon to the preachers this afternoon. Its delivery was in the form of a letter to the city's several pastors urging them to support the "Spotless Town Campaign." Among its phrases were the following:

"The church that is faithful in weeds will be able to cope with other sins."

"Once there was a famous old civic worker by the name of Nehemiah. He said: 'Let every man fix up in front of his own lot.'"

"Cleanliness is next to godliness and that includes tidiness, which is a simple word for civic adornment."

LETTER OF MAYOR.

The mayor's letter follows in part:

"I want to enlist the personal interest of every pastor and the members of the churches in the city concerning our 'spotless town' campaign.

'You may ask us why we do not enforce the 'law'? Well, to tell you the truth, we in the city hall—Chief Vollmer and his chief, Commissioner Hoff, and all our subordinates—are more in the humor of the gospel' than that of the 'law.' In other words, our 'spotless town' campaign is not so much a 'big stick' affair of enforcing city ordinances and arresting and punishing offenders as it is an educational campaign, and a gentle but firm persuasion to all our citizens to put their property in order for civic beauty, as well as for protection from fire and noxious weeds. We will use the law if we have to. No mistake about that. But education, agitation, inspiration, that is our main program.

SHOULD DO DUTY.

"Now cleanliness is next to godliness, and that includes tidiness, which is a simple word for civic adornment, and I write this open letter to the church people because there are so many of you in Berkeley, and if you will do your duty, it will count greatly toward our 'city beautiful.'

"Once there was a famous old civic worker by the name of Nehemiah. He said: 'Let every man fix up in front of his own lot.' You will find that in the Bible—a free translation to be sure. That would be a good text for some of our pastors right now. These are days when moral and religious teaching is bearing on civic and social affairs. Personal goodness must radiate into the civic life. Let us not only rally to the large things of city and national life. Let us get down to weeds—with a hoe—next week.

NOT GOOD CANDIDATE.

"The church that is faithful in weeds; will be able to cope with other sins. He that will not help clean up and beautify his own city of Berkeley is not a good candidate for that Fairer City invisible. The moral and spiritual reactions of a clean and beautiful city are incalculable. In no simpler or more convincing and permanent way can we teach our youth the goodly offices of true citizenship."

WOODMEN ENTERTAIN THEIR HEAD CONSUL

ALAMEDA, June 15.—Spruce Camp, Woodmen of the World, last night entertained Head Consul I. I. Boak at the spacious lodge rooms in the Woodmen hall. A musical and literary program had been prepared and the visitor expressed his appreciation of the spirit shown in providing for his entertainment.

Boak spoke at length on the affairs and history of the Woodmen's lodge. He told of the growth of the organization from a baby among lodges to its present proud position, numbering 112,000 members on its roster. The consul was one of the founders of Spruce camp and organized the camp in 1893.

Boak picked out familiar faces and showed a splendid memory in remembering the names of those who were charter members of the lodge when with him it was organized.

The reception was well attended, the hall being filled with an enthusiastic crowd of members and their friends.

ASKS COUNCIL TO BUY PLAYGROUNDS

Head of Berkeley Commission Lays Plans Before the Board.

BERKELEY, June 15. — Plans for the expenditure of $216,076 for playgrounds for Berkeley schools and school children have been submitted to the city council by James T. Preston, president of the playground commission. The report has been submitted to committee of the whole.

Preston declares in his report that to be of the best service to all playgrounds must be located within one-half mile of the homes of children who will use them. They must also, he declared, be effectually supervised and be placed adjacent to schools wherever possible to be of less expense. He urged the immediate improvement of the large playground at San Pablo park.

The property which Preston suggests be purchased and improved is as follows, with the cost of the respective items:

Hutsinpiller has returned to Berkeley from the east, where he attended a convention of th Methodist churches.

CENTERVILLE GUARDS ITS WATER SUPPLIES

NILES, June 15.—The support of the United Improvement Clubs of Washington township has been given the citizens' committee which was recently appointed at a mass meeting in Centerville which is prepared to fight to the bitter end any attempt on the part of the water companies to derive additional water supply from artesian, or surface sources, which would result detrimentally to the private water supplies of the township.

A communication to this effect will be sent to the following corporations: Union Water Company, Peoples Water Company, United Properties Company, Spring Valley Water Company.

On the committee which has signed copies of the notice to the companies are William H. Ford, W. D. Patterson, J. C. Shinn, G. S. Caldeira, G. P. Lowrie and Henry May.

Y. M. I. COUNCIL TO ENTERTAIN AT BANQUET

MARTINEZ, June 15.—St. Catherine's Council No. 25, Young Men's Institute, will entertain at a banquet on Wednesday evening, June 19. At that time officers for the coming six months will be named and delegates to the grand council to be held shortly in Vallejo will be chosen.

St. Catherine's Council plans to join with the other councils of the county in maintaining headquarters at Golden State hall in Vallejo on the opening day of the grand lodge. It is expected that at least 200 of the members and of the Young Ladies and Young Men's Institute and their friends will attend the opening day festivities in the navy yard city.

FIRE FIGHTERS OF MARTINEZ TO PICNIC

MARTINEZ, June 15.—Members of the fire fighting force of Martinez are planning for their annual picnic next month. The affair will be for firemen only. Three new members of the organization were elected at last night's meeting in the persons of Oscar Johnson, Herbert Bell and George Calori, who will have a leading part in the arrangements for the affair.

It has been decided that the invitation to participate in the firemen's races and events of the Fourth of July celebration in Pittsburg be not accepted, inasmuch as the majority of the members are away on their summer vacations at that time and a representative showing can not be secured.

SACRAMENTO GIRL IS GUEST OF HONOR

WALNUT CREEK, June 15.—Miss Ruth Moodison of Sacramento, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. H. Wilson for some time, was the guest of honor recently of Miss Myrtle Forrow. FRUIT AND VEGETABLE STORE BORNE ON FLOAT IN PARADE

Fifteen distinct varieties of fruits and vegetables raised on one ranch and displayed on one float at the recent San Leandro carnival.

Fifteen distinct varieties of fruits and vegetables, raised on one ranch within fifteen miles of Oakland and all ready for the market at one time is the record set by I. H. Begier of San Leandro in the display which he entered in the floral parade of the fourth annual cherry festival held at San Leandro recently.

When approached by the committee in quest of entries for the parade, Begier cast about for something novel in way of display and concentrated on the idea of exploiting the great variety of produce on his own place. He utilized fifteen varieties and could have had seventeen by using carrots and parsnips which he also grows. The varieties shown in the display are artichokes, asparagus, cherries, currants, beans, peas, beets, rhubarb, potatoes, turnips, onions, oats, wheat, barley and oranges.

The display was much admired by all who witnessed the parade and at the request of Secretary Denison of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce was brought to Oakland on Tuesday, where it was displayed on the downtown streets during the afternoon, attracting a great deal of attention and exciting much comment on the versatility of Alameda county products.

GYMNASTICS TO ENGAGE PUPILS

Exercises Will Be Held This Afternoon at St. Joseph's Academy.

BERKELEY, June 15. — The annual gymnastics exercises of St. Joseph's academy, Peralta park, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the academy campus. The boys of the several teams have worked hard to attain excellence, assuring a successful day. Gold and silver medals, as well as a class pennant, are to be competed for.

Among the events on the program are the setting up exercises, which comprise marching, counter-marching and other field maneuvers. A special feature will be rope climbing against time, while the parallel bars, horizontal bar and horse will give the boys an opportunity of displaying individual prowess.

There will be five teams taking part in the exercises, each team consisting of 21 boys. The captains of the teams are as follows: B. Hennessey, first team; E. Lydon, second team; P. Zeiro, third team; A. Herrerias, fourth team; August Connor, fifth team.

N. Prendergast, head of the construction department of the Pacific Coast Telephone and Telegraph company, who is president of the Catholic Schools Athletic league, will be among the judges. Colonel Harris of the Presidio staff and other army officers will be in attendance, as well as a number of prominent clergymen.

As an added attraction the drawings and free-hand penmanship and artistic penwork of the students will be on exhibition. The two $500 championship cups won by the St. Joseph's baseball teams will also be shown.

Commencement exercises of St. Joseph's academy will be held June 26 at 2:30 p. m. An interesting program is being prepared for that occasion, when a large class of boys will be graduated.

PORTUGUESE SOCIETY FORMS AT MARTINEZ

MARTINEZ, June 15.—Council Hope No. 90, S. P. R. S. I., has been instituted here with a large charter membership. Assisting at the installation were Grand President Miss Madeiros and Grand Secretary Miss Lemos. Visitors were also present from Council No. 28 of Concord, Council No. 47, Walnut Creek; Council No. 82, Lafayette, and Council No. 71, Concord.

The following officers have been installed:

Past president, Mrs. J. Silveira; president, Mrs. M. Perry; vice-president, Mrs. Mathews; secretary, Mrs. Faguendo; treasurer, Mrs. Lemos; M. of C., Mrs. Webber; marshal, Mrs. Bartolomei; G. G., Mrs. Costa; directors, Mrs. Disvila, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Silveira.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB ARRANGES DANCES

ALHAMBRA VALLEY, June 15.—Plans are being made for two dances in the near future for the benefit of the Improvement Club's hall building fund. The dances will be given in the homes of Fletcher Ames and T. R. Hanna.

The original plans for a polling place and meeting hall have been somewhat altered and it is now aimed to erect a hall which may be used for social events, dances and other gatherings of the valley folk. The hall is to be well lighted and equipped with suitable furniture and a good dance floor. Retiring rooms and a kitchen will be built adjoining the hall.

U.P.E.C. SOCIETY PAYS MANY BENEFICIARIES

SAN LEANDRO, June 15.—The supreme directors of the U. P. E. C. Society, with headquarters in this place, held their regular meeting Thursday night and transacted much important business.

In death claims for the month of May they ordered paid $10,471.10 and for the month of June to date of meeting $12,550 was ordered paid to beneficiaries.

Supreme Secretary J. J. Martin's report showed that there was $359,479.80 in the reserve fund; $88,446.52 in the special fund; $[illegible] in the general fund, a total of $[illegible] in all funds.

TO HONOR FLAG AT BERKELEY CHURCH

Sermon and Patriotic Music at College Avenue Edifice.

BERKELEY, June 15. — A special feature of the evening service tomorrow at College Avenue M. E. church will be a sermon on "The Flag," by Dr. James H. N. Williams, and patriotic music by the choir under the direction of Frank E. Wright. Flag and national songs will be rendered by the choir and congregation, and the Appomattox quartet, from the Appomattox post of Oakland, have consented to be present and render a number of the old Grand Army songs.

Mrs. Charles Poulter, recently engaged as soprano soloist at this church, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Poulter is one of the few singers about the bay who for years past has been engaged on special occasions to sing this stirring song annually in various towns in Central California, and a treat is in store for those who will hear her. The service begins at 7:45 o'clock.

Miss Kelly will select her vice-principal shortly and the classes which will be taught by the various teachers will be announced later by her. Miss Ethel Leighton of San Francisco has been elected to succeed Miss Margaret Elliott, resigned, and Miss Anna G. Crowley of Port Costa has been chosen as an additional teacher. The other teachers re-elected are Miss Aga Lander, Miss Rose Hoey, Miss Geneieve Gleese, Miss Dorothy Flynn, Miss Hattie Headley and Miss Jeanette Clayton.

NEW PORTUGUESE COUNCIL IS PLANNED

WALNUT CREEK, June 15.—A movement is on foot here to organize a local council of the Portuguese union of the state of California, best known as the U. P. E. C. It is estimated that there are between twenty and twenty-five members of the order connected with other lodges in this vicinity who are interested in the formation of a branch here.

The order has been in existence since 1880 and at the present time claims a reserve fund of approximately $500,000 which can be drawn upon in the organization of a new council.

REV. WILSIE MARTIN HOME FROM CHICAGO

ALAMEDA, June 15.—Rev. Wilsie Martin has returned from Chico, where he delivered the commencement address to the graduates of the Chico high school. Rev. Martin reports that the Sacramento valley is a beautiful sight, the recent rains having washed all dust from the foliage giving a verdant appearance to all plant life.

QUARTET OF SONS IS 342 YEARS OLD

Joseph Cooke of Berkeley Hears of First Death in Remarkable Family.

BERKELEY, June 15.—Joseph Cooke of Bonita avenue received word today of the death at Silverton, Ore., of his brother, Samuel, the first to die of a quartet of brothers whose combined ages totaled 342 years. Joseph Cooke is 86, Samuel was 83, Charles Cooke of Princeton, Ill., is 81, while H. C. Cooke, also of Princeton, is 92.

Joseph Cooke is the husband of Mrs. Belle Cooke, formerly an educator in Oregon and a writer of some note. The family is of Puritan stock and descended from Francis Cooke, who came over in the Mayflower. Joseph Cooke and his family resided in San Francisco, but removed to Berkeley following the fire of 1906.

Though then past 80 years of age he built with his own hands the bungalow in which he and his wife now reside, a cosy little place on Bonita avenue near Vine street. His wife is engaged now in the writing of a historical romance.

OFFICERS CHOSEN.

PITTSBURG, June 15.—Diamond Parlor No. 246, Native Sons of the Golden West, has elected the following officers to serve for the coming year: Junior past president, F. S. Brandon; president, L. E. Vickens; second vice-president, Joe Cinollo; third vice-president, F. A. Fonda; recording secretary, F. A. Irving; financial secretary, Ben Rough; treasurer, Earl McDermott; marshal, O. G. Reber; eighteen months' trustee, A. Costro; outside sentinel, George Griffin; inside sentinel, H. Rouch.

PASTOR WILL WORK IN PHONE OFFICE

Free to Leave Calculations When Marriage or Funeral Needs Services.

ALBANY, June 15. — The Rev. W. E. Coffman, pastor of the Marin Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, will tomorrow morning announce to his congregation that he has temporarily entered the employ of the telephone company and has spent several hours each day during the present week in the office of the rate engineers engaged in mathematical calculations to aid the company in determining rates.

The Rev. Coffman will tell the members of his church that his work with the company will not interfere with his duties as minister of the gospel, and that permission has been given him to absent himself from the office when his services are required at weddings or funerals, and to rest occasionally from his labors on the company's rate sheets by preparing his sermons for the Sunday's services.

He will tell his friends in the local church that his motive in accepting his new position to which he was recommended from the president's office of the University of California, was not the 28 cents an hour the company has promised him, but the desire to render greater service to the community.

The morning's sermon will be preached from the text, "By the grace of God, I am what I am and His grace which was bestowed upon me was not found vain, but I labored more abundantly than they all; yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me; the evening's from the words of Jesus, "give and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, shall they give into your bosom." The morning's outline was written out in the office of the telephone company on Grant avenue, San Francisco, and the second discourse sprang directly from the decision to share methods with his co-workers and fellow-employes.

The Marin Avenue church is a small but growing congregation, organized less than a year ago at which time by request of the people the present pastor was appointed by the district superintendent, Dr. S. D. Hutsinpiller of Berkeley and the presiding bishop, Edwin H. Hughes of San Francisco.

Because of its small membership, which includes no people of wealth, the salary paid is of necessity small and even with aid from the board of Home Missions and the City Church Extension society the church and its pastor have had difficulty in making ends meet. The pastor now says that it looks as though his prayer would be answered, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

DEBUTANTES ARE DANCE HOSTESSES

Misses Helene and Claire Bon Entertain at Country Home at Livermore.

LIVERMORE, June 15. — One of the social events of the week in the bay section was the dance given by Miss Helene Bon tonight at the Bon country home here. Miss Claire Bon, a sister, was another hostess of the evening. About 40 of the smart set of Oakland and Berkeley were present at the affair, many of them having made the journey in automobiles.

Miss Claire Bon has just graduated from Miss Head's school in Berkeley, and with her mother and sister will spend the entire summer in Livermore. Among the invited guests tonight were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ghirardelli, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Webb Engs, Miss Ida Grossmayer, Miss Ada Nason, Miss Carmen Ghirardelli; Miss Caro Mills, Miss Jean Scupham, Miss Helen Nichol, Jesse Knowles, Joe King, Clarence Reed, Earl Black and a number of others.

VALLEJO COMPANIONS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

VALLEJO, June 15. — The following officers were elected at the last meeting of Alba Circle, No. 175, Companions of the Forest:

DR. W. T. LUM QUITS EDUCATION BOARD

Resignation in Hands of the Mayor Causes Lively Comment in City Hall.

ALAMEDA, June 15 — Dr. William Tappan Lum has resigned from the board of education and his resignation is now in the hands of Mayor W. H. Noy. The news of the resignation became public late this afternoon after most of the city hall officers had left the city hall and but little outside light could be secured. The resignation is causing much general talk tonight.

Dr. Lum refuses to discuss the matter, beyond admitting that he has resigned. Whispers of friction on the board, going to the extent of asserting that relations between Director Lum and City Superintendent of Schools Will C. Wood have been strained for months, have gone the rounds of official circles of late, but no hint of trouble has crept to the surface.

Director Lum, it is believed, was opposed to the raising of salaries in the city superintendent's office. The pay of Superintendent Wood, his secretary, Miss Marian Lane, and the board clerk, Edwin Davis, have been raised of late. The three positions are about the best paid in their respective ranks in the city service. Director Lum, also intimated not long ago that he was opposed to dancing in the schools. At least, he questioned the wisdom of allowing dancing.

Lum served several years on the board. He was a close supporter of Mayor W. H. Noy during both terms of the mayor's administration. He has been deeply interested in the public schools and it is definitely known that "pressure of business" fails to cover the real reason for Lum's resignation.

TRUSTEES ARE TO DECIDE ON APPEAL

San Leandro Board Will Consider Order of Court to Re-Canvass Votes.

SAN LEANDRO, June 15.—At a special meeting of the board of city trustees next Monday night it will be decided whether or not the order of the Superior Court compelling the re-canvass of the votes cast in the April municipal election will be appealed to a higher tribunal. The order, written by Superior Judge Waste, followed the election contest started by former Trustee L. J. Toffelmier, who was defeated by a small margin by Trustee Fred Schmidt, the board of trustees having previously refused to grant Toffelmier a recount.

City Attorney J. N. Frank secured a five days' stay of excution in order to give the trustees an opportunity to decide on the proposal to appeal. Toffelmier is confident that the recount will result in his election over Schmidt. In this event the political complexion of the board of trustees will be completely transformed, giving the present "outs" the majority, Mayor J. J. Gill and Trustee C. L. Coleman being the present minority members.

CHILDREN AT BYRON TO HAVE PROGRAM

BYRON, June 15.—The following is the program for the Children's day exercises at the Methodist church:

P.O. CONSOLIDATION TO BE EFFECTED

Richmond, Point Richmond and Atchison to Be Merged July 1.

RICHMOND, June 15.—The Richmond postoffices, now numbering three, Richmond, Point Richmond and Atchison, are to be consolidated July 1. It is announced that after the consolidation is effected it will take a month and perhaps two months before the postal authorities expect to have the free delivery system worked out in good running order. It is necessary to acquaint the new carriers with the city, and much routine work in the office must be arranged for the new order of things. This can only be done after the consolidation of the three postoffices into one takes place, and while the carriers will be ordered on duty July 1, time will be required to get the system perfected.

It is generally understood that Postmaster S. F. Jenkins of the Point Richmond office is to be appointed postmaster for the consolidated offices, although his appointment has not yet arrived. Jenkins has the endorsement of the congressional central committee and has been assured by those in touch with the administaration that he will be appointed a few days before the consolidation takes place. The free mail delivery system will be hailed with delight by Richmond, as the city has long ago outgrown the old order of things.

RICHMOND NOTES

RICHMOND, June 15.—Charles Ceridoni, T. W. Mufich and Ben Brignone departed today in Mufich's automobile for a tour of the counties and towns between this city and Sacramento. They are delegates to the Druids' state convention at Jackson, Amador county, and on this trip will boost for Richmond as the place of meeting for the next state convention.

Colonel John M. Stotsenberg Camp, Spanish War Veterans together with battery B, light artillery of Oakland, will hold a big picnic at Grand Canyon park, July 4.

Evidences of pockets of gas in the oil well being put down by John Nicoll in the west side of the city were found by the drillers today. Work was suspended to recase the well, and in a few days, when operations are resumed, it is anticipated strong evidences of gas will be encountered.

A snappy game of baseball is scheduled for the local diamond tomorrow between a combination of the Oakland and Richmond teams and the Galt team, one of the best semi-professional teams in the city.

The second track of the street railway was put in use today from the county line to Pullman avenue and will complete the work to Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue within a short time.

Ed Smith of Concord and William Bolton of Richmond succeeded in skidding their automobiles down the street railway track in the subway today at the same time, with the result that both machines were partially wrecked and piled up in the subway to the detriment of traffic. They were finally hauled out and neither of the unfortunate drivers were injured.

William H. Hill of Richmond and Miss Lillian M. Seymore of Oakland were married in the latter city last evening at the home of the bride's parents. They will enjoy a short honeymoon tour and then reside in Richmond.

A large number of the children of this city were entertained today by Librarian Whitbeck by a Flag Day story hour, at which a program of patriotism was rendered for the benefit of the little ones.

The local Knights of Pythias did degree work last night, at which a number of visiting knights from nearby cities were present, following the session a banquet was enjoyed.

The members of the office force of the Standard Oil Company gathered this afternoon at East Shore park, where the annual outing was held.

A number of Swedish-American residents of Richmond attended the picnic at Shell Mound park given by the Swedish-American Patriotic League of California.

Rev. J. A. Bachelor, supreme chaplain of the Fraternal Brotherhood, delivered the principal address at the memorial exercises held this evening by that order. A musical program was also enjoyed.

'TIREDOF EACH OTHER;' WEDDING BELLS WON'T RING

MISS HELEN E. BICKFORD

BERKELEY, June 15. — The wedding of Miss Helen E. Bickford and Edmund Douglass Wells, whose engagement was an announcement of interest a year ago in local social and university circles, will not take place. Beyond a brief statement by the young lady's mother, there is no explanation of the termination of the engagement, but it has been terminated, and voluntarily, too, it is understood, by both parties.

"They just got tired of each other," declared Mrs. Bickford, the young lady's mother, this morning, "and so thought it best not to wed."

A piquant brunette, Miss Bickford was one of the most charming members of the class of 1911 at the University of California. Wells was also a student there, and it was doing their undergraduate days that they became acquainted. At the close of Miss Bickford's college years, when she had been graduated with a bachelor's degree, their engagement was announced. The wedding was to take place in a year.

Wells went thereafter to Honolulu, where a good position was awaiting him, Miss Bickford expecting to cross the seas in a year to be his bride. Fate has intervened, however, and the wedding will not take place.

Miss Bickford is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hamlin Bickford, her father being an expert optometrist. She resides with her parents at 2215 Dwight way.

BERKELEY SOCIETY

BERKELEY, June 15.—Miss Hazel Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ritchie of 2713 Haste street, became the bride this evening, at a pretty home wedding, of Warren Tuttle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Tuttle of Watsonville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. L. Nash of Alameda, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents twenty-five years ago. The bride wore the wedding vail which served her mother at that time, and the same ornaments decked the wedding cake at the nuptial supper that followed the service this evening. Mrs. Tuttle has been a teacher at Snell's seminary in this city, of the founder of which, Mrs. Snell, she was a niece. Her four younger sisters are students in the University of California.

Louis McFarland, who is to be best man at the wedding of Miss Muriel Williams and Walter Ratcliff, Wednesday evening of next week, entertained at dinner in compliment to Mr. Ratcliff. The guests were Professor W. F. Bade, Lieutenant James Sterrett Woods, J. L. McFarland and Lindsey, who is one of the wedding party. The McFarland home at Channing way and Prospect avenue was the scene of the dinner.

Following a visit of several months in the east, Miss Marie Hall returned to Berkeley a few days ago. Miss Hall is a daughter of Mrs. C. C. Hall of Hillside avenue. She was the guest of friends in New York and Boston while in the east, and visited other cities and points of interest.

Friends of Miss Ruth Cornell are extending their sympathy on the sudden death of her mother, which occurred Wednesday. Miss Cornell is a cousin of Mrs. James Sterrett Woods of Berkeley. She is a student at the university and has many friends in the younger set. The Cornells form one of the old families of San Jose.

Miss Bertha Brehm and Miss Harriet Thompson have gone to Tahoe to be the guests of Mrs. T. W. Reid of Belmont at her summer cottage near Homewood, on Lake Tahoe. Miss Brehm and Miss Thompson are both well-known musicians and members of the Berkeley Piano Club. They will enjoy several weeks at Tahoe.

Mrs. Frank P. Willard and Miss Edna E. Willard of Heber, Imperial Valley, will be the guests of Mrs. Oliver Youngs, Jr., of Benvenue avenue, during the summer. Miss Edna Willard is a well-known graduate of the University of California and a member of the Prytanean society. Frank B. Willard is city attorney of Heber, and president of the board of water commissioners for Imperial Valley.

HAYWARD GUARD MAY REORGANIZE

Public Will Be Asked to Aid Company H Keep Up Standard.

HAYWARD, June 15.—An informal gathering will be held by Company H, National Guard of California, next Thursday evening, June 20, when an effort will be made to reorganize the company to bring its number up to the necessary figure to prevent its being mustered out. The public will be invited that it's wishes in the matter may be learned, it being felt by Captain J. J. Boree and other officers that it is a question of public interest.

The first enlistment of the company expired April 29, and many of the men found it impossible to re-enlist, hence the need for additional recruits. The company has made an enviable reputation for itself and is recognized as the most efficient contingent to the service from this country. It also has the best shooting record of any company in the state. A number of prominent men will address the meeting.

PERSONALS

AAA—

PROF. J. E. SHAW

584 12TH ST. NEXT ORPHEUM THEATER.

30 YEARS IN CALIFORNIA.

MARVELOUS CLAIRVOYANT, MYSTIC AND TRANCE SEER, speaks German, French, English and Roumanian; different from all others, far in advance of the ordinary readers you meet; stands in a class distinctly alone. This highly cultured gentleman, who is world famous for his many remarkable predictions that have come to pass, positively guarantees to tell you your full name, also full names of friends or enemies and the object of your visit, or makes no charge for his time. Never once a question is asked. He tells you whom and when you will marry (if ever), settles lovers' quarrels, never fails to reunite the separated, cause speedy and happy marriage with the one you love, helps you to overcome enemies, rivals, stumbling blocks and bad conditions of all kinds. Prof SHAW gives never-failing help and advice on business, lawsuits, investments, farming, real estate, your secret troubles, the cause and remedy—accepting no fee unless perfect satisfaction is given, you to be the judge, when the reading is over. Is not this most fair? This wonderful man succeeds even in the most difficult cases where weak and half developed mediums have completely failed.

Hours, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. every day. Special readings for few days

A Money Maker in East Oakland

A frontage of 156 feet, depth 140 feet—water piped over all the property; variety of fruit trees in full bearing.

There is an old 9-room, two-story house on the place which can be used to good advantage.

This property has an elegant marine view—fine homes in neighborhood—convenient to car lines.

There is a handsome profit here for the party who will subdivide and build three nice bungalows.

Let us show you this property—a look at it will convince you of its merits. Price is exceptionally low. The owners, an elderly couple, are unable to keep it in shape.

$ $ $ $ $ $ $ $

$6000—40x110; on Castro street; fine old house on these premises; 5 mins. to Broadway, 2 mins. to Key or S. P. locals. This is $2000 less than present valuation in this locality, and will surely pay big on the money asked at this time.

$ $ $ $ $ $ $ $

$3500—On Central ave., in Alameda, we have a fine 8-room house in a fine locality near the local trains. Let us show you how this can be turned into a money-maker and at the same time a fine home. Lot 49x110. Your own terms.

$ $ $ $ $ $ $ $

$2450—We have one of the prettiest and best kept little homes in Melrose, near East 14th and S. P. local cars; 5 rooms, sleeping porch, gas and electricity, fine garden, berries, etc.; plenty room for chickens; street work done; lot 50x123; easy terms.

Business Corners Make Competencies

NEARLY EVERY MAN WHO EVER BOUGHT CLOSE IN CORNERS ON THE MAIN THOROUGHFARES IN ANY CITY SECURED A COMPETENCY, AND MOST OF THEM ARE THE WEALTHY CITIZENS TODAY. THERE IS A CORNER ON BROADWAY WITHIN 300 FEET OF HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS OF IMPROVEMENTS IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION AND IN CONTEMPLATION THAT WE CAN DELIVER FOR $800 PER FRONT FOOT. WE HAVE IT ALREADY FINANCED AS ONE-THIRD CASH AND BALANCE AT 6 PER CENT WILL SECURE IT. NOT ONE PIECE OF INSIDE PROPERTY SOUTH OF THIS CAN BE HAD FOR LESS THAN $1000 PER FOOT.

SEE OUR MR. F. A. CAMPBELL REGARDING ABOVE.

$2000 Sacrifice

$6850—Two modern homes, one 8 room 1½-story cottage, built sufficiently strong to carry 5 stories, together with pretty 6-room bungalow; 80 feet frontage; in nice clean location, within a stone's throw of main car line and very convenient to S. F. ferry line service; $4000 mortgage can remain. Bring your carpenter, adviser or appraiser. We'll be glad to show you the property if you are seriously intentioned. (533)

Telegraph Ave. Investment

$12,500—About 20 years ago 16th and Telegraph ave. sold for $150 per foot. It has gained nearly 100 per cent in price per front foot a year since them. We have for sale on this same street not quite so close in 30 feet with plain improvements. This main street buy is offered at cross-street prices. This will make you money. (676)

14th Street Corner

$10,500—Northwest corner, 100 feet frontage; quite close in. Remember that this is THE street that goes right through to the deep sea harbor. (57)

$1100—20 feet on the same street, with 2-room shack. A cheap little holding on a main street. (108)

Fortieth Street Corner

$6600—Artistic 8-room house, with curly redwood finish; hardwood floors; hot water heater, gas and electricity; cement floor garage. This is a coming business corner and could be raised for stores and changed into stores at a small cost, which would bring in a fine revenue. (532)

A Little Bit of a Buy

$275—Buy this and forget it. The new wharves and Key Route railroad development will do the rest. Size 25x133. Compare the price of this with out-of-town lots. (26)

A Bungalow Bargain

$3150—Cost $4000. Prefer cash but will take terms from responsible party; one-half block to Grove st., 2 minutes to Key Route; 5 rooms and bath; 40x100; south front. Be quick.

Speculators Attention

Our last two weeks' specials have sold and each purchaser has been offered material advances, as they bought at prices that were right.

Look Here

$4500—Elegant modern residence, 9 rooms and bath; well located on a main thoroughfare that is destined to become one of the select residence streets of this city. It is handy to transportation. The lot is 100x200 feet and is worth $40 per foot alone—the price asked for the entire property. There have been several lots sold on this street at $30 per foot, but the depth was only 100 feet. The house could not be duplicated for $3000. This price will include bituminizing of the street and when complete the property will easily sell for $6000. For residence or speculation you cannot help to make money on this. Now why not buy where your money will do you the most good? Don't delay.

Nothing but snaps advertised.

TEXAS REAL ESTATE

TEXAS INVESTMENTS.

The gulf coast is simply great and is growing greater every day. It is the land of heart's delight all the year. The more most people know about this charming country the better they like it.

It is the best place in America for the average homeseeker and investor. While thousands are coming each month there is yet room and a welcome for you.

HOUSTON,

where the railroads meet the sea, is the gateway to the gulf from the middle west and is rapidly becoming a city of importance in the commercial world.

Her future is linked with the Panama canal and she is destined to become a great industrial center. Fortunes are made in short time by realty investments. Lands are comparatively cheap, but advancing steadily in value.

ALDINE

is one of the most desirable suburban communities for residence and small farming; only ten miles to the city. Here is the center of the fig industry, having the oldest and largest fig preserving plant in America. Orange groves and other orchards are common. Truck gardening, poultry raising, dairying and general farming are successfully conducted here. The soil is fertile and the water plentiful.

Lands may be bought in 5-acre tracts and up on easy payments. Prairie land, fenced, can be rented for $10 per acre; single crop pays for land and several crops can be grown annually.

TITLES PERFECT.

You do not have to move here unless you wish to get income on investment. This is something worth while, as it has made good.

Write for particulars, free today. Address

E. C. ROBERTSON,
907 Kiam Bldg., Houston, Tex.
